VOLUME 41.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1934

LEGION URGES A SPECIAL SESSION

Pledged Only To Enact Measures For Keeping Public Schools Open

During the past few months there has been a united and persistent effort by members and officials of the America Legion in Alabama in behalf of the public schools of the state.

Legion Posts have sought to prevail upon Governor Miller to call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of saving the public schools from closing; and members of the legislature have been requested to pledge themselves, in the event the special session is called, not to vote for or introduce any bills other than those which directly concern the operation of the schools.

At the meeting of Chilton County Post Monday night the following resolution on the subject was adopted:

Whereas, unless prompt and effective measures are taken, nearly all the public schools in Alabama will within the next sixty days close their doors for lack of operating funds; and

Whereas, the only means by which such funds can be provided is through a special session of the legislature, and

Whereas, we cannot but believe that the governor, is whom alone is vested such authority, would call such a special session if assured that the schools of the state would thereby be saved and that the legislative session would not be unduly prolonged; and

Whereas, other American Legion Posts throughout the state are taking similar action to this common purpose;

Now, therefore, be it resolved by Chilton County Post of the American Legion, that we do earnestly request the members of the state legislature from this county to pledge themselves that in the event the governor should make a call for an extraordinary session of the legislature, they will vote for such legislation as they conscientiously believe to be for the best interests of the state, for the purpose of keeping our schools open, that they will not introduce nor vote for any bills not included in the governor's call, and that, having attended to such necessary business as expeditiously as possible, they will vote for an adjournment of such extraordinary session.

Be it further resolved, that the Post Adjutant forward a copy of this resolution to each member of the legislature from this county, with the respectful but earnest request for a prompt and definite reply.

Old Year is Closed With Good Singing

The singers of the county last week were appealed to through the papers and otherwise to make the last singing of the year the best one, and they did not miss it far. Singers from all over the county were present—and there were people there from other counties.

The service was called to order by Mr. J. Z. Mims, who had been appointed chairman for the afternoon. Prayer was offered by the aged Mr. Hammond, father of Prof. J. B. Hammond of Wetumpka. Directors during the afternoon included: O. L. Devaughn, J. E. Martin, T. E. Wyatt, Pete Wilson, Burl Martin, Emmett Wilson, L. T. Grant, J. W. Cagle, Bill Cofer, G. C. Powell, J. B. Hammond, J. B. Crew, W. M. Devaughn, Jesse C. Jones, Johnnie Boone, Velpoe Mims, E. L. Glasscock, and A. O. Boswell. Some special numbers were sung by the Frisky Four of Cooper and by a quartet headed by Jesse Jones. Also Mr. Bill Cofer and little son sung two special numbers, which won the applause of the large congregation.

The benediction was very fittingly pronounced by Rev. Nichols. Prof. L. T. Grant was appointed to supervise the next singing at the courthouse which will be held the fourth Sunday afternoon in January. The next fifth Sunday singing will be in April.

LITTLETON-CONWAY

Of great interest to their many friends throughout the state was the wedding of Miss Cuba Littleton and Mr. Claude Conway, which was solemnized at 9 o'clock, December 24, at the home of Rev. Grady Williams, in the presence of a few members of the immediate families and intimate friends. The bride was attractively dressed in a grey ensemble, with accessories to match.

She is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Littleton. She was a very popular and highly respected young lady of her community.

Mr. Conway is a young man of noble character and high esteem. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Conway. Mr. and Mrs. Conway are teachers of this county.

M. W. EASTERLING WILL ATTEND VAUGHAN SCHOOL

Mr. Marion W. Easterling leaves this week for Lawrenceburg, Tenn., where he will enter the music school of James D. Vaughan. Mr. Easterling intends to remain there for a six-weeks course. The Vaughan Master Music School is recognized as the best in the South, and is said to be the only one of its kind in America.

Mr. Easterling will study under such outstanding teachers as James D. Vaughan, W. B. Walbert, G. Keiffer Vaughan, Adger M. Pace, G. T. Speer and James D. Walbert. Most of these gentlemen have been in Clanton with the Vaughan Quartet and are known by the singers of Chilton County.

We are glad that Mr. Easterling has concluded to attend the Vaughan school. He is a promising young singer and composer, and if he will develop his talents along this line, no doubt he will make a mark in the sacred music world that will be a credit to him and his home county and state.

JUDGE TATE IS A CANDIDATE AGAIN

Incumbent Will Seek Election For Full Term on the Circuit Bench

Hon. F. Loyd Tate, of Wetumpka, announces this week as a candidate for Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit in the emocratic primaries of this year. In making his announcement, Judge Ttate states his case briefly in these words:

"The people of the Nineteenth Circuit elected me as their judge on Nov. 8, 1932, to fill out the two years unexpired term of my predecessor. I am now asking that I be accorded the usual Democratic precedent of a full term. Your vote and influence will be appreciated in the coming Democratic primaries."

Judge Tate needs no introduction to the citizenship of Chilton County. He has been a prominent figure in legal and judicial capacities for the past twenty-five years. From the time he was solicitor of this circuit, he has been widely known and universally recognized as a man and a lawyer of exceptional qualities of character and ability.

He has occupied the bench in this circuit, Elmore, Chilton and Autauga Counties, since he was appointed to the place after the death of Judge Smoot. In the election of 1932 he was chosen by the people to fill out the unexpired term of Judge Smoot. Chilton County gave him loyal support in that election.

CIVIC CENTER IS BEING PLANNED

Possible Development in Connection With Airport Near Clanton

A survey has been authorized through the local C.W.A. office to determine the interest and needs of the community of Clanton in a proposed community center and club house.

Contact already gained with various civic organizations, officials and individuals indicates that this is a proposition that will, if carried through, serve this community to great advantage.

Some consideration has already been given to the location of such a community center or public gathering place. Among these locations there has arisen a suggestion that it be built on the airport property, in connection with the hangar or other buildings to be built there.

The Pilot Club, Kiwanis, ladies civic clubs, the American Legion, the Legion Auxiliary, all are interested in the civic center proposal, and these organizations are making plans to lend their support and influence toward carrying out the project of the same if finally authorized through C.W.A.

GAY-TEAGUE HOTEL, MONTGOMY RENOVATED AND REFURNISHED

The Union-Banner has made an advertising contract with the Gay-Teague Hotel, of Montgomery, wherein the attractive features of this popular hostelry will be made known to the people of this section.

Manager Billie Moffat has completely renovated and refurnished the hotel from top to bottom, and has built up around it a home-like atmosphere which is very pleasing to those who seek quiet, restful hotel accommodations.

The Gay - Teague is universally known among the traveling public and in recent months has become very popular among those who enjoy living permanently in hotels. It is located in the heart of Montgomery's business section and is within two blocks of the depot and bus terminal. It is featuring rooms without baths at $1.50, with other accommodations priced to meet any desire.

JOHN HENRY CARTER DIED

John Henry Carter, age 79 years, died at his home near Billingsley December 29, 1933. Burial was at Big Springs December 30, with Martin in charge. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. G. Williams.

Junior Auxiliary

The junior unit of the American Legion Auxiliary was organized on December 1, 1933. The first meeting was held at the home of Mrs. K. M. Vinson, who supervised the organization of the unit. Delightful refreshments were enjoyed by the group.

Officers elected at the first meeting to serve in 1934 were as follows: Gertiwyl Vinson, president; Jane Pitts, secretary; Theda Wyatt, treasurer; Lump Pitts, publicity chairman; Sara Lawrence, music chairman.

The second meeting was held at the home of Miss Jane Pitts on Tuesday night, January 2, 1934. A delightful salad plate was served and enjoyed by all. The club is planning to sponsor a picture show at the local theatre in the near future.

It was decided that the regular meetings shall be held on the first Monday night in each month. All girls under eighteen years of age, whose fathers served in the Army during the World War, are invited to join the Junior Legion Auxiliary.

JOHN H. BRANTLEY DIED

John H. Brantley, age 88 years, died at the home of O. S. Smith, Jemison Route 3, on January 1, 1934. Burial was January 2 at Pitts Cemetery, near Mars Hill. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. M. Honeycutt. Burial arrangements were by Martin.

Plan To Rebuild Republican Party

Committee of Nine Is Named To Work for Party Next Fall

Washington, Jan. 1.—In the first move to rebuild the Republican party since the overwhelming defeat of 1932 Senator McNary, Senate leader, Monday named a committee of nine to conduct the campaign for election of Republican senators next fall.

Senator Hastings, of Delaware, was apointed to head the committee, closely balanced between the conservative and progressive factions of the party.

McNary made a bid for a united front with the announcement that the committee would support all Republican candidates and would not go behind their nominations to determine what faction they represented.

"There will be no discrimination with respect to the definition of the word Republicanism," he said.

Senator Dickinson, of Iowa, one of the Republicans who has been most ouspoken in criticism of the Democraitc administration, was named as vice chairman of the committee. Others named were: Capper, of Kansas; Norbeck, of South Dakota; White, of Maine; Nye, of North Dakota; Barbour, of New Jersey; Steiwer, of Oregon; and Carey, of Wyoming.

Ordinarily of minor importance, the senatorial campaign committee is expected to play an influential part in this year's election because of the financial impotence of the national committee.

McNary To Seek Funds

McNary said it would conduct its own campaigns to raise funds for support of the Republican candidates, with headquarters in New York, and sub-headquarters in Chicago.

The makeup of the senatorial committee has been the subject of long under-the-surface conflict within Republican ranks, because of the contest for control of the party between the various factions.

Though McNary managed to keep a fairly even balance between the conservative and progressive factions, he selected six of the committeemen from the West and only three from the East. Not one could be considered a member of the "Old Guard" faction of the party formerly led by Senators Watson, of Indiana, and Moses, of New Hampshire.

Hastings, the chairman, is regarded by his colleagues as more conservative than some of the other committee members, but he was a prominent figure in the "Young Turk" movement in Senate ranks a few years ago which revolted against conservative leadership.

Norbeck and Nye have been associated more or less closely with the Western independent faction of the Senate group, while Capper, Steiwer and Carey have voted with them at times. Barbour and White, though Easterners, are not known as dyed-in-the-wool conservatives.

Appreciation From Mr. Stokes

Clanton, Ala., December 27, 1933.

Editor Union-Banner:

Looking back upon one year and forward to another, I am prompted to express through your paper my deep gratitude and sincere appreciation to the good people of Chilton County for the friendly spirit of cooperation given me and their Reemployment Organization since I have been here.

We admit we have experienced some dissatisfaction caused through misconception or misunderstanding, but such cases have been few. I shall appreciate a continuation of that cooperative spirit through the New Year, in our work for a common cause.

Yours very truly,

C. G. STOKES,
Manager National Reemployment Service for Chilton County.

Registrars Meet Jan.

According to information [illegible] en out here this week, Board of Registrars of Chilton County will be in session for ten days at the courthouse, beginning January 22.

Attention is called to this fact, in order that all who are entitled to register as voters may have an opportunity of doing so.

Any eligible person from any Beat in the County can register at the courthouse during the time the registrars are in session there.

Deposit Insurance Law Is In Effect

Protection Assured For Depositors of Money In Banks of Country

Washington.—A blanket of federal insurance for all bank deposits up to $2,500 Tuesday was proclaimed in effect for all except 3 per cent of the nation's bank depositors, drawing word from President Roosevelt that this should result in "renewed faith."

The action was declared consummated less than 10 months after the close of an epoch-making banking holiday that saw the doors of every such institution from coast to coast locked shut.

Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, who plans to leave his post shortly, reported to the president that only 1 per cent of 141 of the banks applying were found ineligible.

In all, 13,423 banks were insured. Extended until July 1, 1934, in its present form, the insurance will then be increased to cover in full deposits up to $10,000, with partial insurance for much larger accounts. All national banks and members of the Federal Reserve system automatically come under the insurance, but state banks were required to meet strict standards. The RFC advanced many millions to these institutions to aid meeting requirements.

Reporting the insurance corporation has $328,000,000 of available funds through subscriptions by the government and the Federal Reserve banks and through assessments, Cummings said he felt the move would be of "incalculable value in restoring public confidence" and the expansion of credit.

Replying to his report, Mr. Roosevelt congratulated Cummings upon accomplishing in a few months "with complete success a gigantic task which the pesimists said could not possibly be done before January 1."

Drainage Ditch Is To Be Enlarged

New Project Extending From Sewerage Junction To Below Dake's Old Mill

A very important project has been authorized under C.W.A. providing for 90 men to be engaged in widening and deepening the ditch in Walnut Creek swamp from below Dake's old mill to the point where the city sewer enters the creek.

It is understood that the workers will begin on this new project this week, at a point below Dake's old mill site and push the job as rapidly as possible.

This job is recognized as very important, because the present ditch is not sufficient to carry the water that goes down the creek. If left as it is, the sewerage would not be carried away, and would be deposited at various places along the swamp, thus creating a menace to people who live in that vicinity.

Widening and deepening the ditch to Dake's mill means that the sewerage will be carried to that point, from where the current of the creek is sufficient to carry it on and out of the way of all residents of the community.

From the sewer junction west on the north prong of the creek the ditch has already been completed to the old beaver dam west of town. The ditch on the south prong is being rapidly pushed, and will extend the sewer junction to the neighborhood of Dr. Hinkle's place west of town.

Other tributary ditches are proposed to drain small branches into the big ditch. The swamp drainage project is without a doubt the most important work that has been undertaken in this county. Our CWA officials and engineers are receiving the thanks and approval of many hundreds of people for the manner in which they have realized the importance of swamp drainage and pushed the work through.

SOLOMON'S STORE MOVED TO A NEW LOCATION HER

Solomon's Department Store ha[illegible] moved this week to the new building next to Clanton Cash Store. The name of the place in the future will be the Clanton Junior Department Store.

With new equipment throughout, and with new lines of merchandise added, the Solomon Store bids fair to be one of the most popular merchandising places in our city in the future.

The public is extended a cordial invitation to visit Solomon's new place. Everything will be fully arranged and ready to serve the trade by the end of this week.

Cotton Campaign To Begin Next Monday

County Agent, J. W. Fant, advises that the cotton acreage campaign for 1934-35 will be submitted to the farmers of Chilton County beginning on next Monday. The committee organization is being perfected this week. This committee will be formed of a representative farmer in each Beat of the county, who will contact all farmers and give them an opportunity to sign up [illegible] government contract.

Mr. Fant states further that there are [illegible] about 100 cotton option contracts that have not been delivered to farmers. These contracts, he points out, must be completed before January 15, and all who have not yet exercised their options are urged to see the county agent about the matter as quickly as possible.

There were over 1,200 cotton option contracts with Chilton County farmers, and all of them have been delivered but about 100.

Poultry Car Here

Mr. Evan Parrish, manager of the Chilton County Farm Bureau, announces that a poultry car will be at Clanton all day Thursday, January 4, and at Jemison Friday, January 5, from 7 to 12 a.m.

The following prices are announced: Colored hens, 9c; Leghorn hens, 7c; roosters, 4c; fryers, 14c.

A truck will be at Maplesville on Thursday, January 4, from 9 to 11[illegible] Prices same, except hens 1 cent l[illegible] er.

NOTICE OF WRIT OF ATTACHMENT AND LEVY

To Theresa C. Shackleford, non resident of the State of Alabama, take notice:

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court. To any Sheriff of the State of Alabama—Greeting:

Whereas, Blanche B. Sterne has complained on oath to me, J. Z. Mims, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, that Theresa C. Shackleford is justly indebted to the plaintiff in the sum of five thousand dollars, and that the plaintiff having made affidavit as required by law in such cases, you are hereby commanded to attach so much of the estate of the said Theresa C. Shackleford as will be of value to satisfy said debt and costs, according to the complaint, unless replevied, so to secure that the same may be liable to further proceedings thereon to be had at the next term of the Circuit Court for the County of Chilton, to be holden at the courthouse thereof, within thirty days from the serving of this writ, when and where you must make known how you have executed this writ.

J. Z. MIMS,
Clerk of the Circuit Court.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County:

The defendant herein being a non resident of the State of Alabama, Plaintiff elects suing out this writ, without giving bond as by statute in such cases made and provided.

J. Z. MIMS,
Clerk of the Circuit Court.

I have executed the within writ this 26th day of December, 1933, by levying upon the following described real estate situated in Chilton County, Alabama, to-wit: South half of lots 11 and 12 and all of lots 13 and 14, in block 30 (formerly known as block 32) in the City of Clanton, Alabama. Also the west half of the northwest quarter of section 11, township 21, range 12.

W. H. GILLESPIE,

SAYS POLITICS IS RUNNING THE C. W. A. AND THE U. S. A.

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you allow me a space in your paper for a few lines in connection with Mr. Knox's letter in reference to the way Mr. Stokes has gone about the picking of men that are entitled to this government work?

A few days ago I met a certain man in Clanton that has been with the CWA. He told me he had fifty acres of land on which he has a nice home, a good pair of mules, some cows and a good living around him. He says he doesn't owe a cent, yet he is working with the CWA, while there are people living all around without work that haven't a job of any kind and no home, or anything to sustain life except the little relief check they get once each week.

If a close investigation was made it would be found that a large percentage of the people that are working for the CWA are in about the same class as the one mentioned above.

How does Mr. Stokes know who needs work? I registered twice and not one question was asked concerning my financial condition. My opinion about the condition of our country today is that politics has her by the hair of the head and God only knows when she will be dropped.—C. Giles.

BAKER SCHOOL

We are beginning on a new year now and everybody strive to do better and learn more than we ever have.

We have just returned to school after spending our Christmas holidays and everyone seems to have had a nice time and when they came back to school they just went right to work just as if they had not missed a day.

Our musical concert on Friday night before Christmas was really a success and I am sure everyone who came really saw their dime's worth. At least I believe everyone would tell you that. We surely hope so anyway.

We have just received a new supply of library books and I think we will all enjoy these new books. We are all fond of good reading.

JOHN CRAWFORD 'LOWS "I TOLD YOU SO"

Dear Mr. Editor:

Just a few words to call attention to some things I told folks about three years ago. I told Mr. Van Edwards and Mr. Jackson that I saw a long line of men going to a building signing a paper. They replied that we can't see any reason for that, since we are living in a land of plenty. I saw that it was for them to get food. That thing is here, isn't it?

I asked Mr. Ezell about it and he said that they were going to send a lot of us Negroes to Japan. That was the conclusion I got from him. Many things I told the people have come to pass. Last spring I told Mr. Reese Mullins that I saw plenty of money on the streets, some were getting it and some were not. It is here, isn't it? I told Mr. Jean Wyatt that I saw a wagon, decorated, parading the streets. That was the NRA parade, which has come and gone.

Listen, when John was on the Isle of Patmos, he said, "I looked and I saw and I heard an eagle flying in the midst of heaven, saying with a great voice 'Woe, woe.'" Read Revelation chapter 8:13. Also see what Ezekiel says about it in the 17th chapter. Read from the first verse to the 7th. He would be sitting in a city of merchants. That is here isn't it? The men that the Lord showed these signs to are dead and gone back to Him, but His covenant remains. Read the 11th chapter and you will see the trouble that will come up about the gold and silver. The 12th chapter of Daniel and the 1st verse says "There will be a time of plenty of trouble when many shall run to and fro, in the time of the end." I have seen all of this.—John Crawford.

CLECKLER REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Cleckler celebrated the birthday of their daughter, Miss Lettie Cleckler, on December 27, 1933. The day was enjoyed by a small crowd, for the weather was so cold. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Minor and family, Mrs. Pharalee Edwards and children, Mrs. Irona Cleckler and two children and Misses Nora Cleckler of Sylacauga.

About 12 o'clock there was a good table of good things to eat set before the crowd and a cake with candles on it, standing for her 24th birthday. The cake was sure beautiful with the candles burning. In the afternoon they all enjoyed making pictures. They all went home wishing her many more happy birthdays like the one just past.

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

By Dan Smith

Back, ready for the old grind again after a week of Christmas celebration. Monday was the first day of the year and the time for resolutions and here's hoping everyone will keep the resolutions he made. We are coming back to school looking forward to a full term. Are we going to be disappointed? Are those seniors who have been looking forward to their day of graduation for the past twelve years going to be denied the chance to graduate this year from their Alma Mater? No, our citizens will not see their successors beaten down without any chance at all. The future of Clanton, Chilton County and the State of Alabama rests upon the shoulders of the boys and girls in the schools of this state. The state that has schools has a future. We students ask for a full term. Prospects for a full term are bright however, and it is generally thought they will be given the golden opportunity of a full term of school.

Mid-term review is now under way. Everyone is preparing for the crucial days, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. On these three days the mid-term examinations will be given. The periods for test will be one hour and a half in length. The examinations will be taken on the regular examination pads used by the University of Alabama and most high schools in the state.

Watch out in the near future for an announcement from the senior class in regard to their play. Remember that the senior class of this year is the same junior class of last year that staged that well remembered "Girl Shy." Everyone recalls that play and the crowded house it was played to. Enough said.

Due to the lack of space the brief biography of the members of our faculty will be discontinued until next week.

It was Dixie Johnson last week in Who Am I. Try this one. It won't be so easy. I am a Senior High student, very attractive, a brunette, like to dance. Considered to be an intelligent student. Love to have a good time. Like caramel candy. Of course I am a girl.

Basketball practice under Coach Searcy is coming along splendidly. Watching our boys go through practice in the aftfernoons will cause one to expect a winning team this year.

All the students are busy preparing term papers and other book reports for the closing of the first semester. This will not be a difficult task—thanks to our library, with its shelves of books, picked for their educational value and also the efficient corps of librarians.

Where the members of the faculty spent the holidays: Miss Clyde Smilie, Fitzpatrick, Ala.; Miss Margaret Kendrick, Luverne, Ala.; Miss Sarah Colley, Troy, Ala.; Miss Josephine Martin, Birmingham, Ala.; Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin, Billingsley, Ala.; Miss Frances Gulledge, Verbena, Ala; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Vaughn, Frisco City, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Searcy, Jr., Clayton and Gadsden, Ala.; Mr. J. B. Varnell, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Warr remained at home in Clanton.

The members of the faculty of the Chilton County High School were the guests of Mrs. Hugh Jones, president of the local P.-T. A. at a lovely tea on Monday afternoon of this week.

Chilton will play her first basketball game tomorrow, Friday night, when she meets Billingsley at Billingsley.

County Farm Agent's Notes

$10,000,000 IN COTT...ON PAYMENTS

Auburn, Ala., Jan... 2.—Approximately $10,794,000 will be received by Alabama cotton producers in rental and benefit payments in 1934 if a 40 per cent reduction of the 5-year average of the annual acreage planted to cotton is achieved, according to Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Sign-up contracts which began on New Year's Day in all counties of the state is meeting with hearty response with farmers, Dr. Duncan reported.

"It is absolutely necessary that the production of cotton be reduced next season if producers are to receive a decent price for their cotton," he said. "Farmers must realize that we still have a large surplus of cotton, and a fair price cannot be expected while this surplus exists, even if general economic conditions are restored to normal. There is for the current year a 4,000,000 bale surplus of American cotton. Through this program we are seeking to achieve a reduction in production next year that will bring us nearer to the balanced situation that is necessary if cotton is to bring a fair price."

A tentative goal of a reduction of 1,366,000 acres has been fixed for Alabama. If this is achieved it will mean that there will be planted about 2,000,000 acres in the state next year in cotton.

HOG PROCESSING TAX

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue advises that the Hog Processing Tax rate during January remains the same as December, namely, one dollar per hundred pounds live weight.

Retailers of the following commodities are requested to take inventory of such articles on hand as of December 31, 1933: multi-wall paper bags, coated paper bags, open mesh paper bags, gummed paper tape, jute fabric and jute yarn, jute bags and jute twine.

The Processing tax on these articles was effective December 1, 1933, and retailers will be required to file floor stock returns, and pay the tax on such stock on hand, less purchases made during December.

FARMERS TO BUY CURRENT

Organization of farmers of six northeast Mississippi counties into rural electric power associations, to buy current at wholesale from the Tennessee Valley Authority, will be conducted by the agricultural extension service of Mississippi State College, Starkville, it was announced today by the TVA.

The extension service has assigned M. M. Bedenbaugh to this work. Mr. Bedenbaugh is a native of Mississippi, a graduate of Mississippi State College, and has been agricultural agent for Prentiss County in that state. He was district agricultural agent in Mississippi, and has lately had charge of the 4-H club work of the Mississippi extension service. He also has conducted extension farming operations on his own account.

Rural electric transmission lines are now being built in Mississippi, CWA funds being used for labor and TVA money for the purchase of poles, transformers, wire and other transmission line equipment. The county associations, incorporated under Mississippi laws, will retail TVA power to their members on a no-profit basis. Resale rates, however, will provide for repayment of the authority's cash outlay in constructing the lines.

Inauguration of service is expected as soon as lines are finished and TVA power becomes available. At present, approximately 100 miles of rural power lines, none of which duplicates existing facilities, are being laid out in each of the six Mississippi counties.

A similar plan for rural electrification is being worked out by the Tennessee Valley Authority in several northwest counties in Alabama as rapidly as the proper cooperation can be obtained.

Lesson for January 7

BIRTH AND INFANCY OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 2:1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT—And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name JESUS; for he shall save his people from their sins. Matthew 1:21.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Gifts for the Little Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—In Search of the Saviour-King.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Honoring the Child-King.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Incarnation.

We are now entering upon a six months' study of the gospel according to Matthew. In order that the lessons may be properly presented the teacher must master the book of Matthew as a whole, and then present each lesson in its relation to the central purpose of the book.

The central theme of Matthew is "Jesus Christ, the son of David, the son of Abraham, the covenant King" (Matt. 1:1).

I. The Birth of Jesus, the King (Matt. 1:18-25).

1. The Saviour was to be the seed of a woman (Gen. 3:15), the son of a virgin. This was fulfilled in the birth of Jesus. The genealogy (Matt. 1:1-17) shows his legal right to the throne. Only a descendant of David could be recognized.

2. The Saviour was to be divine (Isa. 9:6).

He must be more than the son of David in order to be a Saviour. He must be both human and divine. Jesus was begotten by the Holy Ghost and born of the Virgin Mary, thus becoming Immanuel, which in its fullness means "God with us, God for us, and God in us."

II. The Childhood of Jesus, the King (Matt. 2:1-23).

1. Wise Men from the East seeking Israel's King (vv. 1, 2). Christ's advent was heralded by a star which guided men of a foreign nation to seek and to worship him, even pouring out their gifts to him. These men were Persian or Arabian astrologers, students of the stars. Their attention was attracted by the appearance of an unusual star. Through the influence of the Jews who remained in Chaldea, or the direct influence of Daniel extending to this time, they had become acquainted with the hope of the Jews as to the Messiah. They may have known of Balaam's prophecy. (Num. 24:17).

2. Herod seeking to kill Jesus (vv. 3-8, 16-18). The news brought by the Wise Men struck terror to Herod's heart. He was not alone in this for all Jerusalem was troubled with him. This news ought to have brought joy, but a glimpse at the social customs in and about Jerusalem at that day enables us to understand why Herod and all Jerusalem were troubled. A Saviour who would save them from their sins was not wanted. Herod demanded of the priests and scribes information as to where Christ should be born. The fact that they were able to tell him quickly shows that they had a technical knowledge of the Scriptures, but not a heart for the Saviour set forth therein. This occurred in Jerusalem, the city of the King, the place of all places where he should have been welcome. It frequently occurs that where the greatest privileges are, there the greatest indifference is shown to spiritual matters. When the Wise Men returned to their country by another way, Herod slew all the male children two years and under in and around Bethlehem.

3. The King found by the Wise Men (vv. 9-12).

Having obtained the desired information these men started immediately to find Jesus. As they left the city the star which guided them in the east appeared again to direct them to the place where Christ was. When they found him they worshiped him. They did not see any miracles, only a babe; yet they worshiped him as king. "Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed" (John 20:29).

4. The King protected (vv. 13-23).

(a) Flight to Egypt (vv. 13-15). To escape Herod's wicked aim, God directed Joseph to take Mary and the child Jesus and flee to Egypt. In obedience to the heavenly vision he went and remained there until Herod's death.

(b) Return to Nazareth (vv. 19-23). Upon the death of Herod, the angel of the Lord directed Joseph to take Jesus and his mother and return to the land of Israel. Though Herod was dead it was not proper for him to return to Judea. By divine direction he turned aside into parts of Galilee and dwelt at Nazareth.

Nazareth has held a fair renown through the centuries only because it was the spot where Jesus grew in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man.

The Bible

This book contains the mind of God, the state of man, the way of salvation, the doom of sinners and the happiness of believers. Its doctrines are holy, its precepts are binding, its histories are true and its decisions are immutable.

Helping and Healing

Now-a-days, our Saviour uses his followers here to do the work of helping and healing that He used to do Himself, when here on earth.

Rucker Simms of Tuscaloosa was here a few days the past week visiting friends and relatives.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 4. — The planting season at the state's fish hatcheries has closed and although a final estimate on the number of fish planted in 1933 has not been made, the total is expected to approximate the 923,790 bass and bream planted the year before.

"In former years all fish were planted only in public waters that had been surveyed and found suitable for the particular species planted in them," said Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the game and fisheries department.

"This method has been highly satisfactory because it has made possible a more even distribution of fish over the state. In fact, it has made possible for the first time the distribution of fish in as many as 60 of the state's 67 counties and in some of the counties in which the fish were not planted, the fishermen received the benefit of additional planting in adjoining counties where the waters were better."

Another hatchery was added to the system from which the fish were distributed. The Cunningham hatchery at Aliceville, which for a number of years had been operated as a substation of the federal hatchery at Tupelo, Miss., was leased by the department of game and fisheries early in the year.

This month 72 men are to be employed through the Civil Works Administration to enlarge ponds at the Eastaboga state hatchery. In addition to the Aliceville and Eastaboga hatcheries, the department also leases Oxford lake which again produced a large supply of fingerling and fry for 1933 planting.

"With an abundance of water available for fish cultural purposes in this state, Alabama fishermen may look forward to heavier creels of fish each season under the hatchery program now being developed," Commissioner Quinn stated. "For several years this program has been gradually expanded and the streams of the state are being restocked as rapidly as the fish are produced."

SERVICES NEXT SUNDAY AT JACKSON CHAPEL, LOMAX

Mr. Virgil Smith asks that the announcement be made that Rev. W. H. Wilson of Maple Springs will preach at Jackson Chapel schoolhouse next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Then that evening at 7:45 there will be a sermon by Rev. Warren Riggins of New Salem—a young preacher. The public is invited to hear both these sermons.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the singing society meets in regular monthly session. A special feature of the singing will be a quartet headed by Mr. Jesse C. Jones of Clanton. All singers are invited to come and bring both books.

"There's a great deal printed that you can't believe."

"There is," assented his friend—"especially on bottles."

Jesus was the loneliest person in many ways the world ever saw. He was always approchable. Any one could get to Him. Little children would leave their mothers and nestle in His arms. Wicked women would leave the street and drop in on Him when He went out to dinner. They would bath His feet with their tears and wipe them with their hair. But Jesus was not understood. They said many things about Him. They even accused Him of being in league with the devil.

"Man by wisdom knew not God." That is what the Bible says. Man can know God only by revelation. When Jesus was on earth a very prominent religious leader called on Him one night and said in substance, "We have come to the conclusion that you are a teacher and you are such a wonderful teacher we have decided that you must have come from God." The man could know by reason that Jesus was a teacher, but he had to guess that He came from God. When someone asked the neighbors of Jesus who He was, no doubt they replied that He was the son of a man next door whose name was Joseph. They guessed wrong. One day a man said, "Thou are Christ, the son of the living God." Jesus replied, "Flesh and blood has not revealed this unto you, but my father which is in heaven." Christ is known as the son of God only by revelation.

It is an awful reflection upon human nature that the only absolutely perfect person the world ever saw was nailed to a cross. The religious leaders of the day of our Lord, the ones who should have known and loved Him, stirred up the hatred which made the mob crucify Him. The religious leaders had built up an ecclesiastical machine. They thought more of their machine than they did of the souls of the people. The ones who should have taught men to love Jesus taught them to hate Him.

Ecclesiastical hatred is the most bitter hatred in the world. Bootleggers may turn against you today, but tomorrow you can convert them and they will love you. Politicians may be against you this year but next year they may be on your side. Ecclesiastical hatred is different from any other hatred in the world. Preachers who build ecclesiastical political machines will never forgive those who refuse to bow to their authority. I know nothing which is doing more to lock the wheels of the church than the political machine which is being built up in some denominations. I am not talking about the preacher who is interested in the political welfare of his country. I am talking about the preacher who tries to save his skin and the skin of his ecclesiastical clique at the expense of the spiritual welfare of the people.

ALABAMA'S HOLLY

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 4.—Duri... the winter season many citizens ... Alabama have become greatly inte... ested in the native holly. The be... known species is called the Americ... Holly, whose scientific name is Il... opaca, which sometimes grows to ... quite large. Specimens have be... found that reach 100 feet in heig... and 4 feet in diameter.

The largest specimen thus far l... cated in Alabama by the Commissi... of Forestry is on the highway b... tween Andalusia and Brewton ne... the Covington-Escambia county line. This tree measures 32 inches in diameter and is approximately 60 feet high. At the present time it is covered with red berries. It is perfectly symetrical and in good condition, although it leans considerably toward the east. Its great size is undoubtedly due to the fact that it grew in an open field and was not in competition with other trees.

Alabama is blessed with a number of plants of the genus Ilex, the most notable being the American Holly and the Yaupon. These plants are highly ornamental due to their scarlet berries and waxy leaves.

Activities of Atheism

An answer to those who sneeringly attack the South as the American "Bible-Belt" is given in the current issue of the National Republic by Dr. Victor I. Masters, editor of the Baptist Western Recorder, Louisville, Ky. Dr. Masters declares that there has been deep penetration of various sections of America by athestic organizations who have received their inspiration, in some cases, from Soviet Russia. In part, Dr. Masters says:

"The South is sneeringly spoken of as the American "Bible-belt among the intelligentsia who take their cue from subversive propaganda centers hidden away in various Northern cities. These centers are not of American origin, do not propagate American born ideas, and are not supported primarily by American money. But the frank directness and lack of craftiness of the American mind have sadly failed to be a match for this subtle propaganda against American faith and national ideals, which has thus made almost unbelievable headway in this nation in recent years.

"If the South is wise it will accept the characterization given it by men who hate the God it worships and the nation it loves. If there is wisdom among the South's men of letters and professional scholarship, they will vertebrate themselves for the best use of their powers against the efforts of prostituted intellect and scheming subtlety to discredit in the public mind those two things which are dearest and most essential to American life and American institutions, namely, holy revealed faith and free American institutions. These were made possible only through the fact that this nation was founded by men who feared God and loved liberty. * * *

"There is a vast difference between the old atheism and the new. In America the old atheism in the public mind centered around the person of Rebort G. Ingersoll. Mr. Ingersoll was what may be described as a freethinker. Freethinkers believe that human reason is invincible and rationalistic science omnipotent. They fight against the Bible and Christianity predominately on intellectual grounds. If they can not unravel by human thought and verify by the intellect alone the claims and requirements of revealed faith, they will have none of it. They were individualistic. They often had unwarranted pride of intellect, but they freely conceded the right of all men to decide matters of faith for themselves. Compared with the new atheism that of Mr. Ingersoll was as an angel of light.

"The new atheism, which has now become an essential part of the program of the Russian Commune to conquer the whole world, is not individualistic. Nor is it primarily a matter of intellect. It calls itself 'Militant Godlessness,' or 'Social Revolutionary Atheism.' Its purpose is to destroy in mankind all allegiance to principles of morality, of obedience to the authority of God or of 'capitalistic' nations. This it sees to be essential to the success of its beastly ideal of a sovietized world rule by the autocracy of the proletariat. Inspired by the 'spiritual hosts of wickedness,' of which the Apostle Paul writes to the Ephesian Church, they definitely purpose to destroy religion—Christian and others—because they see and openly declare that Marxian proletariat socialism cannot make headway in the world except it shall first destroy faith in God.

"It has recently been the odd experience of the writer to have placed in his hands abundant proof of this purpose of the Russian Commune, and of its determined and amazingly influential and far-spread subversive activities, in prosecution at this moment in the United States. He has been taken through mazes of plotting and lying and subtle deceptive manipulation, all carried on with the sole purpose of misleading and confusing the minds of our people. He has had thrust upon him convincing evidences of the staggering magnitude of this arrogant and mad invasion. It is enough to make the head swim and the writer confesses that he came away from the reading feeling that he needed a bath both outside and inside.

The Germans and the Jews

When Herr Hitler came to power in Germany, one of the first things he did was to start wholesale persecution of Jews. In so doing, Mr. Hitler has proved that he is not only very unwise, but very inconsiderate as well. During the World War, when Germany was hard put for men and money, the records show that Germany's Jews played a big part, and, but for them, the German High Command would have been forced to give in long before it did. In the first place, records show that a little over one-fifth of the total number of soldiers who donned Germany's field gray uniform and saw service at the front were Jews. Among these were many who were cited for bravery in action —many who received the coveted iron cross. Insofar as men were concerned, the Jewish contingent of Germany's fighting strength was far above the ratio of Jewish population in Germany. In addition, the bulk of the money that was spent in this conflict was furnished by Jews. Here, again, the Jews came through with more than their share of the burden. But for Jewish money, the German cause would have been lost before it was well started. But Mr. Hitler cannot remember any of this. Himself one of the so-called "lower class," with Communistic tendencies to hate anything capitalistic, he has allowed his personal feelings to get the better of his obligations, as a national figure, to a division of his people who have always stood by in time of need. He singles out the Jewish race on which to vent his hatred for a system which dealt harshly with him, and forgets the Jews who gave their people and their money in the common cause in much greater ratio than did the "true German stock," as Hitler terms them. And as a result of this persecution, Jews are leaving Germany as fast as they can get away, and already wiser heads than Hitler's in Germany are seeing a distinct weakening in the nation's money power. As they see it, Mr. Hitler is digging Germany's grave, and his own, all at the same time.

Share and Share Alike

Some people in Chilton County have seen fit to criticize the management of the CWA here. Fortunately, no direct charges of fraud have been made, as has been the case in other cities and towns. One very good reason for this is that there has been no ground upon which anyone could base such charges, as the officers in charge of the work here have shown every indication that they intend to carry out their work according to the rules and regulations laid down for them, and without any fear or favor whatsoever. Whatever criticism there has been must surely be the result of one of two things—misunderstanding, or gross prejudice born of disgruntled disappointment. The first is pardonable, but the latter it not. Many people had the idea that when the project was opened, there would be jobs for everyone. When they found that this was not the case, they wanted to know why. The most of these are satisfied, when it is explained to them that over 4,000 men have registered for the 800 jobs to be filled, and that there is only one job to every five who have registered. The others, however, can't be satisfied, it seems. When the situation is explained to them, they get huffy, put a chip on their shoulders, and go about spreading the news that one must be able to "pull the wires" in order to get a job. I know both Mr. Stokes and Mr. Pittman very well, and I believe they are as considerate as their positions will allow. Mr. Stokes has his orders to go by in selecting men to fill the jobs, and he follows them. He knows his job, and is doing it well. Mr. Pittman also knows just what is expected of him, and he is going about his work of getting the results expected. Whatever criticism that may be forthcoming should, therefore, not be directed at the men in charge of the local work. If there is weakness in the CWA system, the local men in charge are not to be blamed. They are doing the best they can. It's a big job. They should be commended rather than censured.

A New Nomination

I suppose, since nominations are in order, one might be excused for offering a nomination for the local B. A. U. (Belly Achers Union). When The Chilton County News published that masterful editorial concerning some "Republican officials, or a Republican official" a few weeks ago, they came out the next week and gloried in the number of letters of commendation they had received concerning it. However, so far, I have been able to find only one such letter published, and that was signed by Mr. P. H. Knox. And in that little epistle Mr. Knox deplored mightily the fact that one would try to take unto himself glory to which he had no claim. It seems he had never taken into consideration that this "Republican official" might really be due some credit. He must have forgotten, also, that when President Roosevelt set out on the Civil Works program, he made it quite clear that politics was to be left out of it—that the program was to help the whole nation back to recovery, and that all would share alike. On the heels of this, Mr. Knox comes back and takes a whack at Mr. Stokes, because he (Mr. Knox) did not land what he thought would be a soft job of some kind. It seems Mr. Knox has taken the attitude that "they're all out of step but Jim." He even rings in his service record in the Spanish-American War as a reason why he should have preference. I would think Mr. Knox would get in connection with the Veterans Bureau at Washington if he wants to let his soldier's record help him—that is the mission of the Bureau, to help disabled veterans. But, inasmuch as the good brother seems bound to kick at everybody and everything that comes along, I believe he rates nomination for membership in the B. A. U. As you well know, the usual method of giving note of acceptance of nomination in this Union is that the nominee gets all hot under the collar and writes about a column and a half in fiery denunciation of his nominator. Listen for the fireworks.

One Veteran's View

Not long ago, while talking with a World War veteran, I got the surprise of my life. We were talking over the plight of veterans in general, when I voiced my belief that our govenment should do all it could for the soldiers, inasmuch as they had gone into the jaws of death that the rest of us might be protected. But here is his reply: "Do you know that the United States is now doing ten times as much for veterans as it should do? If a man went to the front and was permanently injured while on duty it is nothing but right that he be cared for. But I am going to tell you a few things. This is not hear-say. I know. A big part of the ailments that have cropped out on soldiers since they returned home are direct results of their dissipation while in France. I was there for 14 months. I went into the front lines, and was twice wounded. I had two brothers there, too. One of them was wounded at Belleau Wood, and will limp for the rest of his life. The other was wounded, went to the hospital, came back to the front and was killed. The government sent him home—that is all it could do for him. The government sent my other brother home, and he plys his trade as well as he could if he had never been wounded—he asks for nothing. I am asking for nothing. I do not figure that Uncle Sam owes me anything. I lived as cleanly as I could while in France, and have suffered no bad after-effects. We have merely done our duty, and I do not feel that we are due any special mention for so doing. To have done less would have branded us traitors. As I said at first, a man permanently injured in such a way that he cannot earn his own living should be cared for. Those who do not come in this class but yet keep asking their government for doles, pensions, etc., are, in my mind, just another kind of beggar." And that's one soldier's view.

A Happy New Year

Old 1933 has walked the plank, and has gone to take its place with the past, and history. And, believe me, history was surely made during 1933. Stirring times. Never have I seen people take so much interest in national affairs. Every morning nearly everybody could be seen grabbing newspapers to see what might have happened during the past day. Times are better. Some will attribute this to one thing, and some to another. But the greatest thing that has helped to bring about better times is the "pull together" spirit that has pervaded the whole nation—every person doing his or her part. And now, as 1934 comes in people look forward with hope and better reason for faith in the future than in some time during the past. Let's make 1934 a year to which we may point with pride. The depression is universal. Let's do our part to uphold America's boast that she can do anything that any other country can do, and do it better. Here's best wishes for you and yours during 1934. —Man in the Moon.

World Getting Better

One of the strangest developments of great depressions is the tendency of a great many people to believe that political government is responsible for such periods of distress. For example, the hard times of the early nineties were blamed on to Grover Cleveland and a great deal of political capital was made out of the charge by the politicians who were opposed to him. Thousands of Americans in 1932 voted against President Hoover because they sincerely thought that in some unaccountable way he was responsible for our hard times. They failed to harken back to the overexpansion in and following the World War, as a cause, and did not take into consideration the additional fact that the depression was not confined to the United States but was world wide.

Just now there are a great many more people who have convinced themselves that nothing could pull us out of the woods but the reorganization of industry and the expenditure of billions of the government's money. They too, fail to take into account the fact that the low point of the depression was reached in July, 1932, four months before the election, when the securities markets hit their low point. The fact that the upturn was halted temporarily was due to the intervening national elections and the bank crisis which started in Detroit and spread over the entire country.

But those who do a little thinking and do not permit their emotions to overcome their judgment, get a great deal of consolation now out of the fact that there is now a world wide tendency to recovery. Great Britain, Germany, Latin-America, and other countries besides our own seem to be climbing the hill, some of them faster than we are. None of these nations are expending billions, or are reorganizing industry. But they are improving their condition just the same without greatly expanding their national debt. Unemployment in Germany is constantly diminishing, the steel trade has picked up, and other industries are on the mend.

A recent dispatch from London tells us that "The British are approaching the holidays in a spirit of genuine optimism. Christmas trade showed signs of running up a new record far above the last several years."

A New York dispatch declares: "The entire aspect of trade conditions in the Dominion of Canada has been changed during the past eight months due to the steady rise in employment, the expansion of retail sales and the moderate gains reported for many divisions of industry. Whereas at this time last year the commercial outlook was clouded with apprehension and fear, this year there is increasing hopefulness, based on the substantial achievements thus far recorded . . . A further improvement in economic conditions is indicated, the government's general index registering 83.5 as compared with 70.8 in the same week of 1932, a gain of 18 per cent."

And so the story goes. Reports of the U. S. Department of Commerce indicate that there is a slow but steady pickup in business all over the world. Few countries are failing to share in the improvement. This indicates a natural improvement for the reason that in most nations conditions are improving without any resort to great expenditures for public works, without brain truss and regimentation of business. Therefore, although the improvement may not occupy so many headlines in the newspapers, because of the lack of controversy, it will probably be steady and sure, and the people will not be facing additional staggering debt burdens for reconstruction which may be carried over into the next generation.

As the American Institute of Finance well puts it:

"It is of more than passing importance that, without any code programs, without extreme government interference in business, leading European nations have shown an improvement in business conditions since the summer of 1932, about in keeping with the improvement that we now register from that period, without the temporary hectic activity or the wide swings that we have experienced."

And let it not be forgotten that over here the paying is yet to come.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not

Greetings to you for 1934. Here's hoping that all of you will find plenty of happiness and good things during the coming year. There are many interesting subjects before us. Most of them I consider good and worthy of our support. I think we shall be able to find enough good things to do this year to keep us out of devilment, if we want to.

Politics sticks out high on the horizon for this year. It will be another political year from away back. Many important county and state officials to be elected. The fellow who wants to play the political game will surely find plenty of amusement this year, if he can get a stake to enter with.

Immediately in front of us is the old bogy of our school crisis. Looks like schools will close in a few weeks if something is not done. That is awful. Some mention has been made of the city and county government bodies helping out the schools. I do not know if such a thing is possible or not. More will be said about that in the next few days, I am sure.

Completion of present improvement projects in 1934 will make it a big year for Clanton. Principal among these I am thinking of the drainage and clearing of the swamps. For many years that has been a dream with us, a most cherished hope. It looks like we are right close to the actual accomplishment. We can certainly give our heartiest thanks to the new deal for what has been done with our swamp.

The Chilton County Airport at Clanton is another big and important step in advancement which will be checked up to the credit of 1934. That will place us on the air map for future, and we do not yet realize fully how important that future will be.

The airport is going to be the neucleus for a number of other important developments. It will mean the construction of some more roads. A civic center with a community house is proposed at the airport. That is a good idea. A golf course may be included. The swamp in the neighborhood of the airport will be cleared. The drainage ditch in that vicinity will be enlarged. Looks like the airport is already destined to be the center of operations around here for a while.

The Legion Commander

The National Commander of the American Legion, Ed A. Hayes, of Illinois, will be the guest of Alabama Legionnaires on January 7th, 8th and 9th.

He will arrive by airplane from Louisiana in Birmingham at 4:50 p.m. Sunday, January 7th, and will make a public address there that night at 7:30. The Legion posts of Jefferson County are making plans for this meeting. On Monday morning he will be the guest of the Gadsden Post and will make a public address there, and at 8:00 p.m., Monday, he will make another address at Anniston. Dothan and Montgomery will entertain him Tuesday, January 9th, where public addresses will be made. He will be in Dothan at 11:00 a.m. and at Montgomery at 8:15 p.m.

Commander Hayes' unanimous election at the National Convention of The American Legion in Chicago was a reward for his outstanding work in the Legion since the organization was formed. He has held many offices in the American Legion, most important among these being Department Commander of Illinois in 1929-30 and Vice Chairman of the Legion's National Rehabilitation Committee in 1932-33, during which time he assisted in formulating and carrying out the organization's national program for the welfare of the disabled men.

During the World War he served in the navy, enlisted as an apprentice seaman early in 1917 and winning a commission as ensign in 1918.

He is a member of the law firm of Hayes and Downing of Decatur, Illinois. He is married and has four children.

77,000 Eggs Are Broken to Make Possible a Better Feed.

The feed that goes into the hen largely determines the quality of the egg produced. Every poultry raiser knows this and if you are on good enough terms with him he will demonstrate to you why certain feeds produce deep colored yolks and others light colored yolks. At the same time he will admit that it is hard to control the exact shade of the yolks the year around.

Feed manufacturers have long ago discovered that the success of a poultryman depends upon pleasing his market, so they have tried to provide a feed mixture which will produce the kind of eggs that will bring poultrymen top prices. The problem of shading the yolk is only one part of the secret.

More difficult is the selection of feeds that will produce the ideal white for each egg. Thin watery whites are not ideal. The white must be thick and firm and stay close to the yolk in the poaching pan or on the straight "up" orders.

To solve this problem Purina Experimental Farm of Gray Summit, Mo., several years ago began a record egg breaking and testing experiment. Many combinations of feed were fed to specially selected flocks. Eggs from these hens were numbered for easy identification and then the eggs were broken and compared to the specifications that had been set up by egg market experts.

In all of these feeding experiments the first objective of the feed was not overlooked. Feed is meant to produce first of all, eggs in quantity. Only after this requirement is satisfied can the quality part follow.

More than 77,000 eggs were individually handled and broken in this exhaustive search for the ideal combination. One dozen or one hundred dozen eggs broken from hens fed on the egg quality formula finally adopted look as alike as peas in a pod. The full meaning of such a feed can only be fully appreciated by poultrymen who have had the ingenuity to work up a special market for their product and who know the advantages of an increased income that American preference for quality makes possible.

Changing birds over to this new feed is simple. Pullets on the range are changed over at eighteen weeks of age. Scratch grains are decreased gradually in proportion as the new feed replaces the other feed. Laying hens can be changed to the new feed at any time of the year according to the poultry experts at the Purina Experiment Farm. As is the usual practice in changing a flock's ration, two weeks should be allowed for making the change and no change should be made during extremely cold weather or when birds are in peak production.

NEW HOPE NEWS

As I have not seen any news from here in some time, I thought I would enter.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely.

Miss Nora Cleckler of Sylacauga spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Cleckler.

Mr. Buck Varden was a visitor in this community Sunday.

Mrs. Gore of Clanton is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. M. Cleckler.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cleckler and family spent New Years Day with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Mims, of the Temple community.

Mr. Oscar Edwards of near Verbena visited his brother, Mr. W. M. Edwards, Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Cleckler, Miss Nora Cleckler, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Cleckler and family visited their daughter and sister, Mrs. Lillie Lucas, Christmas Day.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Cleckler, Mr. Hubert Cleckler and Misses Nora and Lettie Cleckler visited Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Minor and family Friday night.

PENSION WARRANTS READY

Confederate pension warrants are now ready for delivery at the office of Judge Reynolds. Pensioners are requested to call for them at the first opportunity.

"Your charming daughter has invited me to dinner," said the bashful young man.

"I'll do better than that. I'll invite you to breakfast for a surprise," said the father. "Then you can see how she looks in the morning, without her make-up."

City Buyers Test Selected Eggs in Many Ways

Methods of determining quality are constantly adding to the many troubles of the poultry raiser. If you are a producer for the fancy markets it is no longer enough that your eggs be fresh, that they be of uniform size, spotlessly clean or even that the yolks be of the same shade. Hotel chefs and discriminating housewives have added still another and by far a most difficult test designed particularly to show up inferior quality.

Courtesy-Purina Mills

Watery-Running Whites---Inferior

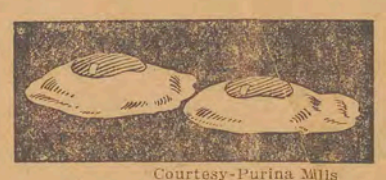
Poached eggs are a breakfast or a luncheon favorite with millions of city customers. The next time you poach look at the water in which your eggs have been cooking. If it is full of shreds of white floating around, your resulting product will have lost much of its valuable egg white. The yolk will not be covered with cooked white and a watery taste will be most noticeable. You will be fortunate if the eggs do not break in removing them from the water.

By using the right quality of feed with healthy birds poultrymen can overcome this objection. At the Purina



Courtesy-Purina Mills

Firm, Thick Whites---Superior

Experimental Laboratories, exhaustive tests were made on the eggs produced by different experimental rations.

Different feeds it was found influenced directly the firmness and poaching qualities of eggs. From these tests, it was possible to develop a laying mash that makes firm, thick whites—the kind that poach best.

The way to prove, of course, is to do. Poaching in the old fashioned way will demonstrate immediately the superior qualities of scientifically produced eggs. It is a showmanship test that many producers are now using to demonstrate to egg buyers, to housewives, and to hotel chefs why their selected eggs are entitled to a premium price.

REFUGE NEWS

Well, another Christmas has passed and we will enter into a new year. We wish each and everyone a happy new year. Let us pray that we may do more for our God in the future than we have in the past. And as our Sunday School lesson taught us Sunday, let us not look at the past but let us look forward to the future. Let us do greater things in 1934 for the Lord than we did in 1933 and expect greater things from the Lord.

We had a good Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. at this place Sunday and Sunday night. Although the crowd was small, probably on account of the weather, but let's not be too hasty to render excuses for I am afraid that God is not pleased wtih some of the excuses that are being rendered. So let us come next Sunday and bring someone with us. Last Sunday night was our regular time to elect new officers for our B. Y. P. U., but on account of the crowd being small we put it off until next Sunday night. We hope there will be a large crowd present.

Rev. Durbin delivered a wonderful message at this place Sunday at 11 o'clock. His subject was that God's spirit will not always strive with men. We shoul do God's will, takes it's flight prayers, no sing fect and then v So let us look f ward that we mi er things for our

Elder Blossom Says Some Question God

LAUGHING

Proverbs 1:26: "I also will laugh at your calamity; I will mock when your fear cometh."

De above text is ascribed by de writer to "wisdom" as tho wisdom wuz speakin as we find in de beginnin ob de 20th verse ob dis same chapter, but all students ob de Bible accept it as de words ob God. I want to answer at leas two questions dat mought arise in yoah min, which is, "Why will God laugh?" an "who will He laugh at?"

An jes to git started off, let me tell you bout whut happened Chrismus marnin. My ole oman waked me up befo day lite dat mornin an sed she was gwyin to git up an see whut Sandy Claws brung her. So she got up an went feelin her way in de dark to de mantle shelf to strike a lite, an as she got to de edge ob de hearth she stepped on de cat an it squalled an grabbed her by de foot wid all four ob its claws an de ole oman squalled too, an begun to jump aroun an knock ovah de chairs, an I jes lay dar an laughed til I cried. Finally I heared her bump into de trunk, den all wuz quiet an still, so I thought she mought of knocked herself sinceless, so I got up an started toward whar I heard de las soun, an as I got near de trunk I stepped on dat same cat an it squalled again, an de ole oman cried out, "Lawdy thar's dat cat agin, an ob course I jumped when dat ole cat squalled an I landed on de trunk rite on top ob my ole oman's legs, for her hed was ovah behin de trunk an her legs on de trunk. Den de ole oman called out "hep hep. It's got me now." So I sed, "Whut's got you?" Den she sed, "Is dat you Blossom?" An I sed "Sho, it's me. What is you doin ovah heah behin dis trunk?" An she spoke up rite quick an sed "I wuz only tryin to hide from that shiny-eyed cat."

Now evy time dat cat cums into de house, de ole oman stomps her feets at him, an he tears out. Den I laugh till my sides hurt, an, do you no, she aint spoke to me nor dat cat til yit.

Now to answer one ob de questions. If God gives to ur man, first, sufficient intelligents to understan de gospel, an den gives him de Bible an de church an de preacher, an also space an time in which to repent an dat man laughs at de preacher's earnest appeal or laughs in de face ob someone dat goes to him to try to git him to turn, den God's time will cum yonder in de judgment to laugh at him.

I has often heard dat laughin is ketchin. Another old sayin is, "he who laughs last laughs best." When I was bout leben years old, er big fat white oman cums to our house an sot down on de poach an axed me whah mah mammy wuz, an I tole her dat she wuz at de spring washin, den she sed, "you run down dar an tell her to cum to de house." I didn't want to go, so I tole her jes to take de path dat led off frum de corner ob de yard down into de holler an she would fin her. So she got up an went out de gate an atter she passed de corner ob de yard fince she had to pass some bee gums, an ur bee got atter her an she went runnin, knockin, fightin and hollerin. Ob course dat tickled me, an I laughed an when she saw me laughin at her she got mad an went on down de path rubbin her arm whah dat bee stung her. Well, I jes fell down in de yard an rolled an tumbled, an she tole mah mammy an here she cum an grabbed be by de arm an lit on me wid de bresh-broom, an when I looked at de ole white oman she had done sot down by ur tree an was jes ur shakin, an her ole fat stomach was jes ur shakin up an down. An I tell you de truth, I wuz ur grown settled man befo I had any use fer ur fat oman.

De secon question "who will God laugh at?" is easy to answer, cause we no dat effen anybody refuses to hear de gospel an will not take Christ fur his savior, da can't expect God to be lenient wid dem atter da has had a life time to git rite in.

But to me dar is still anuder class dat will be laughed at, for don't Jesus sa, in de seventh chapter ob Matthew, "Not everyone that sayeth unto me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter in, but he that doeth the will ob my father?"

So, to my mine, dar is lots ob profession Christians dat is expectin a smile ob approval when da git up dar dat will receive a laugh ob derision. If you look up de meanin ob dat word 'derision', you will fin dat it means "ridicule, scorn, contempt." Dat is what one may expect who trifles wid God.

Note — The two funny incidents related above are for two purposes—to illustrate the point and the little streak of fun was to fix the point in the mind of the reader. I hope that it will be accepted in that light.—Elder Blossom.

IN MEMORY OF MR. J. H. CARTER

On December 29th, at the break of day, our Almighty God called dear grandfather, and he made his earthly departure, going out of our midst to his heavenly home.

He was born in Autauga County on May 18th, 1854, having spent his childhood days there. At the age of nineteen, he was united in marriage to Miss Laura Josephine Spigener. There were ten children born in the family eight of which are living.

In 1899 they made their home in Chilton County living here for 28 years, later returning to Billingsley in Autauga County in 1927 and remaining there until death.

He had been ill for only a short while, and all was done for him that was in the power of earthly hands to do. Do not weep dear friends and relatives, although we are suffering a great loss, yet it is his eternal gain. There is a vacant place in our hearts that can never be filled for we know all that knew him loved and cherished him for his kind and tender words and his loving sympathy. He was a loyal Christian, believing in the Lord Jesus Christ, and he had often remarked that he was "ready" and that his work on earth was complete.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Laura Carter, three sons and five daughters: Mr. T. H. Carter of Birmingham; Mr. W. J. Carter, of Tarrant; Mr. J. F. Carter, of Fairfield; Mrs. B. M. Wallace, of Birmingham; Mrs. G. L. Giles, of Birmingham; Mrs. C. P. Jones, of Clanton; Mrs. E. J. Jackson, of Clanton; and Mrs. W. W. Fox of Billingsley; one brother, Mr. Andrew Carter, of Birmingham. There were twenty grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

The pallbearers were six of his grandsons—Mr. J. B. Gaines, Mr. Leon Carter, Mr. J. W. Giles, Mr. Rubert Giles, and Mr. Tommie Carter, all of Birmingham and Mr. Johnnie Fox of Billingsley.

He was laid to rest at Big Springs, with Rev. G. G. Williams conducting the services; also Rev. J. W. Giles, a grandson, who is a young minister, spoke a few comforting wrds to our saddened and heavy hearts. Martin was in charge of the burial.—Written by his loving granddaughter, Avoline Jones.

We certainly hope that everyone has had as big a time as the young people of this community during the holidays.

Mrs. C. B. Hankins and son, C. B., Mrs. D. S. Northcutt and daughter, Loyce, and Mrs. D. S. Edwards, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sutley, have been visiting their parents this week.

Mr. Frank Lessley and Mr. Charles Nix spent part of Christmas week in south Alabama, reporting a nice time.

Miss Pinola Middlebrooks is visiting Miss Mary Jim Sutley this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay entertained the young people of this community with a play party Wednesday night. Each one enjoyed the party very much.

Mr. and Mrs. George Reaves of Birmingham spent a short while visiting her sister, Mrs. Lester Northcutt.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Northcutt entertained the young people with a party last Friday night. Everyone had a wonderful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Martin entertained the young people with a party Saturday night. All had a grand time.

All the young people of the community went on a serenade Christmas night. Each and everyone had a grand time, if they did get tired of walking.

We young people have been really entertained during Christmas. We just hope everyone has enjoyed it as well as we have.

Don't forget there is preaching at this place Saturday night, January 6, Sunday at 11 and Sunday night. We extend to everyone a most cordial invitation to come and be with us.

Mrs. Lizzie Martin and family of Birmingham visited her son, Mr. B. O. Martin this past week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Reaves of Birmingham and Mrs. J. L. Martin and son, of Calera, visited Mrs. J. D. Sutley Monday afternoon, January 1st.

LITTLE MARY DELENE HUETT

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Huett Sunday morning, December 17 and carried their darling baby, Mary Delene.

She was 22 months old. She was sick only 12 days with miningitis. She bore her suffering with a smile, but the Lord saw fit to call her home.

We know that the Lord doeth all things well, and even though it is hard to part, when He calls, we must go. We feel that our loss is heaven's gain, and this helps to lighten our hearts, because to know her was to love her.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Homer Carroll at the home of her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Cox, on Sunday afternoon, at 3:30. The body was laid to rest at New Salem with Spigener in charge.

She leaves to mourn her death her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Huett, and two brothers, James Louis and Clarence Edgar, and a host of relatives and friends.—Written by her aunt, Bessie Cox.

LYNCHINGS IN 1933

It is found, according to the records Institute there were 28 persons lynched in 1933. This is 20 more than the number 8 for 1932; 15 more than the number 13 for 1931; and 7 more than the number 21 for 1930. Fourteen of the persons lynched were in the hands of the law; 9 were taken from jails and 5 from officers of the law outside of jails; the bodies of 2 of the victims were burned.

There were 37 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. Six of these were in northern and western states and 31 in southern states. In 24 instances the prisoners were removed or the guards augmented or other precautions taken. In the 13 other instances, armed force was used to repel the would be lynchers. A total of 48 persons, 11 white and 37 Negroes, were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Of the 28 persons lynched, 4 were white and 24 were Negroes. The offenses charged were: murder, 8; rape, 3; attempted rape, 3; wounding persons, 3; altercation, 1; no offense reported, 3; striking man, 1; slapping youth, 1; kidnapping, 2; stealing liquor, 1; insulting women, 1; threatening men, 1.

The states in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Alabama, 3; California, 2; Georgia, 4; Louisiana, 4; Maryland, 1; Mississippi, 3; Missouri, 1; North Carolina, 1; South Carolina, 4; Tennessee, 3; and Texas, 2.—R. R. Watson.

More Jobs and Higher Pay Been Approved

Washington.—Approval of 8 more codes brings the total number that have been signed by the president to 168, of which 35 have been during December. A rare exception during the depression has been the domestic freight forwarding industry, which increased employment 55 per cent from 1929 to July 1933, since which time, under the Blue Eagle, workers have increased 18.4 per cent and pay rolls 14.7 per cent. The approved code consolidates these gains. Under the nonferrous foundry code annual increase in pay rolls of $7,500,000 is anticipated, and about $250,000 under the code of the waxed-paper industry. The number of employees in the refractories industry has been increased 80 per cent since last March, and pay-roll increases 150 per cent. From 40,000 workers in 1929, the set-up box industry dropped to 29,000 in 1932. Under the code this has brought up to 35,000, with 20 per cent increase in pay.

"All Yolks Alike, Each Cushioned by Thick White"

Poultry Experts Find That Ration Controls Egg Quality.

Egg quality today means more than selection for size, freshness and shell coloring, states Paul Bartz of the Purina Research Laboratories. The consumer also wants eggs that have uniform lemon yellow yolks and firm, thick whites. These are things the housewife looks for because they signify an attractive appearance when the eggs are served on the breakfast egg platter.

That the interior quality of an egg was controlled by the feed was brought out in an experiment in the Purina Research Laboratories. Into a two-gallon glass jar, the investigators broke 12 dozen fresh select eggs, the highest quality sold by a store specializing in quality foods. The yolks of these eggs varied in color from light lemon to deep orange. The yolks and the thick portion of the whites rose toward the top and about four inches of thin white settled to the bottom,—evidence of either low vitality in the hens or a faulty ration. See jar on right.

In a second jar, these research workers broke another 12 dozen eggs of the same external appearance and evidence of freshness as the first 12 but laid by hens on a special ration developed at their Experimental Farm to produce quality eggs. To make the test comparable, all of the second lot of eggs were at least 10 days old.

Surrounding each yolk in the second jar was a generous coating of thick, viscous white. Cushioned from each other by these whites, the yolks extended practically to the bottom of the jar. Only a small proportion of thin white settled to the bottom. (See illustration). Each and every yolk was of the same bright lemon yellow that is the consumer's preference in all select markets. Note jar on left, above.

This test has been repeated in every section of the United States and shows how interior egg quality is subject to control through feeding of rations designed for that purpose. Most housewives accept wide variation in yolk color and watery whites as almost inevitable but none the less unsatisfactory. Poultrymen who will try to produce eggs with perfect interior quality by proper feeding and management of their flocks have an opportunity to build a trade at premium prices with discriminating consumers, either in individual homes or with hotels, clubs, restaurants and hospitals.

She—Did the doctor do anything to hasten your recovery?

If Lightning Should Strike, Cows Would Make Money

Average Milk Production Is Profit-Deciding Factor.

Low producing cows take away the earnings of the good ones. So important is this in these days of low milk prices and an impending feed shortage that the research men of Purina Mills' Farm at Gray Summit, Mo., sound a warning to dairymen to cull their herds more closely.

"For many dairymen it would be almost good fortune if lightning should strike the loss-producing 25 per cent of the herd," says E. B. Powell, who is in charge of the Purina Experimental Farm. "It is a simple problem in arithmetic to demonstrate why such misfortune would be good fortune. Each cow must produce a definite amount of milk to pay her keep. This figure has been advancing in late years because of the reduced price per 100 pounds paid by city milk distributors and the lower butterfat prices paid by creameries.

"Now, if a cow produces 500 pounds above her keep, that is her total profit. If she produces 1,500 pounds above the keep, she is doing three times as well. Therefore, a cow producing 1,500 pounds of milk a year above her keep really is worth three cows producing 500 pounds of milk each per year above their keep.

"The figures become even more impressive when you consider the money losers in the herd. If the minimum upkeep figure is 6,000 pounds of milk a year and the total production of a cow is only 4,000 pounds, she is loser by 2,000 pounds. Such a cow completely cancels the profits of both the 6,500 pound and 7,500 pound cows. Here's where lightning could work to advantage. Lightning striking the 4,000 pound cow would make it possible for the dairyman to realize a profit on the other two cows."

Much of the trouble of overproduction of milk and dairy products hinges on the one point of discontinuing unprofitable animals in production. While none of the owners of such animals are gaining in cash income (most of them really lose money) the total milk supply is greatly increased by the addition of the milk from unprofitable animals.

Just as in a herd the unprofitable producer cancels the profits of the profit-making cows, so also does the dairyman who is a money loser help destroy the profits of the money-making dairyman. He does this unintentionally, of course. But, in effect, his failure to eliminate the nonprofit producing cows brings about the surplus of dairy products which destroys the market for his neighbor and for himself. So, not only to one another, but also to themselves do dairymen—unintentionally—do harm, when they fail to cull their herds on the basis of profit and loss statements for each cow.

To help the dairy farmer in determining which of his cows are money makers and which are money losers, the Dairy Department of Purina Mills has prepared special blanks and directions. They are available in nearly every community at the store or elevator which handles Checkerboard feeds.

BLUE EAGLE WITHDRAWN FROM 13 IN TWO DAYS

Washington.—Thirteen Blue Eagles were withdrawn in 2 days for willful neglect to act upon notices from local compliance boards of failure to conform to the wage and hour provisions of the President's Reemployment Agreement. First withdrawal of the insignia was announced for violation of the collective bargaining clause. The others were mostly cafes, laundries, and a junk dealer. Having made restitution to employees of wages withheld and filed a guaranty the Blue Eagle was restored to the Consumers' Food Stores, Inc., operators of four stores in Bridgeport, Conn.

Mrs. C. R. Mullins is spending this week in Gadsden with relatives.

904 PEOPLE ON C.W.A. PAYROLL

Total Amount Is Estimated At More Than $10,000 A Week

According to a statement of Mr. R. L. Pittman, acting director, there are at present a total of 904 persons on the weekly payroll of the C. W. A. in Chilton County. It is estimated that the total amount of the payroll at present is more than ten thousand dollars a week.

Summarizing the distribution of C. W. A. workers, Mr. Pittman gave out the following statement Tuesday:

"We have some 35 approved projects received to include this date, (January 8th). These projects provide jobs for 1,645 men and women. Of these 35 projects we have operated 24 to date.

"We have actually employed on this date 842 men and women from our quota of 855, which was our quota January 1st, and included 25 additional men allowed above the quota.

"In addition we have employed two stump pullers, 17 teams, and 29 trucks, or the equivalent of 48 men, which are not counted in the quota.

"We also have two federal projects employing a total of 14 men and women, which is also outside the quota.

"To go further, we have 62 jobs outside the quota, making our weekly payroll number 904 men and women paid under the Civil Works Administration."

75 MEN AT WORK ON AIRPORT JOB

Drainage and Grading of Property Is First Task at the Landing Field

The Airport was a busy place Tuesday morning with all hands and the cook working like beavers at various tasks.

Engineer Tom Arledge was setting stakes and outlining the different phases of the construction. Crews of men were plying their shovels digging drainage ditches. Others were engaged with scrapes, shovels, wagons and teams grading and surfacing the ground for the landing spaces.

Martin Gore and his road outfit were engaged in building a road from Ed Miller's home to the airport property.

Already a vast amount of work has been done by the crew of 75 men who have been allotted to the job under C. W. A. Quite a bit of the timber around the edges has been cut, but much more awaits the axes and saws.

Engineer Arledge explained the outline of the landing area which is being graded and made ready for surfacing. It will be in the form of a huge cross with points extending to the four corners of the sixty-acre tract of land. Location of the hangar is designated near the western side of the tract between two ends of the landing runways.

Near the hangar is the location where tentative calculations are being made upon the location of a community club house. A golf course on the airport property has also been included in the layout. An ideal location for a swimming pool on the northern side of the property may bring that project into actual consideration before the job in completed.

REV. J. T. NELSON HEARS HIS BIRTHDAY ANNOUNCED ON AIR

Something which does not happen often occurred in our county last Thursday morning, when the 101st birthday of Rev. J. T. Nelson was announced over the radio, and Rev. Nelson was at a receiving set and heard the announcement.

Mr. Grover Bice of Thorsby drove down below Thorsby to the home of the old veteran and carried him and his son, Monroe, up to the home of Rev. E. W. Butler. A group of close friends of the old man gathered with him around the radio, and in the Cheerio program, a feature of the National Broadcasting Company, Rev. Nelson's 101st birthday, which occurred on that day—January 4th—was announced from Radio City in New York.

Rev. Nelson is in fairly good health despite his advanced age.

WEDDING AT CONCORD JR.

Mr. and Mrs. Soloman Washington Tucker request your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Malinda Rosebud Tucker, to Benjamin Harrison Kendrick, Friday night, January 12, 1934.

The above item is of much interest to the people of Concord community. The bride and groom are two popular and prominent young people and are widely known throughout the state.

The P.-T. A. is sponsoring this black face wedding, to be held Friday night. Distinguished guests will be present. Just to see the bride and groom will be worth more than the small admission of ten and fifteen cents, which is being charged. Don't miss the fun and learning the art of getting married. If you like clean, wholesome entertainment, then you will enjoy this feature.

BANKERS FAVOR COTTON PLANS

Farmers of County Are Urged To Give Full Support and Cooperation

The government cotton control program, which is now being brought to the consideration of the farmers of Chilton County by County Agent Fant and his committees, has the absolute and whole-hearted support and endorsement of the bankers of Clanton.

When interviewed on the subject Tuesday Mr. John C. Page, Cashier of the First National Bank of Clanton, and Mr. Frank Callen, president of the Peoples Savings Bank, were emphatic in their approval of the government's cotton plan, and expressed the hope that the farmers of the county will cooperate in the movement.

Mr. Page said: "I take pleasure in saying to the farmers of Chilton County that it is my opinion that the plan of the government in regard to the cotton situation for the years of the immediate future is of very vital concern to the growers of cotton. It is a recognized fact that the government efforts to help the cotton growers in the past year has resulted in untold benefits to the farmers. The plan for the future holds promise of continued benefits to the farmers, and I hope the farmers will not hesitate to give their full cooperation to the plan."

Mr. Callen expressed his sentiment in these words: "Our government is certainly making a sincere and courageous effort to help the farmers to help themselves, and I hope our cotton farmers in Chilton County will add their whole-hearted cooperation and support to the present cotton control movement. Our farmers should realize that the government is not trying to force them into anything nor trying to take anything away from them. It is a movement designed to help the farmers, and it offers to the cotton growers of the south an opportunity to get their business back on a normal basis and for all time overcome the destructive effects of over supply of cotton."

The following statement was issued by the Bank of Maplesville: "Realizing the great benefits that have come to the farmers in the price of their cotton, we are in hearty sympathy with the plan of the Agriculture Department at Washington, to reduce the cotton acreage this year, and we tender this as our endorsement of the plan."

C. W. A. Workers Will Be Retained

Statement From Mr. Pittman County Director of C. W. A.

On Tuesday of this week Mr. R. L. Pittman, acting director of the Civil Works Administration for Chilton County, gave to the press the following statement relative to those who are now at work on C. W. A. projects:

"The director of the Civil Works Administration desires that all people who are now directly employed on C. W. A. Projects know that it is the intention of the Federal Civil Works Administration to keep them continually employed during the life of the Civil Works Administration.

This ruling should not be construed to apply to those illegally employed, nor those who have proved to be inefficient, or unsuitable for the job. Nor is it to be understood to be applied to those under contract, such as teams, trucks, etc."

PROGRESS BEING MADE ON THREE SCHOOL BUILDINGS

Prof. Luther E. Little, superintendent of education, states that work is being pushed right along on the auditoriums at Collins Chapel and Enterprise. Also the rock building at Coopers is getting off right along. The rock walls are now up even with the floor, and the sills for the flooring are being placed. The work at Collins Chapel, however, is the most advanced of the three projects. Two other additions to school buildings have been approved—Isabella and Maplesville—but work will begin on these in a few days.

Atkinson Enters Race For Judge

Clanton Attorney Bids For the Bench in Autauga, Chilton and Elmore

Hon. J. B. Atkinson, prominent attorney and former Mayor of Clanton, announces himself as a candidate for Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit in the forthcoming Democratic primaries of May and June this year. The Nineteenth Circuit includes the counties of Chilton, Autauga and Elmore. The bench is now occupied by Judge Loyd Tate of Wetumpka, who is himself a candidate for reelection to that place.

Mr. Atkinson hopes to bring to Chilton County the honor of furnishing a Circuit Judge, which it has not done in the recollection of the present generation. As far back as we can remember, all the Circuit Judges we have had came from Elmore County, or from Montgomery when that county was in our circuit.

Mr. Atkinson will go into the race with strong support of the Democrats in his home county If his following in the other two counties reaches anything like the proportions of his home strength, he will come mighty near to being the first Circuit Judge from Chilton County.

NEW OFFICERS IN KIWANIS CLUB

Installation Made At Weekly Meeting Last Thursday Night

Installation of officers of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton for the year 1934 was done last Thursday night when retiring president, Mack Wyatt, delivered the gavel to his successor, Luther E. Little, who will guide the activities of the club during the coming year.

Other new officers who took their places at the same time were Earle Thomas, vice president, Dr. C. O. Lawrence, treasurer, and Dan Waite, secretary.

After assuming his new duties, president Little announced standing committees of the club for 1934 as follows:

Public Affairs, V. J. Gragg, chairman; Mack Wyatt, J. B. Atkinson, John Armstrong.

Agriculture, Underprivileged Child, Vocational Guidance and Boys and Girls Work, John Hollis, chairman; Earle Thomas, J. P. Montgomery, John Page, Sam Powers.

Club Meetings, Attendance, Reception, Mell Martin, chairman; John Armstrong, Leonard Williams, Joe Venable.

Classification and Membership, C. O. Lawrence, chairman; Mell Martin, Sam Ezell, E. E. Upchurch.

Program and Music, Mack Wyatt, chairman; Billy Smith, Percy Pitts, J. B. Atkinson, C. O. Lawrence.

Interclub Relations, Sam Ezell, chairman; John Hollis, Dan Waite.

Kiwanis Education, Pressley Cochran, chairman; Lloyd Warr, V. J. Gragg, J. R. Mullins.

Publicity, Billy Smith, chairman; Mack Wyatt, Mell Martin.

Miss Mary Ellis will continue as pianist for the Club during the forthcoming year.

MRS. ELLA SMITH DIED

Mrs. Ella Smith, age 66 years, died Tuesday night at six o'clock. Burial was at Samaria Wednesday in charge of Martin.

MARY IDA HOOD DIED

Miss Mary Ida Hood, age 14 years, died Thursday, January 4 in a Montgomery hospital. Burial was at New Harmony, near Mt. Creek last Friday, in charge of Martin.

COMMITTEE FOR COTTON PLANS

Corps of Workers Represent Every Beat In Chilton County

Under supervision and outline of County Agent J. W. Fant, a complete county organization has been set up and put to work among the farmers to sign them up on the 1934-35 cotton program of the government.

The central committee for the county is composed of J. Dudley Collins, chairman, with J. B. Hicks, of Maplesville, and E. R. Piper of Thorsby.

The community committees are organized and at work, as follows.

Beats 1, 11, and 12, E. F. Conway, chairman; P. M. Martin and Jack M. Nix. Approximately 226 farmers are to be seen by this committee.

Beats 2, 13 and 14, W. R. Clements and L. G. Posey, chairmen; Walter Allen, W. G. Shaw, B. F. Rasberry and Clyde C. Cofer. Approximately 627 farmers are to be seen by this committee.

Beat 9, Glenn W. Sessions, chairman, with V. J. Littleton and Gerald Hubbard. Approximately 304 farmers in this group.

Beat 4, R. M. Foshee and O. H. McDowell, chairmen; M. Lockhart, Charley Eiland, W. B. Crowe, J. L. Smith and W. H. Wilson. Approximately 775 farmers to be seen by this committee.

Beats 7 and 8, F. A. Shanks and W. F. Reynolds, chairmen; W. H. Abney, Sam Abney, W. M. Oden, A. B. Jones and Earle O'Neal. Approximately 470 farmers in this group.

Beats 3 and 15, A. J. Lecroy, chairman, with J. M. Culp and O. O. Calfee. Approximately 335 farmers to be seen by this committee.

Beat 6, C. L. Wilkins, chairman, with O. H. Lawrence and Vester Bice. Approximately 237 farmers.

Beat 10, W. J. Little, chairman, with T. F. Patterson and O. L. Devaughn. Approximately 263 farmers in this group.

Beats 5 and 16, D. I. Deramus, chairman, with G. A. Colley, W. A. Adams and J. S. Plott. Approximately 340 farmers to be seen by this committee.

These committees are at work. Meetings are being held over the county in the interest of the cotton campaign. The program will be carried to conclusion as quickly as possible.

AIR MARKINGS TO BE MADE

A project for establishing air markings at over a hundred places in Alabama has been authorized under the Civil Works Administration. Supervision of details will be under direction of Col. Sumpter Smith, State advisor to C. W. A. in aeronautics.

The plan calls for marking buildings at strategic locations so as to furnish directions to air pilots as to location of airways, landing fields, and other information that will serve for the benefit of air navigators.

FLYER INJURED IN PLANE CRASH

Forced Landing In Field Near Mineral Springs Last Friday

Lieut. Julian B. Haddon, former student in the Air Corps Tactical School at Montgomery, and now U. S. Army instructor for the 106th Observation Squadron at Birmingham, who was injured in a plane crash near Clanton Friday, was reported resting comfortably at the Maxwell Field Hospital Saturday night.

The officer suffered severe lacerations about the head and body, a broken nose and two broken ribs when the cowling of his engine broke loose and caused his plane to dive into a cornfield near Mineral Springs, eight miles north of Clanton. An injury to his left eye may prove more serious, it was indicated.

Lieut. Haddon was flying alone from Birmingham to Montgomery when the accident occured. Two farmers, Martin Gore and J. W. Heflin, were riding in an automobile when they noticed something wrong with the airplane. When the officer's ship landed in the field, the farmers ran to the plane, released Haddon and carried him to a Clanton hospital.

Maxwell Field authorities were notified and an air ambulance was sent to bring the injured officer to Montgomery. Several other Maxwell Field ships visited the scene of the crash.

Lieut. Haddon, a native of Calif., was a student in the Tactical School at Maxwell Field last year, graduating in the June, 1933 class. He married Miss Carolyn Brame, daughter of W. W. Brame, Montgomery cotton broker.

Says His Decision Will Be Made Known In The Next Few Days

Declares Jobs For Unemployed Is More Important Than Politics

"Will L. H. Reynolds run for Probate Judge again this year?" is a question that has been on the lips of hundreds of people in Chilton County for several months.

In answer to this question, the only statement so far available from Reynolds is: "I will announce in the near future my decision in this matter, and any action taken will be based upon what I think the majority of the people desire, and the best interests of all the people in the county.

In a letter addressed to The Union-Banner this week, Judge Reynolds discusses at some length the questions involved in his possible candidacy for reelection. His statement is printed in full as follows:

Editor Union-Banner:

Many citizens of Chilton County have requested me to announce for Judge of Probate, but owing to duties connected with the relief work in this county, which I felt was more important, I have not had time to thoroughly consider this matter. I think one of the most important issues now before this county is to furnish jobs for our people who are out of work.

I appreciate the many expressions from the people of the county requesting me to become a candidate again for Judge of Probate, and I think every candidate should not alone consider his personal interests, but should consider the best interests of the people, and especially in times such as we are now going through. If I can be of service to the people whom I have tried to serve for many years and my experience will be of benefit at all times, then I am willing to continue to serve in whatever capacity I may be able, whether in office or out of office.

I will announce in the near future my decision in this matter and my action taken will be based upon what I think the majority of the people desire and the best interests of all the people in the county.

I honestly believe that conditions are growing better and the people of the county have received great benefit from the federal government, and without this I am sure there would have been much greater suffering among our people. The people have cooperated with the federal government in the expenditure of this money and I believe if we will all keep our hopes up and assist in every way possible, we will come out of this depression and arrive again at normal times.

Very Respectfully yours,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

LUTHER FOSHEE WITH HAYES CHEVROLET CO.

Mr. Luther Foshee, well-known and popular automobile salesman, has recently formed a connection with the Hayes Chevrolet Co., of Clanton, and is ready to demonstrate the marvelous qualiies of he new 1934 Chevrolet just as soon as the new models are received. This, it is hoped, will be in a few days.

For many years Mr. Foshee has been engaged in selling Chevrolet automobiles. In recent years he has been with Reid Motor Company of Montevallo. His many friends throughout Chilton County will be glad to learn that he has returned to Clanton.

Doctors of County Form Association

Will Seek Better Plan of Collecting Fees For Their Services

The person who changes doctors as a means of settling his doctor bill has been singled out as the chief target of the physicians of Chilton and adjoining counties in the formation of an association, the purpose of which is to bring about a better system of business and fair practice for the medicine men.

After a number of meetings held in Clanton preliminary to the organization of the Association, it is announced that the plans have been perfected, and will go into effect on March 1st.

About twenty doctors of Chilton and adjoining counties have signed the agreement of the Association and pledged themselves to abide by the same in the conduct of their practice.

The agreement says, "On and after March 1, 1934, we hereby pledge ourselves not to visit anyone who owes either of the undersigned doctors, whose names appear on the delinquent list, except for cash in advance for services. This does not apply to our patrons who have been fair to us and put forth their best efforts to meet their obligations with us, but will be adhered to strictly with the ones who change doctors to settle their accounts.

"If you want to stay in good standing, we advise you to call on your doctor and settle or arrange your account satisfactorily so that you will not be listed as a delinquent and you be deprived of the consideration shown you in the past."

The doctors complain that the practice of swapping from one to another without paying any of them has grown so prevalent that they must protect themselves against such business practices or ultimately come to certain financial failure.

Elsewhere in this paper is an advertisement by the doctors which fully sets forth their attitude and purposes in this matter.

THIRD SHIPMENT OF PORK HERE

The Chilton County Relief administration advises that the third shipment of pork has arrived, and will be distributed to persons on relief rolls upon the presentation of relief cards at the Red Cross warehouse in Clanton.

The former ruling by which relief people transferred to C.W.A. projects were eligible for these commodities has been revoked, according to Miss Austin's statement, and only persons who are now on relief will be given food commodities.

Miss Austin states that notice has been received that flour, butter, eggs and cheese are being shipped and will arrive in Clanton within a short while.

Schools To Run 6 And 8 Months

Terms Announced By Superintendent Following Special Meeting of Board

It was definitely determined Tuesday that the schools of Chilton county will run eight months this term—that is, the accredited high schools will. Other schools will run only six months.

Accredited colleges will recognize the students who attended the full eight months in our high schools as having completed the year's work. This arrangement, of course, is just for this year.

Mr. Albert Neely of Floyd community was stricken with a peculiar malady Friday of last week. He was awfully ill for two days, but is said to be improving now. High blood pressure was said to be the cause.

CLUB HOUSE AT AIRPORT

Plans And Estimate Hoped To Be Made In a Short While

Increased interest has been noted during the past week in the proposal to erect a club house and civic center in connection with the airport near Clanton. Tentative plans have been suggested by interested civic organizations and individuals, and these, with ideas outlined by engineers, Tom Arledge and Mr. Bridges, indicate that there is a possibility of making the project a very useful and delightful gathering place for pleasure and recreation.

The general idea gathered from those who are following the proposal is the erection of a club house on the western side of the airport property, to be built of native stone. Facilities contemplated will make the building suitable for various civic, social and community uses.

By construction of possible roadways, the location can be made easily accessible to town. These roads will naturally be developed on account of their necessity for the airport property.

Additional community interests may be served by arranging a golf course on the airport property and also the erection of a swimming pool. The golf course, it is said, can be arranged without interference to the airport. An everlasting stream of water flowing across the corner of the property makes an ideal location for a community swimming pool, the need of which has been recognized in this vicinity for a long time.

It is hoped that plans for the community club house can be completed in the next few days, so an estimate of this construction can be made and submitted to the local C. W. A. board.

Mrs. J. D. Dees of Sylacauga was in this vicinity a few days ago visiting friends and relatives. She was accompanied by her little daughter.

For Sale For Balance Due

Two Player Pianos, also one high-grade well-known standard make Upright Piano, A-1 condition. Terms if desired

CABLE-BURTON PIANO CO.

1711 Third Ave, Birmingham, Ala.

VERMONT SCHOOL

Due to no mail delivery on Monday, the first, we failed to get the school news in last week's issue of the county papers.

Everyone seems to have spent a most pleasant Christmas season. Most all are back in school anxious to complete the last half year's work in a most satisfactory manner.

The piano was placed in our building the week before Christmas. We are mighty proud of this addition—and too, we are highly grateful to Mrs. T. B. Minor in assisting us in the purchase of it. Mrs. Minor has made several worthy contributions to our new school and we are taking this opportunity to express our gratitude and thanks to her for such unselfish loyalty and genuine school spirit. We hope that she may live to see many more new years and to see the benefits of her generous contributions to the cause of education.

Mr. Johnson spent the past week end at home with his mother. His sisters, Mrs. A. S. Van Hoose from Cuba, Ala., and Mrs. N. L. Fuffee of Birmingham, two brothers, J. G. and W. M., were also present.

We regret to lose our beloved class and school mate, Lucinda Sansom, who was married during the holidays to Garland Deason, but the student body and faculty extend to them many kind, personal wishes for a long and happy life together. Lucinda was a Jr. III student and star center on our girls basketball team.

Our boys basketball team is being reorganized this week. Some of the players have married, others have moved away, until only two of our regular team remains. We will be compelled to withhold several of our scheduled games until our new team can get organized and some practice together.

Our P.-T. A. meets tonight, Thursday, at 6:30 at the school building. We again urge all members to be present as several matters of vital interest are to be discussed. Refreshments will be served by the committee. Our P.-T. A. members went to Isabella school on last Monday night to a rally given in honor of the membership of both associations.

The program given by Tom Frank Teel and his group of merry fun-makers was thoroughly enjoyed by a large crowd. The writer has been requested to state that due to their inability to get away from their work on that particular busy afternoon just before the holidays, they were delayed in opening the program just as had been advertised. We regret this delay very much and will assure the public that all future programs will be opened on time. We hope to have the Liberty Hill Quartet to present their program in about two more weeks. Look for later announcements.

The Jr. III civics class is in the midst of preparing and presenting several debates. The first on will be this week. The question is resolved that "Roads Are a Greater Asset to a Community than the Telephone. Mary Joe Chandler and Edna Simmons are upholding the affirmative side while T. J. Ratliff and Mary Owen are supporting the negative.

Miss Adell Scott, member of the Jr. II class, won the prize of one dollar for turning in the greatest number of sales in our recent turkey contest. Mr. Elton Ousley of Pletcher was presented the 17-pound turkey.

We are proud to learn that there is a strong probability of a term of 6 months for our school. This will mean that by a little more effort and study on the part of the students that a full grade can be made. We really need such a term for most of the boys and girls have lost one year already by not being convenient to a school last year.

The Mt. Pleasant girls are expected to return our game of basketball on Friday evening, January 19.

Those pupils who are absent for fear of development of an epidemic of measles are requested to reenter their class work, as all danger seems to have passed. Conditions like these should be remedied as early as possible and we feel that such has been done, and wish everyone back in school in order not to get so far behind in their studies, that their chance for making a full grade will be damaged.

Dr. J. N. Baker from the state department of education of Montgomery visited our school recently, checking up on the course of study, the new equipment add to our school, care of the building, general school progress and interest, etc.

We have been requested to announce that a box supper will be given at the school building on next Saturday night, January 13th. Proceeds will be used for paying on the piano for Antioch church. Everyone is invited and urged to take a part in this worthy move.

Lesson for January 14

THE BAPTISM AND TEMPTATION OF JESUS CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 3:13-4:11.
GOLDEN TEXT—Wherefore in all things it behooved him to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be a merciful and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people. Hebrews 2:17.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Was Baptized.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Meets the Test.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus Faces His Life Work.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Victorious Son.

The baptism and temptation of Jesus should not be thought of as part of his preparation for his great work, as is represenetd by many writers. They should rather be viewed as the formal entrance of the Messiah, the king upon his mission. In the baptism we have the act of dedication of himself to his work which made full a righteousness, and in the temptation we have a record of his first official conflict with the devil whose works he came to destroy.

I. The Baptism of Jesus, the King (3:13-17).

1. His coming to John (v. 13). While the forerunner was discharging his office, the king emerged from his seclusion at Nazareth and demanded baptism at John's hands.

2. John's hesitancy (v. 14). The incongruity of this demand with the purpose of baptism brought from John a protest, but upon Jesus' satisfactory explanation John baptized him.

3. The significance of his baptism (v. 15). Its significance is found in harmony with the central purpose of his coming into the world, which was to secure for his people salvation through death and resurrection. This act was the official entrance upon his work. It was an act of consecration on his part to the work of saving his people through sacrifice. Christ was baptized not because he had sinned, but because he took the place of sinners to be a substitute for them.

4. Approval from the opened heavens (vv. 16, 17). Immediately following his consecration to his work the heavens were opened and the Spirit came and abode upon him, followed by words of approval from the Father.

II. The Temptation of Jesus, the King (4:1-11).

This temptation was the opening battle of the dreadful conflict between Christ and Satan. In this struggle note:

1. The combatants (v. 1).

a. Jesus Christ—He went immediately from the place of anointing and heavenly recognition as the Son of God, to meet the arch enemy of the race.

b. The devil—The one with whom Christ struggled here was a real, personal being, filled with cunning and malice, and possessing great power.

2. The battleground (v. 1). It was the wilderness of Judea. The first man was tempted in a garden with the most pleasant surroundings, and failed. The last man was tempted in a bare wilderness, and gloriously triumphed.

3. The method of attack (vv. 3-9). Since, as the Redeemer, Christ sustains to mankind a three-fold relationship—Son of man, Son of God, and Messiah—each relationship was made a ground of attack.

a. As the Son of Man (vv. 3, 4).—The appeal was made to the instinct of hunger. Having been forty days and nights without food as a normal man, Jesus had a craving appetite. While the appetite was not sinful, to have satisfied it in a wrong way would have been sin.

b. As the Son of God (vv. 5-7).—It was to test whether this personality which had taken upon itself humanity, was divine. The devil quoted from a messianic Psalm to induce Jesus to presume upon God's care. God really does care for his own, but to neglect common precaution, to do the uncalled for thing just to put God's promise to a test, is to sin and to fail.

c. As the Messiah (vv. 8, 9).—Christ's mission as the Messiah was to recover this world from the devil. The devil offered to surrender to him on the simple condition that Jesus bow to the devil, thus obviating the necessity of the cross with its shame and suffering.

4. The defense (vv. 4, 7, 10). The instrument of defense was the word of God. Christ met the enemy each time and repulsed him with "It is written." Each time he quoted from Deuteronomy, the book which higher critics would discredit.

5. The issue (v. 11). The enemy was completely routed. The strong man was bound, making the spoiling of his house possible.

CHESTNUT CREEK SINGING

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon with a large class and good singing, enjoyed by all. A large crowd of listeners were present.

Singing was called to order by the chairman, L. D. Hughes, singing one song. Prayer was led by O. L. Devaughn. The following directors led from one to two songs each. Clayton Miller, Raybon Crew, L. J. Crew, Orvid Hughes, Paul Hughes, J B. Crew, Dewell Jones, L. T. Grant, O. L. Devaughn, I. D. Huett, Jesse Jones, Floy Devaughn, Margie Nell Jones. A quartet was arranged by Jesse Jones, L. T. Grant, Floy Devaughn, O. L. Devaughn. The Frisky Four sung two songs. Pianists for the afternoon were Amie O. Boswell, Mrs Pratt and Louanna Jones.

Singing was fine. Everybody enjoyed it fine. We want to invite all the visiting singers back next third Sunday afternoon. We are always glad to have you with us.—Louanna Jones, Sec.

Mrs. C. R. Mullins returned Sunday from a visit to Gadsden, Alabama and Atlanta, Georgia.

Pearl of Price

Happiness is that pearl of price which all adventure for, though few find it. It is not gold or silver that the earthlings of this world seek after, but some satisfying good which they think is there treasured up.

EZELL HAS LOST HIS BANK BOX

Rev. S. J. Ezell reports that he has lost his bank box containing insurance policies and other valuable papers. It is a little black box, size about six by eight inches. If anyone can give the preacher any information as to the whereabouts of his box, it will be appreciated very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Williams and Jim Dunlap from Selma were visiting home folks Sunday.

R. E. L. WARD WRITES ABOUT CRAWFORD PROPHECIES, ETC.

Lomax, Ala., January 9.
Editor Union-Banner:

Just a small space in your valuable paper for a few remarks, please. In last week's issue I noticed an article in regard to John Crawford's prephecy. John, you know, is the prophetic dreamer. He dreams and then interprets them. John wants me to verify some of his statements made by him to the public—the things that I have seen myself.

Along in 1917 or 1918 I was on my way to Clanton. About 10:30 o'clock in the morning, as I was passing Mr. Andrew Wilson's place, my attention was drawn to a star that was shining almost as brightly as if it had been night. I watched this star until I arrived in Clanton. I stopped at the residence of Mr. Pipes, as we were furnishing Mr. and Mrs. Pipes butter, eggs and milk at the time. I asked Mrs. Pipes to come out and see the star. She did so and said she had never seen anything like it before. She can verify this statement.

About three years ago there was a star in the south moving westward; its movements could be easily observed. Then about six months later I noticed a star low down in the north about 4 o'clock in the morning, and the movements of this star could be easily observed as eastward. I called John's attention to both of these stars.

About three years ago there appeared some peculiar sights here in Lomax. One morning early I saw a smoke arising behind a pile of rail splices just below the crossing here. I thought it was someone with a fire there to warm by; but later some others saw the fire burning and went out to see it. I have witnesses to this statement also.

A few days later, just as I was closing to go out to the house, I saw some blazes in the railroad crassing. They were as long as your finger and shined enough until I could see the ties between the rails; and understand, it was raining hard at that time. So long,—R. E. L. Ward.

Young Mules

I will have a carload of fresh mules from Tennessee by Wednesday of next week. They are all young and well broke and weigh from 800 to 1,100 pounds. See them at my stable in Clanton.

OAK GROVE

We just had a wonderful sermon rendered to us Sunday morning, and also Sunday night. We feel like everyone who heard these sermons received a wonderful blessing. It rained out preaching Saturday night, but I am sure that our prayers were there anyway. We cordially invite everyone to come and be with us in our B. Y. P. U. work, but especially on our preaching times. We certainly have a good pastor and everyone can't help from receiving a good blessing from his sermons.

We had a real good singing here last Sunday afternoon. We invite everyone who sings, and those who don't, to come and be with us every first Sunday afternoon in every month.

Last Sunday night we could see new faces all over the house. No one can know just how glad it makes us feel to see all these new faces. We certainly hope that we can see those faces there every night. Our B. Y. P. U. is going to really work now. We have been asleep on the job long enough. So, members, let's really get that B. Y. P. U. spirit in our hearts and work harder than ever. If we at first don't succeed, we will try, try again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lessley spent a few days with relatives at Thorsby the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cobb had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cobb and two affectionate children, Miss Hazel Glass, Mrs. Flora Martin and little daughter, Margie Nelle, Mrs. Lloyd Baggett and Charles Nix.

Miss Irene Lessley returned home Saturday after a few days visit with friends in Kentucky. She reported a very nice time.

Miss Avis Cofer has as her guest for the week Miss Mary Bush of Birmingham.

Miss Hazel Glass of Minooka was the week end guest of Miss Gladys Cobb.

Mr. and Mrs. Moody entertained the younger set of this place with a house party Saturday night. A large crowd shared a good time. Games were enjoyed until a late hour.

For the past month our interest in B. Y. P. U. has fallen greatly. Sunday night, following a splendid program by six Sr. girls, a large crowd entered upon a new covenant for B. Y. P. U. cooperation. We hope to have a training school for all departments in a few weeks. By this school we intend to push toward our goal very fast. We ask your prayers that we may make a better record these following months than ever before. Your attendance at our weekly meetings will be appreciated very much. So here's to a very successful year for every B. Y. P. U.

We thank every person that contributed to the successful singing at Oak Grove Sunday afternoon. We invite visitors to attend our monthly singing every first Sunday. Next Sunday is the day to meet at Providence church. Let's join the crowd every Sunday afternoon and attend these singings. These's a blessing in them if we would only seek to find it.

Miss Mary Jim Sutley had as her guests Sunday Misses Dorothy Dees, Gladys Satterwhite and Nannie Sammons.

Miss Pinola Middlebrooks, who was visiting Mr. Jim Sutley last week, has returned to her home in Autaugaville, Ala.

Mr. Van Glass dined with Mr. Russell Sutley Sunday.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF UNCLE BUD

Gus Turner Bowles, age 43 years, died at his home near Billingsley on December 29th, 1933. He had been ill for ten weeks. Everything was done for him that human hands could do, but the Lord said "'Tis enough, come with me."

He is gone; so, loved ones, let us not weep over him, but be prepared to meet him when our time is done—meet him where there will be no more sorrow or good-bys.

He left us a sweet thought when he said that he was ready to go.

The remains were laid to rest at Pleasant Hill cemetery, with Rev. H. Culp in charge.—One who Loved Him.

Miss Rose Stanley, of Montgomery, spent Sunday here with friends.

Concord - Billingsley

A wedding of great interest to the friends and relatives of this community was that of Mr. Porter Williams and Miss Virginia Little, which was solemnized Saaturday night. The many friends wish for them a long and hapy life together.

Mrs. Emma Williams and daughter, Eulla Belle, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Little.

Misses Fannie and Ella Williams visited Mrs. J. B. Jones Wednesday of last week.

Miss Bertha Williams is in bed with tonsilitis this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Cowart spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Ocie Williams spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Hill spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cox.

Mr. J. P. Williams spent a few enjoyable hours with Mr. W. H. Brown Sunday afternoon.

Miss Kate Dickinson visited Misses Bessie and Jettie Williams Monday of last week.

Mr. Carlie Williams left Saturday for Gadsden, Alabama, where he will enter the Alabama School of Trade. Here is hoping for him a success.

Several in this community have the whooping cough.

Mrs. Jim Peirce and daughter, Lillian, and Mrs. D. D. Hill visited Misses Fannie, Ella and Alice Williams Monday of last week.

COUGHS

Don't let them get a strangle hold. Fight germs quickly. Creomulsion combines 7 major helps in one. Powerful but harmless. Pleasant to take. No narcotics. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion. (adv.)

NOTICE OF WRIT OF ATTACHMENT AND LEVY

To D. L. Shackleford, non resident of the State of Alabama, take notice:
The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court. To any Sheriff of the State of Alabama—Greeting:
Whereas, Blanche B. Sterne has complained on oath to me, J. Z. Mims, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, that D. L. Shackleford is justly indebted to the plaintiff in the sum of five thousand dollars, and that the plaintiff having made affidavit as required by law in such cases, you are hereby commanded to attach so much of the estate of the said D. L. Shackleford as will be of value to satisfy said debt and costs, according to the complaint, unless replevied, so to secure that the same may be liable to further proceedings thereon to be had at the next term of the Circuit Court for the County of Chilton, to be holden at the courthouse thereof, within thirty days from the serving of this writ, when and where you must make known how you have executed this writ.

J. Z. MIMS,
Clerk of the Circuit Court.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County:
The defendant herein being a non resident of the State of Alabama, Plaintiff elects suing out this writ, without giving bond as by statute in such cases made and provided.

J. Z. MIMS,
Clerk of the Circuit Court.

I have executed the within writ this 26th day of December, 1933, by levying upon the following described real estate situated in Chilton County, Alabama, to-wit: South half of lots 11 and 12 and all of lots 13 and 14, in block 30 (formerly known as block 32) in the City of Clanton, Alabama. Also the west half of the northwest quarter of section 11, township 21, range 12.

W. H. GILLESPIE,
12-28-4tch. Sheriff, Chilton County, Alabama

To The Patrons Of The Undersigned Doctors Who Have Forgotten Or Disregarded Their Obligation:

We wish to call attention to the fact that the undersigned doctors have not received sufficient compensation for services rendered their patrons for the past four years to pay expenses incurred in practicing our profession.

It is not desired to mistreat anyone or neglect our duty to humanity, but is impossible for us to carry our burdens longer under the existing circumstances. We wonder how many patrons would work for us for three or four years, or even one year without pay. We are just plain human beings and if you will put yourself in our place you will readily see that it is impossible for us to do our best when our minds are burdened with financial difficulties.

From past experiences we have every reason to believe we will be treated in the future as we have been in the past without taking some steps to prevent it. With this in view, we have adopted the following plan which we hope will not work a hardship on anyone and we believe will be a great help to us in meeting our own obligations.

On and after March 1, 1934, we hereby pledge ourselves not to visit anyone who owes either of the undersigned doctors, whose names appear on the delinquent list except for cash in advance for services. This does not apply to our patrons who have been fair to us and put forth their best efforts to meet their obligations with us, but will be adhered to strictly with the ones who change their doctors to settle their accounts.

If you want to stay in good standing, we advise you to call on your doctor and settle or arrange your account satisfactorily, so that you will not be listed as a delinquent and you be deprived of the consideration shown you in the past.

OAK HILL NEWS

Sunday was our regular preaching day at Oak Hill and was well attended. Services were conducted by our pastor, Rev. J. N. Green, morning and evening and after evening service. The Epworth League held their services with good attendance and everyone seemed interested. Everybody come back next Sunday night and bring someone with you and help to make our league the best of its kind in the county.

Health of this community is very good. Business seems to be on the incline.

The young people of Oak Hill attended the song service at Oak Hill last Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Cox and Rev. Greene were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Ellison were the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Ellison Sunday.

Mr. M. A. Dees and family have moved to Shelby County.

An Epworth League social was given Tuesday evening, January 2, at the home of Mrs. James A. Campbell, who is president of the Oak Hill Epworth League.

The social was given by group No. 1 in honor of Group No. 2, who won the daily Bible reading contest, which was put on during the month of December. Miss Onzelle Littleton, who is captain of group 1, was in charge of amusements. Games and contests of all kinds were enjoyed and prizes were won by Alford Davenport and Onzelle Littleton for deriving the most words from letters in the words, "Epworth League Social," in a given length of time. They made a score of fifty-two words in five minutes. A prize was given Lorene Davenport and Erdis Atkinson for "Going to New York and Back" in the shortest length of time, wihch was twenty seconds. Marvin Campbell and Emma Atkinson won secind prize in twenty-five seconds. Bill Cofer was awarded a prize for making five of the ugliest faces. Emma Limbrick won a prize for reciting the best poem.

After the games were over singing was enjoyed and then the refreshments were served by Mrs. Campbell and Miss Monie Davenport. We hope our Epworth League boys and girls will continue their daily Bible readings all through the New Year, not in a cantest spirit alone but for their own spiritual good.

SINGING AT CANE CREEK NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be singing at Cane Creek church next Sunday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock. All singers of the county are invited to attend. Bring both new books.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

(By E. Hofer & Sons, Portland, Ore.)

The end of 1933, so far as business is concerned, was characterized by marked improvement in some basic lines, smaller improvement in others and retrogression in only a few. The business indexes covering the year present a strange, confusing picture. When the summer upward surge started, in direct opposition to usual seasonal tendencies, it was hoped and believed that it would continue. An unlooked-for fall drop, which was also opposed to the seasonal experience of other years, followed. Gloom was deepest at that time. Then business started up again, and December was a good month. Early reports indicate that department store sales shot up beyond expectations. Commodity prices were strong. Consumers' goods industries, especially, were active.

In brief, 1933 did not see the progress that was hoped for. The emergency relief measures have been something of a disapointmnt to even their creators. The Agricultural Adjustment Act has been particularly unsuccessful. But during the year a start toward recovery was made, and the public morale strengthened—a strengthening which has never been more evident than it is now, with 1934 opening.

Notes on business follow:

Commodity Prices—In January the commodity price index stood at 61. By July it had moved up to 68. The advance has continued without a major break.

Domestic Trade—Every effort of the Administration since March has been given to moving more goods into the hands of consumers. It has been moderately successful, in the face of definite consumer-opposition to higher prices. Of late, trade in urban areas has been less satisfactory than in the major agricultural centers, Most striking advances in sales have been made by mail-order houses.

Employment—Here is where the greatest achievement of the year has been made. Every month has witnessed definite advances in both workers employed and compensation received. Factory employment was 20 per cent higher this October than last—payrolls 33 1-3 per cent higher. In the non-manufacturing industries, employment gains were reported for 11 out of 16 industries reviewed. Only in the bituminous coal industry has there been a significant late drop, and that was largely due to labor difficulties, with attendant strikes and lockouts.

Finance—Generally speaking, excellent work has been done in strengthening the banking structure. Banks which were closed before the moratorium have been opened by the hundreds, millions in frozen assets have been thawed out. Excess reserves of Federal Reserve banks recently reached an unprecedented total of close to $900,000,00: Government credit has been extraordinarily strong with issues being sold out as soon as announced.

Foreign Trade—Lately the United States foreign trade has expanded sharply both in volume and balance. Exports have increased over imports, leaving us with a sizeable balance in trade. The recognition of Russia, recently effected, is expected to produce a considerable inflation of our export business.

Real Estate—In October, for which complete figures have been issued, construction contracts awarded were, with a single exception, the best for any month since November, 1931. The industry had a bad year, but improvement is setting in.

Railroads—1932 brought many railroads to the verge of bankruptcy, endangered others. In 1933 business was better, profits were up. Most encouraging of all to the railroad managements is the friendly attitude of the Administration.

Utilities—Here the experience was not as favorable as was hoped. Sale of power in many localities has risen But profits have dwindled, due to tax and legislative policies which increased costs, made it impossible to meet them by raising the price of power to the public. Still another threat is government competition.

Agriculture—The farmer was cheered by the A. A. A. when it was passed. Then he was drastically, violently disappointed. Strikes and disorder followed. A few months ago agricultural income, when adjusted to living costs, was lower than ever. Now improvement has started in many fields. More optimism is evident both in Administration and farm circles.

Lumber—No important industry experienced so sharp an advance in prices as lumber—and none was more at sea over what to do. Generally speaking, the price advance was close to 50 per cent during the year. Orders have likewise been good for the most part—but not as good as was hoped. Cost of operation has materially risen.

Steels—Here is another industry which hit the top, bounced back to the bottom, then started up again, during the year. Last summer it had reached the best peak in a long time—then started steadily down. In the second week of November it was around 26 per cent of capacity. Heavy industries, which are the only important steel buyers, have been purchasing lightly.

REFUGE NEWS

Services at this plast last Sunday and Sunday night were good. Large crowds attended both services. But there is plenty of room for more yet.

We as a community regret to see Mr. E. L. Mims and family move out from our midst. It seems that they meant much to this community. About fifty people of the community gathered at their home Monday night, which was the last night before they moved. Quite a while was enjoyed by singing and severel prayers were offered, opened by Mrs. Luvenia Minor and closed by Rev. Durbin, wishing them much success in religious and business life.

All our people are urged to come back to services next Sunday and Sunday night, with well prepared lessons, and let's all try to do more for our Lord as we grow older.—Mrs. J. S. Easterling.

Judge McCord Out For Ala. Governor

Montgomery, Ala., Jan 9.—Judge Leon McCord, democratic national committeeman, will be a candidate for governor and will advocate a program that will make President's Roosevelt's policies effective in Alabama, will keep the public schools open and will save the homes and farms of the people.

McCord made his formal declaration as a candidate for governor Monday morning. He yielded to the pressure shown by hundreds of telegrams, letters and telephone call since he first declared he did not desire to run for governor.

In becoming a candidate, McCord said he is a poor man and will have little money to finance a campaign. "I must call upon every democrat to organize for me the several counties and stand with me in the front line and fight for the life of our State," he said.

Pledging himself to advocate and defend the policies of President Roosevelt, McCord declared: "The public schools of Alabama must not close. Moreover, the program of President Franklin D. Roosevelt must be carried out in Alabama. It must not be trusted to those who in the past have not stood with him, who have not fought his battles and who sought to defeat and destroy him and who would assassinate his program. We must see to it that he who stands on the watch-tower of our state will at all times stand with and fight for the program of our President."

McCord intends to make an intensive campaign. He will write his platform during the next few days. Although plans are not definite, it is probable he will open the campaign with his keynote speech in the eighth congressional district.

The formal declaration of Judge McCord follows:

To the Democrats of Alabama:

The time has come, it seems to me, for action. I have wanted to remain on the bench. My wife has wanted me to continue in my present place. Through the years we have always advised and worked together in harmony, each advising with the other and then taking the way unafraid. Heretofore I have advised you that I would not run for governor. I have stood aside to the end that some one might offer for governor who would sense the danger which just now confronts our people, our State and our Nation.

As I have watched and waited, hundreds of Democrats from all over Alabama have wired, written or called on me and requested and urged that I reconsider and become a candidate for Governor. They have pointed out the red line of danger in which the Ship of State just now wallows and flounders. The Legislature and the Chief Executive of State have not been able to work in harmony; regular and extra sessions of the legislature have cost the tax payers over five hundred thousand dollars; homes and farms are being sold all over Alabama for state taxes and the tax agents comb through the homes of the ragged and poor seeking escapes like vultures that seek out the dead. Many of the public schools have closed while the remainder are about to close. A twenty million dollar deficit manacles and shackles and imprisons the future progress of the State. The bootlegger feasts and fills and fattens while the school teacher holds unpaid warrants and is about to see her school close its doors.

The Ship of State, it seems to me, drifts out to sea without pilot or compass. No one walks the bridge and no one commands. Our people watch and wait and pray. If Alabama is to be saved from bankruptcy; if the public schools are to be kept open; if the people are to be given a chance to work and to toil and to save their homes and farms, then the time has come when a Captain must man the Ship of State who can and will work in harmony with every one who seeks the welfare of the people.

In the offing comes the Spoiler, the Wastrel, the Pluderer and Pillager, who, with his horde of office-seekers, would take over the State of Alabama without let or hindrance. My wife joins me in believing and thinking that I must no longer choose the easy way; we must and do remember that the life of every man and woman belongs to the State. So that I stand this day and challenge these pirates of good government. I am poor and have little of money to finance a campaign. I must therefore call upon every democrat to organize for me their several counties and stand with me in the front-line and fight for the life of our State.

The public schools of Alabama must not close. Moreover, the program of President Franklin D. Roosevelt must be carried out in Alabama. It must not be trusted to those who in the past have not stood with him, who have not fought his battles and who sought to defeat and destroy him, and who would assassinate his program. We must see to it that he who stands on the watch-tower of our State will at all times stand and fight for the program of our President.

I shall bring to the contest a courage and a will to fight for my State and for its people. At the proper time I will discuss the issues of importance just now confronting the people, clearly and fully, without equivocation or evasion, face to face with the Democrats of Alabama.

I therefore reconsider my decision and now declare to you that I am a candidate for Governor of Alabama in the coming May Primary.

"Here with the battle before me,
God of the fighting clan,
Grant the woman who bore me
Suffered to suckle a man!"

Yours very sincerely,
LEON McCORD.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of Alabama Power Company:

Where lies the ownership of Alabama Power Company?

"Up there in Wall Street", says the politician when he wants to conjure up a spectre of vast wealth and money power reaching out to control Alabama's destinies.

To those who are more interested in facts than phantoms, we'd like to say that ownership of Alabama Power Company does not lie in Wall Street but in Main Street .

Alabama Power Company is owned by just three classes of investors: Bondholders, preferred stockholders and common stockholders.

The bondholders hold $97,000,000 worth of bonds. These bonds bear interest at either 4½% or 5%. These bondholders paid close to par for their bonds. They do not share in any profits, when profits are made. They include many thousand individuals and a large number of institutions, more than 300 of which are insurance companies and many of which are savings banks. We will talk to you about these insurance companies in a later letter.

Sixteen thousand preferred stockholders, about three-fourths of whom are Alabama citizens, hold 367,000 shares of preferred stock. Less than half this stock bears a dividend of $7 annually, the balance $5 or $6. The average holding of Alabama investors in preferred stock is about sixteen shares, the average return for these investors less than $100 yearly. These preferred stock investors, 51 per cent of whom are women, constitute as truly representative, intelligent and patriotic a body of Alabama citizens as may be found within the borders of our state.

The common stock of Alabama Power Company, consisting of 3,775,000 shares without par value, is owned by The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation. Many thousands of Alabamians own the stock of The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation.

Such are the facts. They make a vastly different story from the fairy tales that politicians like to tell the public.

Very truly yours,

President.

The Acidulous Mr. Glass

Woodrow Wilson once said he would like to hear what Carter Glass would say, if he ever should talk out of both sides of his mouth.

Carter Glass was then a member of the cabinet. Now, under another Democratic administrator, he is in the Senate. He has not been slow to speak his mind, whether in agreement or disagreement with his president. His lastest quip does not sound like a confidential aside. He has no objection to the recognition of Russia.

"I think we have gone so far beyond Russia that I am amazed Russia is willing to recognize us," he remarks to a Richmond news correspondent.

Whatever facial contortions may have accompanied the remark, the brittle Virginian certainly spoke out in meeting.—Minneapolis Journal.

One of our friends says that listening to the radio speeches the other evening and adding up the totals of all the men who it is claimed have been put back to work by the various programs in the past few months, he finds that over 50,000,000 have been restored to jobs.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

In view of the effort which is to be made in the present session of congress to give the government, through the Secretary of Agriculture, virtual control of advertising through the so-called Tugwell bill, it is interesting to note that the motion picture industry, through the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Association, of which former Postmaster General Will H. Hays is head, has already taken action to regulate its own advertising and to eliminate objectionable features.

This is to be done through an agreement entered into by all the large motion picture companies to submit in advance all advertising copy to the advertising Advisory Council of the association. It is said that a surprisingly large number of the independent companies have agreed to come into the arrangement also. The plan is much more far reaching than anything which has been attempted in the past. It is believed that it will take care of a situation which has caused the motion picture organization a great deal of concern. According to Mr. Hays, "the action of the advertising departments in cooperating with the Advertising Advisory Council to the point of eliminating the objectionable features in all forms of motion picture advertising is further effort by the producers to make certain the greatest care and good taste in their advertising. We believe this amplified plan will help to that end."

The move is certainly a step in the right direction. Some of the motion picture advertising has been objectionable from more than one standpoint. It has not been good business, either, as by exageration it has in some cases kept a great many people away from motion picture plays of merit, because they got the mistaken impression from the advertising that the play was not one of the kind they would care to see. In this respect Mr. J. J. McCarthy, chief of the Adevrtising Advisory Council of the association, says that "there are more people of the country today who do not patronize motion picture theaters than thse who do. I wonder if objectionable advertising and exploitation are not keeping these customers away from the box offices. If this be true, it appears quite reasonable to suggest that we go after that vast audience of inactive picture goers, and the very first method that should be used is clean advertising, to appeal directly to the many thousands of decent living families who have virtually been driven from our theater doors by advertising of bad taste."

The point which is to be emphasized here is that this action has been taken by the motion picture interests themselves through their own ranks and by their own methods. There has been no government censorship and no government control. Nor can it be believed for a moment that any censorship of advertising or its methods by the secretary of agriculture or any commission or individual in the government would be advisable from any standpoint. One form of censorship and government control of publicity will sooner or later lead to additional steps in the same direction until we might finally have federal control or censorship of public thought. Such a condition ought not be tolerated in free America for a moment.

Before we think of control of advertising by the government through the secretary of agriculture or any other secretary, let us see whether some other method of wiping out whatever advertising defects there are, may not be possible. It would seem that the motion picture industry has given us at least one timely hint.

Americans, Buy American

The opening day of the new session of congress witnessed the introduction of a bill proposing triple tariff duties on the goods of all nations which have defaulted to the extent of more than ten per cent on their debts to the United States.

The sponsor of he bill, Representative Knutson of Minnesota, made a speech in which he singled out France for particular criticism.

"Instead of keeping her solemn obligations," said he, "France greets every debt-paying period with a thumbing of the nose. Now she would step in and capture our wine market by the exportation to us of something like one hundred and seventy-five million bottles of champagne and great quantities of other wines and liquors. If I had my way, I would prohibit the issuance of passports to France and place an absolute embargo on all her products until she pays."

This speech was noteworthy not alone because of its vigor and directness, but because of the promptness with which the speaker seized the first possible moment for its delivery.

It undoubtedly reflects a sentiment which is widespread in the present congress and—what is more to the point—a public opinion which is unanimous from one end of the country to the other.

The American people are only too well aware that, owing to the defaults of our European debtors, we are paying, through taxation, the interest charges on eleven thousand million dollars, the face amount of their borrowings, and, in addition, hundreds of millions per annum in veterans' pensions to American soldiers who sacrificed their welfare to save France from destruction.

As an offset to this huge burden, we are receiving some paltry token payments from others, notably France, NOT EVEN A TOKEN OF ITS ACKNOWLEDGMENT THAT ANY OBLIGATIONS EXIST.

The entire and unshared cost of saving our allies from destruction is apparently the portion of the United States; and, that our disillusionment shall lack no element of bitterness, France sees fit to flout us openly by refusing even to discuss her defaults under the refunding agreement as they periodically occur.

The speech of the Minnesota Congressman had an ominous sound. It truly voiced the rising indignation of a great and generous people who find themselves singled out as the victims of a flagrant international cheat and fraudulent defaulter.

The American people do not fancy, however, the role assigned them by their debtors.

It is dangerous to play this country for a sucker. The defaulters will find that out—and soon.

And, in the meantime, we can at least—Buy American, and not buy from defaulters. —Atlanta Georgian.

Jim Reed Speaks

Democrats must necessarily depend on Republican newspapers to keep them informed of criticisms of the national administration by members of their own party for the dyed-in-the-wool postmaster editors will not do it. Most of us Republican editors—apout all of us, for that matter—have turned rabbits and wouldn't even print a complaint, for fear of being chraged with lese majeste, or even treason.

However, we have screwed up our courage to the point of quoting that famous Missouri Democrat, James E. Reed, former U. S. Senator, and recently a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, who says:

"I think we are headed for a whole lot of trouble, piling up the national debt to a point where we will ultimately break down the national credit.

"The government is interfering with every man's business, assuming that the business of the United States can best be conducted by a group of gentlemen who have never transacted business in their lives. —Concordia Kansan.

Chilton County Bonds

To those interested in the financial status and rating of Chilton County, the following excerpt from a letter to Judge Reynolds from Carlson & Co., Inc., investment bankers, of Birmingham, will be of interest:

"We appreciate your card saying that you are interested in Chilton County bonds at 98. We have passed this information to our connections and hope to be able to get the bonds for you at this price . . . Jefferson County bonds currently selling at 72 offer an excellent investment possibility."

It is Judge Reynold's intention to retire some more of Chilton County's bonds before they become due, and thus save the county the interest which we are paying on same. It was with this in view that Judge Reynolds wrote the card referred to in the above excerpt and as soon as he gets an acceptance to his proposal from the brokers he will submit the matter to the Commissioners Court for their disposition.

This reflects an excellent standing for Chilton County as to financial rating. Ninety-eight cents on the dollar looks good as compared with the low ebb of some bond quotations. And our county warrants once sold for 60 cents on the dollar. That was back in 1915-1916.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

Picking A Representative

In the coming elections, the voters of Chilton County will be called upon to pick a man to represent our county in the state legislature. The position of Representative is a much more important one than most people realize, especially so since Chilton County is a Republican County, and our Representative finds himself in a position quite different from the representatives of other counties. Naturally, the Democratic state legislature would like nothing better than to enact measures which would tend to weaken Chilton's strength as a Republican county. Therefore, our Representative must be on his P's and Q's always, to keep things running smoothly. He must be a man who mixes well with the other members of the legislature. He must be a man who commands the respect of these other members, both for himself and his methods and ideas. He can't go in with a lot of big notions of how things ought to be done. If he did he would find himself in the predicament of a lone soldier who goes into the enemy's camp and tries to tell them how to run things. They would put the gag on him right off the bat. He does not necessarily have to give in to everything that is asked of him—the members of the legislature will respect courage in the man. But, in short, he must be wise enough to work with them so that they will work with him. It is a give and take proposition. Now, for the past several years, Percy Pitts has represented Chilton County, and, I think, has made an excellent job of it. He has proved himself shrewd enough to look out for the best interests of the people of the county, and yet he was smart enough to know when to "trade hosses" at the proper time. I do not know whether Mr. Pitts will make the race or not. I am quite sure, however, that he has received quite a bit of encouragement. If he does announce, and is elected, we can be sure Chilton County will be well represented, as it has in the past. I think Percy is the man for the job.

Rubbing It In

The poor old South has certainly caught its share of the slurs during the past year or two. Being a Southerner, I suppose I share the usual Southern tendency to resent things that look like slurs on our Southern people, when really, slurs are not intended. But below I am giving a few instances of some actions that look very much like intended slurs. To begin with, our Secretary of Labor, Miss Frances Perkins, took it upon herself to let the world at large in on the secret that the South ought to be taught how to wear shoes. Then came the Scottsboro trials, and Mr. Liebowitz was sent down from "up Nawth" to see that those "poor black boys" got a fair trial. After heaping abuse on Alabama's courts and people, he lost his case, but the Supreme Court reversed the decisions. That was snub No. 2 for the South. Then, a few nights back Mr. Kaltenborn, a radio announcer for the Columbia network, made a slurring charge that "it is as impossible for these boys (certain men charged with arson in Germany) to get a fair trial as it is for the Scottsboro boys to get a fair trial in Alabama." On top of all this, Miss Virginia Keen, a social service worker in Montgomery, insists that a white girl be kept as stenographer for a negro social service worker. Miss Keen hails from Baltimore. It's a wonder these intellectual giants from the North, who don't like our Southern methods and customs, wouldn't stay at home, where they can have things go to suit them. If Southern people are satisfied with our "ignorance," as the Northerners like to term it, then people from elsewhere ought to be satisfied with it, too. And they ought to remember, too, that nobody sends for them to come down and tell us how to conduct our affairs. I think the South would thank people from other sections to attend to their own business, and we'll manage to scrape through some way. We would like to be allowed to go on in our "ignorant" way, unmolested. We always have managed to get through.

Those Cubans

Not so many years ago the little isle called Cuba was a scene of much strife. The Spanish government was putting the clamps a bit too tight, and the Cubans were yelling bloody murder. Then along came Uncle Sam and put the big, bad Spanish army in its place. To the Cubans, Uncle Sammy was a saint in those days. They were glad to have the chance of being under the care and protection of their big uncle. Another thing they could look forward to was a good market for their big sugar crop. After a few years Uncle Sam decided to try out the little country, to see if they were capable of running their own affairs, and that's where the big slip was made. Now, the Cubans want to cut loose on their own, altogether, and when Uncle Sam says "No!" what a howl they raise. It is easy to see that the time is not yet ripe to give them free rein, for they have proved that they don't know what to do with the authority that has already been given them. They are quite willing to rest under the broad, protecting wing of the powerful American eagle, and enjoy the fine sugar market the United States affords, but resent any action our government may take in the management of their governmental affairs. But, like the loving father, who looks over the bad antics of his wayward child, and looks out for that child's best interest, Uncle Sammy goes on with his plans for little Cuba. In short, he says: "I may have to spank you, but if I do, it will be for your own good. It will hurt papa worse than it does you, but papa knows best. Now, be good, or papa spank."

Looking Forward

The United States has never been prepared for war when it came. That same fact may have been the cause of our getting into some of our wars. Nobody is afraid to tie into a weakling, but any sensible person will sort of draw in his horn when he has to buck up against a big strapping buck who is well prepared to defend himself. Our president should be commended for the fact that he realizes this, and has given orders that our national fighting strength is to be increased. When President Roosevelt sees something the country needs he doesn't beat about the bush a bit, but rams right into the trouble with a spirit that takes him well on his way to a solution on the first jump—to finish the job is easy, then. The new national budget calls for a sizeable increase in the standing army, with better equipment for the whole force. The Marine Corps is to have another thousand men added to it, too. The "Leathernecks," you know, serve as a kind of watchdog for the nation. When the "before breakfast" difficulties arise, the Marines are sent to clean house, and if the trouble takes on sizeable proportions, then the regulars are sent along to help. Besides these additions, the navy is to get several new ships and more men. And the air force is to have 100 new ships, including 36 new bombers, capable of carrying a ton of bombs each at a speed of 85 miles per hour, and these will be prepared to carry fuel to stay aloft for several hours, by which they may go on long bombing trips. In short, the United States is not getting ready for war, but getting prepared to defend herself, and in this manner hoping to promote peace. In effect, Mr. Roosevelt is saying to the rest of the world: "All right, we want to play marbles with you guys, but if you just must have a scrap, be sure you steer clear of us with it, or somebody might get hurt." All must admire the courage of the president for his direct methods of dealing with affairs of the nation. No monkey business about the man.

The Ananias Club

I think an Ananias Club should be organized here. A few days ago the champion liar of the United tates for 1934 was crowned at a meeting in Chicago. He told of a clock that was so old that the shadow of the pendulum had worn a hole in the back of the clock. The runner up for first honor told of an occasion when he was shingling a house and the fog was so thick that he could not see very well. Before he knew it, he had shingled out 10 feet on the fog beyond the edge of the roof. There were many other good ones told at the convention. But I believe we have quite a few local fellows who could hold their own with the best of them. For instance, Ed Cooper says he raised some corn one year which grew so fast that it grew out of the ground. Another one of the boys tells of seeing a wash-pot blown wrong-side-out during the 1932 tornado. Still another tells of raising such a bumper crop of peanuts on a field that he was forced to move his fence back before he could stack the peanuts. That's just a few of the whoppers I've heard in passing. I am sure there are others just as big and bigger. Then, too, there are the fishermen—they always have some good ones to tell. If you have a big one, let it be known. We want to laugh, too. And maybe you'll be crowned a champion of some kind.—Man in the Moon.

A New Combination

Branding the Roosevelt administration as a "queer combiation of Fascism and Socialism," the Saturday Evening Post in a full-page editorial in its issue of December 9, recommends that "somebody tell these bright intellectuals and professors the facts of business life."

"New Dealers have been promising our farmers to distribute the wealth of the country among them and other classes who want money," the Post continues. "If the promise is carried out, the farmers probably will wind up with a bushel or two apiece of money, worth about the price of spinach, but they will have been 'relieved' again."

Other excerpts from the editorial follow:

"No sensible man can approve much that is being done today in the name of reform and recovery. No thoughtful man can escape the conclusion that many of the brain trust's ideas and plans are based on Russian ideology; that we are steadily being herded to the left; and that fundamental American ideals and institutions are in danger of being scrapped."

"We are told that we are in a social revolution and that a new system is being evolved. What we actually have is a queer combination of Fascism and Socialism. Systems are ideas in theory and men in practice. The United States is still a democracy in theory, but try to find it in practice. Somebody should tell these bright young intellectuals and professors the facts of business life."

"Washington is telling us to open our mouth and shut our eyes, because what we are going to get will be good for what ails us, while she administers the sulphur and molasses and raps us sharply over the head with the spoon in the good old-fashioned way."

"It is the fashion of the experimentalists to say that if one thing will not work to cure us, they will try another. But there soon comes a time in that procedure when there is nothing left but remains, and they are useful only for autopsies."

"Is it really more dishonest for Wall St. wolves to strip the lambs of their money by rigging the market than for government to take away the savings of the thrifty by rigging the currency?"

"The cornerstone of recovery is confidence, and there can be no confidence so long as we cannot say what a dollar will be worth overnight."

"We cannot fly to recovery with the wings of an eagle, but with honesty of purpose and with a steady, common-sense pace we can get there."

"Good intentions, self-crowned with a halo of righteousness and bathed in the holy light of idealism, disarm the critic. The sweet blunderings of the perfectionist, and the fool ideas of the theorist, are urged on the public as the one way out. And to make the argument final, the theorist paints in as background to the highlights of the Utopia that he promises, the dark deeds of small groups of capitalists—selected horrible examples in black. Those who do not agree with him are tools of Wall Street or in the pay of the interests. No one is so intolerant of criticism as the theorists."

"Are we so silly, so supine as to permit amateur, self-confessed experimentalists to take our social and business fabric apart to see if they cannot reconstruct it in a pattern that is more to their personal liking?

Miller Cuts State Debt

Governor Miller is to be warmly felicitated by the citizens of Alabama upon his remarkable achievement in causing the state to live within its income last year, at the same time reducing the state debt by $3,371,530.47.

This information is contained in the report of James H. Hard, State comptroller.

The facts themselves carry their own comment. A debt which Governor Miller inherited from his predecessor, in the making of which he had no part, afflicted his administration from the beginning, since the inheritance came at a time when the depression was wreaking havoc throughout the land and causing tax sources to dry up.

Neverthless, the governor's devotion to the principle of economy has enabled him to put the state within its income and at the same time to reduce its indebtedness by nearly $4,000,000 in a year.

These are facts that cannot be laughed off. —Montgomery Advertiser.

Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale, names a list of eighteen men who, he says, are the only experts who understand the real meaning of money. Well, we may not understand its real meaning but we certainly would know what to do with it if we could get hold of some.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not

A. B. Manning, one of the old Republican warhorses, of Beat 3, is pricking up his ears at the political rumblings and rumors. He came in Wednesday to extend his subscription for another year so he can be sure to keep up with developments. "One thing I think," said Mr. Manning, "is that we Republicans must quit fighting and scrapping among ourselves, and center our fight upon the enemy."

Rev. E. W. Butler, of Thorsby, was in Clanton Wednesday to conduct the funeral services of Mrs. Mastin, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Gerald.

The many friends of Dr. Mastin and his family join with them in their sorrow for the death of Mrs. Mastin. She had been sick quite a long while, and her passing was not unexpected.

A delegation of Legion and Auxiliary members from Chilton County Post went to Montgomery Tuesday night to hear the address delivered by National Commander, Ed Hayes, of Decatur, Illinois.

Uncle Henry Armstrong, of Beat 14, dropped in a minute Wednesday morning to let us know he was in town.

Col. Sumpter Smith said Tuesday night that he has already inspected Clanton's airport a few times as he passed along this way in his plane going between Montgomery and Birmingham. Col. Smith left Montgomery by plane Wednesday morning to attend the air races in Miami, Florida.

Plight of The Doctors

According to all indications the doctors of Chilton County, as well as everywhere else, are facing a very perplexing financial and professional problem. They have set sails toward a course which they hope will bring them the relief they must have.

In the normal course of business and professional practice, the doctor always has had to do a lot of work for which he never got any pay. During recent years of business depression this load has increased until it has forced many doctors into financial handicap.

They complain that a great many people have restored to the ruse of changing doctors in order to settle their accounts, instead of making a sincere effort to take care of their doctor bills. In an effort to stop this practice, an organization of the doctors has been formed, and an ironclad agreement made among them that they will not attend anyone who has not made satisfaction of his account with each and every doctor whom he has used.

It appears that the doctor is entitled to better and fairer treatment at the hands of the public than has been the case in a great many instances. Our people can not get along without the services of our doctors. That is a fact that stands without argument.

When a doctor renders a service that is indispensable to life and health, he should be paid for his services in full, or at least in such measure as the recipient is able to pay. A single dollar paid now and then on the account would be better than no pay at all and a change of doctors next time one is needed.

We commend the doctors for their effort to put more business methods into their practice. The needs of society demand that our doctors keep on practicing their profession; and their own existence demands that they be paid for their services.

Our Growing National Debt

Every citizen may profit by reading, and every congressman would do well to memorize, the document which the National Economy League made public recently. Here is no wordy argument for or against any particular program or policy of the administration, but an incontestable statement of the nation's present financial position and future need of wise and firm control.

On December 31, 1930, the national debt had fallen to $16,000,000,000, its post war low. Three years later, on June 30, 1933, it had risen to $22,500,000,000. The advance during the year from June 30, 1932, to June 30, 1933, was at the rate of $250,000,000 a month. Since then—that is, during the five months from June 30 to November 30, 1933—the advance has not been quite so rapid. The national debt was enlarged during that time by another billion dollars, which means a growth of about $200,000,000 a month.

But "a further increase at a still faster rate and on a still greater scale is now impending." The period of actual disbursement of some of the largest emergency appropriations—including especially the $3,300,000,000 appropriation for NRA public works—is just beginning. A careful estimate indicates, therefore, that the increase of the national debt during the current fiscal year will exceed $4,000,000,000. If so, the total on June 30, 1934, will be $26,500,000,000, approximately the same peak that the war debt attained at its highest point, on August 31, 1919.

Clear realization of this outlook should have, and we believe will have, a sobering and strengthening influence upon the course of events in the next session of congress. The country, in its post-war experience, has already proved its capacity to meet and hurl back the high tide of debt raised by the war. The nation can meet and curb this tide again. But in order to do so, there must come an end of the general disposition to vote the people's money in almost unlimited sums for all manner of emergency projects which prevailed during the latter half of the last session of congress. There must hove a full rebirth of the spirit in which President Roosevelt himself, at the outset of that same session, called for adoption of the National Economy Act and brought the ordinary expenses of the government under control. The able, non-partisan work of the National Economy League had much to do with bringing that achievement to pass. Its new campaign of enlightenment will have a powerful effect to help attain the still larger achievement which now is imperative—a control both of the ordinary and the extraordinary expenses of government.

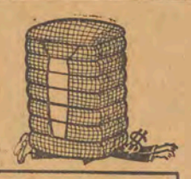
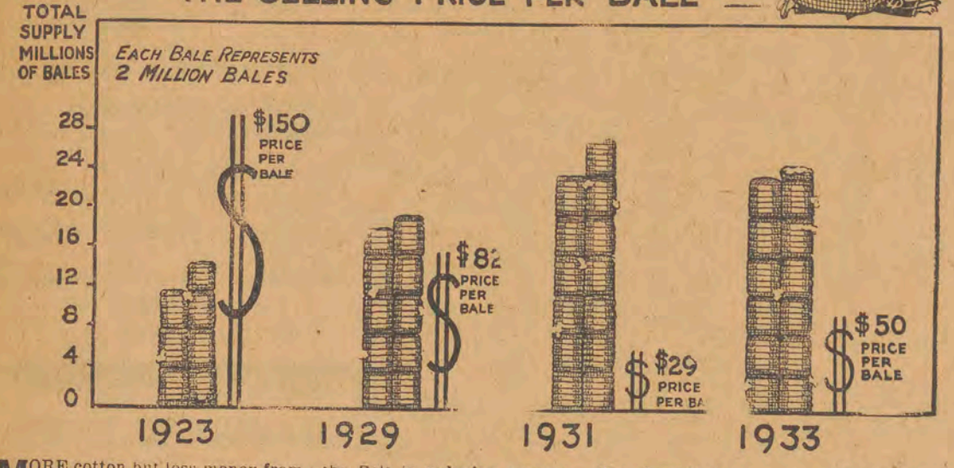
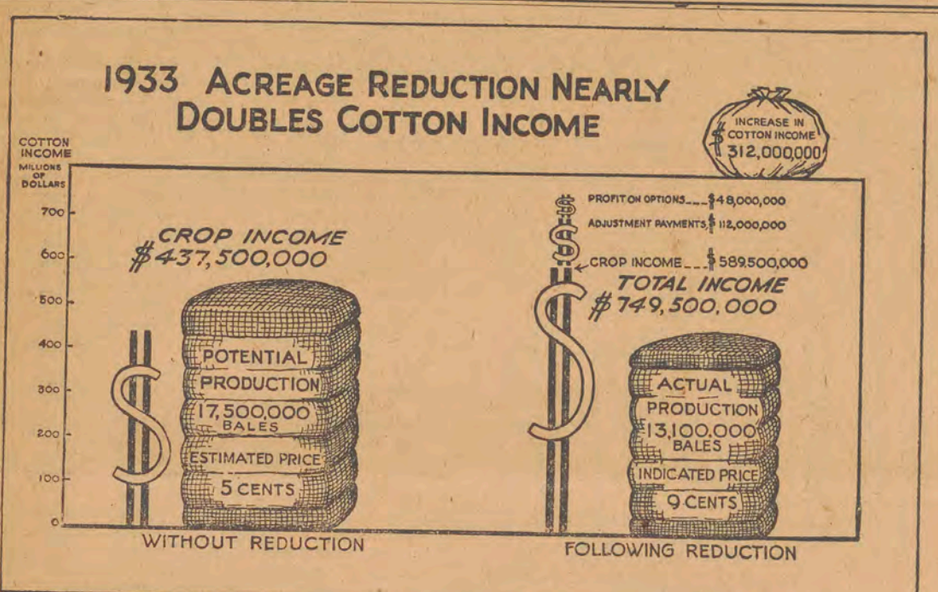
THE LARGER THE SUPPLY THE SMALLER THE SELLING PRICE PER BALE





MORE cotton but less money from it. Farmers know this, but heretofore there has been no method by which they could be assured of full cooperation by all growers all over the Belt in reducing acreage. The Agricultural Adjustment Administration offers such a method now, and the grower who will cooperate will be paid for his cooperation. As a result, the whole Cotton Belt will benefit, the surplus will be reduced, and the outlook for the future will be brightened. A study of this graph should naturally cause the farmer to pause before he produces cotton in excess of consumption requirement.

1933 ACREAGE REDUCTION NEARLY DOUBLES COTTON INCOME



THIS graph shows what happened when the cotton grower cooperated with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to reduce the cotton acreage in 1933. Had it not been for the plow-up campaign and the fine spirit of cooperation exhibited by southern growers, disaster would have befallen the Cotton Belt in the fall of 1933. The above graph tells this better than words. A potential yield of seventeen and one-half million bales was reduced to thirteen and one-tenth million bales by the action of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and, as a result, the income that the cotton grower received from his lint cotton was nearly doubled. Realizing these facts, cotton growers are expressing a desire to cooperate in future adjustment programs.

MADE IN AMERICA FOR MISS AMERICA

REPLIES TO C. GILES

Jemison, Ala., Jan. 5, 1934.

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you allow me space in your paper for a few lines in reference to Mr. C. Giles about the C. W. A. work and the R. F. C.?

Yes, we know there are people who have their homes paid for and are living fine, and there are others who have not got any place at all and scarcely anything to eat and cannot get a day's work. Those who work most of the time have plenty; while there are some at home and need money to buy medicine for their children; but no, they cannot even get a day's work. If investigation were made there would be plenty who are in the same shape of the one mentioned above.

How do they know who needs the work when they do not ask about their financial condition? There are girls that have a job who do not need it, and they would not give it to the men who need it. There have been four here for us to sign up about doors and windows, and if we did not have any windows the government would not give us any. If you were ill with some disease, the government would not give you any medicine.

If they want to do the right thing why don't they divide up this thing. Give each one his share. There are people eating corn bread three times a day and have a sick child that cannot eat corn bread. They cannot buy medicine for it. Now, why don't the government give people like that a job. They are the ones who need it.

Yes, the government is in debt, and if this is kept up, well—. If they would give it to the ones who need it worse than I do I would not say a word about it; but they will give it to the negroes and to the ones that do not need it. Yes, there are orphan children that the teacher signed up for them to get clothes; and what do you think? When they went after them they were turned away like a dog. And then there was another man who went in and brought out an arm full of things. If the child welfare worker wants to do the right thing, why don't they go out and see who needs help instead of giving it to the one that does not need it.

There are people who have been working a year and now some of them will not work on the farm; they just sit down and depend on that for a living. That has ruined lots of people. There is my boy; he paid every thing he had for taxes except one dollar. That is what hurts the people so bad. Some of them have not paid their poll tax—yes they have got a job.

Well, there has been a girl around here who wanted to know if you had the itch. If you had the itch and waited for the government to give you a job to buy grease, he would scratch himself to the bone.

I am not so anxious to get a job myself, but I sure do hate to see some of the people suffer when I can not help them myself. I have lived this long without help from the government and I am sure that I can live the rest of my life. Understand, I do not blame the men for working, but I sure would like to see it divided equally if it was not but two weeks each; they would be in better shape to farm.

If you don't believe what has been written, come up there and make investigation; you will ste that this is all true. You can see how the people up around Oak Grove feel about this work. This is just the way I feel about this work. I guess the men who are picking out the workers have got the world by the hair of the head, and God only knows where they are going to lead us to. Yours truly,—H. O. Little.

CHESTNUT GROVE NEWS

We are having a nice Sunday school here.

Our school teacher, Mrs. Herbert Williams, spent the holidays visiting relatives and reports a nice time.

Mr. J. M. Jones and family of Jemison were the guests of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Nabors, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones of this place are visiting relatives at Jemison this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Nabors spent the holidays in Ensley with relatives and report a nice time.

There will be preaching here Sunday at 3 o'clock p.m., by Bro. Canant, of Wilton, Alabama.

Don't forget the Sunday school at 2 o'clock p.m. We should meet at two o'clock sharp for Sunday school.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Nabors made a business trip to Clanton Tuesday.

Registrars To Meet Jan. 22

According to information given out here this week, the Board of Registrars of Chilton County will be in session for ten days at the courthouse, beginning January 22.

Attention is called to this fact, in order that all who are entitled to register as voters may have an opportunity of doing so.

Any eligible person from any Beat in the County can register at the courthouse during the time the registrars are in session there.

VERBENA CITIZEN ASKS ABOUT THE CWA SELECTING WORKERS

Verbena, Ala., January 8, 1934.

Editor Union-Banner:

This communication is not intended to offend anyone. I am rather seeking information. Being a taxpayer, I think I am entitled to know some things which have come to me from various persons, whom I regard as reliable; and I would like to have these things cleared up.

When the R. F. C. campaign was launched we were told, "There is no politics in this." Being a Democrat, I naturally resent the actions of someone who selected overseers, all or practically all Republicans. Some of my best friends are Republicans, and they resent as much as anyone just this sort of procedure—call it by any name you wish. And so far as we are informed, the same rule has governed the selection of those working under the CWA arrangement. It was easy to transfer R.F.C. to the C.W.A.

It does not seem possible that out of a bunch of 60 or more men that 90 per cent would be voters of one party, when there is so little difference in the voting strength of the two parties in this county. This did not come about by accident, and if someone who might be looking for votes or paying debts or punishing someone for not voting to his or her liking does not keep a close watch, there might be a reaction.

Chilton County people, without regard to politics, believe not only in a new deal but also in a square deal. Are the projects for Chilton County people or for those from other counties adjoining here? Yours very truly,—H. B. Oliver.

S. S. CONVENTION OF UNITY ASS'N

The following is the program of the Sunday School Convention to be held at Indian Grave church Sunday, January 14, 1934:

2:00—Song service. Prayer.

2:10—Devotional, "God Sanctioned Plans and Program of Work," by J. Z. Mims.

2:25—Roll call. Reports. Business.

2:35—"Our Past Progress and Present Needs," by W. J. Patrick.

2:50—"What is Our Program for the Year," by John McGuire, state worker.

3:10—Song service.

3:15—"The teacher's Relation to This Program," by H. A. Harris.

3:30—Benediction.

Group superintendents are requested to urge all Sunday school superintendents and other officers to attend this meeting.—T. L. Patrick, Superintendent.

BAPTIST WOMEN TO MEET AT LIBERTY HILL NEXT SATURDAY

The Chilton County Women's Missionary Union Clinic and Executive Committee meeting will be held at Liberty Hill Baptist church next Saturday, January 13, beginning at 10 o'clock a.m.

This meeting was postponed from last Saturday, January 6, on account of bad weather.

All associational officers are urged to be there as some very important matters are to be attended to.

Don't forget to make every possible effort to be present.—Mrs. W. H. Raybon, Sec'y-Treas.

Dr. Ward and Mr. I. D. Armstrong have a string band of their own. They make mighty nice music.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"Doctor, the Lord has impressed me to lave my wife and marry another woman." That is what a man said to an evangelist friend of mine. He was a fool. God never impresses any man to do anything which the Bible forbids. The Holy Spirit inspired the writing of the Bible and the Holy Spirit does not lead men to violate the commands of the Bible.

It is strange how men can lead themselves to believe that what they want they ought to have. Some time ago a man working for a small salary began to look at a new automobile. He liked it. He soon convinced himself that he ought to cash out his life insurance and make a first payment on the car and then take half of his salary and make the monthly payments. He wanted the car and he made himself believe he ought to have it.

"I do whatever I feel like doing," a man said to me one time. "So do dogs and horses," I replied. Man may be sort of a human animal, but he is more than that. He was made in the image of God. He is supposed to be able to reason. He has sense of obligation. There are times when men must do right because it is right to do right and they must do their duty because it is their duty to do their duty.

Sam Jones said, "Feeling is moral perspiration. I go down to the field on a cold morning," said Mr. Jones. "I find a man standing at the foot of the tree with an axe in his hand." 'Why don't you cut the tree?' I ask. The man replies, 'I am waiting until I sweat. When I sweat I will cut the tree.'" The man should cut the tree and then he could sweat without trying to do it. Feeling is mentioned twice in the Bible. It is never mentioned in connection with salvation. Feeling is the fruit which grows on the tree of saving faith. Feeling is not the root of salvation. The Apostle Paul said, "In whom believing we rejoice." I don't believe because I rejoice. I rejoice because I believe.

APPLICATION FOR PAROLE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, who was convicted in the Circuit Court of Chilton County on September 16, 1931, on a charge of false entry on bank book and embezzlement, and sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of 7 to 8 years, will make application for parole.—Horace W. Davis. 1-11-2tpd.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Health is very good at present, which we hope will continue.

Our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school are progressing nicely. We invite everyone to attend each Sunday. We elected new officers for another quarter last Sunday. They are: President, Ruth Dennis; vice president, Elmer Rollan; secretary, Loraine Downs; group captain No. 1, Bernice Devaugh; group captain No. 2, Evelyn Wise; quiz leader, Mrs. Alma Wilson; social leaders, Loraine Downs, May Davis; leader for the juniors, Lera Glenn. We had several visitors with us Sunday night. We were glad to have you with us. Come again.

Mr. Raymond Kelley was the Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Parrish.

Mr. W. F. Glenn and son, Arnold, and Mr. Arthur Mitchell spent a while Sunday afternoon with Mr. Wiley Jones.

Mrs. Clifton Parrish had as her Sunday afternoon guests Mrs. W. F. Glenn and daughter, Lera, Mrs. Wallace Watkins and baby, Betty Jane, and Mrs. Merrit Wilson.

Mr. Wiley Jones was the Friday dinner guest of Mr. W. F. Glenn.

Mr. Joe Lansford spent a while Saturday afternoon with Mr. Arnold Glenn.

Messrs. Ottis and Oliver Glenn spent a few hours Thursday night with Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Parrish.

We are sorry to lose another of our good neighbors, Mr. Emmett Wilson, who moved a few miles above Clanton Friday. Our good wishes go with them.

Mr. Wiley Jones and family had as their guests Wednesday night Mr. Joe Deloney from the Clanton Cotton Mill.

Mr. Evan Mitchell had as his guest a while Saturday afternoon Messrs. Joe Lansford and Elzie Davis.

Messrs. Oliver Glenn, Raymond Kelley, Roy Downs and J. B. Wilson attended the singing at Chestnut Creek Sunday afternoon.

Everybody come back next Sunday and bring someone with you. Sunday school at 10 a.m. and B. Y. P. U. at 6 p.m.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

On January 1st, 1934 a crowd of relatives and friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson for the purpose of celebrating his birthday.

The morning was spent in greetings and handshakes of old friends. At 12:00 a bountiful dinner was served out in the open to about 58 guests. About two o'clock in the afternoon a short service was rendered by the young minister, Rev. Warren Riggins, of Maplesville, also another sermon by Rev. P. G. Johnson, of Columbiana.

Those present at the reunion were: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Johnson and daughter, Louise, of Maplesville; Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Johnson and family of Columbiana; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnson and daughter, Blanche, son Dan, of Pine Hill, Ala.; Mr. Grover Bice, of Thorsby; Mr. T. J. Bryan, of Clanton.. Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Nelson and family, of Clanton; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Johnson and family, of Liberty Hill community; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Deason, also of Liberty Hill; Mr. Burnie Johnson, of Clanton; Mrs. Hannah McClure, of Selma, Ala.; Mr. Arnold Cox, of Clanton; Mr. Hyman Argo, of Clanton; Miss Marie Queen, of Kentucky; Mrs. C. L. Sundburg, of Clanton; Mrs. Jace Price, of Lomax; Mrs. G. W. Riggins, of Clanton; Mrs. Hilmer Price and Herman, Price of Clanton; Hershel Hayes, of Montgomery; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Scott, of Thorsby; Mrs. Clotilde Johnson, of Clanton; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson, of Clanton; Mr. and Mrs. Ruby Argo, of Montevallo; Mrs. J. E. Argo and daughter, Hazel, of Clanton;

Each guest departed to their respective homes, expecting to meet again and hoping to spend many more happy birthdays.

A LOVED ONE IS GONE

October 4, 1913, God planted a little rose bud in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Powell. They called him Clark Lee. He grew into beautiful manhood. On December 16, he read an invitation to the wedding supper of Mrs. Hazel Easterling. As Clark was on his way to the supper, God saw fit to call for him. He was thrown from a Ford truck and killed.

Clark was loved by all who knew him. He always met you with a smile. He will be greatly missed in our community.

On December 17, 1933, he was buried at Walnut Creek church. Funeralw services were conducted by Revs. M. Lockhart, E. J. Orange, C. M. Nolan and G. G. Williams. He leaves to mourn his loss, his mother, father, brother, Reedie, and a great host of relatives and friends. Weep not, dear loved ones, but just be ready when God calls for us.—One who loved him.

CANE CREEK

Our Sunday school was good last Sunday. Although the crowd was small on account of the weather, but we want everybody to come next Sunday and bring someone with you. Let us make our Sunday school better and work more for the Lord in 1934 than we did in 1933.

We are going to organize a B. Y. P. U. next Sunday night. We invite eeryone to come and help us out. Next Sunday is also our regular preaching day. There will be preaching Saturday, Saturday night, Sunday at 11 o'clock and Sunday night. Rev. Robinson, our pastor, will do the preaching. So everybody come and you will hear some preaching that is really worthwhile.

Don't forget our singing next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. Some good singers have promised to be with us and we are expecting to have a good singing. We invite everybody to come and help us; if you can't sing you can listen. So don't forget the dates of all of our services. And remember you are invited and always welcome at Cane Creek.

On account of the District A. E. A. meeting at Selma next Saturday, Superintendent L. E. Little will not be in his office during the day.

MARTHA ELIZABETH KENDRICK

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Kendrick last Tuesday afternoon about two o'clock, January 2nd, and carried away their darling little baby, Martha Elizabeth. She was only here a short while, leaving at the age of three weeks and five days suffering only a few days with the whooping cough and pneumonia.

No one knows how the little one suffered here, but all was done that loving hands could do; so God saw fit to call her home. We feel that our loss is heaven's gain. For we know that the Lord doeth all things well, and this helps to enlighten our hearts, because to know her was to love her. Though it is hard to part, but when He calls, we must go.

So weep not, dear ones, for she is only sleeping in Jesus's arms.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Jones, Wednesday afternoon, January 3. The body was laid to rest in Childress cemetery. She leaves to mourn her death, her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Kendrick, and four brothers, Albert, Emmett, Herbert, and Robert, and a host of rleatives and friends.

MT. PISGAH NEWS

Our singing society met last Sunday evening, January 7, with a good attendance. We were proud to have the visitors and welcome them back again on the first Sunday in each month. Everybody seemed to be in the singing mood. The afternoon was enjoyed by everyone. Mr. Cecil Yeargan sung the opening song, after which we were led in prayer by Mr. Stanley Davis. Directors for the afternoon were Misses Dessie Wyatt and Gladys Wyatt, Highland; Howard Boockholdt, Mable Broadhead Marvin Huett, Clarence Billingsley and Marshall Burkhalter, Bethsalem; Mrs. Evelyn Devaughn and Mr. Ruben Devaughn, Maple Springs; Mr. Eugene Aldridge and Mr. Jake Henley, Mt. Pisgah.

The following made up the quartets for the afternoon: Elmer Rollan, Marie Devaughn, Ruben Devaughn, Clarence Billingsley; Marshall Burkhalter, Clarence Billingsley, Ruben Devaughn, Elmer Rollan; Cecil Yeargan, Howard Boockholdt, Marvin Huett, Clarence Billingsley. Organists for the afternoon were Miss Christine Driver, Miss Dessie Wyatt, and Mr. Clarence Billingsley. Remember you are always invited to our singings.—Secretary.

IN MEMORY OF DEWEY MIMS

On December 27th about 5 p.m., God called away my beloved husband to that happy home above. He was born in Chilton County on December 15th, 1904, having spent all of his life in this county except about 7 years that he worked for the Dixie Construction Company.

About 3 years ago he came back here to make his home, and here we were married. We were married only 14 months when God called him to that happy home above.

He was sick only three days. All was done that loving hands could do. There's a vacant place in our hearts, but he had many stars in his crown. It is our loss, but heaven's gain. He always wore a smile and spoke a good word to everybody.

He left to mourn his loss a wife, Mrs. Leila Carroll Mims, a father, W. Elijah Mims, four brothers, Willie, Jessie, Clifton, all of Clanton, and Tom Jeff, of Jasper; 2 sisters, Mrs. Tuckin Nelson, Miss Alma Mims. His mother passed on to that happy home above about 7 years ago.

Weep not, dear ones, for all was done that loving hands could do, and all that we can do is to be ready to meet him when God calls us to that happy home above.

He was laid to rest at Providence church with Rev. J. W. Hightower, conducting the services. Martin was in charge.—By Mrs. Dewey Mims.

SUNSHINE NEWS

Just a few words in regards to this place. Our Sunday school is growing nicely. We had a large number Sunday for the beginning of the New Year. We had ninety-six on roll, of which we are proud. So let us all come back next Sunday and bring someone with you.

We are having services every night of this week at the Sunshine Church, with Sister Nettie Maefield, of Atlanta, Ga., in charge. We wish to say, in honor of our dear sister, we are proud to know her and learned to love her at once. We can never forget her stay with us after she has gone to other places preaching the gospel. We will still remember her kind words and deeds as she always has a kind word for all. We sure love her and welcome her back to be with us at any and all times. May God bless her as she goes on in the work, is our prayer for her.

We are expecting Rev. E. J. Orange to be with us this week. So we invite everyone to come out to these services and we are sure you will like Sister Maefield. So come out and meet her and enjoy the services. We extend a hearty welcome to all.

Resolutions

Silently, ruthlessly, death moves among us. It is with sadness that we report the death of Bro. John Henry Goddard, age 89 years, 4 months, whose death occured December 10, 1933.

Brother Goddard was a faithful member, even though, for the past ten years, he was unable to attend the meetings of the chapter. He was always ready and willing to do his part in any Eastern Star duties.

Therefore, be it resolved that the Thorsby Chapter, No. 154, Order of The Eastern Star, express their sorrow and love in the loss of their faithful member.

Be it further resolved that our chapter express our brotherly and sisterly love and sincere sympathy to the family in their bereavement.

Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to each of the county papers, a copy be sent to the family, and a copy placed on file in this chapter.—Roberta Childress, Mary Louise Bates, Charles A. Peterson, Committee.

Mrs. Buna Mize and Mrs. Dollie McGee spent a while with their sister, Mrs. Elma Garner, Wednesday morning.

FRIENDSHIP CHURCH IS PUTTING ON NEW LIFE

Reports from Friendshiip church, a mile north of town, says that church and auxiliary activities out there are showing prospects of renewed interest and a zeal for better and broader work than ever before. Some new families have moved into the community and are falling in line with the old stand-bys of the church, thus greatly recruiting the forces for advincing the great cause for which the little church has valiently contended since its organization twenty years ago.

A wide-awake and well attended B. Y. P. U. has been organized, the first program having been put on last Sunday night. A full list of officers have been elected, and present indications are that the young people are really going to make a go of the organization.

The Sunday school, which has been evergreen for the past ten years, is also showing signs of continual growth and renewed enthusiasm. And last but not least, when one is heard to speak of the church out there, the work of the splendid pastor always occupies a prominent place in the conversation. Rev. W. E. Robinson seems to fit in well with the situation. Friendshhip was the first church in Chilton county to call Rev. Robinson as its pastor, and all the members seem to be well pleased with his work. No job is too big or too hard for him; the bigger the job the harder he goes at accomplishing it, and he knows no quitting place until his ultimatum has been attained.

J. LEE SMITH ANNOUNCES FOR PROBATE JUDGE HERE

Hon. J. Lee Smith, mayor of Clanton, officially and emphatically cast his hat into the political ring last Saturday when he declared himself a candidate for Probate Judge of Chilton County, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries of May and June this year.

Mr. Smith is, therefore, the second entrant for the toga of Probate Judge of Chilton County on the Democratic ticket, the first bidder being Dr. P. T. Hinkle, who declared his candidacy some weeks ago.

For some months it has been unofficially known that Mr. Smith was considering entering this race. He says he expects to make a thorough and most honest effort to win the Democratic nomination in the primary, and then to train his political guns on the breastworks of the Republicans for a final victory in November.

MRS. MARY M. MASTIN DIED

Mrs. Mary M. Mastin, age 68 years, wife of Dr. O. C. Mastin, died at the family home a few miles north of Clanton on Tuesday, January 9th. Burial was in Clanton cemetery on Wednesday morning, in charge of Martin.

Funeral services were conducted from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lawrence F. Gerald in Clanton, by Rev. E. W. Butler, of Thorsby.

Active pallbearers were Hugh Jones, Frank Callen, Otto Jones, Charley Cox, C. Fenn Jones, and L. E. Diefenderfer. Honoary pallbearers were the doctors of Clanton.

Mrs. Mastin is survived by her husband, Dr. O. C. Mastin; two daughters, Mrs. Lawrence F. Gerald and Mrs. Phillip Horn; three sons, Orville, Frank and Walter. She was a native of Illinois, the daughter of James William Griswald; who came to this country from England.

Some Interesting Facts About Panama Canal

The following is a letter to Mr. C. L. Glasscock of Chavies, Ala., from his son, Leon Glasscock, of Panama Canal Zone, which will be of interest to the readers of the Union-Banner:

U. S. Fleet Air Base, Coco Solo, Canal Zone, December 3, 1933.

Dear Mother and Dad:

Was mighty glad to hear from you and that all are well. We are both well and fine. I told you in my last letter that I would tell a few things about the Panama Canal and the Canal Zone.

The Zone is a strip of land ten miles wide across the isthmus. We paid ten million dollars for it and pay yearly rent of $250,000. We paid the French Company forty million dollars for their rights and property when they failed on the canal project. We paid seven million dollars for the Panama Railroad.

The total cost of the canal was $396,683,593. The maintenance cost is about four million dollars a year. The interest on the cost is ten million a year. That makes fourteen million a year. It takes 2,500 men to operate and keep up the canal.

The tolls are $1.20 per ton of freight and $1.50 for each passenger on a ship. By using the canal a ship saves 9,000 miles between New York and San Francisco.

Thirty-five thousand men were employed to build the canal, 115 locomotives and 2,000 cars were in use.

I noticed some data in today's paper about the tolls paid last month. Four hundred sixty-three vessels went through the canal and paid tolls of $2,001,807.10. So you can see it is quite a good business proposition.

The canal is about 50 miles long. It takes a ship about eight hours to go through it. One peculiar thing about the canal is that it runs almost north and south, and the Atlantic end is further west than the Pacific end. (Look at map).

At Gatum there are three locks, each are 1,000 feet long, 110 feet wide and about 50 feet deep. This is the largest cement job in the world. It took 4,500,000 barrels of cement to make them. The lock gates are steel, seven feet thick and weigh from 390 to 750 tons each. All machinery is operated by electricity.

The cities of Panama and Colon are in the zone, but our only control is the sanitary control. They operate their own city affairs. I think that is about all the points of interest I can think of now. I hope to hear from you real soon, giving me information about my old pals and so on.

—Leon and Beth.

DOUGLAS SMITH WON'T QUIT

Requests That He Resign As U. S. Marshal Here Encounters Flat Refusal

The resignation of Douglas Smith, U. S. Marshall for the Middle District of Alabama for 10 years, has been requested and Mr. Smith has declined to comply with the request, it was learned yesterday.

Mr. Smith, when asked concerning a report to the effect that his resignation had been requested several days ago, declined to confirm or deny the report stating that any announcement in the matter should come from Washington.

The refusal of Mr. Smith to resign, it is understood, leaves to political opponents the alternative of filing charges against him as the only means of creating a vacancy in the office.

The office has been widely sought, more than a score of applications having been made for the post, it is reported. The annual salary is about $4,000.

Among those reported to be seeking the office are Walter K. McAdory, former chief of the State law enforcement department and now secretary of the State Pension Commission; Warden George P. Walls, of Kilby Prison; Judge C. E. Thomas, of Prattville, and others.

Mr. Smith's commission expires on March 2, 1936.

He is a native of Randolph County and a lifelong Republican. Prior to coming to Montgomery he was connected with the Wedowee bank for a period of about 20 years. His principal Govrenment service before receiving the appointment of U. S. marshal, was as deputy collector of the port of Mobile for a period of three years under President McKinley's regime.—Montgomery Advertiser.

FINDING WHICH COW MAKES MONEY

In practically every dairy herd are cows which are money makers and others which are money eaters. Finding out in which class each cow belongs is one of the first steps toward making the herd pay. Otherwise the poor cows will steal from the owner what the good cows make.

Studies by the Dairy Department of Purina Mills have developed a measurement test which provides an easy way for figuring whether a cow is above or below the money making line. It is partly illustrated in the accompanying chart.

First, it is necessary to find out how much milk at your selling price is required to pay the cost of the cow's keep for one year.

When the amount of milk required to pay a cow's keep has been determined, the average amount she must produce daily during each month of her lactation period can be calculated. This has been figured out in chart form, partially illustrated here, and copyrighted by Purina Mills for the use of their dealers and customers. From this chart it is possible to tell quickly whether a cow is in the money making or the money eating class.

For example, suppose that it has been found that it takes 6,000 pounds of milk to pay the yearly cost of a cow's keep in a given herd. That is the money making line. Suppose that the daily milk production is weighed and one cow in the seventh month of lactation is found to be giving 20 pounds. She is a profit maker because the daily milk needed to start making money in her case, as indicated on the chart, would be only 18.4 pounds. Suppose that another cow in the same herd is giving 21 pounds, but she is in her third month of lactation. She is in the money losing class since the chart calls for a daily production in her case of 22.8 pounds.

Cows whose daily production is less than 5 pounds per day below the profit line can usually be raised above it by the 8-4-40 program of feeding. Cows whose production has been reduced by trouble at calving time, by accidents, or which are temporarily out of condition should be given another chance. Heifers in their first lactation period will usually give 20 per cent less than at maturity and should be credited accordingly.

Farmers who wish to make an analysis of the production of their herds can obtain the necessary forms and help from their local Checkerboard feed dealer, announces the Purina Educational Division. He will also gladly explain the 8-4-40 feeding program, developed through research by which farmers can put above the money making line many cows which are just below it.

NEW YORK—Thoughts while strolling: They're rounding in from Florida, the soaks of sunshine, as black as Grandpa's straw hat. Peggy Joyce hasn't so many jewels. They just seem more assertive. George S. Kaufman's wife, Beatrice, has a Dorothy Parker rating for persiflage.

One-word description of Charles MacArthur — impish. It's been a long time since they've heard steel hammers rat-a-tat in midtown. The biggest physical specimen I know—Albert Keller, of the Ritz. He once startled the town by permitting women to smoke in his restaurants. Now look!

Lee Olwell, a Milwaukee, Wis., boy, who made good in the city. All the dog shops which opened around Christmas are gone. Bert Lytell looks as young as he did 10 years ago. Grand actor, too. And about the most happily married of the Thespians. Kitty Kendall's wire-haired dachshunds. Cute!

One of my favorite people—Tommy Millard. He and Ed Hill are the sartorial dandies of journalism. Don Herold, wintering here from California. It isn't the same without Jimmy Walker. Like him or not, he gave the town a zip. And now he has written an old friend that he's very unhappy.

Like to chat with Sidney Solomon. He talks like stepping stones. That Mme. la Directrice, at Peggy Hoyt's, suggests the Statue of Liberty. H. T. Webster's wild mop of hair, if white, could be Mark Twain's. Wasn't the depression terrible? It nearly had me down!

I recently talked to a man whose left eye had been crossed since an illness at 15. During an exciting scene at a movie recently, a distracting noise behind caused him to turn his head quickly. There was a snap in his forehead, a blurred vision lasting until late the next day, then a mirror revealed that his eye was no longer out of kilter. Save a slight swelling, there was no inconvenience.

A garrulous stew, with a wandering foot, plumped into a beautiful girl at a table in Reuben's, the other morning. "You're a peach," he said. "What's your name?" She simpered: "I'm Miss Council Bluffs, the Nebraska beauty winner, sir." And stared with unbelievable dumbness. All of which was the way of a talented young dramatic actress, side-stepping a bore, while her escort was telephoning.

I experienced what novelists call "frozen horror" in a casual glance from a window recently. On a high sill of a neighboring building, there appeared the figure of a man whom I supposed to be a window-washer. He looked about, then, in the manner of a diver, plunged head-long to the street. My horror ballooned and burst in a sort of mental sky-rocket, and an arm, reaching to grasp a curtain, remained stiffly in mid-air at least two minutes.

Thingumbobs: Edison Marshall, author, is off for Laos, the high plateau of Indo-China, to remain until the depression ends. . . . Alexander Woollcott designs costumes for diversion. . . . Persons in Davis, N. C., speak the quaint English of 1700. . . . Tom Kinsey, book publisher, found himself locked in London's Burlington Arcade, one recent night. . . . Lowell Thomas has made a million in profits from public speaking. . . . George Delacorte, "Ballyhoo" publisher, at 39, has amassed five millions.

News item: "He jumped from a car to chase his hat, but snatched up a frightened little Pomeranian."

Maybe he thought it was his toupee.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

67 FARM AGENTS IN ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 7.—For the first time since the Alabama Polytechnic Institute began to do organized extension work in agriculture and home economics in 1909, there is now a county farm demonstration agent in every county in the state.

Dr. L. N. Duncan, extension service director, announced that every county appropriating body in Alabama is now cooperating with the United States Department of Agriculture and the Alabama Polytechnic Institute in the employment of a county agent.

For several years now most of the counties have employed a county agent, but at the beginning of 1933 six counties were vacant. All of these counties have been filled.

County agents recently appointed to vacant counties include Hugh D. Sexton, Coffee; M. M. Woodham, Geneva; C. E. Stapp, Houston; C. M. Ling, Jackson; W. P. Whitlock, Marion; V. R. Green, Russell; M. F. Whatley, Macon and W. A. Ruffin, Pike.

Mr. Stapp was transferred to Houston from Chilton and his place in Chilton was taken by J. W. Fant, who was formerly teacher of vocational agriculture at Eclectic. Mr. Whitlock was transferred from Winston to Marion, and H. L. Eubanks is now Winston County agent.

Several other new appointments have been made recently due to transfers, and resignations and deaths. These include J. W. Matthews who succeeded R. S. Parker in Lowndes, C. T. Bailey who succeeded Eric Alsobrook in Marshall, B. G. Hall who was appointed in Cherokee when W. H. Gregory was transferred to Morgan to succeed S. H. Gibbons, deceased, A. W. Jones who replaced R. C. Lett in Tuscaloosa and A. Q. Edmondson who replaced W. A. Cammack in Wilcox.

It is thought that Alabama is the first state in the union to present a solid front by having a county agent in every county.

TRANSIENT BUREAU WORK IS BEING DONE ON STATE PARK

Montgomery. — Alabama's newest state park, the Lagoons, is being developed by the Alabama Transient Bureau, which placed a crew of men on the ground immediately after New years. The technical work is being handled by experts in the service of the state commission of forestry, which has charge of development and maintenance of the state's park system. "The first few days have shown that most of the men furnished by the Transient Bureau are good workers," said Col. Page S. Bunker, state forester. "The local bureau officials have laid out a program for the use of the unemployed under their supervision from which the state parks not covered by E. W. C. projects may secure extensive development. The commission of forestry is delighted with the cooperation furnished by the Transient Bureau representatives in organizing a crew for the Lagoons, The park was donated to the state by the City of Montgomery, and is situated east of the Municipal Airport."

A landscape plan is being prepared and will be followed in the development of the park by the men furnished by the Tranient Bureau. The development plan includes roads, bridges, camp grounds, picnic groves an arboretum and an artistic treatment of the water resources of the park comprising springs, lagoons and possibly a small lake. Throughout the design emphasis of natural beauty is being maintained.

COTTON CONTRACT SIGNED RAPIDLY

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 9.—The signing of the 1934-35 cotton adjustment contracts at the rate of from 10 to 20 thousand a day is under way in Alabama, it is reported by Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Efforts are being made to complete the campaign in as short a time as possible.

Under the program, the cotton producers of Alabama are being offered approximately $10,794,000 in benefit and rental payments to reduce 1934 production to 2,000,000 acres, or a 40-per cent reduction of the five year (1928-1932) average acreage.

The contracts provide that the signing must be completed by January 31 in order that by that date the secretary of agriculture may declare the program effective.

Dr. Duncan, who is directig the campaign in Alabama, stated that Agricultural leaders, extension workers and vocational teachers have all been suppiled with contracts and instruction books and are ready for the sign-up. In fact, several thousand contracts have already been signed. The signing will continue at the rate of from ten to twenty thousand a day.

Contracts which are being offered producers give them the option of reducing the acreage of the five year base period, 1928 to 1932, from 35 to 45 per cent. The Agricultural Adjustment Administration hopes to achieve a 40 per cent reduction of the five year acreage, which was 41,347,000 acres. This will limit acreage for the south as a whole to approximately 25,000,000 acres.

Mrs. Bob Baker has taken over the store of Mr. Hardy's and wish her friends to drop around to see her.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Farmers of Alabama are signing cotton acreage reduction contracts at the rate of from 10 to 20 thousand a day.

In a single rainstorm, a careful study showed that top-soil was washed away from the fields of one particular farm in the Tennessee River basin at the rate of 39 tons, not per farm but per acre.

Forty-four per cent of all the farm dwellings in the United States are valued at less than $1,000, the census bureau reports. Only 4 per cent of the farm dwellings in America are worth $5,000 or more.

Of the $123,174,000 loaned by the federal land banks between May 1 and December 23, 85 to 90 per cent of the money advanced was used by borrowers to refinance existing indebtedness, according to a statement just issued by the Farm Credit Association.

On an average for the south as a whole for 1933 it cost $18 per acre to grow an acre of cotton that produced 181 pounds of lint. It cost $10 more per acre in North Carolina than in Texas, yet there was not much difference in the cost per pound. The average yield in North Carolina was 264 pounds of lint per acre, in Texas 169 pounds.

CONCORD P.-T. A.

The P.-T. A. will hold it's regular meeting Wednesday evening, January 17, at 6:30 o'clock. The change in time of meeting is for the convenience of those parents who work during the day. An interesting program is being arranged and we plan to have an outside speaker with us. Every member and parent may contribute something to this meeting, and that is your presence. Take it upon yourself to come and bring someone with you. Remember parents, you are one of us and we are counting on you. Without your help and coopration we can do nothing. Let's have at least seventy-five or a hundred present. Come and find out what a P.-T. A. is and it's value.

In addition to the splendid work of the P.-T. A. the school is doing some fine work. In a few weeks we hope to present for your entertainment a play that will surpass all others. Watch for further announcements.

PLAY AT SHOULTS SCHOOL SOON

"Aunt Jerushy On the Warpath," will be presented at Shoults school Saturday, January 13 at seven p.m. The characters are:

Sufficiency Fish, Edward Littlejohn; Hiram Fish, Woodfin Littlejohn; Jerushy Fish, Mrs. Norma Smith; Sis Popkins, Sarah Moore; Stellie Ettie Snapper, Lou Olive Littlejohn; Bill Barker, Howard Littlejohn; Elsie Barker, Mona Lou Craig; Reno DeBeno, Bonita Craig; Elder Snuffles, Harmon Green; extras Ruby Seale and Ettae Sue McFarland.

Everybody come and let the troubles of a hen-pecked husband chase your blues away. This is a "Paine" production, and one of the funniest plays ever written. The admission will be 10c.

Bob Connell of Route 5 was in The Banner office Monday, and renewed his paper. He also paid up for his son, Jodie, at Sycamore, and his wife's father, H. H. Mims, at Sylacauga. Bob is an ardent Banner reader. He says he hasn't missed a copy in fifteen years.

INK DROPS

from

By Dan Smith

It has been officially announced that Chilton County High School will continue as a public school until April 20. This will give us eight months of school but the students will receive the same credit as they would if the school ran nine months. This school is one of the few high schools that will remain open this long.

In a contest for selling pencils for the school Miss Lucille Johnson won a fine wrist watch given by the manufacturers of the pencils. Several other students came close to selling the highest number.

January 11 and only one more day in this semester of school term. Friday will end a two days series of mid term examinations. The grade one receives on his tests, averaged in with the four monthly grades will determine whether he has passed his half year's work and received a half credit. Monday we began the second semester. One should remember that although the first semester has gone down into history as a thing of the past, yet he might make the second semester such a one as to redeem weaknesses of the first semester. Don't forget, it's never too late to do better.

The double header at Billingsley was split Friday night. Our boys won their game, while the girls lost theirs. Tomorrow night Billingsley brings her boys and girls teams over to Clanton. Let's all go out and see Billingsley lose.

The students took a safety test Thursday. This is a national form of test put out by the national safety society. It was a good test on one's driving sense. Good to say, lots of our students made rather high grades.

The biology students are learning many strange and interesting facts about animal life. Oddities that mother nature creates are proving to be interesting subjects for study. They have discovered that there is an animal that has neither parents nor children. That animal is the amoeba.

Mr. Varnell, their commendable instructor, took a trip to the Atlantic coast in South Carolina during the past summer and brought back with him a number of specimens of deep sea life. Among these valuable objects for practical study in the biology department are several star fish, a conch shell, a number of shrimp, a bladder fish, silver eels and a few fiddler crabs. A brief account of this trip will be published next week. It contains several facts of historial interest also.

Who am I? . . . I am a senior high student, like girls, therefore, I must be a boy; have black hair and brown eyes; played football, have large feet; I wear a hat sometimes, have certain characteristics which would expose me if told.

Just two weeks from tomorrow the event you have been looking forward to for a long time will occur. The Senior Class will present its first play, on January 26, Friday night. The name of this play is "The Clay's the Thing." It's a knockout too. Watch for some more announcements soon.

Don't forget that the first four rows of seats in the auditorium are reserved for the Senior Class at every chapel period. The classes have been getting mixed during the past but now with this system they will be kept straight.

With the biography of J. B. Vaughn this week the writer concluded his series of brief biographies of the members of the faculty. These were written on the writer's own accord in order to better acquaint the students and the patrons of the school with our fine faculty. Mr. Vaughn is a native Alabamian, born to Mr. and Mrs. John W. Vaughn on a farm near Huntsville. His first step in education was at the Wills and Taylor School at Huntsville, where he graduated in 1921. This was a private school which doesn't run now. In 1927 he finished at Howard College in Birmingham with an A. B. Degree. While in college Mr. Vaughn majored in history and minored in mathematics. Mr. Vaughn has also had one year of extension work at Alabama Polytechnic Institute; this was in 1928. Mr. Vaughn is in the history department here and also in charge of the manual training for boys. Before coming to C. C. H. S. in 1933, to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Walker, he had taught several years in various schools, also spent several yaers in other businesses. In 1927 and 1928 he taught at the Waterloo High School at Waterloo, Alabama. From 1928 to 1929 he held a position as teacher in the high school at Ardmore, Tennessee. Mr. Vaughn was with the Gulf Refining Company at Port Arthur, Texas, from 1929 to 1930. Following this he was an employee of the Tennessee Rail and Iron Company for one year. In 1931 he went to Brundidge, Alabama, where he taught for two years before becoming a member of our faculty. The students and other members of the faculty are proud to speak of the faculty having such a sterling man as Mr. Vaughn on the faculty. Though he has only been with us for a few months we have learned to appreciate his fine qualities as a gentleman and a teacher.

The Unholy Three need not be afraid. I won't publish their names. But here's a tip to my other readers. These three girls live on the same side of town. A new comer is causing quite a stir among the male ranks. Due to her looks, figure, and personality. Two boys are neck and neck in the race for her favors now. I think one is a little ahead. * * * Punchie's picture seemed to be admired by several and I was surprised at several of the charming ladies who eyed them. * * * Here's a friendly warning to those who love "caramel candy." The fact is spreading and it isn't told as caramel candy either. * * * Wonder how long this friendliness between a group of girls will continue? It seems that one girl thinks she controls our society. She made a go so far. (Has she?) Here's a tip to some of you girls. Don't leave your personal papers in your books. They are likely to be read. * * * The Unholy Three is NOT three.

EDDIE WYATT IN AUTO WRCK

Eddie Wyatt, of Clanton, was painfully injured last Wednesday night when his Chrysler automobile was wrecked on the highway a few miles north of Clanton.

When he lost control of the car it headed into the concrete posts by the side of the highway, and was completely demolished. Wyatt sustained a broken arm, cuts about the head, body and hands, and dislocation of his shoulder. He was brought to Central Alabama Hospital for treatment, and was dismissed the next day.

At the time of the wreck Wyatt was accompanied in the car by Tom Mims, who escaped without injury.

TEACHERS FROM WESTERN ALABAMA TO MEET IN SELMA

Montgomery, January 5. — School superintendents, principals, teachers, and school board members from fourteen counties in West Alabama will meet in Selma at 9:30 on Saturday morning, January 13, for a district conference. This series of meetings was inaugurated by the Alabama Education Association last fall when the educators of southeast Alabama met at Dothan on October 21. Subsequent meetings have been held at Anniston, Decatur, Opelika, Birmingham and Mobile.

Words of welcome will be extended the several hundred teachers expected to attend the Selma meeting by Hon. Ed W. Pettus, President, Dallas couney Board of Eudcation, Selma.

Principal addresses of the morning will be made by John E. Bryan, president of the Alabama Education Association, and superintendent of schools of Bessemer, by H. G. Dowling, superintendent of the Tuscaloosa County schools, and by Hunt Frazier, chairman, Education Committee, Alabama Department, American Legion. Mr. Bryan speaks on the topic "Interpreting the Schools to the Public," and Mr. Dowling explains how Alabama finances its public school system. Mr. Frazier's talk will treat of the Legion's part in the fight for education in Alabama. Additional talks are to be given by Mrs. B. E. Dunaway, Orrville, and Miss Mary Butler, Selma, who will tell how their local associations of teachers serve the teachers of their communities.

During the latter part of the meeting reports of the existing school conditions in the cities and counties represented in the district will be made by the superintendents or board members attending the meeting.

An attractive musical program is being arranged by the public school music department.

The following counties including the cities located therein will be represented at the Selma meeting: Autauga, Butler, Chilton, Choctaw, Crenshaw, Dallas, Greene, Hale Lowndes, Marengo, Montgomery, Perry, Sumter, Wilcox.

19TH BIRTHDAY OF KIWANIS CLUB

Anniversary Program At The Regular Meeting On Thursday Night

The local Kiwanis club will observe the 19th anniversary of the founding of Kiwanis International at its meeting Thursday night, said Luther E. Little, president of the local club. Kiwanians here will join with members in 1,860 other communities throughout the United States and Canada to observe this event. The committee on Kiwanis Education, Pressley Cochran, chairman, is in charge of the program for the Clanton club. Members of this committee are: Lloyd Warr, V. J. Gragg and J. R. Mullins.

The first Kiwanis club was organized in Detroit in 1915 and on January 21 of that year the first meeting was held. "Kiwanis has been made a valuable contribution to community life during the past nineteen years and today it is offering greater civic betterment and social welfare programs than ever before, said President Little. "We are going to make our observances of Kiwanis Anniversary Week a fitting and proper occasion, presenting our achievements for the past year and in the meeting explain something of the history of Kiwanis International," he said.

Plans for the club's activities for 1934, will be presented at this Anniversary meeting. The club will continue its work along the lines of service to under-privileged children, intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship, friendly understanding among all citizens, both rural and urban, vocational guidance and boys and girls work, giving especial attention to the maintenance of adequate educational facilities, especially those making the character, development and businesslike methods in administrative government with special application to local government.

Womens Meeting Held On Tuesday

Leadership School Conducted By Miss Ruth Pardue Home Agent

The third leadership school was held Tuesday afternoon, the 16th, with 23 leaders and six visitors present.

Mr. Brown, garden specialist from Auburn, gave a very interesting lesson on spring and early summer gardens. He says "successful gardening, so far as individual efforts are concerned, depend largely on the following::

1. Preparation of land.
2. Proper fertilization.
3. Planting vegetables at the proper time and intervals.
4. Good varieties.
5. Proper cultivation.
6. Insect control.
7. Timely and persistent effort.

The second lesson was given by Mr. Bailey, poultry specialist from Auburn on brooding, feeding and management of chicks for farm flocks. According to Mr. Bailey, the best time to hatch chicks for good layers is Februray and March. It usually requires about 150 day old chicks to produce 50 good pullets. If only a small number of chicks are to be brooded, it is satisfactory to use hens provided they are free of mites and lice and kept in a dry, comfortable place. Where as many as 100 chicks are to be brooded it will pay to resort to some artificial means.

The essentials of a good brooder house are 1. Dryness. 2. Good ventilation without draft. 3. Easily heated and convenient.

Allow one square foot of floor space to every two chicks. A house 10 ft by 10 ft. will accomodate 200 chicks.. A house smaller than this is very uneconomical.

The home made brick brooder is the most economical brooder to use. The brooder house plans may be obtained from the home demonstration agent.

There are several good home mixtures for starting and growing your chicks. Below is one good mixture: 100 pounds of cornmeal, 7 pounds of bonemeal, one pound of salt. With this mixture milk must be kept before chicks at all times. Feed no water until chicks are four weeks old. Then give late in the afternoon.

BOYD ELECTED HEAD OF BANK

Former Clanton Banker Is Now President of City National Bank in Selma

Mr. H. G. Boyd, for the last three years vice president of the City National Bank of Selma, was elected president of that institution last week, to succeed the late H. C. Armstrong.

Mr. Boyd becomes the fourth president of the City National Bank, one of the oldest and largest banks in South Alabama, with a capital stock of $400,000, a surplus of $150,000, and resources of over three million dollars.

In 1930 H. G. Boyd resigned from the presidency of the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton, of which he had been head for four years. He went directly from here and assumed the duties of vice president of the City National Bank of Selma. Prior to coming to Clanton he was for seven years connected with the State Banking Department.

Commenting upon his election as president of the City National, the Selma Times-Journal gives the following interesting sketch of Mr. Boyd's banking career:

"During the World War period Mr. Boyd spent one year with the Federal Reserve Bank, at Denver, Colo., and returned to Montgomery at the close of 1918 to go with the State Banking Department. His career as a banker started with the First National, in Montgomery, where he became a runner at the age of 12, and from which position he advanced by unusual aptitude and increasing experience to the present high position to which City National directors elected him today.

Since coming to Selma Mr. Boyd has been active in many civic and social groups, and is a director of the Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Kiwanis Club, a Shriner and a Mason among many connections. He has been especially interested in agricultural development, both before coming to this county, and while a resident of Chilton, and since his removal here, and he is always eager to foster the agricultural interests upon which the life of the state is founded."

The many friends of Mr. Boyd in Clanton and Chilton County will be gratified to know of his continued promotion and success as a banker.

Andrew J. Davis For Commissioner

Republican Candidate for Office in Second District of County

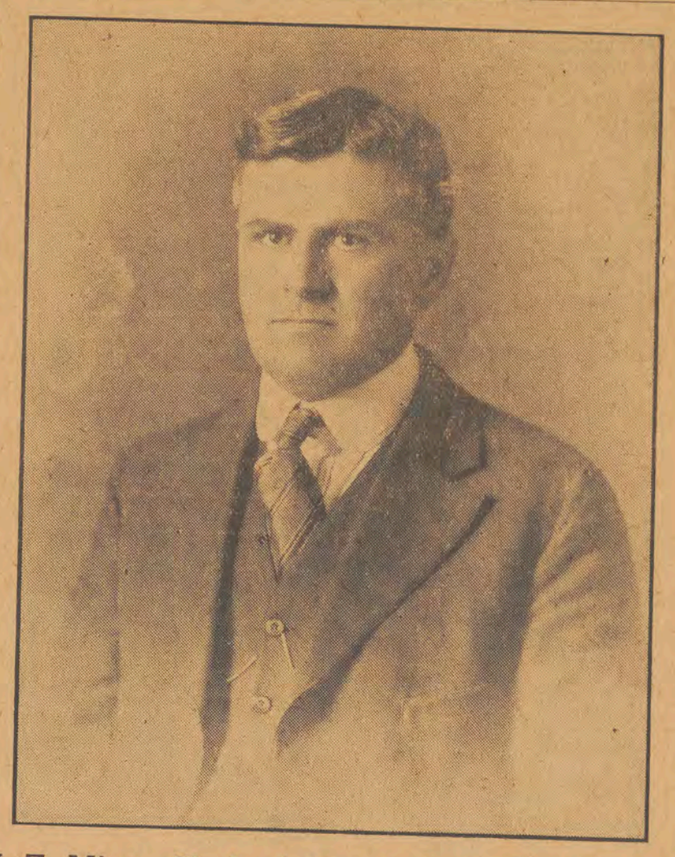
Adding his name to the list of Republican Primary candidates this week, Mr. Andrew J. Davis, prominent citizen of Beat 9, declares that he will seek the nomination for Commissioner of the Second District in the Republican primaries of May and June this year.

When he authorized his announcement in The Union-Banner Tuesday Mr. Davis stated: "You may announce to my friends that I have decided to yield to the many solicitations I have received and now offer myself to the Republican party as its nominee for the office of County Commissioner of the Second District of Chilton County. I very deeply appreciate the many expressions of favor I have received. Within the next few weeks, I expect to make public a detailed statement of policies concerning my candidacy."

Andrew Davis is one of the most prominent and substantial citizens of Chilton County. He lives in Beat 9 near Collins Chapel Church. He is well known throughout the Second District and in other parts of the county as well. His many friends regard him as a man of ample business experience and personal qualifications to make a good county commissioner.

J. Z. MIMS CANDIDATE FOR PROBATE JUDGE



J. Z. Mims, Clerk of Circuit Court For Twelve Years, Now Republican Candidate for Judge

1,500 ON C. W. A. IN NEXT WEEK

"Spread The Work" Program Will Practically Double The Number of Men Now on County Payroll of C.W.A.

About 700 new workers will be added to the rolls of C.W.A. in Chilton County next week, bringing the total of employed up to 1,500 in round numbers. This will be accomplished when the new "Spread the Work" policy is placed into operation.

While the number of employed on C.W.A. projects will be practically doubled, at the same time the number of hours each man will work will be cut from 30 a week to 15 a week, thereby maintaining the payroll at about the same figure.

Instead of working five days of six hours a day each week, the new order provides for the men to work two days of 7½ hours a day each week. This applies only to common laborers, and does not affect superintendents, overseers, technical, administrative, or clerical workers.

The same overseers and foremen will be employed on the projects under way. One set of workers will work Monday and Tuesday of each week, and the second crew will work Wednesday and Thursday.

Explanatory of the new outline, Mr. R. L. Pittman, director of CWA for Chilton County, has sent the following bulletin to all foremen and timekeepers:

Effective January 19th, 1934, all projects in this county will be operated on a two-day, two-shift basis.

Work will commence on Monday and end Tuesday for the present crews. And will commence Wednesday and end Thursday for the new crews.

Crews will be worked at 7½ hours per day and fifteen hours per week, starting at 8 a.m. and finishing at 4:00 p.m.

Foremen and timekeepers will work on a thirty hour basis, and report their time separately, to the chief timekeeper.

Timekeepers will report the time for each crew on Tuesday and Thursday to the chief timekeeper.

No work will be done Friday, January 19th.

Each timekeeper will receive a copy of Bulletin A-76, and will question each member of the new crew as to his abality to qualify to the four requirements below:

1. That the worker did not voluntarily leave employment for the apparent purpose of securing C. W. A. employment.

2. That no member of his family had any employment at the time of worker's placement on C.W.A. work, except in instances where the additional C.W.A. wage was needed to cover a minimum relief budget for his family.

3. That he is qualified for the specific job to which he was assigned, as proven by present and former employment and employers.

4. That preference to veterans and otherwise as established by rules and regulations No. 10 has been followed, and proper consideration given to those most in need of employment.

Bulletin A-76 says to all County Directors of C.W.A.: "You are hereby instructed to remove from your C.W.A. payrolls immediately (or as soon as definite information about each case is available) those at work who do not meet the above qualifications."

Directors are required to institute immediately necessary steps to secure information to clean up the C. W. A. payrolls. Current C. W. A. payrolls are to be checked against information at the relief office and the re-employment office for this information.

Bulletin setting out the above facts and requirements has been sent to the director of relief, director of C. W. A., manager of the reemployment office, and chairman of the C.W.A. committee, by Thad Holt, Director of Civil Works Administration for Alabama.

J. E. Easterling Is A Candidate

Will Seek Nomination For The Office Now Held By W. G. Culp

In the Republican candidate column this week our readers will find the name of Mr. Johnnie E. Easterling, who announces himself a candidate for Tax Collector of Chilton County in the Republican Primary.

Mr. Easterling is a farmer who has lived all his life in the eastern side of Beat 4. He was a candidate for Tax Assessor four years ago. For the past year he has been employed by the county as driver of the county gasoline truck.

In politics Mr. Easterling has always been a Republican, and an active supporter of the Republican party since he attained the years of his majority. He is yet a young man, and has promise of many more years of loyal service to his party and the interests of public affairs of his county.

Will Seek Nomination In Republican Primary To Be Held Here In May

Circuit Clerk For Past Twelve Years Asks For Promtion To Higher Office

Mr. J. Z. Mims is the first Republican candidate to declare himself for Probate Judge of Chilton County in the forthcoming Republican primaries of this year. His announcement appears in the candidate column of The Union-Banner this week.

Mr. Mims needs no introduhtion to the people of Chilton County. For the past twelve years he has servied as Clerk of the Circuit Court, to which office he was elected by the Republican voters.

He has been a faithful servant, zealous of his responsibilities to the people who elected him, and earnest in his efforts always to perform his duties with credit to himself and the people who placed a public trust in his hands.

There has been for several years a large following of the friends of Mr. Mims who hoped to see him elevate himself to the higher position of responsibility and service in the office of Probate Judge. These friends feel that now is the time to reward Mr. Mims for his former service by electing him to higher office. In response to the insistence of these friends and through his desire to be of greater service, Mr. Mims now offers himself as a candidate for Probate Judge.

THREE NEW JOBS STARTED BY CWA

Black Snake Ditch Will Be Be Started On Next Monday

Mr. R. L. Pittman, director of C. W. A. in Chilton County, reports the beginning of three new projects Tuesday morning, as follows:

Grading and surfacing streets in Clanton, on which 34 men are employed.

Improvement of the grounds at Thorsby Junior High School, on which 20 men are employed.

Erection of an auditorium at Isabella High School, on which 16 men are employed.

It was stated that an additiional project will be put in operation next Monday morning with 35 men working on a drainage ditch in Black Snake Swamp, commencing at a point just below the paved highway in the North Clanton swamp, and extending up Black Snake Creek toward the Friendship community.

The men on the above mentioned projects will come from other projects in the county which have already been completed.

A total of 26 projects were in operation this week, it was stated by Mr. Pittman. At present 100 workers are assigned to the airport.

A unique and interesting scheme of marking projects is being carried out. A large sign 4 by 6 feet is being erected at some prominent point near each project, with inscription giving the project number, the letters C. W. A., and the local designation or name of the project. Example, "Local Project. . . . C. W. A., Black Snake Swamp Drainage." Such markers will indicate every C. W. A. project in the county.

HEAD OF LEGION WILL BE HERE

State Commander Abramson Will Speak at Courthouse Saturday Night

Commander W. A. Abramson, of the Alabama Department, American Legion, will be in Clanton Saturday night of this week, January 20, to deliver an address to the ex-service men. He will speak at the courthouse at 7:30 o'clock.

All members of the American Legion and Auxiliary, and all ex-soldiers in general are especially urged to come and hear the address of Commander Abramson. An invitation is also extended to the public to attend this meeting.

The visit of Commander Abramson here is a part of a tour he is making to all Legion Posts of the State.

All officials and members of the Legion of Chilton County are invited to attend a conference of the Fourth Legion District to be held in Montgomery at ten o'clock next Sunday morning. Those who attend will be invited to a luncheon at the Exchange Hotel at noon. Commander Abramson will also attend this conference.

DeMABEL'S WILL BE CLOSED ABOUT MONTH

Mrs. Mabel Howard Sims, proprietor of DeMabel's Beauty and Art Salon, announces that her place of business is now closed and will not be in operation again for about a month. She has been forced to suspend working on account of an order from her doctor that she take a few weeks' rest.

Announcement will be made in the papers when the salon will be open to the public again.

STRAWBERRY MEETING PUT OFF UNTIL SATURDAY, 20TH

No business was transacted at the meeting of the Clanton Berry Growers Monday.

In order to make it possible for more members to attend, the meeting was adjourned until Saturday, January 20, at ten o'clock.

All members of the Association are urged to be present Saturday for the transaction of important business matters.

Republican Committee Met Here

Transacted Business Relative To the Party Primary In May

The Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County met at the courthouse Monday morning at ten o'clock, pursuant to the call of the chairman.

Chariman J. N. Dennis presided at the meeting, and Secretary J. Z. Mims recorded the proceedings of business transacted.

The roll call membership revealed that all members of the committee in the county, except three, were either present or represented by proxy.

A motion was made by Committeeman M. L. Milford, duly seconded and carried, providing for the adoption of a resolution setting forth the intention of he Republican party of Chilton County to enter the primaries in May and June, for the nomination of candidates for the various counyt offices to be filled by election in November.

A further motion was made and adopted authorizing the chairman to appoint a sub committee to act for the County Executive Committee in all matters pertaining to arrangements and carrying out the proposed Republican primaries.

Chairman Dennis named the following as members of the sub committee: Omar L. Reynolds, L. C. Keen, M. L. Milford, W. H. Gillespie and W. M. Devaughn.

According to the provisions of the primary election law of Ala., under which the Republican primary will be held, the final date for the announcement of candidates in the primary is set for the first of March.

The Executive Committee issued an appeal to all Republican voters to pay their poll tax before February the first and thereby qualify themselves to participate in the Republican primary.

SUNSHINE NEWS

We are proud to know that people are still interested in Sunday school. We had 141 in Sunday school and church services, of which we were very proud.

We are sorry to say that the revival that has been running for four weeks conducted by Sister Nettie Maefield came to a close Sunday night. Many souls were won through her ministery here. Her influence has sure won the hearts of the young people around this place, as all love her so much. She left for Montgomery Sunday night after the services where she will spend this week with friends and loved ones and taking a rest before entering into a revival at Wetumpka Sunday night, January 21. She invites any and all to attend the meeting there next week.

We are sorry that she had to leave. But are praying that God will use her as she goes forth in the work. Many souls will be won through her life. We hope and trust that she will be back with us in a short time.

Let's all come back next Sunday determined to make it the best Sunday we have ever had. We extend a hearty welcome to all visitors and friends at any and all times. Come and be with us.—Miss Gertie M. Eastelling.

Mr. John Deddmon spent the week end with Mrs. Rosie Bishop.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. ELLA SMITH

On January 9th, the death angels visited the home of Mr. Joe Smith and bore away from him his loving wife, Mrs. Ella Smith. She was 60 years of age. She died suddenly, but God in His Wisdom saw fit to call her home. Mrs. Smith will be greatly missed by all who knew her, because to know her was to love her. She was a true loving and kind mother.

She leaves to moun her loss her husband, Joe Smith; two daughters, Mrs. Eunice Dobbs and Mrs. Lula McGraw, of Clanton; one son, J. D. Smith, of Birmingham; one step-son, David Smith, of Sylacauga; one step-daughter, Mrs. Ada B. Sims, of Wylam; five grandchildren and five step-grandchildren; and three sisters, Mrs. Lula Dennis, of Jemison, Mrs. Emma Stewart, of Rockford, and Mrs. Lizzie Orr, of Gadsden; one brother, John Dorman, of Louisana.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Jones at Samaria, Wednesday evening, at three o'clock, with Martin in charge.

We should try as much as possible to make our lives like hers, so that when death calls us we shall meet her in the beautiful city where there is no more pain or sorrrow.—One Who Loved Her.

BAKER SCHOOL

The P.-T. A. met last Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. We are more than glad that we have our piano completely paid for. It was suggested that we put on a potato drive to help pay off the hardware debt. It was also suggested that they who have corn or velvet beans to sell, they would be greatly appreciated. And that each school student bring a dozen or more eggs to sell, and if anyone had syrup to sell that it will be acceptable. We are hoping to have all of our debts paid when school closes this year.

Last Thursday the Jr. III put on a "mocked faculty," during our chapel period. The characters were Mr. Parrish, Fonzie Coe; Vernon Baker, Coy Lockhart; Miss N. E. Harris, Pauline Sisk; Olene Mims, Gladys Wyatt. Each character was the very picture of the teacher. This program was enjoyed by the whole school.

Miss Harris and her pupils had a little outing Monday afternoon. They went to the woods and had a marshmallow toast, also played many games. The pupils reported a delightful time.

Last Sunday afternoon was singing afternoon at Liberty Hill. There were not many there on account of the funeral of Rev. Hand. Everyone come next second Sunday afternoon.

Next Sunday afternoon is the singing at Highland. Everybody come and help us out all you can.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

A man can do anything that God tells him to do. If there is something we can't do, then God does not want us to do it. Back of God's command He puts omnipotence. If He tells you to go down a certain road, go. Go as far as you can on the right road. Then God will give you the strength to go further.

Fundamentally we are all made alike. Yet in many ways no two of us are alike. It is interesting to know that of all the teeming millions who have lived, the millions who live now, and the millions who are to live in the future, no two even had the same thumb print. Surely "Man is fearfully and wonderfully made."

There are certain fundamental things about all automobiles and yet automobiles are different. Some of them have four cylinders. Some have six and some have eight. But they all run on the same principle. So it is with man. It is rather a pathetic picture to see a four cylinder man trying to do the work of an eight cylinder man. He makes a lot of noise and struts his stuff, but if we are four cylinder men we cannot do the work of eight cylinder men. It is a mistake to try it. God expects us to fill our own place and to do our work in our own way.

Someone has said, "Moses was the child of a slave and the son of a king. He was born in a hut and lived in a palace. He inherited poverty and enjoyed wealth. He lead armies and was the keeper of flocks. He was a mighty soldier and the meekest of men. He was educated in the court, but dwelt in the desert. He had the wisdom of Egypt and the faith of a child. He was backward in speech, but he talked with God. No man assisted at his funeral, yet God buried him. His lips are silent, but his voice yet speaks."

UNION GROVE

Stop, look and listen! Tom Frank Teel and his merry makers are coming! If you can laugh or grin come out and hear Tom Frank, Lyod Howard, Herman Lowery and their buddies make music, drive your cares away, and act the black face comedy stuff. Plenty of entertainment for the whole family. Come out and help Union Grove. The proceeds will go to the school. Saturday night, January 20th, 7:30 o'clock. Admission is 10 cents and 20 cents.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. D. T. Popwell and family wish to express their many thanks to friends for their kindness shown during the recent illness and death of our father and husband, Mr. D. T. Popwell. May God bless each and everyone of you is our prayer.—Mrs. D. T. Popwell and Children.

LOMAX TABERNACLE

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. Our number has increased from 32 Sunday before last to 41 last Sunday. We invite everyone to come to our Sunday school. We will begin a new program soon, so come at 10 o'clock promptly.

We are very sorry that Bro. E. J. Orange cannot preach at the courthouse on account of court being held there that week. Hope he can be with us very soon.

STATE GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 16.—The state must look to the sportsmen and the farmer for perpetuation of its wild life in he opinion of Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the game and fisheries department.

"Man holds the balance of power in conseving the game and fish resources of Alabama," said Commissioner Quinn. "The sportsman has the farmer on his side and the sportsman will co-operate fully with the farmer and the farmer will in turn co-operate with every sportspman in seeing game taken in moderation and that protection is given our song and insectivorours birds.

"The sportsman and the farmer together upholding the hands of those who are clothed with the responsibility of wild life protection and preservation can help perpetuate the supply of edible game birds, animals and fish.

"The Department of Game and Fisheries is dedicated to the task of protecting, conserving and rehabilitating all economically and esthetically useful forms of birds, game, fur bearers and fish in the state for the use of the people of the state. To succeed in such an important undertaking we must, by education, and by precept and example, make the masses of our citizenship conservation minded and wild life conscious.

"In this, the sportsman and the farmer can render invaluable aid."

Commissioner Quinn said that the same natural causes against which game and bird life have to fight for existance are not on the increase.

"It is true that deforestation is gradually narrowing the natural habitat of wild game," he said, "but the ever-increasing area of open country, with an ever-increasing acreage planted annually, is favorable to our upland game birds."

VERMONT SCHOOL

Our P.-T. A. met Thursday night. We were glad to have so many present. Several matters of vital interest were discussed. Mrs. Gandy gave a good talk on report cards. After this a suit case and a cracker contest furnished a bit of laughter for the entire crowd. Refreshments were served by the committee. The committee wishes to thank all the ladies that were so willing to bring things.

The P.-T. A. will have as their guest the Isabella P.-T. A. on Tuesday night, January 23. We hope to show them just as big a time as they showed us when we visited them on Monday night, January 8. We are afraid it is almost impossible, Mr. Johnson says so anyway, because he is afraid he want get five cups of coffee and three pieces of cake.

Miss Cagle carried her pupils on a hike last Thursday morning. They left about 9 o'clock and went about a mile northeast of the school building. On their journey they collected a large number of nature's products. Everyone had their arms full of mosses, rocks, violets, etc. The collection proved more interesting after they were arranged in a rock garden in Miss Cagle's room.

Last Saturday the Antioch church sponsored a box supper given at the school building. The proceeds will be used in payment on a piano that was recently placed in the church.

The faculty was out of the community the past week end. Miss Manning and Miss Cagle spent Saturday night and Sunday with the latter's parents at Mitchell Dam.

Miss Grant spent the week end with her parents in Cooper.

Mr. Johnson motored to Birmingham and reported a nice trip. We are sorry that his big time gave him such a cold that he was not able to be in school Monday.

The coaches of the girls and boys basket ball teams, Miss Cagle and Mr. Johnson, called the boys and girls together Wednesday morning for the purpose of re-organizing the teams. Francis Kendrick was elected captain and Gladys Sansom, alternate captain of the girls. T. J. Ratliff was elected captain and Earlo Short, alternate captain of the boys.

Last Friday, January 12, the boys and girls of this school played a practice game with Isabella boys and girls. The girls and boys worked hard to win but in the end the Isabella girls won 7 to 2 and the Isabella boys won 10 to 4. The losing sides took the defeat like sports and determined not to give up. We will be glad to have them visiting back again.

We regret that a few of the pupils are out with the measles. Our enrollment has been pulled down quite a bit by pupils who are absent for fear they will catch them, but we are sending home all who have been exposed and we are hoping the absent will return.

D. T. POPWELL DIED FRIDAY

The death of D. T. (Dutch) Popwell, age 49 years, occurred about three o'clock last Friday morning at his home three miles south of Clanton. He had been in bad health for several months.

Burial services were at Bethel cemetery Saturday, in charge of Martin. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. S. Kelley, Rev. Tucker and Rev. Davis.

Members of the immediate family surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Deca (Culver) Popwell, and four sons, Arnell, Holland, William and Moses Popwell.

He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Ann Popwell; one brother, L. D. Popwell; and two sisters, Mrs. Ida Thomas and Mrs. Wiley Gray. He was a son of Alfred Popwell, who died a few years ago.

PLEASANT GROVE

JEMISON

We met in Sunday school Sunday morning and had a very good attendance, but not half as many as we would like to see in as good a community as this. Come, dear, people, let's wake up to the needs of God's work. If we want to be happy we have got to strive for happiness, and the only true joy is in God's service.

Messrs. Woodley and Algie Crumpton went to Birmingham Thursday.

Miss Rubye Wright visited her sister, Mrs. Clarence Marcus, of Thorsby, Thursday night.

The Prices went to Clanton Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Zuber.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Woodley spent Sunday with his father and mother.

Misses Velma and Myrtle Price spent Saturday night with Miss Grace Wells, and Miss Grace spent Sunday with the Prices.

Mrs. Terrell of Selma visited Mrs. Philip Franklin last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davenport and children, J. D., Dorothy, Cathleen and Nellie Gene, spent Sunday with her brother, Mr. Jesse Ray of Center Hill community.

Mrs. Algie Crumpton spent a while with the Misses Champion Thursday night.

The Rev. Horace Nabors will preach here next Sunday after Sunday school. We desire a large congregation. So everybody that can, come and let's make a great service for our Lord, who requires so much of us.

The old Martin Franklin gold mine of this community is in operation again.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marcus of Thorsby visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wright, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Franklin visited Mr. and Mrs. Tom Zuber Sunday.

Messrs. Emmett Miskelley, Phillip Franklin and Tom Zuber visited Mr. Briggs Hodgens Sunday afternoon. He is improving in health nicely.

PATES CHAPEL

Here we come again after so long a time. I'm wondering if anyone missed anything out of the papers.

Health in this community is good at present, except a few bad colds.

Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. went off just splendid Sunday. We had a big crowd both times. We elected new officers Sunday night for B. Y. P. U.

Mr. and Mrs. Rascoe Maddox of Thorsby were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hayes and Mr. Alex Maddox and son, S. E.

Some few from this community attended the hard time party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wess Gletty Saturday night. A nice time was reported by all.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes and daughter were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rainwater.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion from Cedar Grove were visitors to this community the past week end.

Misses Lorene and Lucille Cleckler and Emily Pate had dinner with the Misses Alpha, Wilma and Ennis Robinson Sunday.

Miss Zemma Hayes had dinner with Miss Carrie Bolton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hayes and children had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Chester Maddox and family Sunday.

Mr. Lee Hayes visited Mr. M. Manning Sunday.

Mrs. Lee Hayes had dinner with Mrs. E. J. Hayes Sunday.

We have singing here every third Sunday afternoon. Preaching days are first Saturday night at 6:30 and Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Everybody is invited. Rev. M. Lockhart is our pastor. To know him to to love him.

There were a few accidents that happened around here the past few weeks. Mr. A. S. Pitchford has an injured leg from falling in a new ground. Little Carl Maddox has a broken arm, and Mr. V. A. Hayes lost a mule.

HIGHLAND NEWS

A large crowd attended Sunday school Sunday. Everyone come back next Sunday and bring someone with you.

Don't forget, next Sunday is our regular singing afternoon. Everyone come and let's make this the best singing of the new year. We especially invite all singers to come and be with us and bring your new 1934 Stamps-Baxter song books.

This community was saddened by the death of Rev. Hand at about 8 o'clock Saturday night. We extend our greatest sympathy to his family and loved ones.

Mrs. Sheffield and daughter, Winnie Lee, of Anniston, Ala., are visiting her sister, Mrs. M. D. Dickey and family.

Mrs. Cora Smith of Thorsby, Ala., spent the latter part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Lige Weldon and daughter, Ruth Maddox.

Miss Rubye Weldon spent a while with Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Short of the Cross Roads community last Friday night.

Mrs. Cora Smith and Mrs. Abbie Weldon spent a while Saturday with Mrs. J. B. Coe.

Mrs. Lillie Weldon and daughter, Rubye, spent a while Tuesday morning with Mrs. A. T. Robinson.

A large crowd enjoyed the singing at Mrs. M. D. Dickey's Wednesday night. Everyone reported a fine time.

Mrs. Lillie Weldon and children spent a while with Mrs. Ida Hamilton Saturday night.

Mrs. A. T. Robinson spent a while Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Lillie Weldon.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Billingsley and little son, Billie, spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hamilton and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coe had as their guests Sunday Mrs. Lillie Weldon and sons, Leonard and C. B.

Mr. J. B. Coe spent Sunday night with Mr. C. B. Weldon.

Miss Euna Powell was the Sunday dinner guest of Mrs. M. D. Dickey.

Miss Rubye Weldon was the guest of Miss Mildred Coe Sunday.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mr. J. B. Sims, of Verbena, is in the hospital for medical treatment.

Ernest Sims, of Verbena, was brought to the hospital January 14, with injuries from an auto accident. He is improving.

Little Margaret Waldrop was admitted to the hospital January 15 in a critical condition, which is unchanged at this writing.

Mrs. F. L. Thompson will be able to go home this week.

Holly Cherry is fast improving.

Dewey Robinson, of Jemison, had an operation for appendicitis January 12. He is doing nicely now.

Mrs. W. A. Gore had a minor operation January 16. She was dismissed the same day.

G. Jonifer Headley died at the hospital last Sunday two hours after being injured in a truck accident.

Arthur Thomas was admitted to the hospital Sunday with minor injuries sustained in an accident. He was discharged the same day.

Mrs. Julius Simmons was discharged January 13.

J. C. Price was discharged January 13.

Raymond Marcus had a minor operation January 12, and was discharged on the following day.

L. D. Davis, colored, is doing nicely, following amputation of his leg last week.

REV. J. S. HAND DIED SATURDAY

Rev. J. Starling Hand, age 51 years, died last Saturday night at 8 o'clock at his home two and a half miles southewest of Clanton, after a lingering illness of several months.

Burial was at Mt. Pisgah Sunday, with Spigener directing. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell and Rev. J. W. Jones.

Rev. Hand is survived by his wife, Mrs. Bessie (Headley) Hand; two sons, Cornelius and Leonard; one daughter, Mrs. Jewel Hayes; one brother, Lonnie Hand; three half-brothers, Elbert and Reedie Hand, of Deatsville, and Walter Hand, of Mt. Creek; three sisters, Mrs. Ola Headley and Mrs. Ethel Mayo, of Prattville, and Mrs. Mallie McInvale of Ashland City, Tenn.

Rev. Hand was born in Coosa County, the son of John Hand. He came to Chilton County with his family when he was eighteen years of age. His father died at Deatsville about five years ago.

For the past 29 years Rev. Hand was engaged in Baptist ministerial work. His field of activity carried him into eighteen different counties of the state. He attended the old Baptist Collegiate Institute at Newton for five years in preparation for the ministry.

JOHN ANDREW GREEN DIED

John Andrew Green died last Wednesday night at his home in Georgiana. He was 72 years of age, and a former resident of Chilton County.

He is survived by the following children; Mrs. Otis Deloach of Clanton; Earl and Clifton Green, of Montgomery; Mrs. Clara Baxter and Race Green of Georgiana.

Miss Grace Robinson, of Central Alabama Hospital, attended the funeral.

E. H. FOSHEE IS FOR REYNOLDS

Editor Union-Banner:

I have always acted upon my own convictions, and that has not always been a popular thing to do. Yet I feel like I enjoy the friendship of as many people in Chilton County as any other private citizen, and it is to those friends I am writing.

I have never lived out of the State of Alabama, but have always been a close observer. I have known quite a few great men in the 59 years that I have lived. Among those great men I place Judge L. H. Reynolds, whom we have all known and who has never failed us.

When we have been sitting around our firesides enjoying the company of our families, Reynolds has deprived himself of this great enjoyment, and has been constantly out fighting for the cause of the common people.

Whose Probate Judge has Lewis Reynolds been? I can answer that by saying every citizen of Chilton County. For in the heart of every fair minded man and women of the county they all feel proud of every stand he has taken in public matters.

I live down here in Lowndes county and I am told there are only two or three Republicans among the 1,500 voters. Even the Democrats down here in the Black Belt say Reynolds is a wonderful man and a good Probate Judge. I say let us first try to get him to run for Probate Judge, and then let us elect him.

I hope my Chilton County friends will not forget Marion Foshee for Circuit Clerk. I am counting on you to help nominate him. Also should my Democratic friends see fit I would like very much for you to help Judge McCord, and Judge Tate.

The people of Chilton County should feel proud of your financial standing.—Faithfully yours, E. H. Foshee, Lowndesboro, Ala.

Reports say that the new stone schoolhouse at Cooper is being pushed along. It is being built as a C.W.A. project.

CHESTNUT GROVE NEWS

Our pastor, A. B. Camant, of Wilton, did not fill his regular appointment here last Sunday at 3 o'clock p. m. We had a nice Sunday school last Sunday.

Mr. Lee Nabors, of Jemison, and his wife and wife's father, Mr. Scott, were in our community last Thursday on business.

Mr. Bill Holcombe, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Denson and Mr. Jim Denson of Chestnut Grove visited relatives in Birmingham Saturday and Sunday.

We are glad to hear that we will get a full term of school here this year. And we hope to see the children make their grades.

We heard Mr. Montgomery make a good speech at Providence last Tuesday night on the cotton acreage. We think he made it very plain to all present.

Science says Today use a LIQUID Laxative

If you want to GET RID of Constipation worries—

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and in some cases even affect the liver and kidneys.

A doctor will tell you that the wise choice of laxatives is a comfort because of chronic constipation.

Fortunately, the public is fast coming to the use of laxatives of this form.

DIA... properly prepared liquid laxatives as a perfect movement. No discomfort at the time or sickness after. You don't need "a double dose" a day

PEA...

CHE... any laxative, always Not the claims, but if it contains one don't take it.

Peo... Syrup Pepsin is a preparation in which Thou... drugs. Its in... label. By using it, you avoid danger of bowel strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable; you can make constipated spells as rare as colds.

The liquid test:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels," but strong cathartics:

First. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find is suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without any need of stimulation.

Syrup pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used. It contains senna, a natural laxative which is perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Make this lip test

LOOK at them... and your cheeks, too, without make-up. Do they possess the natural glow of health, which comes from a sufficiency of rich, red blood? If they do, make-up is simple... if they don't read on... you may find one of the reasons why your skin is not clear and rosy.

You cannot have red lips, rosy cheeks, energy and cheerfulness if your blood is in a run-down condition. Lack of hemo-glo-bin, the red coloring of the blood, may also indicate a weakened condition of the body... loss of strength... poor appetite.

S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic but a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in restoring a low hemo-glo-bin content. If your condition suggests a blood tonic of this kind, try S.S.S. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite... your color and skin should improve with increased strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes... the larger is more economical.

CANE CREEK

The depression may have us down financially but spiritually we are on the upgrade. Had a large crowd out for Saturday morning and Saturday night preaching. Also a large crowd for Sunday morning services. Rev. W. E. Robinson certainly delivered four inspiring sermons. You folks that are not attending church are certainly missing a treat.

Our singing in the afternoon was well attended and again we want to thank you visitors who came out and helped us. W. L. Sanders acted as chairman for the afternoon. He sang one song and then had prayer by Rev. W. E. Robinson. Directors who sang two songs each were: Emmett Wilson, Johnnie Minor, Harry Parker, W. A. Clackler, Floyd Little, J. W. Clackler, Fonza A. Cleckler, Marion Mims, Mrs. Marion Mims, Lillie Mae Weldon, Lula Clackler, Loudelia Clackler, Martell Blankeship and Morris Clackler. A quartet composed of Fanza Clackler, Emmett Wilson, Mrs. Marion Mims, and W. A. Clackler, sang two songs Organists were Lillie Mae Weldon, Lula Clackler, Linnie Gillespie, Fonza Clackler and Lena Smith.

Sunday night the Mineral Springs B. Y. P. U. put on a program at this place that they can justly be proud of. We invite them back any time.

Following the program Rev. W. E. Robinson delivered a stirring sermon.

Beginning next Monday night, January 22, and running for five nights, we will have a B. Y. P. U. training school with our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson, as director. Everybody invited to attend. Then we are going to organize our B. Y. P. U.

Remember our Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and our regular preaching day, the second Saturday and Sunday of each month. Also our singing the second Sunday afternoon and a hearty welcome is extended to each and everyone of you.

REFUGE NEWS

Health of this community is good except some few have colds. Mrs. R. N. Connell was not out at services Sunday on account of a very bad cold. We hope she will be out next Sunday.

There were fairly good crowds out Sunday and Sunday night, although we know the crowd could have been larger if everyone would have done their duty. Come next Sunday with well prepared lessons.

Rev. Durbin filled his regular appointment at White City Sunday, accompanied by his little daughter, Irma.

There was a wedding of much interest in this community Saturday night, Mr. Leonard Bryant and Miss Ethel Mae Easterling. The groom was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Bryant, of Coosa county. The bride was the charming daughter of Mr. J. E. Easterling. We wish them a long and happy life together.

Reports say that Mrs. Mollie Easterling, who is in the hospital, is doing very well. We hope she will soon regain her health and return to her home.

The fourth Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. We hope there will be a large crowd at each service. On Saturday we are expecting Rev. J. W. Jones from Thorsby. Dr. Ezell of Clanton and also Dr. L. E. Barton of Montgomery, who is the secretary of our state Baptist work. We wish that the entire membership of this church would be present.

UNION GROVE

Mrs. Luther Jones and baby have been on the sick list and we hope they will be out again soon.

Little Holland (Jiggs) Vinzant, who has been seriously ill in St. Vincent Hospital, is at home and getting along fine.

Last Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night were our regular preaching dates by our Pastor, Rev. Nabors.

We are glad to say that the singing society has come to life again. The society met at this place Sunday afternoon with a large crowd and some good singing. Chairman for the afternoon was Mr. A. H. Glasscock, and the following directors sang from one to three songs each: A. H. Glasscock, Marvin Campbell, Brasher Northcutt, P. M. Cleckler, Akins Collins, E. L. Glasscock and James Marlar. Organists were Miss Jessie Dorminey, Mrs. Akins Collins and Mrs. J. L. Gore. We invite everybody to come back next second Sunday afternoon. The society meets with Collins Chapel next Sunday afternoon. Everybody that can go and help out with the singing.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are getting better and we hope it will keep growing.

Miss Christine Davis spent Saturday night and Sunday with Miss Dorthea Littlefield.

Miss Winnie Kate Robinson spent Sunday with Miss Ruth Vanderslice.

Mrs. Lurline Bean of Clanton spent part of last week with her mother, Mrs. P. M. Martin.

Mr. Howard Mundoy of Bessemer spent Sunday with Mr. Leonard Chandler.

Misses Clara and Jewell Thrash and Bessie Hilson spent Sunday with Miss Edna Robinson.

Prof. Harlem Daniel of Collins Chapel was a visitor in our community Sunday afternoon.

WILLIAM J. CALLAWAY DIED

Mr. William J. Callaway, age 82 years, passed away at his residence in South Clanton early Sunday morning. Funeral services were held on Monday at 11 o'clock at Chestnut Creek church, Cooper, Rev. S. J. Ezell officiating. Interment was in the adjoining cemetery, with Spigener in charge.

Mr. Callaway is survived by his widow; five sons, W. A., Harley, and George W. Callaway, of Cooper; Ralph Callaway, of San Antonio, Texas; and John Callaway, whose address is unknown; four daughters, Mrs. Fannie Smith, of Clanton; Mrs. A. B. Jones, of Marbury; Mrs. Frank Ireland, of Mt. Creek; Mrs. W. D. McKinney, of Buhl, Ala.; three brothers, Jasper Calloway, of Deatsville; John Callaway, of Providence, and G. G. Callaway, of Tuscaloosa; one sister, Mrs. T. L. Robinson, of Verbena.

CARD OF THANKS

For the many acts of kindness and consolation, may we extend our heartfelt thanks to those in our recent bereavement in the loss of our little one.—Mr. and Mrs. Leo Thompson.

BOX SUPPER AT EAST VIEW

There will be a box supper at East View church, three miles west of Cooper, Friday night, January 19. The proceeds will go to paint the church. All candidates and prospective candidates have a special invitation to attend. It will be a good chance to meet the people and at the same time help a good cause.—A. C. Nelson.

FOURSQUARE PEOPLE PLAN TO BUILD A NEW CHURCH

The Foursquare church of Clanton is entering into plans whereby they hope to approach the building of a new church house in the near future. It is the plan of the people there to sell out the land on which their church building is now located for cemetery lots and purchase lots somewhere else in town and erect a modern building on them.

The plans are not complete yet, but they are already selling cemetery lots on the part of their property east of the present building. Anyone wishing desirable lots should see them at once. When the building is moved, it is their intention to sell out that property likewise.

GEORGE JONIFER HEADLEY DIED

Mr. George Jonifer Headley, age 69 years, died Sunday at Central Alabama Hospital, about an hour after he was severely injured in a truck accident.

He was on his way to the cemetery to prepare the grave for the burial of his son-in-law, Rev. J. S. Hand, when the accident happened resulting in his unexpected death.

Mr. Headley was riding on a truck with two of his grandsons. As they came down the street in front of the home of Dr. J. P. Crumpton a tire on the front wheel of the truck blew out. The driver lost control of the machine and it swerved across the street, climbed the curb and struck a tree in front of the home of Grady Reynolds. When the truck struck the tree Mr. Headley was thrown out and hurled against the curb with great force.

He was picked up and carried immediately to the hospital, where he lived only about an hour.

Surviving him are his widow; one son, H. D. Headley; four daughters, Mrs. Bessie Hand, Mrs. Mary Tyus, Mrs. Emma Davidson, of Tarrant and Mrs. Alice Payton; 17 grandchildren; one half brother, Jim Edwards; three sisters, Mrs. Maud Roland and Mrs. Sallie Robbins, and Mrs. Georgia Popwell.

Funeral services were held Monday at two p.m., at Mt. Pisgah church. Burial was in the adjoining cemetery, with Spigener in charge.

195 CODES APPROVED; 350 OTHERS PENDING

Washington.—Six months after affixing his signature to the first code of fair competition, on Sunday night, July 9, the President approved the one hundred and ninety-fifth for the cotton cloth glove manufacturing industry. An idea as to the diversity of the trades he has studied meticulously, some of which he has been engaged upon for weeks, is gained from the list of the last approvals, as follows: Matches, folding paper box; cinders, ashes, and scavenger trade; coated asbestos; paper stationary and tablet manufacturing; end grain strip wood block industry; velvet industry; shoe and leather finish and polish; cement manufacturing industry; household ice refrigerator industry; concrete pipe manufacturing industry; cast iron pressure pipe industry; blouse and skirt manufacturing; and cotton cloth glove manufacturing. Henceforth personal approvals of the codes by the President will be confined to the major industries or trades employing 50,000 or more, all others being approved by the National Recovery Administrator.

ATLANTA SUNDAY AMERICAN TO PUBLISH WAR PICTURES

Atlanta, Ga.—The Atlanta Sunday American announces the publication in its next three issues of a series of uncensored photographs of scenes of the World War. There will be from three to five full pages of these war pictures in each issue.

The original photographs were made under fire, during actual combat and the scenes they depict are almost unbelievable. They show war as it was—with all of its suffering and its horror. Every individual and every organization should see these remarkable pictures.

The first pictures will appear in the Atlanta Sunday American, dated January 21st. Others follow in the issues of January 28th and Feb 4th. Order the Atlanta Sunday American thorugh your local agent or ask for it at your newsstand or drug store dealer.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

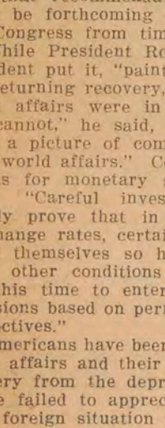
President Roosevelt has read his message to Congress and the nation's legislative body is once more under way. Just what the results will be remains to be seen. The enthusiastic reception given the president when he appeared at the capitol would indicate that congress intends to go along with him. In short, congress has come in like a lamb. Whether it will go out in the same way or assume leonine attributes before the session is over, remains to be seen. At this time the administration has the situation well in hand, so far as the control of legislation is concerned.

If there were any who expected the President to enunciate new programs for recovery or a modification of those already in effect, they have learned that they were mistaken. The president displayed a feeling of optimism so far as the prospects for national recovery are concerned, and instead of suggesting new things, has demanded an expansion of the new deal, which he thinks is necessary to insure progress. No details were given as to the development of the program in the near future but it is expected that recommendations for these details will be forthcoming in additional messages to Congress from time to time.

While President Roosevelt, as one correspondent put it, "paints an optimistic picture of returning recovery," his comments on foreign affairs were in a more subdued vein. "I cannot," he said, "unfortunately, present you a picture of complete optimism regarding world affairs." Commenting on the prospects for monetary stabilization he declared: "Careful investigation and constant study prove that in the matter of foreign exchange rates, certain of our sister nations find themselves so handicapped by internal and other conditions that they feel unable at this time to enter into stabilization discussions based on permanent and world- wide objectives."

Americans have been so wrapped up in their own affairs and their efforts for national recovery from the depression that most of us have failed to appreciate the seriousness of the foreign situation at this time. Undoubtedly the president realizes the seriousness of world conditions much better than can the average citizen and this doubtless accounts in part with the quality of his tone in touching on conditions outside the borders of the United States.

It is worth nothing, however, that while we are concerned with such questions as currency expansion, the budget, unemployment, banking, and so on, the people in European capitals are talking openly of war. Some of the politicians over there think that hostilities will come in the year 1934. There is ar of war everywhere, a state of mind hich is apt to bring on the very thing ich the people are afraid of. For example: French people are convinced that Ger- is rearming and that it is only a ques- of time until the Teuton armies will the march again. The question is be- ked in France whether it would not er for French armies to strike before y is any better prepared than at pres-



Orient the situation is not far dif- ussia claims to fear the movements s in the Far East and many stu- riental affairs are predicting war the year is out. France has al- nd and the Little Entente and is Russia as a possible aid in case England and Italy are on the iting developments. War along in Asia could easily start a tion. So it is possible that usy with our own national ar we may find the situation again.

Forecasts For the Year

Although most of the forecasts of business conditions during the coming year, made by experienced economists, are hopeful in tone, there is a noticeable moderation in the optimism. Part of this is no doubt due in part to the fact that hopeful prophecies made on the New Year during the past three or four years, have resulted in disappointments. Another reason for not indulging in undue enthusiasm is the fact that there are still obstacles to be met and overcome before we are back on the calm seas of prosperity again.

One of the points most frequently mentioned in this year's batch of predictions was that there must be a halt in the growth of public expenditures and a serious attempt to balance the budget if we are to have uninterrupted progress from this time forward. Laurence P. Morse, financial editor of the Boston Transcript, while optimistic about the future, declares that "there is no use fooling ourselves about "extraordinary and ordinary budget.". The income and outgo simply do not come within speaking distance of each other. An actual deficit of $2,500,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 will have to be made up in one of three ways, and it makes all the difference in the world to the economic future of this country which one of the ways is chosen."

Roger Babson, optimistic for the long pull, takes occasion in his forecast of the year to call attention to the increased burden of public debt and adds that the government's practice of having two budgets, ordinary and extraordinary, is only "an attempt to kid the public." He adds that we cannot go on forever increasing taxes and forever throttling business, and predicts that a reaction to excessive taxation is coming.

Calling attention to the fact that there has been an insufficient stimulus to the capital goods industries, James R. Bancroft, president of the American Iustitute of Finance, expresses the opinion that prosperity will not return to the country until three conditions are met: first, there must be an abandonment of the principle of depreciating and tinkering with our money; second, the government should pay attention to stimulating the purchasing power of corporations rather than individuals, and so helping the heavy or capital goods industries; third, the administration should direct major attention toward re-establishing a satisfactory earning power in industry rather than toward "redistribution of wealth."

The general tone of the New Year predictions is hopeful though not enthusiastic. The hope seems justified by world conditions. Things are getting better in Canada, in Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and South America, just as they are improving here. The history of depression in the past is that liquidation seldom, if ever, lasts more than four years. That four year period is now behind us. Unless something unforseen occurs, the going ought to be gently upward from now on.

Same Old Problems

If former American statesmen, long passed from this earthly scene, are able to look back, they must feel homesick as they view the events and problems which have troubled the country in recent months.

One striking parallel is the certainty with which our great national expositions, planned far in advance, fall in lean years. The Philadelphia Centennial Exposition of 1876 suffered from the effects of the 1873 panic; the Columbian Exposition of 1893 in Chicago was badly handicapped by the hard times of that period. Last year's Century of Progress had to deal with a similar situation.

At this stage of the game, when no one can say with certainty just what will happen next, it is comforting to know that both of the earlier great expositions were followed, and within a few years, by greater prosperity than had preceded them.

The greenback problem, which split the nation at the time of the Philadelphia celebration, was officially ended two years later, in January, 1879, when the government resumed specie payments. Free silver, the burning issue of the early 90's, was talked out in the 1896 campaign, and by 1898 the country was prosperous enough to consent to a new war.

No one can see very far ahead in these days, but it is certain that millions were as worried and perplexed in 1876 and in 1893 as millions are today. Apparently governments, like men, never forget and never learn. —Duluth Herald.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

A Chronic Objector

One of the mysteries of all time is the meddler, or "busy britches"—the chronic type. Just why one should take it upon himself to probe into things that are none of his own affair, for the sole cause of stirring up prejudice and misunderstanding, when there is no possible way that he might profit thereby is just a little hard to understand. Take, for instance, the case of Mr. H. B. Oliver. His tirade of last week in regard to the CWA is a fair example of his attacks. It is a little hard to decide just what Mr. Oliver hopes to accomplish. Does he hope to draw some local official out on a definite stand in regard to the matter? Is he trying to get some CWA official in hot water? Is there something to be read between the lines in his article? Or is he merely upholding his record of trying to pick flaws in anything and everything that comes along? Of all the epistles that have come from Mr. Oliver, in the past, I have not found one of commendation of anything or anybody. His letters always are of a critical type—always words of the chronic objector. You may be sure Mr. Oliver is not looking for a job, unless it be that of self-appointed investigator. He is wealthy and could not possibly be interested in that phase of the matter. And he seems particularly peeved because Republicans have received jobs with the CWA. There is the core of the matter. He allows the old hatred of the 60's to so possess him, that he is willing to throw the shadow of suspicion on anyone in order to serve his own ends. How does he know that 90 per cent of the CWA workers are Republicans? Has he donned his "busy-britches" and gone out and made a survey of them? I don't think so. I believe Mr. Oliver has only allowed his imagination and prejudice to run away with him again. He would rather see the whole affair sink than to see a Republican receive anything. Could you call that public spirited? I don't think so. That's more like party prejudice—the old chronic objector again. From all this, then, let's let a few old adages sum up Mr. Oliver's case. There's one that says: "Guilt suspects guilt." Maybe that applies. Maybe Mr. Oliver is so intent on seeing our Republicans pushed out in the cold, that he imagines he sees the Democrats getting a raw deal. Another says: "He who attends to the business of others has none of his own." Well, Mr. Oliver could afford that. As said before, he is quite wealthy, and, judging from his actions and caustic remarks in the past, has nothing to do but check up on other people and their business, and then "write to the papers about it." How that man does like to see his name in print. But in justice to Mr. Oliver, I must add that he is not the only chronic objector in this neck of the woods. There are a few others, but not many, thank goodness! I believe if Gabriel should sound his trumpet and sail by in the golden chariot, that Mr. Oliver and others like him would start an investigation to see if there were any Republicans aboard before they decided to hop on for the long ride to the pearly gates.

Little and Daniel

It is very probable that Luther Little will be the Democratic nominee for County Superintendent of Education in the coming general election next fall. So far as I have been able to find, no other name has been mentioned in the Democratic ranks for the position. It must be said for Mr. Little that his service as Superintendent has been highly satisfactory. In the beginning, he stated that his office would be kept for the purpose of attending to school matters, and not a political lobby, and he has made good on his word. Things have run smoothly in this office since he has had it. I have not heard one word of criticism of Mr. Little or his official actions. He has played square with one and all, Republican or Democrat. He has let what he thought was to the best interest of the county's schools be his guide in making all his decisions. He has not allowed his personal or political feelings enter into his official duties. He has made good. On the other hand, Republicans will see Elly Daniels, a young man of unquestioned ability and training and sterling character in the race on our side of the fence. I do not know if there will be other Republican candidates. But if the race should come down between Little and Daniel, the people would see such a race as is seldom seen in politics nowadays. Both are especially trained for the job. Both are are young, with modern ideas and methods. Both attended the same school, Chilton County High, and, if I am not mistaken, about the same time. Both are especially trained for job. Both are clean, upright men, against whom nothing can be found. They are the best of friends, each of them looking first to the welfare of the schools. Both of the boys have assured me that they intend to wage a hard fight, but above all, a clean one. They are the kind of fellows who could campaign together, although political opponents. If the race narrows down to these two I will watch it with interest. It is sure to be a clean, hard fight, and no matter which wins, Chilton's schools will be in capable hands.

Nature Tried to Help

Nature is certainly wonderful, but Californians are about to decide that the old dame has turned her back on them, after all. You know people from California will talk to you until they are black in the face about their wonderful climate. But on January 1st of this year, their climate played them a nasty trick. After all their bragging about the balmy, sunshiny weather, with thousands of people from all over the country on hand to witness the Rose festival and the Rose Bowl football game, the weather man turned on the hose, and California had more rain in one day than they usually have over a period of years. That put a crimp in their style, as they wanted to show their visitors their wonderful country. But you can't head those people—they figured out of it, and here's how they did it. They remembered that Mr. Butler was dean of Columbia University, and that Columbia's football team was to be in the big game for that day. Mr. Butler, you know, is about the first of the big boys to begin the agitation for repeal of the 18th Amendment. So, the Californians say, in honor of Mr. Butler, the nation's outstanding "wet" citizen, they ordered the heavy rain, just to let him know that they remembered his importance, and to make him feel at home. They also tell us that the reason they have the slight tremblers almost every day is to remind visitors that theirs is a stirring country. They're good—every one of them ought to become land salesmen or auctioneers.

They run in Tens

Every once in a while something curious comes along. Here's the latest one I have uncovered. Uncle Riley Robinson, of Beat 16, is 83 years old. His brother, Henry, is 73. A son of Uncle Riley, Rev. Willie Robinson, is 63. Another son, R. Moses, is 53. Still another son, John E., is 43. A grandson, Grady Bates, is 33. Another grandson, Ernest Bates, is 23. A great-grandson, Lawrence Bates, is 13. And another great-grandson, Floyd Bates, is 3. That's a funny one.

For Calendar Collectors

Lots of people go calendar collecting during the first few days of each year. I don't know if they want the pictures or the calendar part, but they go out after them just the same. But just in case you don't care for the new pictures, but just want to have something to look at to keep your days and dates together, here's a tip. If you have saved your old calendars for the past several years, dig up an old one for the year 1917, and it will be as good as one for 1934. They are exactly alike. Beginning with Monday, January 1, they run together week in and week out all through the year. Look up an old calendar and see for yourself.

Hull and Our Policy

We are all a bit puzzled by the statements of Secretary of State Cordell Hull in the Montevideo conference. Maybe he is talking in the language of diplomacy which sometimes is difficult to understand, and certainly good Americans everywhere are desirous of his prompting the most cordial relations possible with our neighbors to the south, but if he pledged this country to a policy of absolute non-intervention in the affairs of Central and South America, this pledge to stand under any and all circumstances, he may have covered too much territory.

If, on the other hand, Mr. Hull merely said that it would be the policy of this country never to intervene unless our own interests were so affected as to make temporary intervention a necessity, he tracked closely the thought of his fellow citizens.

To say, however, that in no possible situation the United States intervene in affairs south of Mexico's northern territorial line might easily mean that we had abandoned the Monroe Doctrine and this, we feel quite sure, we have not done unless during the term of the present national administration.

And, indeed, there have been times when our southern neighbors have been very glad to have the United States take an active part in their affairs. If we had not done so in Cuba that independent nation no doubt would still be a mere colony of Spain. Supposing we had not notified Great Britain, once on a time, that the United States would protect Venezuela by force if necessary, it is barely possible Britain would have gained a substantial foothold upon the South American continent. It was by invitation of the de facto government of Nicaragua that we intervened there some years ago and administered her finances so she could pay off the debts owed to European creditors who were pressing the little republic.

And we have no doubt that should any of the great powers threaten to use force against one of the Central or South American republics, a great cry would go up for Uncle Sam to intervene to the extent, at least, of protecting his suasi wards under the Monroe Doctrine. So we may hope that Secretary Hull in his desire to be amiable and to obtain the valued good will of the southern republics does not make any promises we might be unable, some day, to fulfill.—Muncie Evening Press.

Gold and Silver

That the gold purchase policy of the administration has failed, in two months trial, to raise the price of commodities in terms of the American dollar is evidenced by the results. Whether the policy will be pushed harder in the new year or permitted to die into stabilization remains to be seen. The outstanding fact is that the gold plan of the so-called Brain Trust, under the sponsorship of Professor Warren, has not yet come up to expectations.

It will be remembered that the RFC started its gold price fixing policy on October 25. Since that time, within two months the price of gold has been advanced at Washington from $29.80 an ounce to $34.06, an increase of fourteen per cent. But at the end of this sixty day period wheat had declined eight cents a bushel in terms of the American dollar, corn had dropped nearly six cents a bushel, while rye had shrunk 14 cents a bushel in value. By Moody's index, which is based on prices of a number of commodities, prices declined 1.3 per cent as gold was advancing 14 per cent, while the Dow Jones index, during the same period showed a decline of 2.4 per cent in commodities.

No League For Us

Perhaps the most significant part of President Roosevelt's address at the Woodrow Wilson dinner, from the purely American standpoint, was that devoted to the League of Nations. After paying tribute to President Wilson's idealism in proposing a League of Nations for the settlement of international questions without war, the president continued: "His appeal meant little to the imagination or to the hearts of a large number of the so-called statesmen who gathered in Paris to assemble a treaty of so-called peace in 1919. I saw that with my own eyes and heard that with my own ears. Political profit, personal prestige, national aggrandizement attended the birth of the League of Nations and handicapped it from its infancy by seeking their own profit and their own safety first."

Then, admitting that the League had shown some usefulness as a meeting place and the promotion of certain international movements outside hte realm of politics, moves in which Uncle Sam has cooperated, the president continued:

"We are not members and we do not contemplate membership. We are giving cooperation to the League in every matter which is not primarily political and in every matter which obviously represents the views and the good of the peoples of the world, as distinguished from the views and the good of political leaders, of privileged classes or of imperialistic aims."

Hitler brings forth a proposal for a ten year peace agreement but the French seem to fear that Adolf has his fingers crossed.

Inquiry about the community club house proposed at the airport brought this terse statement from one authority. "All I can say is the thing is still stewing."

One of our correspondents writes that the cold weather has sped up hog killing, and I am therefore prone to wonder what became of the chitlins.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw— and Some He Saw Not

Your friend, The Man on the Corner, has had the flu during the past week. It was my first offense during the whole period of fifteen years this well-known ailment has been in style. I can now better understand why the flu was such a "taking" influence in the lives of the populace in 1918 when it first came upon us and was a strange and unsolved malady.

Well, well. Somebody always steps in and spoils what appears to be an easy and succulent opportunity. It was thought that Will Culp would have the Republican nomination for Tax Collector without opposition, and here comes Johnnie Easterling with the avowed intention of making him work to hold the job again.

Republican candidates are bursting into bloom every few minutes since the meeting of the Executive Committee Monday. As this is written Tuesday night we already have on the board three new ones for this week, and there will likely be more Wednesday before your Dear Old Banner is printed.

My good old friend, Judge Enoch Foshee, down at Lowndesboro, in the heart of the Black Belt, comes out this week with a letter of endorsement that takes in a wide range of political candidates. He wants his friends at home to support Lewis Reynolds, Marion Foshee, Leon McCord and Loyd Tate. We admire your taste for variety, Judge, if not your choice of candidates.

Mention of the name of Leon McCord for Governor causes me to think of how much fun it will be to watch the genial and universally beloved Sunday School teacher as he goes about the Herculean task of striking the barnacles from the Democratic ship of State in Alabama. I suggest as one item of equipment he provide himself with a submarine blow torch and a deep sea diving outfit. You will have to dig deep, Judge, to get at the root of some of them barnacles.

If all the Democratic barnacles were shaken off the State of Alabama, I think the ship of state would rise into thin air like the little negro boy whose feet were of such large proportions he went straight to heaven the very minute they were amputated.

It would be a fine thing if the C. W. A. had the advantage of some of our private estimators in laying out projects and guessing at the cost of same. For instance, one enthusiastic citizen proceeded Tuesday to inform a group that the airport could not be completed for a cent less than a quarter of a million dollars. He said the stumps on the ground could not be pulled and gotten out of the way for the total amount that has been appropriated to the project.

Anyway, things are moving at the airport. The engineers are showing a fine conception of the future possibilities in making their plans. One hundred men are busy at the job, and we shall soon have a place where pilots can land their planes.

I notice that Alabama's program of combining community centers and recreation facilities with airports has received national commendation. The plan will be given to other states as a guide in their developments along this line. Now, I do not want to be selfish, but in order to keep the record straight, and give credit where credit is due, I am delighted to say this scheme is a product of the fertile brain of our own aero enthusiast and far sighted citizen, Dr. V. J. Gragg. When the first aeronautics engineer came here concerning our airport, Dr. Gragg revealed to him a plan combining airport, community center, and recreation facilities. That is right where the idea got started. This little fact will look big a few years from now when thousands of airports dot the expanses of our country, and each in its own place becomes the commercial, social, and civic center of the country roundabout.

I am glad to note that my friend, Glenn Boyd, has been elevated to the presidency of the City National Bank, of Selma. He is a deserving and able man for this responsible and important position. The late lamented Mr. H. C. Armstrong, whom Mr. Boyd succeeds once said to me: "While I do not admit that I am getting old, yet I feel that the heavy strain of business bears down on me a little harder than it used to. Sensing this strain, I cast about me for a young, vigorous man, whom I could trust to take some of the burdens off my shoulders. I went straight to Glenn Boyd. I knew he was the man I wanted. I got him, and I am proud of him." How fitting, then that Glenn should take the place of this great outstanding banker. I believed the Directors would give him the place, for they knew that he was the choice of H. C. Armstrong himself. And none was a better judge of values than Mr. Armstrong.

The death of Dutch Popwell is lamented by his many friends. He was a rugged man with a soul of intense honesty and character of pure gold. He was not a venturer. A true follower in the footsteps of an honorable and honored father, he chose to plod his way unmolested and unmolesting of everybody. His circle of life took in only territory with which he was familiar. He made no pretentions. He was plain as an old shoe. I hope his simple virtues may find perpectuation in the lives of the four boys he leaves behind.

Tragic and totally without warning was the accident that took the life of Jonifer Headley last Sunday morning. On the way to prepare for the burial of his son-in-law, Rev. J. S. Hand, Mr. Headley himself was literally hurled into eternity. But he must have had a warning or premonition. I am told that he had Ed Edwards to build him a concrete burial vault last week, saying he thought it would not be long until he would need it.

Another old landmark of Chilton County was removed in the passing of Uncle Billy Callaway from the walks of men. His going was as the falling of one of the rugged and towering old trees of the forest. He spent a long life in Chilton County. Half a century ago he was one of the many substantial, good and influential citizens of old Salem community down on Coosa River.

The swamp drainage projects around Clanton continue to go forward under the C.W.A. program. This job will go down in history as the most constructive, valuable and far reaching accomplishment of the new deal as applied to Chilton County. The airport will be next in importance. The situation of the latter makes it actually almost a part of the swamp reclamation.

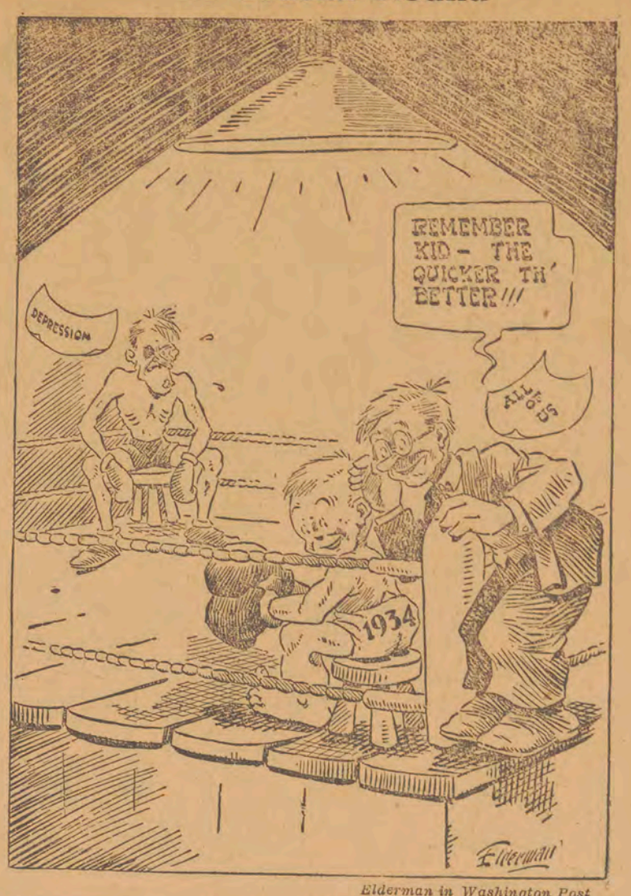
The Crucial Round



Elderman in Washington Post

OAK GROVE

We had a wonderful B. Y. P. U. last Sunday night. We are sure all that were there received a wonderful blessing. Everyone is beginning to feel the need of B. Y. P. U. and is working to help make a perfect union. The Juniors and Group No. 1 have charge of the program next Sunday night. We are expecting them to put us on a good program. We have a new secretary, Miss Dorothy Dees; also a new group captain for Group No. 1, Mr. Loyd Baggett. We are sure that they are going to make good officers. We must cooperate with them, and all pull together and make an A-1 union.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wilkinson spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Cobb.

Miss Mary Jim Sutley dined with Miss Onzell Littleton Sunday.

Mrs. Nannie Samons spent Saturday night with Misses Lillian and Dorothy Dees.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay gave a party at their home Saturday night, January 13. There was a large crowd present. All reported a wonderful time.

Miss Gladys Satterwhite gave a social Saturday afternoon, January 13th, in honor of her intermediate Sunday school class. Games and refreshments were enjoyed by all.

Misses Lillian and Dorothy Dees furnished the young people of this community with a party Tuesday night, January 9th. Everyone had a grand time.

"Just think, Harold tried to put his arm around me four times last night."

"Wow, what an arm."

Wife—The man I refused, before I married you, is now rich.

Husband—But remember, my dear, he didn't marry you.

CENTER HILL NEWS

Well, I am back again. I thought they would elect someone in my place but they haven't yet.

Sunday school was very good Sunday. The following officers were elected for this quarter: Lonnie Cobb, superintendent; Miss Mildred Cobb, secretary and treasurer; J. E. Cobb, teacher class No. 1; Mrs. B. L. Cobb, class No. 2; Herbert Watson, class No. 3; Mrs. Lonnie Cobb, class No. 4; Lloyd Edwards, choir leader; Mrs. J. W. Collum, organist.

Sunday was our regular preaching day, but our preacher sent his resignation instead of coming. So we are short of a preacher.

Mrs. Myrtle Nix Robinson was buried here January 9. She died in the Bryce Hospital in Tuscaloosa, January 6. She leaves to mourn her loss, several sisters, Mrs. Minne Argo of Oxmore, Mrs. A. M. Dees of Calera, Mrs. Joe Glasscock, Mrs. T. P. Crowson, Mrs. W. J. Webb of Jemison; one brother, Joe Nix of Jemison, and one half brother, J. D. Mims of Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. Euell Ray announced the birth of a son born, January 9. They have named him James Raleigh.

Several from here attended the Senior play at Jemison Friday night. Also the graduation exercises Saturday night. Alton and Mildred Cobb of this place were among those who graduated this time. Alton received first prize and Mildred second prize. We folks out this way feel mighty proud of the young folks of Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Cobb.

There was quite a crowd at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb on Sunday night. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Lowery of Providence; Mrs. Lewis Gillespie, of Clanton; Miss Mildred Yarbrough, of Jemison; Mr. Gerald Earl of Macedonia; Mr. Charlie Childress and Misses Agnes and Mary Lou Crumpton and Willie C. Clements of Pleasant Grove; Miss Gladys Moore, of Randolph; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Collum, Messrs. J. T. and J. O. Cobb and Leo, J. W., Jr., and Fred Collum, and Misses Willie Mae Childress, Olean Miller and Addie Collum.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Miller have moved to near Free Springs. We are sorry to lose them.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thornbro of Birmingham spent Wednesday of last week with his sisters and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott and Miss Avon Thornbro.

Miss Ila Ellison of South Calera spent the week end with Miss Lelia George.

What are the Republican ladies going to do? Just sit still and let the Democrat ladies carry off their election year?

150 MILES FOR ONLY 50¢ BY TELEPHONE

By T. E. Harris,
DISTRICT MANAGER
SOUTHERN BELL
Telephone and Telegraph Co.

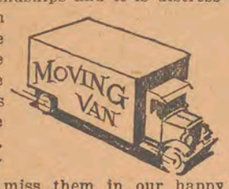
People using long distance telephone service for the first time, often express surprise at finding out how little it costs, and, too, they are astounded when the call is completed while they hold the receiver.

Long Distance telephone service is cheap and most connections are made almost as quickly as a local call, especially when you know the number of the distant telephone.

If you have never experienced the pleasure of a long distance telephone visit with some out-of-town friend or relative, try it tonight. It's cheaper to talk after 8:30 P. M., if you use station-to-station service. To make a station-to-station call, just ask for "long distance" and say to her, "I want to talk to John Doe's residence, station-to-station service."

A voice visit by telephone can be made with relatives or friends 150 miles away for about 50 cents by using station-to-station service after 8:30, and greater or less distances at a correspondingly low cost.

As we go through life we develop close friendships and it is distressing when from time to time these friends move away. We know we will miss them in our happy gatherings. And when they are gone, there will be times when we will wish to hear their voices, and chat naturally with them. Letters just don't fill the need.



When you feel that way, just remember that they are as close to you as your telephone. You need only to reach for your telephone and ask for them, and presto—they are with you.

"Say, is your dog clever?"

"I'll say he is. When I say, 'Are you coming or aren't you?' he either comes or doesn't."

Two Ways to Sell Corn on the Hoof-

This hog
Received corn alone.

Required 12 bushels of corn to make 100 lbs. of gain.

Returned 33c per bu. at $4.00 per cwt. for hogs.

Required more labor, ran greater disease risk, was less thrifty and reached later market.

This hog
Received a blended protein supplement along with the corn.

Required 5⅙ bu. of corn and 50 lbs. blended supplement for 100 lbs. of gain.

Returned 53c for corn at $4.00 per cwt. for hogs, even after allowing $2.50 per cwt. for protein supplement.

Took less labor, ran less disease risk, was thrifty and ready for earlier and higher market.

MAKE YOUR GRAIN FEED FARTHER

Even with the price of hogs and the price of corn as low as they were the past year, numerous controlled feed lot tests have shown that corn alone is the most expensive way to grow and fatten a hog. About twelve bushels of corn are required to produce 100 pounds of pork when fed without a protein supplement to hogs in a dry lot. If hogs are $4 a hundred pounds, that means 33 cents a bushel for corn, allowing nothing for labor and other costs.

Long ago it became known that corn was deficient in protein. Tankage which is very high in protein became the most popular protein supplement to be fed to hogs along with corn. But, tankage also was found to have shortcomings. In the last ten years good hog feeders have learned through work at the agricultural experiment stations and at the Purina Experimental Farm at Gray Summit, Mo., that a variety of proteins will produce better results than will tankage alone.

Now a new forward step has been taken, that of blending. All proteins are not alike and the hog does not make equally good use of all kinds. In a properly blended supplement the different protein building materials for muscle and bone are supplied in such proportions that there is less waste of protein and the amount of feed to put on 100 pounds of pork is reduced. The feed goes farther.

The bill of materials for a house differs from that required to build a barn. Neither a house or a barn could be built efficiently in accordance with a definite plan from a miscellaneous lot of building material. Likewise, nature builds the pig's body according to a definite plan. But man often supplies merely a miscellaneous lot of material. The result is waste of those materials supplied in excess of needs, and failure of construction or growth to proceed at the maximum rate because of a deficiency of other materials.

To find out the most efficient combination of protein sources, the workers at the Purina Experimental Farm inquired at the only reliable source for an answer—the hogs themselves. Over 8,000 hogs have been asked by Purina Research workers, "What do you need in your ration to make more money for hog owners?"

The hogs gave the answer in terms easy to understand. While twelve bushels of corn when fed alone are required to make 100 pounds of gain in weight, with a properly blended protein supplemental chow, 100 pounds of gain can be made from 50 pounds of supplement and slightly over five bushels of corn. Fifty pounds of the supplement, therefore, saves better than six bushels of corn.

Besides making grain feed farther, the blended protein supplement also saves labor and reduces risk by shortening the time from birth to market and it makes possible getting the pigs on the earlier markets during the fall and the spring when prices are usually higher than later.

"Making grain feed farther is highly important this year," say the Purina research men, "because of the shortage of feed crops and the desire of every feeder to make his own grains last through the feeding period."

Facts About Cotton Acre Reducing Plan

The following important facts about the 1934-35 cotton program are given for the information of those concerned:

1. No contract will be taken for less than two acres.
2. You may reduce 35 to 45 per cent from the 1928-32 average acres.
3. The contract may be signed by: owner, cash tenant and managing share teants.
4. Managing share tenants sign with the landlord.
5. Owner signs with cash tenant with one year lease.
6. Tenants that work on halves do not sign contract.
7. Do not increase total acres of crop in 1934 over 1932 or 1933.
8. Rented acres may be planted to food and feed crops to be used at home, or soil building crops.
9. Landowners should sign all their farms cultivated by them and half tenants under one contract.
10. Rent is paid at the rate of 3½ cents per pound of lint cotton for the average yield (1928-1932).
11. Parity payment of not less than 1 cent per pound will be made on 40 per cent of the average production per year 1928-1932.
12. Payment will be made: One-half of the rent in March and April, balance of the rent in August and September, and parity December of this year.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Singing was called to order last Sunday, January 14, at 1:30 o'clock, by Mr. W. M. Devaughn, and prayer by Mr. W. F. Gillilan. The following directed:

W. G. Culp, Jessie Jones, Joe Ben Downs, L. T. Grant, Chester Wyatt, W. F. Gilliland, Floy Devaughn, Dock Harris. Two quartets were arranged by Mr. Jesse Jones an Mr. W. M. Devaughn. Mr. W. M. Devaughn sang the closing song and dismissed by W. C. Moore.

The class was rather slim Sunday but we had a good singing. Several visitors were with us and we invite you all back again next fourth Sunday afternoon at 1:30.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Through The Union-Banner we wish to thank our many friends and customers for their loyal patronage of our beauty shop, but regret very much to say that owing to the fact that Mr. Plier has taken up a responsible position with Stone & Webster at Lake Charles, La., our shop will be discontinued at Clanton for a period of perhaps a year or longer. We will be glad to have all of our customers and others on return to Clanton. Wishing each and everyone a happier and brighter year in 1934.

Yours very sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Plier,
Lake Charles, La.

REED GILES IN VETERANS CAMP

A letter came to The Union-Banner last week from Reed Giles, saying he is now in a Veterans Forestry Camp at Ocala, Florida. He says "This is a swell place. We only work six hours a day, five days a week. Uncle Sam feeds us good and don't work us much. We have a good time. We are about 35 miles from town, but that is better for we can save our money.

"We have 250 men, all ex-soldiers in our camp. We make from $30 to $60 a month, and our board, clothes and doctor bills paid. That is good, I think. I am a cook, an I think I will make it O. K."

Ala. Airport Plans Praised By Officials

CWA Development Program To Be Used In Other States As Pattern

The Alabama plan of developing airports along with community recreation centers, outlined to government and aviation officials in Miami last week, will be submitted to other states for adoption.

"It is the most intelligent thing I have seen in connection with airport development," said Maj. Gen. Foulois, chief of the Army Air Corps.

"It is the first CWA program I have seen with any color," said Eugene Vidal, director of the Department of Commerce aeronautics bureau. "This is the first time it has been brought to my attention. I want to go over it with Harry L. Hopkins, CWA administrator, and call a meeting of all state airport advisors and have the Alabama plan adopted in every state."

Others Enthusiastic

The program was just as enthusiastically received by E. Y. Mitchell, assistant secretary of commerce in charge of the aeronautics bureau, Col Carroll Cone, of the aeronautics bureau, and other national officials in charge of the airport program which is being undertaken jointly with the Department of Commerce and CWA, with Thad Holt cooperating as CWA administrator for Alabama.

Mr. Vidal requested the Alabama delegation to attend a meeting of newspaper and magazine aviation editors in Miami and outline the program to them "so they can start giving it publicity."

An elaborate prospectus of the Alabama plan was drawn up by engineers of Col. Sumpter Smith, state airport advisor, and the Swann Chemical Company and numerous copies were distributed to officials who attended the All America Air Races in Miami. Fifty additional copies were requested by Washington.

The plan included Alabama's air marking program, this being one of the first states to undertake this work with 200 towns to be effectively air marked. Secretary Mitchell stressed the importance of this particular phase of the program and commended the plans drawn for this state.

Birmingham Represented

Those who attended the air meet from Alabama included Brig. Gen. John C. Persons, Col. Smith, Col. Theodore Swann, who is acting chief of the Birmingham ordnance district; Col. R. W. Coward of the Swann Corporation, who is executive assistant to Col. Smith; Maj Henry Badham, Lieut. Lovick Stephenson and Lieut. Ralph Hurst, all of Birmingham, and Maj. Bill Ryan, executive officer of Maxwell Field.

The idea of the Alabama group was that if an intelligent and comprehensive plan was presented, it would serve to bring about an increase of appropriations for the airport work and indications were that this would be done.

Crews for selecting air marking sites over the state took the field Monday morning and will be followed by painters. This work is under direction of Asa Rountree, Jr., and when it is completed, a pilot or passenger will be able to tell with ease what town he is flying over.—Birmingham News.

County Farm Agent's Notes

CORN-HOG CONTRACT FOR BETTER INCOME

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 16.—A premium on hogs and a rental for corn land taken out of production is offered Alabama farmers along with those of the Middle West.

"It may be well for Alabama farmers who are growing either corn or hogs for commercial purposes to sign a corn-hog reduction contract, especially where they are also signing a cotton contract for 1934," says Dr. R. S. Sugg, extension animal husbandman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. "The Agricultural Adjustment Administration is attempting to reduce the production of corn and hogs with the view of increasing the prices of the two commodities. Therefore, the AAA will pay rent for corn land according to fertility and will pay a premium on hogs if growers will reduce the number of pigs farrowed and sold."

Dr. Sugg stated that county agents are in position to give farmers detailed information and supply them with contract forms.

To obtain benefits under the corn plan growers must reduce their corn acreage by 20 per cent under the average for 1932 and 1933. They may then collect at the rate of 30 cents a bushel for the corn which this rented land was capable of producing. The contract calls for a reduction of 25 per cent in pigs farrowed and sold and provides for a liberal payment.

It is thought that this program will apeal mainly to commercial corn-hog growers, as most Alabama farmers fail to produce home corn-hog needs.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Approximately 4,000 leading farmers are now serving as community and county cotton committeemen in Alabama and are helping their neighbors sign cotton acreage reduction contracts properly.

Retail prices of milk are now about 6 per cent higher than a year ago, reports the Consumer's Counsel. Little change has taken place in recent weeks.

"Reduction in cotton acreage in Alabama should lead to the production of more livestock and livestock productsfor home use," said F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"The monetary policy of the Federal Government in abandoning the gold standard and boosting the price of gold has brought about a general rise of domestic prices as well as an increase in the prices governing foreign trade," said Col: L. Litt Edwards, Selma, R. 1., president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has stated that country buyers and others who, in settling for hogs with the seller, make a deduction for the processing tax on the bill of sale are penalizing the seller and are tending to frustrate the declared policy of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Farmers are urged not to sell to any buyer who makes or proposes to make any such deduction and to report the culprit to Secretary Wallace.

NEW SANITATION PROJECT

Mr. Julius E. Smith, supervisor of sanitation for Chilton County under the State Health Department, announces a new sanitation project that ought to interest many people in the rural sections of the county.

Under the new project Mr. Smith states that anyone who wishes to construct a sanitary privy can have the job done by C.W.A. labor by furnishing the necessary material for the job.

Anyone who is interested in taking advantage of this opportunity is advised to see Mr. Smith at his office in the Hayes Building over Matt's Cafe.

By taking advantage of this project those who are interested can save the labor cost, whereas, if they defer the matter, they will probably have to build sanitary privys in the near future, and have to do the labor as well as furnish material.

HELP PROMOTE 4-H CLUB WORK

The following letter from Mrs. M. E. Bishop, State Chairman of 4-H Club Work for Girls, addressed to the county chairman of 4-H Club Work, is published at the request of Miss Ruth Pardue, who says: "Since Mrs. Bishop has written such a good letter, I am giving it to the county papers so that all the club women and girls of the county may read it."

Mrs. Bishop says: "As Home Demonstration Club members, we should assist in every way we can to promote 4-H work. I hope that each of us may strive to make this year outstanding in the standardization of 4-H clubs. We may be a great help in this by asking home demonstration women to act as local leaders and by encouraging the girls to complete their projects.

"There are many ways in which we may help promote 4-H club activities:

"1. Provide the ways and means for attending county wide meetings and raillies. 2. Cooperate with our home demonstration agents in planning and conducting summer camps for 4-H club girls. 3. Encourage 4-H club girls to attend these camps, for a few days spent in wholesome recreation means much to our girls. 4. Plan wholesome recreation at home for the boys and girls. 5. Attend socials and other meetings planned by the boys and girls themselves, thus showing that the older people are interested in them.

"These are only a few of the many things we may do. I am sure that you have many other suggestions to make to the club women of your county.

"Let's do our best to live up to our club motto "To make the best Better."

Corn-Hog Program Explained By Head

F. W. Burns, livestock specialist from Auburn, explained the corn-hog reduction program to about 500 farmers and business men in Clanton Monday, January 5th. The following information was given out:

1. A farmer who produced three or more litters of pigs and grew them to disposal age in 1932 and 1933, and grew an average of 10 acres or more of corn during 1932 and 1933 is eligible.
2. The farmer agrees to reduce the number of litters farrowed in 1934 25 per cent and to reduce the number of hogs marketed in 1934 25 per cent of the 1932 and 1933 average.
3. The farmer will receive $5.00 per head for the number sold in 1934.
4. The farmer agrees to reduce his 1932 and 1933 average number of acres planted to corn 20 to 30 per cent.
5. The farmer will receive 30 cents per bushel on the estimated production of corn, for the past five years, on the contracted acres.
6. Corn acreage figured on what had been planted on the particular farm.
7. Restrictions on use of contracted acres same as for cotton.
8. Number hogs figured on number owned by farmer regardless of where he lived in 1932 and 1933.
9. Farmer will be allowed to raise a specified number of hogs for home use, probably one hog for each person over ten years of age living on the farm in 1934.
10. Fifteen per cent must be deducted from the number of pigs farrowed in fall of 1933 in figuring base number of hogs.

See county agent for further information.

Jan. 31 Is Deadline For Cotton Sign-Up

The deadline for signing 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction contracts has been set for January 31.

Every farmer in Chilton County should think seriously about this program and act quickly in order that we put this program over before the time is up.

Each farmer should do the following before the committeeman arrives:

1. Get the number of acres for each year 1928 to 1932.
2. Get the number of bales for the same period.
4. Get the average weight of the bales.
4. Fill out the survey card.

The cotton history for the period 1928-32 for the land you are cultivating in 1934 is what we want, not what you grew on some other land during this period.

Give as accurate information as possible. Don't run your average yields too high. This is liable to kill the program.

During the past few days 3,500 or more farmers have had the program explained to them. Get the information asked for, sign the contract and let the committeeman go to the next man. Hurry this thing along and let's be the first county to put this program over.

COTTON GROWERS GET THREE-WAY BENEFITS

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 16.—Alabama cotton growers who participate in the acreage adjustment program for 1934 and 1935 are assured of a three-way benefit.

This is one fact which will make the contract attractive to all growers, believes Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute. He points out that not only will there be liberal rental payments but that the grower is also assured of a benefit payment next fall of one cent a pound on his part of the domestic allotment.

But greater than these, Dr. Duncan declares, is increased price per pound to be brought about by a reduction in the acreage of cotton. The grower needs no furher assurance that a better price per pound will be received next fall than his own experience, following the successful plow-up campaign which farmers made effective last summer.

"The cotton consuming world was probably skeptical that Southern farmers would cooperate so heartily in taking out cotton acreage in the summer of 1933," says Dr. Duncan, "and the fact that this was done not only removed this doubt but had an excellent effect on the price of cotton last fall. A part of this better price, however, was based on the belief that the growers woud cooperate again in 1934 further to reduce the crop. Growers realize this and will not fail to make good on the plan."

Cotton farmers, therefore, are urged to make the present program effective and to collect for themselves the three-way benefit which will accrue to them by cooperating with themselves and with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

ENTERPRISE 4-H CLUB

The Enterprise club met last Wednesday, January 3, 1934, with Miss Pardue. We did not have a meeting in November on account of bad weather. The 4-H's stand for Head, Heart, Hand and Health. The pledge is:

"I pledge my head to clearer thinking; my heart to great loyalty; my hands to larger service, and my health to better living for my club, my community and my country."

The club motto is: "To Make the Best Better."

Our next meeting will be the first Wednesday in next month.—Reporter.

SHRUBS AND FLOWERS IN FOREST PROGRAM

Montgomery.—Native shrubs and wild flowers occupy an important place in the Roosevelt Forest and Park Program in Alabama, according to the State Commission of Forestry. A forest consists not only of trees but of all other growth on the area. In fact, many species of timber trees are aided by a stand of shrubs growing in their shade. The shrubs often perform important functions in the way of enriching the soil for the benefit of the entire growth. From the aesthetic and culural viewpoints they add wonderfully to the attractiveness of sylvian scenes. When the various Forestry Camps were established in Alabama, the care, protection and development of the shrub growth received and retained the same consideration as the interests of the trees themselves.

At the camps engaged in developing State Parks shrubbery naturally assumed an importance outranking in some cases that of the arborescent growth. At the present time approximately eight hundred men are being used in carrying out development plans involving the use of attractive shrubbery on a large scale in conformity with the best standards of landscaping Prominent among the species of shrubs featured in these connections are Yaupon, Mountain Laurel, Pink Honeysuckle, Flame Azalea, Salt Bush, Sparkleberry and Hawthorn. In both the forestry and park projects the aim is to maintain a proper balance of the various kinds of vegetation that enhance the value of the areas with reference to the public interest in an appreciation of nature.

HAILS PRINTERS' CODE AND METHODS OF NRA

San Francisco, Calif.—"If the NRA has done nothing but clean out of the printing industry many unfair practices existant in the past, it will have been more than worth while," declared L. A. Ireland, secretary of the Printers' Board of Trade, Inc., of San Francisco, on his return from 3 months in Washington working on a code of fair competition for the graphic arts industry. "The system set up by the NRA is here to stay," Mr. Ireland continued. "The codes may be revised, but NRA will leave trade associations as the instrument through which business and industry will be able to work for a new deal. The printers' code sets up a series of labor boards which will iron out any and all differences that arise, without resorting to strikes. The boards will be made up of equal numbers of men truly reresentative of employers and employees."

The first week in the second semester has almost passed. There are only thirteen more weeks before the academic activities will end. We are fortunate indeed in having a second semester but in the three more months that this school will run, we must put in four months work. No teacher and no student will have any time to waste if he wants to get the best of this school year. Especially must the Senior Class be sure not to let any time slip by without profitable use. With plays, graduation preparation and hundreds of other things to be done and done properly, no senior can allow himself to be beaten by proscrastination. So let's profit by the mistakes we made during the first semester and sail straight on through to April 20.

With the crucial time for the senior class approaching nearer every member should do his part to his fullest ability. Remember a chain is no stronger than its weakest link. Make your class go down in history and be spoken of by others in a way that you can boastfully say, "I was a member of that class."

Our senior class is living up to the name of its school and itself. One day last week the class was presented with an offer to enlarge their financial resources with little effort. They took it up and now every member of that class is soliciting for subscribers to magazines. Out of every dollar the class will realize fifty cents and also will receive ten cents per dollar bonus if they sell a specified number. The class is divided into two teams. Mary Charles Cox and Dan Smith are the captains of the "Auburn Tigers." And Roberta Cochran and Joe Moore are captains for the "Crimson Tide." Miss Frances Gulledge and Mr. L. C. Warr are sponsors of the teams respectively. For each person selling there is an easy chance for a number of valuable prizes too. The magazines being sold are the Saturday Evening Post, The Ladies' Home Journal and The Country Gentleman. See a member of the Senior Class or other student representatives for your subscriptions and help the class.

Both of Chilton's teams won their game last Friday night. The girls from Billingsley lost to our girls by the score of 17 to 12, and the Billingsley boys lost to Chilton 34 to 18. Both games displayed the fact that Chilton has two real basketball teams of the frist class. The girls team is coached by Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin and the boys are under the coaching of Mr. T. H. Searcy.

A question of much interest now is: "What will the senior class of this year leave to the school as their memorial?"

The seniors are busy preparing for the presentation of their mid-term play Friday night week. The cast has been practicing this week, and according to several witnesses the play will be the best comedy ever staged by a class at this school. The name "The Clay's the Thing," makes one thing of a hilarious comedy. And it is. So get ready to have the time of your life a week from tomorrow night. Watch for more details and announcemets.

Here is the treat I promised for my readers. This is a brief account of the trip along the coast taken by our science instructor, Mr. J. B. Varnell, last summer.

This trip extended through the center of Georgia, including its four principal cities, namely: Rome, Atlanta, Augusta and Savanah. Also along the Atlantic coast in part of South Carolina.

Some of the interesting findings were the Fauna and Flora of the section through tht center of Georgia. The beauty of "Victory Drive", which consists of palmetto tree well kept and marking the way from Savannah to the ocean, the largeness of the ship, the "City of Birmingham" docked in the port of Savannah, and the thrill of bathing in the ocean at Tybee Beach fifteen miles south of Savannah.

After an interesting day of new experiences, animals and flowers of biological value were gathered at Beaufort, S. C., and Port Royal, S. C. At Port Royal one will find a United States naval base. Here is erected a monument of historical importance. On this monument is the following inscription:

"Here stood Charlesfort, built in the year 1562 by Jean Rebaut for Admiral Ciligny. A refuge for Hugenots; used to the glory of France, erected 1925 by the government of the United States of America to mark the first stronghold of France on this continent."

The following day was spent at the sport of angling, and accumulating live specimen of deep sea life for our biology students.

Who Am I? How many got it last week? It was Grady Reynolds, Jr. This one is even harder. "A am a brunette, not slim, have no fellow in school, but I have one though; usually shy, considered by others to be beautiful, having won that title in class, walk with quick steps; live on the west side of the railroad.

James Tiffin was the leading scorer for the boys last Friday night, tossing the ball through the basket for a total of eleven times. The leading scorer during the girls game was Grace Plyler, with eight successful throws.

Chilton's two basketball teams went to Marbury Tuesday afternoon to play the boys and girls teams of Marbury High. At the time of the writing the results of the game were unobtainable. A complete tentative list of the basketball games to be played by both the boys and girls teams of C. C. H. S. will be published next week.

Monday afternoon Mrs. Delphine Thomas stopped at this school for data wanted by Tennessee Valley Authority. Mrs. Thomas is commissioned by the T. V. A. to assist in the compilation of data relating to the project; effect of the closed schools on adolscent children. The purpose of this study as told the writer in an interview, is to discover the change in the life activities of white high school boys and girls due to the closing of short term schools in our state. A set of questions including inquiries into the activities of the person while out of school, his associations and other related subjects was presented to each student who did not continue in school during the last semester last year.

Peeping over the Student's Transom, by the Student Winchell: (Editor's note: The articles herewith printed are the personal expressions of the writer and do not reflect the character of the school. They are printed by the writer for the personal interest of the students.)—The unholy Three are good poets. They make cute little rhymes like "As you know, we're all brunette, and you've heard we're hard to get" and "Although we know that you're tied down, there are cuter girls in this old town." They can cut lovable little paper hearts and daggers, too . . . A senior I can really refuse dates in a diplomatic way . . . Ah, another romance, appears like it. Watch for developments soon . . . A romance sprung out of the Junior play last year. Wonder what will result from the play now being practiced? If any . . . I don't think the Unholy Three is getting "Frankie hot under the collar." It appears to be a waste of brown wrapping paper . . . See you next week.

OLIVER DUKE IN VET. HOSPITAL

Veteran Oliver C. Duke, a Chilton County soldier, is in the hospital at Tuscaloosa, from where he sends a letter for publication, as follows:

"I am a member of the American Legion, Chilton County Post No. 6, and I feel that it is the duty of every ex-service man to join the Legion. It is through the efforts of the Legion that we have a hospital to go to when we are sick and broke.

I have met some men who have been here for a year or more and have had several operations. This would have cost them thousands of dollars in private hospitals.

"For a long time I put off coming here because some who had been here gave it a bad name. I want to tell everyone that this hospital is as fine as money can provide, with all possible conveniences and comforts for the patients. It is wonderful here. The doctors, nurses, and orderlies are just as good to the patients as they can be.

"But there is one thing the people can do for the patients. They might give us some flowers while we are living. If anyone who reads this should come to the veterans hospital, I would be glad to see you. If you can't come, write me a few lines, if nothing but a postal card. Just something to let us know we are not forgotten. This is a fine place to stay, but we get lonesome sometimes."

B. Y. P. U. was well attended last Sunday. Remember next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Everyone who can try to be present. We would like to see every member of this church present, because as a church member, it is our duty to attend the services. The Bible says we are not to forget to meet together to worship God. If we belong to a church God expects us to be faithful in church attendance. It is our duty, too, to pray for the work of the church. Every member ought to pray for the pastor and the teachers and all the workers for one another.

HIGH SCHOOL P.-T. A. WAS HELD

The regular meeting of the High School P.-T. A. was held December 12, with Mrs. Hugh Jones presiding and leading the devotional. Due to the weather only a very few were present so no treasurer or committee reports were given.

Miss. Griffin turned in $1.70 which the Jr. I class made selling candy at the courthouse during the fiddlers convention. This money is for books for the library. The Junior I room turned in $1.25 made selling the cake, donated by Mrs. Vinson, at 5c a slice. This amount also goes to the library.

A motion was made and carried to pay the bill, $12.50, for the sanitary machine installed in the rest room by Miss Griffin. Dues were paid by several and the meeting was then adjourned.

Here's Quickest, Simplest Way to Stop a Cold

1. Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets. 2. Drink full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours. 3. If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half-glass of water and gargle according to directions in box.

Almost Instant Relief in this Way

It is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way to treat a cold. For it will check an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And to gargle, Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablets dissolve so completely they leave no irritating particles. Get a box of tablets or 24 or 100 at any drug store. BAYER-PUTNAM DOES THE WORK, etc., used by Wyatt Drug Co.

PASTORS OF CHILTON-UNITY ASS'N APPROVE "LORD'S ACRE"

At the request of the pastors and executive committees of the Chilton-Unity Associations, we are writing to urge the churches to cooprate in planting for the Lord and His cause. It will surprise you to come to the end of the year with all bills paid in full and a large amount paid to the various causes we foster.

The Psalmist said, "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." We know that God made the earth and that He gives the increase. The land and all that it produces is a stewardship committed to us.

There is wide-spread interest in the state in the matter of planting corn, cotton, etc., for the cause of Christ. Several of the churches in our associations have already tried the plan and are highly pleased with the results. The churches were able to pay the pastor in full and send a considerable amount to help the causes that we foster.

We urge that our churches try the plan. It would be well to appoint a committee of two or three to canvass the membership and to keep in touch with the matter through the year.

If any of the churches need help in putting on the plan we stand ready to serve you in any way possible.

Watch for further announcements in the papers as we feel sure that we will have some very important information from Dr. Barton, our State Secretary, in a few days.—Yours for the Master's cause, J. W. Jones, Moderator of Chilton Association; J. Z. Mims, Moderator of Unity Association.

MRS. BELLE COGGINS DIED

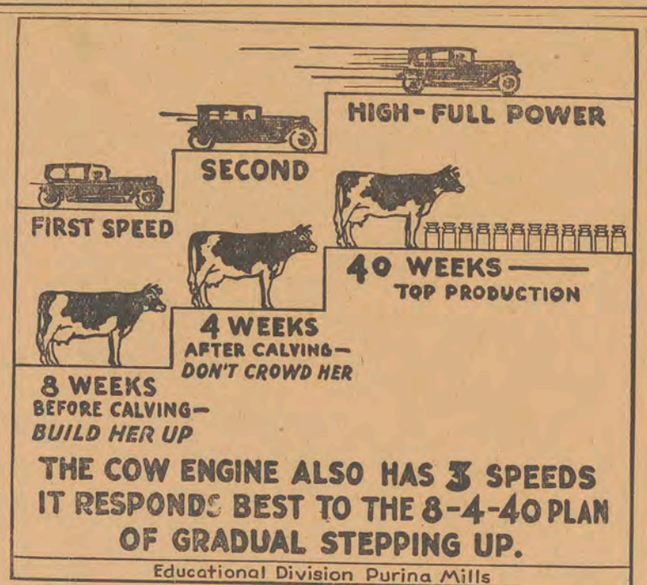
MISS JULIA ODEN DIED

Miss Julia Oden, age 85 years, died last Thursday, January 11, at the county almshouse. Burial was at liberty Hill Friday. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. L. Foshee.

The youthful graduate from agricultural college looked rather scornfully at the old farmer.

"Your methods of cultivation are hopelessly out of date," he said, with a sperior air, "Why, I'd be surprised if you got ten pounds of apples from that tree."

"So would I," replied the farmer, "It's a pear tree."



Three Speeds in Dairy Production

Feeding Experts Recommend Better Methods of Handling Cows.

Successful handling of dairy cows is much the same as expert handling of the motor in an automobile, according to the research workers at Purina Mills' Farm, Gray Summit, Mo.

"There are three speeds in the standard motor," says E. B. Powell, who has charge of the investigational work at the Purina Farm. "Good drivers do not fail to shift from low, to intermediate, to high in the routine of handling their car. If cows were treated as carefully as our automobile engines are treated there would be higher production, longer life and greater profit in our dairy machines. We have found that our cows produce better and more economically when three speeds for a year's work are carefully observed.

"In our 8-4-40 plan, each numeral really designates a period of time in the business year of the dairy cow. Every farmer who follows it will be benefited because his cows will produce more net profits by this improved method of handling."

Starting with 8 of the formula—each cow should have allotted to her 8 weeks to prepare for her next calving. This is generally known as the dry period.

The 4 means—the 4 weeks following calving. This is an adjustment period during which the cow adjusts herself for her period of heavy production.

The 40 signifies the 40 weeks remaining in the year. This is her real time for milk production. In these 40 weeks should be realized the full milking power in the animal. Every effort should be made during this period to keep production at a high and profitable level.

The first of these periods—the 8 weeks dry period—according to the research staff of the Purina Mills' Experimental Farm at Gray Summit, Mo., is the most important from the standpoint of future profits. It is during this time that a cow must build strength and a firm condition of flesh that will permit her to stand the high levels of milk production expected by her owner.

By drying up the cow properly, allowing sufficient time to prepare for calving, you protect the udder for future milking. To help during this period, careful owners provide feeds which are not heating and which contain the right mineral balance.

"Money is to be made by following rigidly a system of 8 weeks of preparation for calving," says Manager Powell, "because 62 per cent of the unborn calf is made in the last 60 days." This is the dry period. By caring for the cow properly then, you are less likely to have calving troubles and more likely to produce cheaper milk through the following lactation period. Feeding properly during the dry period builds condition, and a cow in good condition always responds better to milk producing feeds.

The 4 weeks of adjustment following calving are important because the organs of the cow must again find their proper positions, and the cow's circulatory system must get squared away to the new job of feeding the blood to the milk making machinery instead of the calf making machinery of the body. Nature has started the regular milk flow. Man must capitalize on this and by feed and care develop production to the highest. Good feed will conserve and improve strength, vitality, and general body condition for the heavy drain of work that is to follow.

During the 40 weeks of steady production the cow uses the increased milking power which she has built up during the preceding two periods, the 8 weeks of preparation and the 4 weeks of adjustment. Now every pound of feed is calculated to produce its full measure of milk. The protein portion of the feed must be carefully adjusted so as to provide extra stimulus for milk making. The feed she gets must also contain the proper proportion of carbohydrates, fat, and minerals to satisfy her body requirements, if she is to yield a satisfactory profit.

To The Patrons Of The Undersigned Doctors Who Have Forgotten Or Disregarded Their Obligation:

We wish to call attention to the fact that the undersigned doctors have not received sufficient compensation for services rendered their patrons for the past four years to pay expenses incurred in practicing our profession.

It is not desired to mistreat anyone or neglect our duty to humanity, but is impossible for us to carry our burdens longer under the existing circumstances. We wonder how many patrons would work for us for three or four years, or even one year without pay. We are just plain human beings and if you will put yourself in our place you will readily see that it is impossible for us to do our best when our minds are burdened with financial difficulties.

From past experiences we have every reason to believe we will be treated in the future as we have been in the past without taking some steps to prevent it. With this in view, we have adopted the following plan which we hope will not work a hardship on anyone and we believe will be a great help to us in meeting our own obligations.

On and after March 1, 1934, we hereby pledge ourselves not to visit anyone who owes either of the undersigned doctors, whose names appear on the delinquent list except for cash in advance for services. This does not apply to our patrons who have been fair to us and put forth their best efforts to meet their obligations with us, but will be adhered to strictly with the ones who change their doctors to settle their accounts.

If you want to stay in good standing, we advise you to call on your doctor and settle or arrange your account satisfactorily, so that you will not be listed as a delinquent and you be deprived of the consideration shown you in the past.

CABLE-BURTON PIANO CO.

1711 Third Ave, Birmingham, Ala.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

In the course of the development of this company's interconnected transmission system, now serving more than 96,000 customers located in 483 cities, villages and communities in 65 of the 67 counties of the State, much difficulty was encountered in raising capital to carry on the work.

Of the total of $133,000,000 of bonds and preferred stocks outstanding today, Alabamians hold $20,000,000 of preferred stock and some unknown portion of the bonds. A very large percentage of both securities are held by Trust and Insurance Companies, savings banks, religious, educational and charitable institutions.

As of April 1, 1933, there were twenty-three insurance companies doing business within the State and owning more than $27,000,000 of the bonds and preferred stocks of Alabama Power Company. Insurance companies generally have invested their funds in public utility securities.

It is said that seven-eighths of all the money left by married men in America for their families, is derived from life insurance.

Life Insurance Companies had in force in Alabama on December 31, 1932, more than $630,000,000 of insurance out of which was paid over $11,000,000 for death claims.

Fire Insurance Companies had in force over $540,000,000 of insurance and paid to Alabamians during the same year losses exceeding $4,000,000.

Public utility bonds and stocks form a substantial part of the assets of insurance companies. Breaking down the market value and soundness of utility securities threatens the financial stability of many insurance companies upon whom thousands of Alabamians depend for protection in case of death or fire loss.

While there are some 12,000 Alabamians having a direct financial interest in this company, there are many times that number of our citizens who are indirectly interested financially in its welfare.

Yours very truly,

President.

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

The people of the 19th circuit elected me as their judge on November 8th, 1932, to fill out the two years unexpired term of my predecessor.

I am now asking that I be accorded the usual Democratic precedent of a full term. Your vote and influence will be appreciated in the coming Democratic primaries.

Respectfully,
F. LOYD TATE,
Judge 19th Judicial Circuit.

(Paid political adv., by F. Loyd Tate, Wetumka, Alabama.)

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit, composed of the counties of Autauga, Chilton, and Elmore, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries in May and June, 1934.

Your vote and influence will be appreciated in the coming Democratic primaries.

Respectfully,
J. B. ATKINSON.

(Paid political adv., by J. B. Atkinson, Clanton, Alabama.)

NOTICE OF WRIT OF ATTACHMENT AND LEVY

To Theresa C. Shackleford, non resident of the State of Alabama, take notice:

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court. To any Sheriff of the State of Alabama—Greeting:

Whereas, Blanche B. Sterne has complained on oath to me, J. Z. Mims, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, that Theresa C. Shackleford is justly indebted to the plaintiff in the sum of five thousand dollars, and that the plaintiff having made affidavit as required by law in such cases, you are hereby commanded to attach so much of the estate of the said Theresa C. Shackleford as will be of value to satisfy said debt and costs, according to the complaint, unless replevied, so to secure that the same may be liable to further proceedings thereon to be had at the next term of the Circuit Court for the County of Chilton, to be holden at the courthouse thereof, within thirty days from the serving of this writ, when and where you must make known how you have executed this writ.

J. Z. MIMS,
Clerk of the Circuit Court.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County:

The defendant herein being a non resident of the State of Alabama, Plaintiff elects suing out this writ, without giving bond as by statute in such cases made and provided.

J. Z. MIMS,
Clerk of the Circuit Court.

I have executed the within writ this 26th day of December, 1933, by levying upon the following described real estate situated in Chilton County, Alabama, to-wit: South half of lots 11 and 12 and all of lots 13 and 14, in block 30 (formerly known as block 32) in the City of Clanton, Alabama. Also the west half of the northwest quarter of section 11, township 21, range 12.

Lesson for January 21

JESUS BEGINS HIS MINISTRY

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 4:12-25.

GOLDEN TEXT—From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. Matthew 4:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Finds Some Helpers.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Began His Work.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus Begins His Life Work.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Threefold Ministry of Jesus.

Matthew's purpose was to present Jesus the Messiah as king. Strictly speaking his official ministry began at his baptism. So far as his preaching was concerned the present lesson is properly designated "Jesus Begins His Ministry."

I. The King His Own Herald (vv. 12-17).

1. The reason for this (v. 12). The news of the imprisonment of John the Baptist caused Jesus to forsake Judea and go into Galilee. The fate of John was accepted by Jesus as foreshadowing his own death. This was an act of prudence on his part. When the people reject the truth and attempt to do violence to the messenger, there should be a turning from them unless specifically directed otherwise.

2. To whom the proclamation was made (vv. 13-16). It was to the people at Capernaum in fulfillment of Isaiah's prophecy (Isa 9:1, 2). This is a section of the country most overrun by the warring nations and therefore most exposed to the blighting effects of war. Thus we see that the darkest and most corrupt of the provinces was first in getting the light. In this we see a foreshadowing of the present age when the gospel of the grace of God is being preached to the Gentiles. It is just like Jesus our Lord to extend his grace to the lowest and most despised peoples. He came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

3. His message (v. 17). "Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." This is the same kingdom which John the Baptist and the Old Testament prophets proclaimed. It means the messianic earth rule of Jesus Christ. The time is coming when heralds will again announce the coming of the kingdom and the King himself will come forth from the heavens to establish his mediatorial kingdom. It is for this we pray when we intelligently say "Thy kingdom come."

II. The King Calling to Himself Assistants (vv. 18-22).

1. His command of authority (vv. 18, 19). He did not try to persuade them by the use of arguments but issued a mandate. To command is the prerogative of a king.

2. The station of the servants called (vv. 18, 21). They were men of lowly birth and occupation—fishermen. These men were busily engaged in service when the Lord issued the call.

3. To what they were called (v. 19). They were called to definite service. "I will make you fishers of men." He had previously called them to be disciples (John 1:36-42). He now called them to service. The qualities which made for good fishers of fish—patience, bravery to face the storm and the night, the perseverance which toiled all night though no fish were caught—would make them good fishers of men.

4. Their prompt obedience (vv. 20, 22). They put their trust in him who called, believing that he was able to supply their needs. When the king commands there is no time for delay.

III. The King's Triumphant Progress. (vv. 23-25).

He went the whole rounds of Galilee teaching the Scriptures, preaching the gospel of the kingdom and healing all manner of diseases. He did a threefold work.

1. Teaching the Scriptures in the synagogues (v. 23). The revelation of God needed to be explained. This is what he was doing in Nazareth (Luke 4:16-22). Such is the primary business of every Sunday school teacher and minister.

2. Preaching the glad tidings of the kingdom (v. 23). The king who was then present and was heralding his own mission, was ready to establish his kingdom if they had been willing to receive him.

3. Healing all manner of diseases (vv. 23-25). There was no form of disease which he could not cure, and so abundant was his success that "his fame went throughout all Syria: and they brought unto him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatick, and those that had the palsy; and he healed them."

The Great Secret

To the man without faith the universe seems to be a gigantic, merciless, grinding machine, but to us who have learned the secret of the Lord it is our Father's House, in which not a sparrow falls to the ground without his notice.

Hold Fast the Faith

Trust and confidence must be exercised where there is silence and darkness. We must hold fast the faith that truest love inspires all discipline; and justice, mingled with mercy, rules.

Now they have invented a sieve without holes in it for people with nothing to strain.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Jan. 16—Amelia Earhart Putnam, outstanding aviatrix of the world, first woman to cross the ocean either as a passenger or on a solo flight, will lecture at the University of Alabama on January 29. have an operation, this was performed on Wednesday morning of last week, January 17, from which he never recovered. He passed away on Friday night, January 19. The funeral was held on Sunday, January 21 in the auditorium of Helen Jenkins Hall, at 11:00 o'clock. The large hall was filled with the sorrowing friends for all the people of Thorsby were his friends, as he had proved during the ten years of his pastorate here, a friend of every one. The wonderful profusion of flowers, gifts from the people, also attested the love of the people. The whole town will miss the loving thought and friendly greetings of Rev. Joseph E. Each.

Some of the friends from out of town who attended the funeral were G. E. Tillman of Birmingham, Malcolm Ensey, J. R. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Chas Baxter, Miss Ruby Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Drake, Mary Estes, Mrs. Walton, Mr. and Mrs. Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Martin. All of the above are friends of Cecil Each, who has worked for the past two years, in Birmingham. Furnish Workers For All Industry

Policy of Re-Employment Is Outlined By Mr. C. G. Stokes

In a brief address before the Kiwanis Club last Thursday night, Mr. Cecil G. Stokes, national re-employment officer for Chilton County, outlined a policy which his department expects to follow out in furnishing certified workers to private business and industry.

Looking toward the goal of permanency in re-employment, Mr. Stokes says he intends to make a thorough canvass of all potential and prospective employers of labor in this county in the near future, in an effort to place as many registrants as possible in permanent situations in private industry.

Declaring that the government program for reemployment is only temporary and is intended to serve only as a starter toward permanent reemployment, Mr. Stokes said he is desirous of cooperating with and helping private employers to secure desirable and needed workmen. With 1,500 persons registered at the Chilton County re-employment office, Mr. Stokes says his office is in position to furnish any number of workers in almost every line of work.

"Of course," said Mr. Stokes, "we can only recommend employees to private industry."

"The government is spending millions of dollars in an effort to bring recovery to the country, but unless these emergency measures serve to help private industry resume its normal quota of employment, they will have been a failure," was the summary of Mr. Stokes's remarks.

Will G. Culp For Co. Tax Collector

Will G. Culp, Tax Collector of Chilton County for the past three years, announces this week as a candidate to succeed himself in this office. He, therefore, asks the Republicans of Chilton County to nominate him in the Republican primary to be held May 1st.

Mr. Culp is serving his first term as Tax Collector of Chilton County. Everybody concedes that he has made an excellent public official, always displaying a friendly spirit of helpfulness and courtesy in his dealings with the public. He went into the tax office as one of the most popular men in the county, and it can be truthfully said that his public service has constantly added to his popularity.

In making his announcement for re-election, Mr. Culp let it be known that he will make a public statement to the Republican voters concerning his candidacy in the near future.

TUSKEGEE QUARTET COMING

The nationally famous quartet of singers and entertainers from Tuskegee have been booked for a program at the courthouse in Clanton on Saturday night, February 3. The ladies of Clanton Methodist church are sponsors of the event for benefit of the circles.

The Tuskegee singers are rated among the best in the country. Some time ago they sang for President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga.

Further announcement of the program will be made next week.

Dewey Hughes In Race For Sheriff

Beat 10 Man Is Candidate In Republican Primary of May 1st

Mr. Dewey Hughes, of Beat 10, declares himself a candidate for Sheriff of Chilton County this week, subject to the action of the Republican Primary of May 1st. He is a life-long resident of Beat 10, a son of Rev. J. D. Hughes, and one of the most loyal Republicans in the county. He is a man of fine character, a good citizen, and is universally regarded as excellent timber for the important office of Sheriff of Chilton County.

Mr. Hughes made the following brief statement when filing his announcement with The Union-Banner for publication Tuesday:

"After many solicitations by my friends, and upon my own careful consideration, I have decided to offer myself as a candidate for Sheriff of Chilton County, subject to the action of the Republican primary of May 1st, 1934.

"I wish to say in advance that it is my intention to make a clean fight for the nomination on the Republican ticket. I have only one promise to make to the voters, that I will give every citizen a square and honest deal.

"If you believe in doing this, tell your friends that they may tell others. I intend to see every qualified voter between now and the first of May, and personally ask for your vote and influence, if such is possible. But what my friends say for me will go a long ways further in convincing the voters as to whether I am a man of my word or not.

"You may expect to hear from me again soon."

Clanton Motors Is Under New Heads

Tom Littlejohn and Julius Burnett Acquire Control of Ford Agency

The business of Clanton Motors, local Ford dealers, has been recently reorganized under the control and ownership of Mr. Tom J. Littlejohn and Mr. Julius C. Burnett. Continued operation with the same personnell will go forward at the same location as heretofore.

The new owners and managers of the business are not new at the automobile game in Clanton. Mr. Littlejohn, who is a former Sheriff of Chilton County, has been connected with the operation of this same business for something like ten years. Likewise has Mr. Burnett been associated with it for about the same length of time. Both of them are well acquainted with the Ford business. They are well known throughout Chilton County and surrounding territory.

It may be said in all truth that Mr. Littlejohn and Mr. Burnett, by their sincere devotion to the business in past years, are directly responsible for the growth of Clanton Motors from a small beginning to its present place of importance as one of the leading Ford agencies in Alabama. The building and equipment with which this business serves its customers is unexcelled by any Ford agency in Alabama.

The new proprietors of Clanton Motors announce that they will, in future, continue the sales and service of Ford automobiles and trucks, as well as general repairs and service to all makes of cars.

Right at this time particular pride is being taken in showing to the public the New Ford V-8 models for 1934, which are on display at the show rooms. Immediate delivery can be made to customers of any and all models of Ford automobiles and trucks.

Reynolds Candidate For Probate Judge

Present Official Says He Is Willing For People To Say Whether or Not the County Needs His Services In the Future

Judge L. H. Reynolds this week announces as a candidate for Probate Judge of Chilton County in the Republican primary of May 1st. This decision will be received with acclaim and approval by a great many people of the county who have insisted with determination that the interests of Chilton County demand at this time that Judge Reynolds continue in the office of Probate Judge.

In a brief statement given out Tuesday morning concerning his announcement, Judge Reynolds said:

"I offer myself as a candidate for Probate Judge of Chilton County for another term in response to the solicitation of a great number of my fellow citizens who have pledged their continued support, and insisted that the county needs my services in the future.

"All I have to say at this time is that I have served my people and my county in the past the very best I could. My record and my policies are known to the people of the county. I have taken an open and postive stand upon all public questions, and have discharged my official obligations according to what I conceived the best interests of the most people.

"Upon the knowledge which the people have of my past record as Probate Judge, I am willing for my fellow citizens to say whether they want me to continue to serve them. I ask only to stand and be judged upon my record. I do not seek the repudiation of any other candidate in order to uphold my own political interests.

"If my people want me to continue to serve them, I shall do my very best. I appreciate the confidence and good-will of each and every one of my friends."

Akins I. Collins For Tax Assessor

Akins I. Collins announces this week as a candidate for another term as Tax Assessor of Chilton, subject to the Republican primary of May 1st. Mr. Collins is now serving his first term in this office, having been elected in the fall of 1930.

Mr. Collins is one of our county's most popular young men, and his popularity has been widely extended through his fine spirit of public service in the Tax Assessor's office for the past three years.

"You may announce to the people that I am a candidate again," said Mr. Collins Monday. "In a few days I expect to make a public statement concerning my candidacy. Pending that statement, I want my friends to know that I appreciate their support in the past, and will greatly appreciate a continuance of the same in my behalf again."

A. PERRY ROBINSON OUT FOR COMMISSIONER FIRST DISTRICT

In the announcement column this week will be noticed a name new in political circles. It is that of A. Perry Robinson of Union Grove. He is in the race for commissioner from his district, the First, and has never before announced for public office.

He is the oldest son of Doctor Robinson of Clanton. For the past five and a half years Mr. Robinson has been operating a tractor for the county, which job he still holds. Mr. Robinson is now living within 100 yards of where he was born. He has lived in Beat 12 all his life with the exception of part of 1913 and 1914, when he lived in Beat 2.

Mr. Robinson's experience in road building and other public enterprises of his home community, in which he is always interested, ought to make him thoroughly canable of handling the public trust which he is now asking for.

C.W.A. Working 2 Days A Week

Additional Workers Expected To Get Call For Jobs Next Week

The regular quota of C.W.A. workers in Chilton County is continued this week with the same crews working fifteen hours, two days of seven and a half hours each.

By instructions from Washington last Thursday night, cancellation was made of the spread the work program which was previously calculated to double the number of employees.

It is announced from Washington that May 1st has been set as the deadline for C.W.A. by the government. It is hoped that by that time workers on the projects can stack up their shovels and go into private industry. The expiration date was fixed definitely Tuesday by Harry L. Hopkins, national dircetor.

President Roosevelt, it was stated, plans to send to Congress this week a budgetary request for a $350,000,000 appropriation for the Civil Works Administration, an amount he estimated would be necessary to carry on the program to May 1st.

The local director for Chilton County advises that by a special order from Montgomery, two crews are now working on the lower swamp drainage project near Dake's old mill. Each crew works fifteen hours a week, which keeps this project in operation for four days a week. The crew that was working on the south prong ditch has been transferred to the lower sector.

Two changes are announced in the office personnel of C.W.A. this week. Chester Wingard is transferred from time keeper on the swamp drainage to assistant to the chief time keeper.

Paul C. Mims is transferrd from time keeper on a road project to assistant to the disbursing officer.

W. G. SHAW FOR COMMISSIONER

Willie G. Shaw of Providence, Beat 13, has officially announced for commissioner from the First district, and his name will be found in the column in The Union-Banner this week.

Mr. Shaw does not need much introduction to the voters of the county as he has been in politics before. He ran for this same place four years ago, and made an enviable race. He says that he is going to put all he has in it this time and win if honorable working will win.

Elsewhere in this paper Mr. Shaw has a letter setting forth some facts about himself. Turn to his letter and read it.

Dudley Collins In Race For Sheriff

Former Official Wants To Have the Job Another Term

For some time J. Dudley Collins has been contemplating entering the race for Sheriff of Chilton County, and this week he is making his formal announcement.

There are not many people better known over the length and breadth of Chilton County than is Dudley Collins. He has ben in politics for a number of years, having held the tax collector's office two terms and the Sheriff's office one term. Mr. Collins has served with credit wherever he has been—both in public office and in every-day life.

In speaking of his condidacy Mr. Collins said: "I have no long statement to make. The people most all know me and know what I stand for. There is one promise I intend to make and that is that if the people of the county want me to be Sheriff again I will do all in my power to do the right thing under all cirmcustances. This has always been my slogan and I see no reason now to change it or try to make any amends to it. I would like to have the office, and I will certainly appreciate the help of my friends."

An order was received at the C.W.A. office in Clanton Wednesday morning calling for reassignment of those workers who were called out last week to begin this week, and which was stopped by orders of last Thursday.

According to the director, this means that those workers who were called last week, in addition to the old force, will be reassigned for work beginning next week.

Culp Explains Tax Payments

Points Out Same Requirements of Law As In Past Years

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a small space in your paper to make a statement to the taxpayers of the county.

Since I began mailing out notices to delinquents, there seems to be an idea in the minds of some people that it is something new and that I am trying to force collections. It has been the law for years that notices have to be mailed out after the 1st of January. Section 3054 of the Revenue Code reads as follows:

After the 10th day of January the tax collector must make a personal demand in writing upon each delinquent taxpayer or their agent. And in mailing the notices I am only complying with the law, as it applies to my official duties. Will state here that I will greatly appreciate the cooperation of the taxpayers in making their settlements as early as possible, but the same policies will be followed this year as of last year. I gave the people every day I could last year, making my settlement on the last day I could under the law.

I hope this explanation is clear to all concerned. When I can serve you, call on me.—W. G. Culp, tax collector.

PITTS WILL RUN FOR LEGISLATURE AGAIN

Mr. Percy M. Pitts, local attorney and present Representative from Chilton County, authorizes the Union-Banner to state that he will run for re-election as Representative.

As demonstrated during the past eight years, which time Mr. Pitts has served in the State Legislature from this county, he is thoroughly capable of handling the business connected with the office. The record which he has made is an enviable one. Mr. Pitts enjoys the highest friendship among the other members of the lower house of the State Legislature.

Mr. Pitts states that he will qualify as a candidate and make his formal announcement in the near future.

BITE OF A DOG CAUSED DEATH

Verbena Man Victim of Rabies Died Monday Morning This Week

Robert Lee Williamson, of Verbena, age 25 years, died Monday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. Carl Shepard. He was a victim of the dread malady, hydrophobia, caused from being bitten by a rabid dog.

Burial of Mr. Williamson was at Verbena Tuesday in charge of Martin. Funeral services were at Verbena Methodist Church, conducted by Rev. Cecil Ellisor.

Surviving him are four brothers, McKinley and J. A. Williamson, of Texas; E. Blocker Williamson, of Verbena; and Dr. John S. Williamson, of Birmingham; two sisters, Miss Mary Williamson of Verbena, and Mrs. Carl Shepard, of Verbena.

It was stated that Mr. Williamson was bitten by a dog about Christmas time. It was not known that the dog was mad. It was sick, and members of the family thought it had eaten some glass. Mr. Williamson was administering treatment to the dog, a family pet, when it bit him.

The dog died a few days after biting the man. Mr. Williamson was seized with illness last Saturday. He was taken to Birmingham by his brother, Dr. John Williamson, and it is stated, was refused admission to a hospital. He was brought back to his home in Verbena, where he died Monday morning.

JUDGE TATE QUITS RACE

Announces Withdrawal From Campaign for Circuit Judge

Judge F. Lloyd Tate took the audience in his courtroom by surprise Monday evening, by announcing, at the close of the day's session of court that he was withdrawing from the race to succeed himself as Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit.

Those who heard the announcement say that he gave as his reason the fact of ill health, and in withdrawing that he was acting upon the advice of his physician

It has been known here for some time that Judge Tate is not a robust and altogether healthy man, but it was not generally thought that his health was such as to cause him to forgo the opportunity of continuing his services as Circuit Judge.

He has a great many friends in Chilton County who will learn of his withdrawal with sincere regret, and the more that his action is caused by failing health. He has been a popular man in Chilton Counyt for many years. When he was young and virile as Circuit Solicitor he was a firebrand in the prosecution of criminals. His friends welcomed his accession to the bench, and had hoped that he would be able to occupy the place to a well rounded and ripe career.

WATERMELON OUT OF SEASON

J. F. Hicks, of Pletcher, brought a watermelon to The Union-Banner office Tuesday. It was of small size, and its condition appeared to render it not eatable. It showed its age, so to speak, and seemed to express mutely its own confession that it was very much out of season.

WRITERS MUST BE FAIR TO ALL THE CANDIDATES

Very soon the Republicans of Chilton County will be in the midst of another political campaign. There will likely be considerable writing through the paper regarding the various candidates. We shall be more than pleased to carry in our columns the endorsements of the various candidates, together with the good things such friends wish to say about them; but we want everybody to gard very carefully aganist using the paper to lambaste the candidate whom they are opposed to.

We want the Republicans of Chilton County to feel and realize that The Union-Banner is your paper, and it is at your service, but at the same time, let us recognize not merely the interests of one man but the interests of the Republican party as a whole. If we will observe this rule, when the battle is over, everybody will have a good taste in their mouth and there will be no trouble in getting our voters to stand behind the nominees. And this is the one goal to which we must all strive, which will mean our ultimate success in November.

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is the best laxative for everybody. Senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore, ready for use. Member N. R. A.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Some time ago a minister said to me, "I am sick and tired of conferences. Every conference I attend they tell us how to put over a program. What we need is to get the impulse that we used to have." This man meant, "We don't need to know more as much as we need to want to know more." We usually find a way to do a thing that we really want to do. We preachers tell people to do. We ought to preach to them about get. Get an experience. Get the love of God in their hearts. When we have this love in our hearts it is so wonderful that we must just tell somebody. Men are always inclined to talk about the things in which they are most interested.

At the Bob Jones College in Cleveland, Tennessee, following the six weeks' summer session we are going to have beginning July 15 one of the greatest Bible conferences ever held in America. We are not going to talk about a program. We are going to try to get the people so filled with a passion that they will go out and do the thing because they want to do it. In connection with this Bible conference, which will be open to all who wish to attend, we are going to set aside one hour every day for the preachers. We are going to have a special course in "What to Preach and how to Preach it." We are not going to tell them how to raise money or how to put over an organization. We are just going to try to fill them full of a burning desire to go out after the lost. We are so busy with mechanics and details that even the preachers don't have time to develop their own spiritual lives.

The old time preachers didn't have many books, but they had time for fellowship with God. They were mighty men. It is not generally believed, but preachers are good business men. They have to be to live on the salaries they get and educate their children. Some people think that the business side of the preacher's life is not developed. I sometimes think that the modern minister has to pay too much attention to business and has too little time left to give to his real spiritual development.

REV PARRISH VERY ILL

For the past week Rev. M. J. Parrish, of Providence, has been critically ill. At this writing not much hope is entertained for his recovery, although he seems somewhat improved over a day or so ago.

Miss Annie Lamar of Verbena visited relatives here last week.

VERMONT SCHOOL

This week closes out the fourth month of the present session. Monthly tests will be in full order today and tomorrow. Those who have been regular in attendance can face them with a glow of satisfaction in the fact that they are in line for making a satisfactory pass mark, while those who have disregarded their duty of meeting classes regularly must content themselves with woefully lower averages. Two more months will bring us around to the end of this school year. The faculty hopes that those who have been detained from their studies will renew their efforts and resolve to count fast for the remainder of this 1933-1934 school year.

The school takes this opportunity to express its deep appreciation to those parents who are interested enough in their children's educational welfare to visit the school from time to time and note the progress which is being registered down through the span of weeks since the opening of school.

The Jr. I and II classes are drafting plans to give a reception, honoring the Jr. III class. Final announcements will be made in next week's column of school news.

At this writing, our teachers, parents, and larger boys and girls of school are busy making final preparation for entertaining the Isabella High School P.-T. A. Tuesday night. This is a special event and our school is glad of the opportunity of having our neighboring school as our guest. A special program is being arranged by the program committee, while the refreshments committee is busy planning the eats and the membership committee is leaving no stones unturned to get our full membership out for this gala affair. We will give you a full report of the meeting in next week's issue of the county papers.

Mrs. Nora Wells, from Jemison, who is chairman of the Chilton County Council of P.-T. A. work, came out to our P.-T. A. meeting last Wednesday and gave an interesting talk centering around the subject of "Affiliating our organization with the state and national P.-T.A. council. Due to an improper announcement, as to when the meeting would be held, several members were unable to attend on such short notice. However, we were fortunate in having 20 present. We only had three hours in which to notify the members of the correct time of the meeting; so we wish to commend those parents who laid aside their duties about the home and hastened over to the meeting. That's the right spirit, Vermont parents, let's go. Everyone present seemed interested in joining the state P.-T. A.. This will be definitely settled at our next meeting, which will be Tuesday night, January 23.

Mr. Johnson, motored to Birmingham, with a group of young men from Thorsby last Thursday night to see the famed Celtics, world's champions basketball team, play the Birmingham Southern Panthers. A pleasant trip was reported.

The school pig is growing off nicely. He weighed approximately 60 pounds when we first got him and now he weighs approximately 160 pounds. We have not decided what means we will pursue in disposing of him, probably though by outright sale.

The fifth and sixth grade boys have been busy the past few recesses and lunch periods building and painting bird houses. The value of bird life is being promoted and the boys are taking a great interst in providing these valuable little creatures a safe and secure place to build their nests, free from house cats, snakes and other enemies.

Mr. Johnson has organized the Jr. boys basketball team. These boys' ages run from twelve to fifteen years. They are coming athletes of future years, so why not give them a chance to develop the physical side of life and teach them the art of clean sportsmanship, a quality which many people are sadly lacking in. You should drop by some afternoon and see these little fellows down to business, dribbling, passing and shooting, trying to outwit their opponents. It's really interesting.

The Jr. III civics class debates this week upon the subject of "Whether the Public Utilities Should be Owned by the cities or Private Corporations." Edna Simms and T. J. Ratliff will uphold the affirmative, while the negative side will be defended by Mary Owen and Mary Jo Chandler.

Two dozen new song books were presented to our school last week by the P.-T. A. This will aid us greatly in our chapel programs and P.-T. A. meetings.

Work will begin next week in preparation for another real entertaining program, to be given about the middle of February. Pupils of the school will be given the principal parts of this program.

Attendance is better this week than last. We trust that those who are remaining out, fearing the measles, will return this week. All children who were exposed to any contagious disease are withheld from attending school, thus we hope to eliminate all danger in this respect. Those students whose attendance is shiftless and irregular need not expect to complete their grade. This means only a repetition of the same grade next year. So don't stay away from school now and then take a sudden spurt the last two or three weeks, expecting to be promoted. You will positively be unable to handle the work of a new grade, consequently this year's efforts are completely wasted as far as making a grade is concerned.

Due to illness, Miss Manning was unable to teach last Thursday. We are proud however that she was detained no longer than one day.

The entire facutly dined last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Scott. In the afternoon they attended the Sunday school and church services at Mt. Carmel.

Our sympathy and feelings go out to our good friends and neighbors of the Billingsley community, who happened to the sad misfortune of having their high school building to burn early last Thursday morning.

New Deal For Ala. Platform of Dixon

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 23.—Frank Dixon, Birmingham attorney, world war veteran and advocate of a new deal in state affairs, will open his campaign for Governor of Alabama in Florence, Saturday morning, January 27, it was announced at Dixon campaign headquarters here today.

Keynote of Mr. Dixon's opening campaign speech will be the regeneration of the state government and the reorganization along modern lines of government of counties and municipalities in Alabama.

Mr. Dixon states that he has chosen Florence, Ala., to inaugurate his campaign because it was in Florence that President Roosevelt made his now famous declaration of his Tennessee Valley plans, a part of his broad national recovery program.

"When President Roosevelt took the helm of our national government, he was confronted with almost exactly the same condition which we face in Alabama in our state affairs," Mr. Dixon said. "The government of the United States was dominated by organized minorities. Public policies were dictated by the special interests of strongly organized groups without regard to the welfare of the greatest number. The old time type of political leadership was in the saddle. President Roosevelt swept aside group control in our national life. He restored a national consciousness based on national necessities. That is what we need most now in Alabama and that is what I shall endeavor to achieve if I am honored with the confidence of Alabama citizens."

Mr. Dixon's platform, announced this week, advocates: reorganization of the state government and governments of counties and municipalities along modern lines; installation of a modern and less cumbersome system of taxation; continuation of the present income tax; the $5.00 automobile license; licensed sale of beer and wines in counties so voting and package sale of spirituous liquors in state warehouses in counties so voting; maintenance of the school system with recognition of the truth that the child in rural districts is as much entitled to an education as the child in cities; unification of the system of higher education; lessening of school book costs; restriction of the rule of legislative courtesy; installation of a system of uniform accounting in all counties immediate legislative reapportionment on the principle of population and county units; complete cooperation with the national government in farm relief measures and with the president in the Tennessee Valley program; establishment of a department of labor; prevention of child labor; inauguration of a civil service status for state employees; reform of cumulative poll tax law with minimum requirement of two years; establishment of a legislative reference bureau; reduction of legal interest rate to 6 per cent with rate permissible by contract not to exceed 8 per cent; analysis by competent citizens of the present road system; elimination of duplication and waste in the administration of governmental departments.

In his campaign speeches Mr. Dixon has pledged himself to discuss fully and in detail each plank in his platform so that there will be no misunderstanding in the mind of any citizen regarding his position on public questions.

W. G. SHAW ANNOUNCES FOR COMMISSIONER 1ST DISTRICT

Editor Union-Banner:

In making my announcement today as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Commissioner from the First District of the county, I feel that my candidacy deserves due consideration by the people of the county. Four years ago I was a candidate for this same office, and it was my pleasure to meet many of the voters of the county. I now reside near the center of the district and this is within a quarter of a mile from where I was born. I have always been a Republican and my father, W. H. Shaw, before me, and it is my ambition to serve the same district as commissioner as he served with credit to himself for many years. Many of the citizens of the county will remember my father as commissioner and also as clerk of the Chilton County Baptist Association for sixteen years.

It will be my policy to serve the best interests of all the people of the county and to the best of my ability take care of the county's interests. I am not aligned with any clique or clan and I am running solely on my merits and my ability to serve the people whom I represent.—Sincerely yours, W. G. Shaw.

CHESTNUT CREEK CHURCH SINGING SOCIETY MET SUN.

Our singing society met last Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The weather was very unpleasant but that did not keep our singers all at home. We had a very large crowd. The singing was opened by I. D. Huett singing one song and prayer by S. M. Yates. Directors for the afternoon were as follows:

Paul Hughes, Raybon Crew, L. J. Crew, Orviel Hughes, O. L. Devaughn, L. T. Grant, L. D. Hughes, Ammie O. Boswell, J. R. Robinson, Floy Devaughn, J. Zeb Mims, all singing one or two songs each. The Frisky Four sang two songs and one quartet was arranged by Mr. O. L. Devaughn.

We are very glad to have all the visiting singers and you have a special invitation to come back on the first Sunday afternoon.

As everybody knows, Chestnut Creek Church has been having singings twice a month, but we want to notify everybody that were not present Sunday that Maple Springs Church is going to take the third Sunday in each month instead of Chestnut Creek. Everybody go to Maple Springs next third Sunday afternoon, for there will be no more singings at Chestnut Creek only on the first Sunday afternoon. We have had some splendid help from Maple Springs so I think we have a chance to return their kindness shown us.

WINTERING BEES

Wintering is one of the most serious problems of beekeepers. Due to poor wintering methods, or lack of any wintering methods, the greater winter losses of bees in this county are several times what they should be.

To insure good wintering it is necessary to have large colonies of young bees and plenty of honey stored for winter. I know that it is too late to do anything about these things at this late date, but in case you have failed to provide the above, I want to suggest a few things that may be done now.

This is a critical period in the life of our bees. They have probably used up most of the winter's supply of food. Especially is this true where the honey was taken late in the summer.

The large active colony should have about 40 pounds of honey stored for winter use. In case you failed to leave this much or more honey in the hive in the fall, it will be necessary to feed from now until enough blossoms open in the spring for the bees to feed on.

A good feed for bees is a thick syrup made of sugar and water. (Two parts of sugar to one part of water boiled until all grains dissolve). The syrup should be fed warm in cold weather.

Use a Mason fruit jar with several holes in the lid made with a three-penny nail. Put the syrup in the jar and fasten the lid on the jar. Turn the jar upside down in a saucer or some other flat container. Place this near the entrance of the hive and the bees will feed on the syrup.

In case your colonies seem to be weakening, close the entrance to the hive to about half the normal opening.

MRS. GLADYS PAYNE DIED AT MAPLESVILLE MONDAY

Mrs. Gladys Payne, age 37, wife of Mr. J. Pope Payne, of Maplesville, died Monday night at the family home, following an illness of several days with pneumonia.

A brief service was held at the Payne home in Maplesville Tuesday afternoon, after which the body was carried to the home of her father, Mr. J. A. Sims, at Jemison. Funeral services were conducted at the Jemison Baptist church Wednesday afternoon, by Rev. Paul Oden. Burial was at Pine Hill cemetery, Jemison, in charge of Martin.

Mrs. Payne is survived by her husband, J. Pope Payne, and three children, J. P., Jr., Norma Jean, and Annie Lou; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sims, of Jemison; five brothers, T. C., C. W., and F. N. and J. A. Sims, of Birmingham, and T. O. Sims, of Jemison; two sisters, Mrs. Theresa Mae Turner, of Jemison, and Mrs. Mary Allison Easterling, of Clanton.

LITTLE MARGARET WALDROP

Margaret Waldrop, age 5 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugie Waldrop, of Jemison, died at the hospital in Clanton last Wednesday. Burial was at Pleasant Grove, west of Jemison, Thursday, with Martin in charge.

Whit Mims, of Birmingham, was in Clanton Sunday to attend the funeral of his uncle, Tom Mims, at Temple church. Whit is a son of Bud Mims, who died several years ago.

A WORD ABOUT C. W. A. WORK

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please let me have a little space for a few words about the C. W. A. work? My mind is just like Mr. Little about it. I think if people are going to get help, they should all get it alike.

I know of some who are getting work and they don't need it. And I know some who haven't any meat or flour, who have children to feed, and they can't get a day's work. I can't figure out how some can get it all and others remain in want without any help.

There are some girls working, and there are idle men who could feed their families if they could get the jobs. I am not falling out with the man who gets work; but I ask why is not the work divided so all can share alike?

I am not mad because I am not getting work, but because they cut out my pay and said they did not have money enough to give us poor good-for-nothing soldiers anything.

For twenty-five days at a time I lay in mud day and night in the trenches, with nothing to eat half the time, and little water to drink, while some were at home having three meals a day and a good bed to sleep on at night.

Now I am able to work half the time, and having to do without. If they would treat us all alike, I would not have anything to say.—J. A. Marler.

Mrs. Ralph Garner (Emmett Matthews) and son, William, of Ozark, were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Atkinson.

Make this lip test

LOOK at them ... and your cheeks, too, without make-up. Do they possess the natural glow of health, which comes from a sufficiency of rich, red blood? If they do, make-up is simple ... if they don't read on ... you may find one of the reasons why your skin is not clear and rosy.

You cannot have red lips, rosy cheeks, energy and cheerfulness if your blood is in a run-down condition. Lack of hemo-glo-bin, the red coloring of the blood, may also indicate a weakened condition of the body ... loss of strength ... poor appetite.

S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic but a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in restoring a low hemo-glo-bin content. If your condition suggests a blood tonic of this kind, try S.S.S. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite ... your color and skin should improve with increased strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes ... the larger is more economical.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

In the Chicago Journal of Commerce of October 1933, there appeared an editorial entitled "An Appeal to Common Sense", which we believe will be of interest to our customers. The author says in part:

"There is an outstanding instance of the danger of crippling the innocent bystander in the efforts of the various governments to avenge the public for the acts of certain promoters in the public utility field. There is also grave danger that, having avenged the public by various punitive measures, the public will pay higher rates for utility service in the end than at present . . .

"Now can this be so? In the year 1930, the utility companies spent $930,000,000 for construction. That money, which employed a small army of men and used the products of hundreds of factories, was borrowed from the public because the companies had a margin of earnings over expenses. That margin, itself representing one of the narrowest differences between cost and selling price of any of the public services today, also went to pay local taxes which helped to pay school teachers' salaries, policemen, and firemen, and so forth . . .

"But of graver consideration is what utility rates are likely to be after private management is thoroughly throttled and private capital is out of business. Under private management utility rates have been going down steadily since 1913, while under government control railroad rates have been increasing since 1913 . . .

"We hear much of social justice these days. Will it be social justice to the crippled children and dependent orphans in the many institutions which depend on the income from utility bonds, to take action which, endangers their livelihood? For illustration, how many know that there is danger that the Central Baptist Children's Home and the Northern Baptist Theological Seminary are in danger of closing because their income from utility bonds is endangered? And these are but two of many such."

To bring this closer home: Alabama Power Company has expended over One Hundred Million Dollars in Alabama for new construction and other capital purposes during the past ten years; during this period it has paid in taxes to state, county and local governments over $13,000,000, and in dividends to its 16,000 Preferred stockholders over $17,500,000; some 12,000 of such stockholders now living in the State of Alabama.

Yours very truly,

President.

Letter No. 13.

IN MEMORY OF W. J. CALLAWAY

As we stroll through the woodland we discover that an acorn has fallen and has been deposited in the mother earth. It germinates, comes forth and grows, then as it shoots forth its branches, it goes up until it becomes a giant whose branches furnish shade for the beast and bird. It stands the rain, storm, sleet and snow until after a while it has grown to such enormous size until it becomes useful for other purposes more valuable than shelter for beast and bird.

Man looks on it and decides that he will put it to a better use. He fells it to the ground and manufactures it into lumber, then he dresses it and paints and polishes it to make a beautiful home somewhere.

On July 18, 1861 God planted in this world the life of W. J. Calloway. As the tiny acorn, he was small but he grew up, up, up, until his life and influence became a giant and protection for those he came in contact with. He was a good husband and was of a lovable disposition. He was loyal to his church, Salem Baptist and Samaria Baptist, as long as he was able to attend.

Surviving him are his widow; five sons, W. A., Harley, and George W. Callaway, of Cooper; Ralph Callaway, of San Antonio, Texas; John Calloway, whose address is unknown; four daughters, Mrs. Fannie Smith, of Clanton; Mrs. A. B. Jones of Marbury; Mrs. Frank Island, of Mt. Creek; Mrs. W. D. McKinney of Buhl, Ala., three brothers, Jasper Callaway, of Deatsville; John Calloway of Providence and G. G. Callaway of Tuscaloosa; one sister, Nrs. T. L. Robinson of Verbena.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank Dr. Ezell, Dr. Marcus, Dr. Hayes and neighbors and friends for the kindness shown to us during the illness and death of our husband, father and grandfather, W. J. Callaway. May the richest of blessings be bestowed on each and everyone of you.—The family.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Our singing society met last Sunday with a large attendance. The opening song was led by the chairman, Mr. Herman Culpepper, after which prayer was led by Mr. W. R. Baker. We were more than glad to have the visitors with us. We had an attendance of about 200, and we were really glad to have them and invite them back at all times. Remember you are always welcome at Highland. We had visitors from Mt. Pisgah, Liberty, Bethsalem, Pleasant Valley and Pleasant Grove. All of you who came, come again and bring someone with you.

Directors for the afternoon were Cecil, Yeargan, Melvin Devaughn, William Cox, Sam Henley, F. I. Popwell, Marvin Huett, Howard Boockholdt, C. M. Billingsley, Cornelius Hand, Jake Henley, Zane Lowery, Reuben Devaughn, Coy Lockhart, Fonzie Coe, Souverign Dickey, Clint Billingsley, Misses Mildred Coe and Gladys Wyatt.

Pianists for the afternoon were Mr. C. M. Billingsley, Mr. F. I. Popwell, Miss Dessie Wyatt and Mrs. Zellie Scott.

Remember we have our singing every third Sunday afternoon, and everyone is invited to come and be with us for you are always welcome at Highland.

MRS. M. J. SPEER DIES IN COOSA

Mrs. M. J. Speer, 95, pioneer woman of Coosa County, who moved to the Nixburg section 75 years ago in a covered wagon, died at her home in Speed community Saturday night. She was buried at the old Harmony church at Titus Sunday.

Mrs. Speer was born in 1839 at Milledgeville, Ga., and came to Nixburg in 1858, where she married William Speer, Jr., who died in 1878. Her husband was a native of South Carolina. For three quarters of a century Mrs. Speer was a member of the old Rehoboth Methodist church.

Surviving are three sons, L. E. Speer, of Wetumpka; O. L. Speer, of Speed, and J. A. Speer, of Ensley; two daughters, Mrs. Ed Hannon, of Titus, and Mrs. Carrie Russell, of Ensley.

NEGRO KILLED AT VERBENA

William Earle Wright, Negro, age 16 years, was killed instantly near Verbena last Thursday, when another Negro, Walter Quarles, split his head open with an axe. It is stated that the killing resulted from bad feeling between the two Negroes, which grew out of repeated fusses they had been having about a Negro girl.

Sheriff Gillespie went to the scene of the killing as soon as he was notified, and took the Negro, Quarles, into custody. Coroner Mell Martin, was summoned to make an investigation.

The following statement was given out by Coroner Martin, after the investigation. Wright and two other Negroes, Ernest and Dewey Browder, were on a wagon going after a load of wood. On their way the Quarles Negro got on the wagon, picked up an axe that was on the wagon, and struck Wright over the head with it. The coroner found a large knife, said to belong to Wright, open and lying beside the dead body.

The other Negroes of the party stated to the coroner that Quarles tried to get them to help him conceal the body after he had killed Wright, but they refused.

Quarles was brought to jail in Clanton by the Sheriff. The case will be investigated by the grand jury in session this week.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

We are glad to report that we had good services Saturday and Sunday. Our pastor brought us two fine messages, which were enjoyed by everyone present. We had some visitors, and were glad to have them. We hope they will come again.

Our Sunday school was well attended Sunday and we hope to see everyone back next Sunday at 10 o'clock. So come and be with us.

WIFE OF BUDDY JONES DIED ON JANUARY 18TH

Mrs. Mary E. Jones, wife of E. L. (Buddie) Jones, of Corinth community, died on January 18th, 1934 at the family home.

She was born on July 4th in Chilton County, and has lived here most of her life. She was married to E. L. Jones on December 4th, 1890, the two having lived together 44 years before death separated them. She joined the Baptist church in the year 1888, and remained a faithful member for 46 years. She was the mother of seven children, five of whom survive her—4 girls and 1 boy. The dead are James and Reedy. Those living are: Mrs. Mollie Jones, Mrs. Lola Jones, Mrs. Margie Burnett, Mrs. Flora Thomas and Mr. Archie Jones. Besides her husband, she leaves a host of other relatives and friends. There are 16 grand children, one great grandchild; one brother, Rev. E. A. Norris, and one sister, Mrs. Sallie Jones.

Mrs. Jones had been in declining health for two or three months. She suffered a severe headache from the beginning of her illness, and later developed pneumonia, which resulted in her death. Dr. Lawrence of Clanton waited on her, and did all in his power to relieve her, as did the other friends and relatives; but it was God's will for her to depart from this life, and nothing that earthly hands could do would stay off the grasp of the grim reaper.

The remains were laid to rest in Corinth cemetery Friday of last week, Rev. L. D. Hughes officiating.

IN MEMORY OF D. T. POPWELL

Friday morning, January 12, about 3 o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Dutch T. Popwell, age 49, and carried away the spirit of our dear father. He was sick for several months in which time everything was done that loving hands knew to do. But God loved him more and sweetly whispered come home, where there is no pain nor sorrow.

He was always submissive to the wishes of all. He was a member of Bethel Primitive Baptist church, and a faithful worker until his death. We feel a vacant place which none other can fill. He was loved and is missed by all who knew him.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, Mrs. Decie Culver Popwell; the children, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Lee Popwell, Hollan, William and Moses Popwell. His mother Mrs. Ann Popwell; one brother, L. D. Popwell; two sisters, Mrs. Fannie Thomas and Mrs. Ida Gray.

Rev. Kelley, Rev. Tucker and Rev. Davis conducted the services with Martin in charge. The remains were placed in Bethel cemetery, Saturday, January 13.

CANE CREEK

Our Sunday school is still good and growing. We had a large crowd Sunday. We want them all to come back next Sunday and bring someone with them.

On next Wednesday week, January 31, there will be an all day quilting at the church. So everybody come that will and bring your dinner. The quilts are for the church.

SUNG AT FRIENDSHIP

Virgil Smith was chairman at a singing at Friendship last Sunday afternoon. The directors were, James Edwards, Harry Parker, F. J. Little, Lillie Mae Weldon, Martel Blankenship, Willodean Smith, Mrs. Lennie Gillespie. The closing song was sung by James Edwards.

There will be singing again next third Sunday afternoon.

VATCHEL VISITED ROCKFORD

Vatchel Lindsey made a trip to Rockford one day last week. Upon his return he released the following statement for publication:

"I want to tell my friends of my most wonderful trip to Rockford, and from there, by way of Montgomery, and return to Clanton.

"I had the very best of company with me, and some wonderful music, as Mr. Billy Smith, with whom I went has a radio in his car.

"It was a most delightful trip, and I long to take it again some time. Mr. Smith and his wife are two prominent young people of Clanton."

FRIENDSHIP NEWS

Our Sunday school is improving greatly. Last Sunday there were more than seventy-five present. We hope to have one hundred present Easter, but if we keep on improving, we will have that number by the middle of February.

We also have an active B. Y. P. U. We are just getting organized but there are fine prospects for this organization.

The lumber for the new benches is ready.

The ladies of the church and others interested are going to build an annex to the church. This work will be begun in the near future.

Our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson, will preach here next Saturday night. This church will visit the almshouse next Sunday at 2 p.m. and Bro. Robinson will preach. We hope other churches will be represented with their best singers and help us put on a good program for the inmates of the home.

Sunday school is at ten o'clock and B. Y. P. U. at six p.m. Everyone come. You are always welcome at Friendship.

IN MEMORY OF VINCENT EDWARDS

On January 3rd at eleven-thirty God called our dear relative and friend to his heavenly home. It is our loss but heaven's eternal gain. They needed another dear angel in heaven, so God took him away. Weep not dear ones, but be ready to meet him again some day. When the final day has come, won't it be cheerful to see Vincent again. As his last words were spoken, he told us he was ready to enter heaven, and that God was awaiting him.

He is survived by his father, Mr. Jesse Edwards of Clanton and mother, Mrs. Anna Marlow Edwards of Clanton; one brother and two sisters, Mr. Tommie Edward of Clanton; Miss Annie Edwards of Tuscaloosa; and Miss Isabella Henley of Montgomery; one half-brother and a host of friends and relatives.

The vacant place in our hearts can never be filled for he was a lover of everyone that knew him. Vincent was born in 1916, and lived in and around Clanton all his short life.

IN REPLY TO E. H. FOSHEE

Editor Union-Banner:

Just a word in reply to E. H. Foshee's letter which was in last week's issue. Oh yes, Mr. Foshee, I suppose Judge Reynolds is a good man, but you must remember we have other good men in our county too, and we must treat them all alike. So, come on now, and let us elect another good man. J. Z. Mims is another good man so come one and let's try him a barrell, and see what he will do.—A reader.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Next Sunday afternoon is time for the regular monthly singing at the courthouse. Prof. L. T. Grant has been appointed to act as chairman, and the singing will begin at 1:30 o'clock, or as soon thereafter as possible. Both new books will be used, and the singers of the county have a cordial invitation to attend.

SINGING AT NEW SALEM NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Mr. J. E. Minor asks the Union-Banner to announce that there will be singing at New Salem church next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:00 o'clock. Mr. Minor advises that both new books will be used, and urges that all singers who can attend and help out in the services.

WRIGHT-WHITFIELD

Lonnie Wright was married to Miss Ethel Whitfield on January 17th. The wedding took place at Bessemer, Ala., the probate judge performing the ceremony.

Mr. Wright is a son of the late John Henry Wright, who died in 1929 near Billingsley. The bride's home is near Helena in Shelby County.

REFUGE NEWS

Next Saturday at 11:00 a.m. we are going to have with us a most distinguished and well-known man to preach for us at this place—Dr. L. E. Barton, the secretary and treasurer of our state Baptist work. The pastor has had the privilege of being with Bro. Barton some little bit. We are glad to have him be with us again. We are also expecting Bro. Ezell of Clanton and Bro. J. W. Jones of Thorsby.

CARD OF THANKS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space to thank our many friends for their kindness shown us during the recent illness and death of our darling little girl, Ruby. Especially do we thank Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Smith, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Connell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Mims, Mrs. Claudie Popwell, Miss K. C. Austin, Mrs. McKinney, Miss Mary Ellis, Mr. J. Mell Martin; also Bro. Ezell for the kind words he spoke. May God's richest blessings rest on each and everyone forever.—Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Scarbrough and children.

VETERANS BURIAL ALLOWANCE INCREASED BY PRESIDENT

Mr. J. Mell Martin, secretary of the Alabama Funeral Directors Association, in a statement issued this week calls attention to the order of President Roosevelt, increasing the burial allowance for deceased war veterans from $75 to $100. By this action, Mr. Martin points out, a sum of $600,000 additional will be made available for the burial of ex-service men.

Mr. Martin recalls in his statement that the National Funeral Directors Association, at their Rochester convention, recommended that the president be urged to take this action. The funeral directors have been at work to interest veterans organizations in supporting their stand in the matter.

"The text of the President's order has not been received," said Mr. Martin, "but it is very probable that the order will not be made retrocative."

War veterans will receive announcement of the increased burial allowance with approval. Experience during the past year has proven that the allowance of $75 was totally inadequate to provide satisfactory burial for veterans.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Jan. 23.—There is a great need for a critical mood in our generation in relation to the printed page, Dr. Edward W. Gregory told 100 mid-term graduates of the University of Alabama at exercises held Saturday evening, January 20 at the Capstone.

"This is an age of prolific writers who voice their prejudiced ideas in the press, books, novels, and anywhere else that space is provided. The separation of truth from fiction is a matter of first necessity in dealing with the printed page. Not infrequently, I am amazed by the willingness of some of my own students to accept as absolute fact anything they find in print, regardless of who wrote it or where it is printed."

The speaker also emphasized the need of a critical mood in relation to traditional and current treatment of great historical personages. He said that there are two extremes which are always equally popular. The one is to ascribe to them only such lofty virtues as to rob them of all human quality. The other is to paint their lives in such terms of vice as to make them utterly depraved.

Dr. William M. Bland of the U. S. Veterans Hospital at Tuscaloosa has been appointed director of the University of Alabama Symphony Orchestra.

POUNDING WALNUT PASTOR

The people of Walnut Creek gave their pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Nolen, a pounding Friday night of last week. Articles valued at $8.00, consisting of eleven pieces, were presented at the parsonage. There were 33 people gathered at the pastor's home for the pounding. Rev. and Mrs. Nolen are very grateful for the splendid gifts.

IN MEMORY OF MOTHER

Please give me space in your good paper to express our thanks to the many friends who rendered a helping hand and were so willing to do anything they could during the sickness and death of our dear mother, Mrs. Mary J. Jones. She had been in bad health for some five or six weeks, and on the night of the 12th of January she was taken with a serious head trouble, which later developed pneumonia, and died on the 18th. She was laid to rest at Corinth cemetery, Rev. J. D. Hughes conducting the service.

We, as husband and children, can't find words to express to our friends and Dr. C. O. Lawrence our thanks for their kindness. There newer was so much love and sympathy shown as was shown to our mother and us.

We feel that everything was done that loving hands could do to relieve her of her suffering but God saw fit to take her from us. We can just begin to realize what it is to be without a mother. Everything seems lonely and blue and, oh, what a vacancy in the home, in the church, in anything that was good and for the betterment of humanity. This vacancy can't be filled. We loved her. We cherished her. We would call on her for advice in time of trouble.

She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, Mr. E. L. Jones and five children, Mrs. Mollie Jones, Mr. Archie Jones, Mrs. Lola Jones, Mrs. Flora Thomas and Mrs. Maggie Burdette; sixteen grand children, one great grandchild; one brother, Rev. E. A. Norris, and one sister, Mrs. Sallie Jones.

She was born in Chilton County in 1871 and joined the Baptist church in 1888, and was married to Mr. E. L. Jones in 1890, having lived together 44 years. She was a faithful member of the Baptist church, and we know that our loss is only heaven's gain. May each of us strive to live in a way to meet her some day and be an unbroken family. May God bless all who rendered a helping hand and showed a willingness to do anything for us and her. Thanks to all. —The only boy, Archie Jones.

BEE KEEPERS TO MEET

A meeting of the Bee Keepers Association of Chilton County has been called for Friday morning, January 26, at ten o'clock, in Clanton. The call is issued by County Agent J. W. Fant, who urges all who are interested in bee culture to come and bring someone with you.

The Bee Keepers Association was recently organized with G. G. Williams as president.

Chilton's Quota Is 14,400 Acres

6,100 Acres Rented To Government Up to Last Saturday Night

Up to last Saturday night the farmers of Chilton County had signed 1,928 of the 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction contracts with approximately 6,100 acres of land rented to the government.

Chilton County's quota for this campaign is 14,400 acres. According to the best information available there are approximately 2,500 farmers in the county who should sign contracts.

Appealing to the farmers to come across and make the campaign a success in Chilton County, Mr. Fant says:

"The last week for the cotton reduction sign-up is passing rapidly. There are a few people in the county who have refused to sign and more who are putting the matter off for the last minute rush.

"Listen, folks, unless the people who are holding out on us come on acres and do their duty, this program will fail. It would be nice if everybody but ME would sign and put the program over, then let ME make all the cotton I could. But let's remember that if everybody did like ME and failed to sign, where would I be with my big crop of cotton? Remember that we all have the same privilege when it comes to waiting for Bill to do something. Don't wait for the other fellow to sign; when the committeeman comes to your place sign the contract and it will make it easier for him to sign the other fellow.

"The average cotton farmer in Chilton County has planted an average of 11 acres of cotton per farm per year during 1928-1932. He produced 211 pounds of lint cotton per acre for this same period.

"We will take this average farmer and figure what the cotton reduction program will mean to him.

"Forty per cent of 11 acres equals 4.4 acres, this being less than 4½ acres, we would take out 4 acres and leave 8 acres to plant. This man will get 3½ cents per pound for the 211 pounds average yield, or $7.38 per acre for the 4 acres out.

"This is high rent but the government goes a step further and guarantees that a farmer can not lose. He gets a parity payment of not less than 1c per pound on a farm allotment of 40 per cent of 11 x 211, or 928 pounds of lint cotton. At 1c per pound, this would be $9.28 on the four acres.

"Suppose cotton fails to go up from the present price of 11c per pound. Then the parity would be the difference in 15c, the present parity price of cotton, and the selling price of 11c, or 4c per pound. Four cents x 928 would be $37.12, the parity payment in this case.

"Folks, there is only one way to lose on the program and that is to wait for someone else to reduce acres and let the program fail.

"I am appealing to your good judgment and loyalty to your fellow farmers to sign up and put the program over.

"We are expecting the checks for the 4c loan on the optioned cotton any day now. We will be unable to deliver these checks until the persons they are addressed to have signed a 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction contract. Suppose January 31st arrives and you have failed to sign a contract?"

Everything is moving along nicely up this way.

Sunday school was good Sunday. Not near as many present as could have been if folks would wake up to their duty. Our B. Y. P. U. has hibernated.

Rev. Buford Lawrence of Clanton will preach for us next Sunday at 11 o'clock a.m. Rev. Green of Jemison will preach for us the second Sunday in February at 11 a.m. and Sunday night also. Everybody come out and hear these men. I am sure they will have something good to tell you. Also next Sunday is our singing afternoon. Come and bring your 1934 books and help us out.

Mrs. J. W. Collum and Mrs. Earnest Scott attended a quilting at the home of Mrs. Sam Edwards last Wednesday and reported a wonderful time.

Quite a crowd gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb Tuesday night to practice singing.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thornbro of Birmingham spent Saturday night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Dennis.

Mrs. L. A. McGraw spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. J. N. Sims.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Scott spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. George Horsley of Tarrant City spent Sunday with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Sims. They were accompanied by their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Horsley.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Childress, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Gentry were the Sunday afternion guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cobb.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Frederick visited Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Collum Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thornbro of Birmingham were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cobb Sunday.

Remember to come to Sunday school, preaching and singing next Sunday.

SENIOR PLAY AT HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY NIGHT, JANUARY 26

The wish of hundreds of people of Clanton and Chilton County has been granted. The Senior class of Chilton County High School will fulfill this wish that they could see a real comedy when they present, "The Clay's the Thing" at the high school auditorium tomorrow night, January 26, at seven-thirty. This play is the funniest, the wittiest, and the best comedy that has been presented at this school. Two hours of merriment, side splitting laughs and such fun you have never before had. The cast is composed of members of the Senior class, and this, along with the superb and humorous story cannot fail to make even a pessimist roar with laughter. Come on out and see it. Besides the play, which is in itself a four star feature, there will be a chorus of Clanton's most beautiful and graceful girls to entertain you between acts. In other words you can just not afford to miss seeing "The Clay's the Thing." Remember the time, tomorrow night, Friday, at 7:30. And here's the surprise, the admission will be only fifteen and twenty-five cents.

Now a little about the story. Three college boys start out to sell a beauty clay. One of them, Cecil Jones, masquerades as a girl so he may enter the Atlantic City Beauty contest, be Miss America and indorse the clay. Everything runs smoothly until they assemble at the uncle's home. Here the mistakes and breaks appear by the stageful. Jerry, loses his wig. He is to sleep with an old maid, since everyone thinks he is a girl. A Broadway playboy falls in love with him. There is no beginning to the number of laugh-bringing mistakes these poor boys get into. Just come out yourself and see what happens when a boy enters a girl beauty contest. Humor is also added by the particular Mrs. Parmer; the lisping Jessie; the stuttering maid and others.

FIVE NEW HOSPITALS FOR VETERANS SEEN IN FUTURE

Washington, Jan. 21.—Construction of five new veterans hospitals will be accelerated as the result of President Roosevelt's $21,000,000 liberalization of veterans allowances. The Veterans Administration officials Saturday said they were awaiting data as to how much the increase in their patient loan for hospitals and homes would be.

REPUBLICANS OF SHELBY ARE TO HOLD PRIMARY ELECTION

A meeting of the Republican Executive Committee of Shelby County was held at the courthouse Saturday, January 13, with a fairly representative crowd. After an enthusiastic discussion, the committee decided to hold a party primary on the first of May. February 23 was fixed as a date for another meeting of the committee to be held in Columbiana. A. B. Baxley, Calera, is chairman of the committee and W. E. Finley, Shelby, is secretary.

CLANTON AIR MARKER

A large sign has been painted on top of Upchurch Drug Store which will serve as an air marker for Clanton, giving directions and location for airplane pilots. The sign contains the name of Clanton in huge letters, together with the number of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion, and indicator of direction and distance to Clanton's airport.

The sign was erected by C.W.A. under direction of Colonel Sumpter Smith, advisor to C.W.A. in aeronautics for Alabama.

NEW FORD V·8 for 1934

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The New Ford V-8 for 1934 is now on display at the showrooms of Ford dealers. Surpassing even the great Ford of 1933 in economy, beauty and comfort, it is truly the car of this modern age—the culmination of thirty years Ford progress. It combines the proved performance of the V-8 cylinder engine with two important new features—Dual Carburetion and perfected Clear-vision Ventilation. See this car today and drive it at the first opportunity.

OUTSTANDING IMPROVEMENTS IN THE NEW FORD V·8

BETTER PERFORMANCE. Greater power, new speed, quicker acceleration, smoother performance, more miles per gallon especially at higher speeds, and quicker starting in cold weather—all these result from the new dual carburetor and dual intake manifold. New water-line thermostats enable the engine to warm up more quickly and to maintain an efficient operating temperature. Added engine refinements reduce oil consumption, further improve operating economy and reduce maintenance costs.

NEW VENTILATION SYSTEM permits clear vision, prevents drafts and provides desired amount of fresh air in any weather. Individual control for front and rear side windows. When ventilation is desired the window glass is raised to the top. Then the handle is given an additional half-turn. This slides the glass back horizontally to form a narrow slot. Through this slot air is drawn out by the forward motion of the car. This simple ventilation system maintains draft-free circulation, insures passenger comfort, prevents fogging windshield in cold or stormy weather. Both windshield and cowl ventilator can be opened to supply additional air needed for comfortable warm-weather driving.

DISTINCTIVE NEW APPEARANCE enhanced by the newly designed chromium-plated radiator shell and grille, new hood louvres, new hub caps. Interiors are attractive, with new tufted upholstery, new mouldings, new cove-type headlining, new instrument panel, new arm rests, new hardware. Swivel-type sun visors in De Luxe bodies prevent glare from front or side.

FENDERS IN COLOR. On De Luxe cars fenders are in color to harmonize with body colors—wheel colors optional. New enamel finish on all bodies and fenders has greater wearing quality and more enduring luster.

GREATER RIDING COMFORT results from increased spring flexibility. The spring leaves are newly designed for quieter and easier action. Shock absorbers are improved. Seat cushions are deeper, with new, softer springs. New type, individual bucket seats provide increased comfort for front-seat passengers in the Tudor Sedan. Adding to comfort is the new driving ease of the 15-to-1 steering gear ratio.

PRICES REMAIN LOW—Tudor Sedan, $535. Coupe, $515. Fordor Sedan, $585. De Luxe Tudor, $575. De Luxe Fordor, $625. De Luxe Coupe (5 windows), $555. De Luxe Coupe (3 windows), $555. De Luxe Roadster, $525. De Luxe Phaeton, $550. Cabriolet, $590. Victoria, $610. (All prices f. o. b. Detroit.)

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

By Dan Smith

By scanning the daily papers one sees articles on a subject that will remain a black spot in the history of Alabama—the closing of most of her public schools. Chilton County high school is among the most fortunate, in that we will continue to operate as a public school. While the students are enjoying and sharing the opportunity of a public education, neighboring counties are being forced to deny their children the privilege of obtaining an education. This is a more serious matter than it appears. Therefore, there is certainly no doubt but that we should thank someone from the bottom of our hearts for this material blessing that the school children of Chilton County have received. And we must and will show our thanks in a humble but profitable way and that is by making the utmost use of our chance in school.

The Senior class will present the comedy of all comedies here at the school auditorium tomorrow night. The name of this laugh-getter, tickle box tumbler and side-splitter is "The Clay's the Thing." It is a comedy in three acts and the Senior class guarantees that you will say that you have never spent two hours like these before. The plot is superb; three college boys, played by Cecil Jones, Joe Moore and Dan Smith, start out to sell a beauty clay to a rich uncle, John Ezell. Cecil Jones as Jerry, masquerades as a girl so she can enter a beauty contest and endorses the beauty clay. A Broadway producer falls in love with her (him); Jerry nearly reveals himself several times; he is put in the same room with an old maid; and other embarrassing and humerous scenes occur from which the boys finally rescue themselves but not until having gone through the funniest of all funny scenes. You can't afford to miss it. The time will be 7:30 and you had better come early. The admission is only fifteen and twenty-five cents. All high school students must pay twenty-five cents.

Chilton's first-rate basketball teams the boys and girls, played the teams from Marbury High last Tuesday night. The score of the boy's game was .. to .., and the girls tied at the score of thirteen and thirteen. James Tiffin is still leading the boys in piling up those points. Every man played a wonderful game Tuesday night. Friday afternoon our teams went into enemy's territory, playing Verbena at Verbena. Only half of the girls' game was played and the boys' game was called off, both due to rain. At the end of the half Chilton's girls were leading 6 to 4. Things look bright for a successful season for the Chilton basketballers, and, folks, we have a team.

The students of C.C.H.S. had as their guests last Wednesday morning the glee club from the County Training school with Prof. Benj. Anderson in charge. This glee club, composed of colored boys and girls from the training school sang a number of Negro spirituals and other songs. The number rendered by a trio was very much enjoyed. This program was both appreciated and fully enjoyed by both the faculty and student body of C.C.H.S. as well as by the several patrons present, and according to the comments heard among the students Prof. Anderson and his pupils may be invited to sing again.

Don't fail to see what happens when Uncle Briggs, John Ezell, finds Jerry, dressed only in negligee, in Jack's lap. Joe Moore plays the part of Jack, and Cecil Jones portrays Jerry.

"The Clay's the Thing, and how? Don't miss it.

Not only is our school interested in the mental development of its students, but also in the physical development. The last period of the day is turned over to physical education which includes various kinds of recreational exercises. This is a worthwhile feature in our school and both the teachers and pupils are entering into it with great spirit.

Some odd facts about Alabama: The geographic center is a few miles east of Montevallo on the Calera-Montevallo highway. Maplesville was once considered as a place to locate the state capitol. In 1821 Wetumpka and Chicago had the same population.

The Tennis Club has been reorganized for this year. The court has been re-marked and is now in tip top shape for playing.

The Senior class wishes to take this opportunity to thank all those who helped it by subscribing to the magazines sold by them last week. Fifty cents from every dollar taken in on a subscription remained here in the treasury of the class. The class also wants to thank all those underclassmen who helped in the campaign. The Auburn Tigers, with Mary Charles Cox and Dan Smith as captains, won the contest.

Rings for the members of the Senior Class have already been ordered. The style was decided by vote last Wednesday. They are expected in a few weeks.

Who Am I?—It was Maralyn Hardy last week. I know you want get this one. I am a Senior high student; make good grades; I have brown eyes; I am a good athlete; one of Cupid's victims, too; some say I like to criticize dance, but don't like to; I am nice looking; and I am a mystery to some.

Through the Keyhole and Over the Transom, by the Student Winchell. (These articles are the personal expressions of the writer and do not in any way reflect the character of the school. They are printed for the interest of the Students.)

Here's a hot top from Student Winchell and it's not wrong either. If you want to have the best time of your life see "The Clay's the Thing." It's a flash . . . Some go East, some go West, but the Unholy Three are going Reynolds . . . Watch out Ronnie . . . They may back out though . . . Why are some girls so anxious to make it known that they are not the Unholy Three? . . . Wonder why a certain Senior three hero was asking about a certain Senior two recently. Sounded good. Watch out Dot. . . . Looks as though the "penny and caramel candy" has faded. Perhaps it has become a fixture now . . . Where did a certain Senior three disappear to Saturday night when two girls, a Senior two and one appear. And why? Here's hoping the Why that is rumored isn't so. . . Oh, you two new lovebirds, you can't keep it a secret any longer . . . Here's the week's flash: What's happened to our Senior three couple. To see them you would know that Cupid was around. To hear each talk you would know that cupid never existed.

Letters were presented to the football boys Monday of this week in chapel. There were fourteen players who has passed the necessary requirements for the letter. Dan Sanford was presented one as manager and Melvin Powell was given his letter for basketball during last year, know that Cupid never existed.

AGED NEGRO DIED

After a lingering illness of several months, Chance Davis, Negro, age 72, died at his home five miles east of Maplesville, last Friday morning, January 12th.

Funeral and burial services were conducted the following Sunday at 11:30 a.m., by Rev. J. S. Prentice of Aldrich.

He is survived by his wife, Donnie Davis; six sons, Hesikiah, LeRoy, James, Oliver and Luther, all of Maplesville, and Clyde of Bessemer; two daughters, Mary Hicks of Maplesville and Jennie Collins of Clanton; two sisters and a host of grandchildren.

Uncle Chance was born and reared in the Maplesville vicinity. He proved to be a good citizen and a faithful Christian. He has been a deacon of the New Convert Baptist church for nearly 45 years. And now we feel that he has reached his peaceful eternal destiny, where he shall never grow old.—S. L. Hicks.

BOY SCOUTS HAD MEETING

The Boy Scouts of America, Troop No. 37, met at the Clanton Baptist church Monday night, January 21, 1934. The meeting was opened by Ted Reynolds, bugler, blowing taps and the scouts saluting the flag.

Scoutmaster Louie Smith requested that all the boys learn the Morse Code and how to signal with flags. Ted Reynolds and Guy Alred tried to show the other scouts how to signal.

We have a new assistant scoutmaster, Mr. Sweat, who is working for V. J. Elmore. He is a fine assistant scoutmaster. If all the boys pass any kind of test next Monday night, we can go on a hike Friday night.

The meeting was closed with the pledge of allegiance to the flag.—Guy Alred, scribe.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 23. — Frank T. Bell, commissioner of the United States bureau of game and fisheries, has promised to cooperate with Mobile authorities in stocking lakes here if they can negotiate CWA allotments for the work.

Mr. Bell and G. C. Leach, an assistant to the commissioner, came here for a conference with chamber of commerce officials on plans for developing the oyster and fishing resources near Mobile.

On being informed that an application had been filed for funds with which to establish reservoirs for the purpose of propagating fish in Mobile waters, Commissioner Bell stated that the funds allotted to the fisheries commission would be used mostly for improving government fish hatcheries and reservations in the West.

Montgomery.—A gallant field trial winner, one of the few dogs that can claim the distinction of being a double champion, is passing from the picture and will spend the rest of her days pointing coveys for her master.

This dog is Superlette, owned by A. G. C. Sage of New York and Alabama, and descended from that famous sire, Milligan's Dan. Only last year Superlette, by an amazing show of her old form, was runner-up in the national which was won by her kennel mate, Rapid Transit.

Few followers of the trials had realized that age was creeping up on Superlette until she made a gallant bid in the early braces of the recent Union Springs field trials and then was forced to give way to younger dogs.

"There is no reason to puzzle about Superlette as she is really too old to run in trials any more," explained Bob Goode of Gastonburg. "She was put on at Union Springs without any special preparation merely to help fill out the stakes and I have no idea that she will be run any more in trials. It was remarkable that she made the showing she did last year as I think she is now over nine years old. She is, however, a wonderful shooting dog and Mr. Sage is using her regularly for that purpose."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Reports from county agents show that 5,763,000 pounds of winter legume seed were planted in Alabama last fall. This compares with 5,725,661 pounds for the previous year and is the biggest planting on record.

The proportion of cotton acreage not fertilized in Alabama is shown in percentages as follows: 1928, 4.7; 1929 3.1; 1930, 3.9; 1931, 13.3; 1932, 33.8; 1933, 19.2. Figures by F. W. Gist, state and federal statistician.

Twenty-one per cent decrease in the number of relief cases in urban sections of the country between November and December was reported by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. During the same period the FERA also said, total obligations incurred for unemployment aid from all funds dropped 23 per cent.

Under President Roosevelt's proposal the gold content of the dollar may vary from 11.61 grains to 13.93 grains of pure gold as compared to the present legal content of 23.22 grains. It is understood that it is the aim of the president to establish a dollar which will be variable as to weight but more or less fixed as to value.

Since crops were harvested last fall over 3,000 acres of land in Tallapoosa County have been terraced, according to F. N. Farrington, county agent. The terracing was done by four large tractor outfits provided by the county at a low cost per acre to the land owners, who collectively pay the entire cost including cost of the equipment.

CARD OF THANKS

MEMORY OF RUBY SCARBROUGH

On Thursday night, January 11, at 9:30 o'clock little Ruby Scarbrough died after about five weeks of illness. She was only nine years old. Though she was small, she had a kind feeling towards everyone, and had many friends and relatives to mourn her loss.

She leaves her father and mother, one sister, and four brothers; an uncle, who lived with them, one grandfather, two grandmothers, one great grandmother and many others who loved her dearly. I loved her more than I can tell, and everyone who knew her loved her, because she was kind and sweet, always smiling gayly. Even when she was taken sick she smiled bravely; and sat up when she wasn't able, trying to get well.

There are no words that can express how much I thought of my dear, sweet little cousin. How I long to hear her voice, see her sweet face and her bright smile.

Each day I think of the games we played together and the songs we sung. When I remember all of this it's almost more than I can bear. The only consolation I have is that I know little Ruby will be resurrected some day and live forever by obedience. Then I will see her bright smile, and hear her sweet voice every day.

She's only sleeping and not forever. For she will awake when the time comes when Satan is bound and will not bring any more sorrow and trouble to the people who are trying to live right and grasp the truth. Then Satan will deceive no more of God's children. Little Ruby was only a child and could not have done any wrong. She'll come forth by and by and have her chance to learn the truth, which is God's word, and live forever.—A cousin, Vivian Coker.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

A New Primary Building

The patrons of the Chilton County Training School voted to erect a primary building last Wednesday night, and work is to start soon. It was quite pleasing to see the interest manifest in the project. As soon as this building is erected, $1,500 in equipment will be given the high school department for the purpose of putting this school on the "A" accredited list. This money comes from out of the state through the director of Negro Education, Mr. J. S. Lambert.

Committees are being formed in all sections of the county to solicit aid from all persons interested. We will appreciate anything you give, money, lumber, trees, hardware or anything we can use. We will appreciate most heartily any contributions from our white friends.

County P.-T. A. Unit To Meet

The annual meeting of the County Units of the P.-T. A. will be held at the county training school Friday, January 26th. A very interesting program has been arranged, with Mr. E. G. McGehee and Mrs. Foster McDavid appearing on the program. All teachers of the county are required to be present. Don't miss Mr. McGehee's speech.

Sign Up!

Those of you who have not signed your contract for cotton acreage reduction should do so without delay. If you would only jump after this like you did the CWA. It seems that anything which will be a lasting blessing to us, we don't care for. The fact is we don't have the energy and patience to labor and wait. It is time we were looking farther than our nose's end.

—Benj. Anderson.

Lesson for January 28

STANDARDS OF THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 5:1-48.

GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God. Matthew 5:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Teaches the People.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Rules for Right Living.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Following Christ's Ideals.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Christian According to Christ.

I. The Characteristics of the Subjects of the Kingdom (vv. 1-12).

Those who are members of Christ's kingdom must possess character consistent with the nature of the king.

1. The consciousness of utter spiritual poverty (v. 3). "Poor in spirit" does not mean to be without money (Isa. 66:2), but to come to the end of self in a state of absolute spiritual beggary, having no power to alter one's condition or to make oneself better.

2. Profound grief because of spiritual insolvency (v. 4). The mourning here is not because of external grief but because of the keen consciousness of personal guilt before a holy God.

3. Humble submission to God's will (v. 5). This meekness is an outgrowth of mourning over spiritual insolvency.

4. An anxious longing to conform to the laws of the kingdom (v. 6). The one who has received the righteousness of Christ as a free gift follows after the purity of character which expresses itself in deeds of righteousness.

5. Merciful (v. 7). Subjects of the kingdom now take on the character of the king. He was the pre-eminently merciful one.

6. Purity of heart (v. 8). Since Christ the king is absolutely pure his subjects must have purity in order to enjoy fellowship with him.

7. Peacemakers (v. 9). The one who has received the peace of God through Jesus Christ will not only be at peace with his fellows but will diffuse peace to others.

8. Suffering for Christ's sake (v. 10). The world hated Christ the king. Therefore those who reflect his spirit in their lives shall suffer persecution (II Tim. 3:12).

9. Suffer reproach (vv. 11, 12). To have all manner of evil spoken against one falsely for Christ's sake is an occasion for glorying.

II. The Responsibilities of the Subjects of the Kingdom (vv. 13-16).

The subjects of the kingdom are to live such lives as to purify and enlighten those around them. Their responsibilities are set forth under the figures of salt and light.

1. Ye are the salt of the earth (v. 13). The properties of salt are (a) penetrating; (b) purifying; (c) preserving.

Since salt only preserves and purifies in the measure that it penetrates, so Christians only, as they enter into the life of the world, can preserve it from decay.

2. Ye are the light of the world (vv. 14-16). The subjects of the kingdom should so live as to prevent the unwary from stumbling and falling.

III. The Laws of the Kingdom (vv. 20-48).

1. As to deeds of righteousness (v. 20). The deeds of the subjects of the kingdom must spring out of natures which are like Christ's.

2. As to sanctity of life (vv. 21-26). The duty of the subject of the kingdom is to conserve and sustain his own life and the lives of others.

3. As to organized life (vv. 27-32). The family is the unit of society. The two awful sins against the family are:

a. Adultery (vv. 27-30).

b. Divorces (vv. 31, 32).

4. As to oaths (vv. 33-37). Speech is the absolute test of character. The truth, and that alone, is to be uttered by a subject of the kingdom.

5. As to behavior toward those who do not recognize the laws of the kingdom (vv. 38-48).

a. Not revengeful (vv. 39, 40). Turning the other cheek after being smitten, means, after one insult prepare for another without revenge.

b. Willingness to do more than is required (v. 41). Rather than quarrel with a man for causing you to do that which you cannot help, show willingness to do more.

c. Be charitable (v. 42). Our hearts should always be open, ready to give to all, worthy or unworthy.

d. Love enemies (vv. 45-48). Love to our enemies consists in:

(1) Blessing them that curse us; (2) doing good to them that hate us; (3) praying for those who despitefully use us. Such behavior affords the positive proof that we are God's children.

Wasting Life

Many a person wastes much of life waiting for an opportunity to do some great thing. While thus waiting for large opportunities, they overlook the little daily duties, the doing of which will inevitably fit us for the accomplishment of greater tasks.

A Christian Attitude

No matter how much a man may differ from you, that is no reason why you should not maintain a Christian attitude toward him and treat him kindly at every opportunity.

Miss Mary Nell Jones of Alabama College spent the week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Jones.

BALANCED FARMING SYSTEM OBJECT OF REDUCTION PLAN

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 23—The cotton adjustment program for the next two years as outlined in the reduction contracts now being offered the southern farmers is more than a mere effort to reduce the production of cotton. It endeavors to help the growers set up a balanced system of farming such as agricultural leaders have described as being needed to make the south permanently prosperous.

Reduction of the cotton acreage by an average of 40 per cent in 1934 will leave land available for the production of food crops for the farm family, and will permit the growing of soil-improving crops and erosion-preventing crops which will aid the grower during future years to produce the basis cash crops on less land.

The cotton contract further permits the landowner to set aside certain acreages for the use of tenants in producing needed supplies for their own uses.

"In this way, therefore, we are hopeful that we shall aid the southern cotton farmer in becoming a more independent person," says Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the extension service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute. "Not only does the contract which we are now offering the cotton producer specify that he will be rewarded in cash for his cooperation in reducing his acreage, but in addition to this cash, he is being put in a position to so balance his farm operations that he may retain the independence which increased prices may bring about. The program, in its broad aspects, will tend to raise the standard of living on the average cotton farm of the south."

Landowner and tenant both will share in this improved system of farming, Dr. Duncan believes, for under the terms of the contract, each tenant will have the cotton grown under his supervision proportionately reduced.

PULPWOOD MARKET IS BOTH FRIEND AND FOE

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 23.—That the market for pulpwood existing in Alabama for some years past may work mischief as well as benefit to the forest landowners is the belief expressed by Col. Page S. Bunker, State Forester. According to Col. Page S. Bunker the ability of the timber grower to sell material that should be thinned out of the forest is a great benefit, providing the amount removed is not excessive and the trees are selected with discrimination. The sale of such products provides funds with which to meet the carrying charges of taxes and current profit. However, if the desire of the landowner is to liquidate everything that can be exchanged for cash, the pulpwood market often furnishes him with an opportunity to do himself a great deal of harm through selling his entire stand of timber before it has reached its financial maturity.

Well planned thinning designed to benefit the remaining growth are legitimate forestral procedures. Cutting young growth indiscriminately, however, merely for the purpose of obtaining a maximum amount of immediate cash, has no place in forestry and works great harm to the landowner and the community. "Too often the desire for a dime today rather than a dollar tomorrow has ruined a fine young forest," said Col. Bunker. "The most profitable practice is to cut for pulpwood only those trees that will not increase materially in value and whose removal will accelerate the growth of the remainder."

BASE PERIOD GIVES FAIR AVERAGE CROP

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 23. — What is meant by the term "base period" in the cotton adjustment contracts, and why were the particular years which are used selected? These questions have been asked often by growers who are preparing to sign contracts in the 1934-35 program.

The base period is the term of years established from which to take average acreage and yield figures for each individual farm which is brought under contract in the cotton reduction program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

A base period of five years was taken in order to give the fairest possible basis for figuring individual averages. A shorter period would not allow for unusual and often unfair annual variations in acreage or yield. A longer period would offer difficulties in securing accurate records and would not be practicable.

The years 1928 through 1932, inclusive, were selected after a careful study of the various periods had shown that this period is the most nearly representative of cotton production for the cotton belt as a whole, said Cully A. Cobb, chief of the cotton section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

In order for a producer to be eligible to take part in the cotton program, the farm he will operate in 1934 must have had cotton planted on it during at least four of the five years of the base period, or at least three years of the period with one of the years 1931 or 1932, or in both 1931 and 1932. He will also be eligible if an acreage reduction contract was fulfilled in 1933 on the farm.

Cotton acreage reductions, rental payments, and parity payments must all be based on the averages determined for the individual farm for the base period.

The grower may rent between 35 and 45 per cent of his average acreage in cotton during the base period to the government at the rate of 3½ cents a pound on the average yield of cotton land in the farm during the period. The parity payments of not less than one cent a pound will be made on the "farm allotment" which is 40 per cent of the average production of cotton on the farm during the base period.

John Durwood Mullins will be married to Bill Minor at the High School next Tuesday night. A great throng of prominent guests will attend.

AMERICAN NITRATE INDUSTRY TO SPONSOR CROP GROWING TEST

Crop growing contest among members of the 4-H clubs and the Future Farmers of America will be sponsored during 1934 by the Barrett Company, distributors of Arcadian nitrate of soda, according to recent announcements of Club Leaders and educational supervisors in several southern states. Valuable prizes will be awarded. These contests are part of an elaborate program of the American nitrate program for the advancement and the betterment of conditions in the rural sections of the country.

Arrangements have already been completed for contests in Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, it was stated. These activities may be extended into other states as well. Details of the contests will be announced later.

To insure the success of these projects, The Barrett Company has retained a group of agricultural experts who will cooperate with the various state authorities, it was stated. There is no better way to encourage the Future Farmers and 4-H Club members to take an active part in the crop production and cultural projects of their organizations than by offering prizes for excellence in the lines of work already chosen by their leaders as most progressive. In this way the support of commercial concerns can be made both efficient and helpful and the American nitrate industry is showing the way to broader understanding and closer cooperation between American business and agriculture.

FARM PRODUCT PRICES CONTINUE UPWARD TREND

Washington.—Many farm products showed the irregular upward trend of the general commodity markets for the first two weeks of January, according to the Bureau of Economics of the Department of Agriculture. The price gains on livestock were especially encouraging. Cotton and grain advanced slightly but firmly. Tone of the dairy markets became better, and cheese-market action strengthened. Trend of the egg and dressed-poultry market was irregular but mainly upward.

Potatoes and onions advanced sharply as did some varieties of apples. Increased demand for cotton from domestic mills continued. Attention is focused on preparations for the 1934 crop under the planned curtailment of 25,000,000 acres. Market stocks of wheat have been reduced to about 133,000,000 bushels, compared with 171,000,000 in January 1933. Prices gained on practically all classes. Rye continued firm. Marketing of corn was light. Oats held unchanged.

MISS ROGERS ENTERTAINS

Miss Clara Mae Rogers entertained a number of friends at her home on last Friday night. Games were played and enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served to the following: Misses Ruby Johnson, Kathleen West, Mary Emma Foster, Myrtle Lee Johnson, Mary Alice Mahan, Louise Marcus, Kate Ellison of Birmingham; Clara Mae and Mary Clyde Rogers; Messrs. Ted Reynolds, L. D. Easterling, Kermit Jones, John Thomas Marlar, John McNair, Earmon Johnson, Marshall Lee Ware and Bruce Belyew.

Robert Holley left Clanton Tuesday morning for Knoxville, Tenn., where he will take a job with T.V.A. in connection with construction of power plants. He will be in the basin clearing department under H. E. Davis.

WOMEN'S PART IN THE 1934 COTTON ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM

According to a radio talk by Mrs. Ola Powell Malcolm, extension service, women's part in the 1934 farm adjustment program is a threefold task. First, we must acquaint ourselves with the facts that there is a real and urgent need for the 1934 program. That the supply of American cotton is too big, and that we must control production until the mills of the world have had time to use up some big supply and get it in line with normal demand.

Second, it is women's duty to induce the man to rent the secretary some land near the house, where it is possible and practical to do so, and then to do everything in her power to get some of this land planted to small fruits and berries, vegetables, and feed and food for home use, and,

Third, to counsel and cooperate with the men in working out these various farm problems. This is our opportunity to lay the foundation for better homes, better living, better children and a better southland.

BANKHEAD WOULD FAVOR A TAX CURB ON COTTON CROPS

Washington, Jan. 19. — Senator Bankhead (Democrat, Alabama) said today if the constitutionality of his cotton licensing bill were questioned seriously he would switch to a plan to control cotton production through taxation.

"Most everyone agrees," said Bankhead, "that we must have more effective control of cotton production. I shall foster the plan most capable of attaining this control."

The alternate plan would be to place a tax of $50 a bale on all cotton in so many bales an acre exempt. Several southern senators who have expressed doubt as to the constitutionality of the bill limiting ginnings because, they say, cotton is not essentially an interstate commodity.

Senator George, of Georgia, was known to be inclined toward the tax on bales above a certain number an acre.

Bankhead Friday took note of an observation by Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, that his cotton bill was "another foolish idea." The governor also said said "Just wait until a farmer takes a bale of cotton to the gin and can't have it ginned—and his wife and children become hungry—then the farmer will be looking for a government job."

"Governor Talmadge," said Bankhead, "had a plan for a cotton holiday. I wonder what the hungry family would have done if the farmer had had not cotton at all to take to the gin."

The Bankhead bill proposes to limit the number of bales each farmer can have ginned a year, with the view of balancing production with consumption and raising the return to grower. The senator contends the present voluntary acreage reduction plan will be defeated by intensive cultivation and non-cooperating planters.

Bankhead's measure now is before the senate agriculture committee.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. E. L. Jones and family wish to express their many thanks to friends for their kindness shown during the illness and death of our mother and wife, Mrs. Mary Jane Jones.

May God bless each and everyone is our prayer.—Mr. E. L. Jones and Children.

PATRONIZE THE PIONEER

This railroad, (joined by other progressive shorter lines) was the first major trunk line in America to materially reduce passenger fares over its entire system. These reductions became effective on April 1st, 1933.

After this pioneering on the part of the L. & N., other railroads in the north, west, and southeast have now reduced their fares and through tickets can be sold to these sections at corresponding reductions.

NOW FURTHER REDUCTIONS

1½¢ per mile in coaches 3¢ per mile in Pullmans; for one way tickets

2¢ per mile each way for round trip tickets limited to 15 days; 2½¢ per mile each way for round trip tickets limited to 30 days---both good in Pullmans.

No surcharge. Pullman space (parlor or sleeping cars) extra but reduced one-third by the elimination of the surcharge.

THORSBY SECTION

(Mrs. S. E. Norton, Manager)

Thorsby is grief stricken over the death of the Rev. Joseph E. Each, pastor of the Congregational Church of Thorsby and "Pastor at Large" of the whole community. Mr. Each was confined to his bed only a few days, when it was thought best for him to have an operation, this was performed on Wednesday morning of last week, January 17, from which he never recovered. He passed away on Friday night, January 19. The funeral was held on Sunday, January 21, in the auditorium of Helen Jenkins Hall, at 11:00 o'clock. The large hall was filled with the sorrowing friends, for all the people of Thorsby were his friends, as he had proved during the ten years of his pastorate here, a friend of every one. The wonderful profusion of flowers, gifts from the people, also attested the love of the people. The whole town will miss the loving thought and friendly greetings of Rev. Joseph E. Each.

Some of the friends from out of town who attended the funeral were: G. E. Tillman of Birmingham, Malcolm Ensey, J. R. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Chas Baxter, Miss Ruby Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Drake, Mary Estes, Mrs. Walton, Mr. and Mrs. Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Martin. All of the above are friends of Cecil Each, who has worked for the past two years, in Birmingham. Others from out of town were: Mrs. Leonard Moody of Birmingham, Dr. and Mrs. Leslie and daughters of Ensley, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Turner and three daughters of Powderly, Dr. and Mrs. Ensminger and two sons of Birmingham, Miss Hazel Maddox, of Piedmont College, Demorest, Ga., Mr. and Mrs. Elery Hansen of Lay Dam, Mrs. H. L. Thomason of Lay Dam, Edgar Rickard from a C. C. C. Camp in Georgia. Mr. William Each and wife from Baton Rouge, La., brother of Rev. Jospeh E. Each, came to attend the funeral and will remain with Mrs. Each for a few days. Rev. W. H. Tillman of Crestview, Fla., Rev. Nelson of Eastview, and Rev. Frank E. Jenkins of LaGrange, Ga.

Mrs. Janie Sutlive and Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald are spending a few days this week in Birmingham visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Moody and Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Gerald.

Thorsby has been saddened by the death of Rev. Joseph E. Each, pastor of the Congregational church. Brother Each, as he was affectionately called, will be greatly missed for he was interested in everyone and in everything that was for the betterment of humanity. He was a hard worker and was ready at any call to do his part.

As I sit and reveiw the life of this good man through five years of association as co-pastor, there are several traits and characteristics that are outstanding. I think of him as a man of prayer, for he prayed much. His public prayers were an index of his secret devotion. He was humble, never pushing himself forward but preferred others. I have never known a more agreeable man, as he seemed to never want anything to come up that would cause the least friction. It was beautiful how he would find a way to be agreeable with his brethren. I have seen him under the most trying circumstances find a way to be agreeably pleasant. Furthermore, he was a brother beloved, friendly, sympathetic and at all times helpful; sunny in his life, always "First rate, thank you."

Last, but not least, he was consecrated, loyal sacrificial, and earnest in his efforts to advance the cause of Christ here on earth.

His loyalty to the Baptist church when he was not engaged was very noticeable, as he was always present when not otherwise engaged and matters not how feeble the effort of this scribe he never left church without saying, "That was a good message," "I enjoyed the service," or "That message was certainly an inspiration to me."—J. W. Jones, pastor Thorsby Baptist church.

Thorsby Institute News

Thorsby Institute has met a great loss in the recent death of the vice president of the trustees, Rev. Joseph Each. His cheery messages at chapel once a month were looked forward to by both faculty and the students.

Next Saturday night the Helen Keller Literary Society will present the play, "Cinderella," a story known to almost everyone in childhood. This play will be given in French, but even if one does not know French, he will be able to follow the play from the actions of the players. The program is as follows:

Essay, "Why study a foreign language?"

Essay, "The French people."

Essay, "The French language."

Play, "Cendrillon."

The characters in the play are as follows:

Cendrillon, Linnie Bell Reinhardt; Prince, Phares Raybon; Javotte, Lelle Tracey; Charlotte, Ruth Foss; the Stepmother, Mary Sue Porter; Godmother, Ida Lou Pate; King, C. B. Jean; Queen, Edith Foss; Page, Jane Billingsley.

Semester examinations will be on February 1 and 2. The second semester will begin February 5. Anyone wishing to enroll for the second semester should see Mr. Maddox, the registrar. It would be well to pay the registration fee of $1.00 in advance in order to be sure of having a place saved.

A Good Shepherd is Gone From His Flock

Sunday, January 21st, 1934, was one of the saddest days in the history of Thorsby, for on that day was laid away in mother earth all that was mortal of one of the loveliest spirits and truest friends of the people of this town that they have ever known. In the passing to his sure reward of the Rev. Joseph E. Each, pastor of the Congregational church the whole community mourned a common loss.

The writer of this appreciation of him being comparatively a new comer to Thorsby had only known Mr. Each a few years, but made welcome in his church, though not of the same denomination, had learned to esteem highly and greatly admire his beautiful character, and his useful and devoted service not only to his own church people but to all with whom he came in contact.

So rare is true unselfishness that it may be regarded as one of the greatest virtues, this attribute was possessed in such large measure by this beloved minister that only by the aching void left in the hearts of the people of this town can any estimate be made of what he meant to all who knew him. Had this loss been felt only by his congregation there would have been little upon which to remark as this would be but natural. But when a minister is mourned by all the people of any community without regard to the difference in their forms of faith it is indeed evident that he was one who loved his fellow man and they him. For his good influence was not bounded by the needs of a few, it went out in ever widening circles like a pebble cast into a body of water, the ripples of which reach oft-times to its furthest shore, and the shores of eternity only are the limit of the good that he has done. No memorial that could be erected to him could be more effective than that the lives of all who new him should reflect in some measure the goodness of his, nor could anything be more pleasing to him even in that better world to which he has gone, for it was this for which he labored and strove, to help others to live the better life.

Many beautiful, tender and inspiring words were spoken during the burial service, of his life work, which found an echo in the hearts of the listeners as doubtless man recalled the comfort of his presence in times of trial and bereavement, his cheery smile no matter what his own feelings might be, the shadow of which lingered on his brow in his last repose. They recalled, no doubt, the helpful sermons so filled with the earnest and beautiful desire to point his hearers to the better way of life, his sympathy in trouble, his pleasant and kind companionship in times of social gatherings; these thoughts and memories must have been with all.

Seldom is it given to any people to see more clearly than in the life of Mr. Each what a power in the world is true goodness, a good husband and father "his children shall rise up and call him blessed," and in time to come, one of their most precious possessions will be the good name he has left them, and their dearest memory his love and tenderness, as well as his earnest desire that they follow the path that his feet had been set in, that led him at last to where "all the trumpets sounded when the good man entered into heaven."—Mrs. E. L. Thornburgh.

Rev. Joseph E. Each Died Friday, Jan. 19

The sudden termination of a ten year's pastorate in Thorsby by the death last Friday night of Rev. Joseph E. Each was a great shock to the whole community without regard to church affiliations.

Brother Each had been under the doctor's care for some weeks, but occupied his pulpit on Jani 7. He was confined to his bed less than ten days and laughingly protested on the Sunday before his death that he was not sick. Few, if any, seemed to have any idea of his serious condition up to the day of his death. At the union prayer meeting at the Baptist Church Wednesday night a prayer of thanksgiving was offered for the favorable reports which had come from the hospital as to his condition. He had been operated on that day for appendicitis. But on Friday morning the word came to Thorsby that he was dying. His children hastened to the hospital in Birmingham and were present when he passed away at nine o'clock that night.

For many years Rev. Each has been vice president of Thorsby Institute's Board of Trustees, and very active in it's affairs. Four of his children are graduates of the Institute and another is now a pupil there. It was known that the Congregational Church building could not accomodate those who would wish to attend, so the funeran services were arranged for the Institute Auditorium at 11 o'clock Sunday. All other services in the place were given up.

Rev. Butler was in charge of the services with six other ministers assisting. Rev. Dr. Frank E. Jenkins, of LaGrange, Ga., president of Atlanta Seminary when Mr. Each was a student there. Also president for many years of Thorsby Institute's Board of Trustees.

Rev. Dr. F. P. Ensminger of Birmingham, Superintendent of Alabama Congregational work and former intimate associate of Mr. Each in pastorates in Tampa, Fla. Rev W. H. Tillman of Crestview, Fla., intimate friend and associate for more than twenty years. Rev. A .C. Nelson, pastor of nearby Congregational Churches at Eastview and Mt. Springs, Clanton Route 6, a friend of many years standing. Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of Thorsby Baptist Church, near neighbor and close friend of Mr. Each for the past five years. Rev. Fant, recently came to Thorsby as pastor of the Swedish Lutheran Church, read scripture passages in the services.

Dr. Ensminger left an important meeting in Chicago Saturday afternoon and returned to that city Sunday night.

Joseph E. Each was born in Iowa, September 21, 1874. Spent his boyhood days in that state and in Nebraska, removed at the age of 14 with his parents to Lake Charles La., where he made his home for more than 20 years. In 1908 he was married to Miss Ethel Cox of Lake Charles, who survives him with six children; Cecil and William of Birmingham, Alabama, Juanita (Mrs. Horace Franklin) Lucile and Marie, all of Thorsby; two children died in infancy. Also surviving is a brother, William Each of Baton Rouge, La., who, with his wife, were present at the funeral.

Mr. Each graduated from Atlanta Theological Seminary in 1912. Spent ten years in pastorates in Glorida, coming from Crestview, Florida, to the pastorate of the Congregational Church of Thorsby in December 1923.

In these ten years he has won for himself a large place in the affections of the people of Thorsby and of Chilto County. More than once in the funeral services Sunday he was referred to as "the best loved man in Thorsby." Burial was in the Thorsby Cemetery with Martin in charge.

To the little Congregational Church of Thorsby, with it's less than one hundred members, the death of its beloved pastor seems peculiarly distressing by reason of the fact that within less than four months past, three other men of the church, all of whom had been active in its work, all of whom had held one or more of its important offices, all of whom had been on the Board of Trustees of Thorsby Institute, have been called away from earth To the names of Norton, C. C. Petersen and Goddard, now, with sorrow, we must add the much loved name of Each.

BRYAN SAYS THE SCHOOL TERM SHRINKS TO 1919 PROPORTIONS

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 19.—According to John E. Bryan, president of the Alabama Education Association, the term in the white rural elementary school in 42 Alabama counties in 1932-1933 was the shortest in the last decade. Information recently compiled by the state department of education, Mr. Bryan explained, shows that 33 of these counties had the shortest term since 1919.

In 27 counties the term was less than 100 days and in one, DeKalb, it extended only 49 days.

Reports now being compiled in Montgomery indicate that the above terms for the current year will be even shorter than those described above. More than half of the children of the state will have no school by the first of February.

The term for last year, as well as for this year, would have been much shorter had not teachers' salaries been reduced to unheard of levels. The white rural elementary schools cost Alabama in 1933, $2,400,000, which is almost $2,000,000 less than they cost in 1920. In fact, the cost of instruction in these schools in 1933 was only 57 per cent of the cost in 1920. During the past three years of depression the money paid for teaching the white children of the rural sections of the state decreased approximately 45 per cent as compared with 1929-1930.

EASTERLING-MIMS

A wedding of much interest to the people around Clanton was that of Mr. Judson Easterling and Miss Ola V. Mims last Wednesday evening, January 17. The wedding party, consisting of the bride and groom, a brother of the groom, Mr. Curtis Easterling, Miss Daisy Jones, Mr. Chester Wyatt and Miss Jewell Patterson left the home of the bride about five o'clock thinking they would surprise their many friends by getting married without so much ceremony.

Shortly after arriving at the home of Rev. G. G. Williams, Mr. Melvin Mims, a brother of the bride, his wife, another brother's wife, Mrs. Willie Mims, arrived to witness the ceremony, too. The joke was on the bride and groom. After the ceremony the party, accompanied by Rev. Williams, returned to the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Arthur Maddox, where a host of relatives and friends were awaiting them for the wedding supper.

Those enjoying the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Clydie Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Virgie Mims, and children, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Taylor and children, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Maddox and little daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mims and children, Mr. and Mrs. Allie Easterling, Mrs. Jim Blalock and two children, Mr. and Mrs. K. A. Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Armstrong, Mrs. W. B. Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Moates, Mr. Chester Wyatt, Miss Jewell Patterson, Mr. Curtis Easterling, Miss Daisy Jones, Mr. Osmond Wyatt, Miss Gertis Collins, Mr. Murphy Bratton, Miss Ethie Easterling, Mr. Carl McDowell, Miss Marzell McDowell, Mr. Lamar Collins, Miss Annie Pearl Devaughn, Miss Lee Anna Moates, Rev. G. G. Williams and the bride and groom.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. E. P. Mims and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Easterling. Their many friends wish them much happiness and success in life.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

A real note of nationalism was sounded recently by Senator William E. Borah, in an address in New York City, when he spoke as a guest of honor of the Council of Foreign Relations at a dinner given in the Ritz Carlton Hotel. The address revealed Senator Borah at his best, and a perusal of its high spots reminds one of the great debate in the United States Senate against ratification of the League of Nations Pact, a fight in which subsequent events has proved the so-called "bitter enders" one hundred per cent right.

Speaking on "Our Foreign Policy in a Nationalistic World," Mr. Borah declared that our nation could find its highest service to mankind and world peace by preserving the ideals and principles of democracy. "This is our supreme duty," he added. "I believe that the foreign policy of Washington and Jefferson and Lincoln will best enable us to meet and discharge that duty. * * * This, it will be said, is isolation. It is not isolation. It is a freedom of action. It is independence of judgment. It is not isolation; it is free government—there can be no such thing as free government if the people thereof are not free to remain aloof or to take part in foreign wars. People who have bartered away or surrendered their right to remain neutral in war have surrendered their right to govern."

Senator Borah then refuted the charge that America follows a path of isolation. We have not been isolationists in trade and commerce, and unfortunately not in international finance, he declared, and neither have we isolated ourselves and refused our aid in time of earthquake, or flood, or famine, anywhere in the world of human suffering. "But," he continued, "in all matters political, in all commitments of every nature or kind which encroach in the slightest upon the free and unembarrassed action of our people, or which circumscribe their discretion and judgment we have been free, we have been isolationists. And this, I trust, we shall ever be. If there be any truth established by the experience of nations, it is this: that to accommodate your foreign policies to the demands or in the interest of other nations at the peril of your own security, is to invite contempt, and it seldom fails to earn a more substantial punishment."

In view of the fact that Norman H. Davis, as vice president of the Council, presiding at the dinner, it is interesting to note that Senator Borah paid his respects to what he called "our strange figure" in international affairs known as the "unofficial observer", whom he characterized as "a kind of international spy going about over the continents listening in on other people's business. I say 'other people's business' because if it had been our business we should have been there in the person of a duly appointed and authorized agent of the government assuming full responsibility with all participants. This practice brought discredit to our government, impeached before the world our sincerity, and had a tendency at least to degrade the revered policy of Washington to the level of the discretion of an international interloper." The speaker reminded his hearers that the world was not changed by the World War, that Europe and the Orient are still the same, heavily armed and preparing for trouble. The outside world cannot reach these age-old European problems, he continued, and to attempt to do so "would ignite the powder mine."

Concluding that section of his address Senator Borah said: "The fight against nationalism hah lost. It was bound to lose. It was a fight against the strongest and noblest passion outside of those which spring from man's relation to his God, that moves or controls the impulses of the human heart. Internationalism, if it means anything more than the cooperation between separate, distinct and wholly independent nations, rests upon a false foundation. * * * Nationalism—pride and love of country—is a passion peculiar to no people, indispensable to the welfare of all. To undertake its destruction is madness. * * * Nationalism does not necessarily of itself mean militarism or war, as shown by our history. But anything is preferable to the fetid atmosphere of national decay. National decay begins where nationalism ends." Here is a sermon on isolation and nationalism worthy of the study of every American.

Our Form of Government

What is our form of government in these days of rapidly changing conditions? William Tyler Page, former Clerk of the U. S. House of Representatives, answers the question in an interesting way and describes some of the changes which are now taking place, in a story under the caption "Our Form of Government," in the current issue of the National Republic. In part, Mr. Page says:

"Our Republican form of government. Has it changed? This theme is one that should arrest the serious thought and consideration of every American citizen. Especially should it be one profoundly to engage the attention of educators.

"In his immortal Farewell Address, George Washington said: "In proportion as the structure of a government gives force to public opinion, it should be enlightened.

"Before venturing an answer to the question 'Has our republican form of government changed,' it is vital that we have a clear understanding of what is meant by a 'republican form of government.' Modern writers indulge in loose governmental terminology—a dangerous practice. The terms 'republic' and 'democracy' are used today, the latter more frequently, as though they were synonmous, as though they mean the same thing. As a matter of fact, as descriptive government, they are as widely separated in their meaning as the poles. Several years ago the late Calvin Coolidge in one of his articles said:

"' Mostly because of developments in some foreign countries we find considerable discussion of whether democracy is not proving a failure. Very great things have been expected of that form of government.'

"This was very unusual in Mr. Coolidge, in whose writings and speeches hitherto he was careful to call our government a republic.

"Gently, but timorously, I took Mr. Coolidge to task for the application of a very much abused word to our form of government, saying in a letter to him:

"'Having read Madison's definitions of the terms democracy and republic in the Federalist I have learned to decry the use of the former as meaning a form of government and studiously use the term 'republic' when referring to our own system. While, of course, we are a self-governing people and in that sense a democracy we chose rather deliberately to establish a republican form of government through which the opinions of the democracy might be clarified.

"'I think I can see a very real danger to the republican form of government, already emasculated by modern departures from the original concept by the too free use of the term democracy as meaning a form of government.' To which our late beloved president graciously replied:

"'Your letter is entirely correct. I think you will search my statements in vain for any reference to the United States as a democracy. I always refer to it as a republic. I used that word the other day because I was not referring especially to our government but to the general movement towards democracy. Of course, the word is used very loosely now.'

"It is needless for me to explain to readers of the National Republic that in using the terms 'republican' and 'democracy' I am using them in their fundamental sense, and am not referring to the two great political parties. Their use as names for partisan purposes has been unfortunate, I think, and perhaps misleading and mischievous.

"It cannot be gainsaid that all peoples in the mass or in the raw state of unorganized society are democracies, as when our Confederation of States proved a failure and 'a more perfect union' was sought.

"When our independence was an accomplished fact a nation was yet to be created, and a government formed. 'We have a government, you know, to form," wrote John Adams to Rutledge, 'and God only knows what it will resemble. Our politicians, like some guests at a feast, are perplexed and undetermined which dish to prefer.'

"A mere confederation proved inadequate and abortive. Finally, after great travail, a written Constitution erected a republic, balancing and apportioning among the several parts a few powers that they might each restrain and correct the other."

Not Plowing Up Apples

Out in Oregon orchardists are not looking to the government to do everything for them. On the contrary, they are fending for themselves. The apple men are trying to meet the public taste in this fruit and get as much as they can from the crop.

"Instead of digging up their apples because the market for most of the varieties had become poor," says the Portland (Oregon) Journal, "they top grafted the trees and this year they harvested a beautiful crop of Yellow Newtons, Ortleys, Red Delicious and Red Gravensteins.

"Among the varieties eliminated were the Spitzenbergs, King Davis, Northern Spys and Grimes Golden—all good apples, but not in popular dmand.

"Here," says the Journal, "was an organization threatened with falure. Several varieties in the ordchard had lost caste with the public, but the owners did not despair. They didn't decry their bad luck in having filled their ordchards with unpopular fruit. Full of the spirit of the Oregon pioneer they topgrafted their trees with varieties of apples that the public wants."

If these ordchardists had bull headedly insisted on trying to sell what is not being bought they would have lost heavily, but they had the good sense to cater to the popular demand. There is a lesson in this for all men who seek a living from the soil.

In sections where farmers have clung to cash crops which were not paying them, they have suffered a maximum loss. Farmers who have diversified and undertaken to feed their families and their stock have fared comparatively well. Their heads are above water. Their stomachs filled. Their stock is in good health. — Charleston News and Courier.

"I've been getting threatening letters by mail. Isn't there a law against that?"

"There certainly is. It's a very serious offence to send threatening letters. Have you any idea who's doing it?"

"Sure. The Dinguss Furniture Company."

It has been estimated that there is a shortage of about 350,000 homes—population has kept increasing but the depression has reduced home building to a rate below normal—and numerous observers expect the repair of this shortage to afford one of the big fields for industrial activity as soon as the upturn economically definitely reveals its upward swing.

Clanton's Air Pioneer

In days gone by, while we were studying our history books, we read much about pioneers, and were taught to honor their memory. How well we remember about Columbus, John Smith, William Penn, Lewis and Clarke, and others. And then there were the pioneers of our own state. But now we have a pioneer of our own, and a new kind of pioneer, too. The earlier ones walked cross country and fought Indians to get what they wanted. Later, they pushed farther in covered wagons. But Clanton's pioneer flies. That's why he is a pioneer. He's Clanton's pioneer flier—none other than Dr. V. J. Gragg. You can talk to Dr. Gragg about anything you wish. Talk about chickens, and fowls of other kinds—that's one of his hobbies. He's very practical about it, too. He has all the funny looking kinds of chickens, and pheasants, and such. You can talk with him about medicine—naturally that is an interesting subject with him. But once you mention airplanes and flying, and you're through talking for the day. He's that enthusiastic about it, and you can't get a word in edgewise, until he runs down so you can ask a question or two. Some time ago he began taking lessons in flying, and the first anybody knew about it he had already become pretty handy with it. And he is Clanton's first air-minded man—Clanton's pioneer air man. Some time when you're tired and want to listen for a while to some interesting information about flying, just mention it to Dr. Gragg. He'll tell you. And some of these days, when Clanton is a regular stop on an air route, with a regular airport, and everything, maybe there will be a tablet or marker of some kind on the spot to tell the world of the untiring interest and persistent work in bringing all this to Clanton by our air pioneer, Dr. V. J. Gragg.

Heels Over Head

Many people were very much disappointed during the last week by orders issued by the CWA office. These people had just received work cards to report for duty under the "spread the work" order issued by the president, only to see their jobs melt away and their hopes go glimmering when the order was cancelled. Mr. Stokes and hs force had orders to draw out another force of workers equal to the first, and worked almost night and day selecting cards and mailing work notices to the men. Just as the job was finished, a new order was issued, to cancel the former order, leaving the new workmen high and dry without jobs, although they had received the cards. On Friday of last week orders from the state office were coming in to the local office so fast that local officials were almost running in circles trying to comply with them. No sooner would a new order be put into effect than another one would be received cancelling the former. At first there was some criticism of the CWA officials, but this later died down, as the people came to understand that these officials were merely carrying out orders from higher up. Finally, after several changes in the manner of procedure, people made up their minds that they might expect anything or nothing, and seemed better satisfied. One expression I heard seems to sum up the opinion of the public: "With orders coming in the way they do, I wouldn't be surprised at anything. They might cut all the CWA force off at a moment's notice, or they may put all of them, old and new workers, back to work any day. I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see the boys working over time." And that's not so far wrong, at that.

Bill and Jess

A new firm has been set up in Clanton, to be operated by W. J. Easterling and Jesse Baker, better known to the people of Clanton and vicinity as Bill and Jess, at the old stand of Jesse Baker, just above the Union-Banner office, and next door to Marion Gore. They, of course, carry a line of groceries, but their specialty is feed stuffs of all kinds. In passing through the place, I saw stacks and stacks of flour, shorts, feeds of all kinds, and the like. By buying as they do, these fellows are prepared to dish out the goods at low prices. Only last week they unloaded a complete car of flour and feed-stuffs. This I am told was bought at the lowest price that may be obtained—the same price the jobber pays the factory. And Bill and Jess are prepared to sell to the public at the same price that the dealer usually pays the jobber—a nice saving. They invite you to come in and look over their line when you want something of this kind.

"Tradin' For the Paper"

Do you know of anyone who is not a Union-Banner subscriber? If so, that person either doesn't want the paper, or hasn't tried to swap something for it. The management has swapped for nearly everything from corn cobs to a chunk of the moon, and it is a constant and perpetual wonder what will be brought in next "to trade for the paper." Here are some of the things that have been paid for "the dear old Banner:" Peanuts, eggs, chickens, hog meat, goat meat, mutton, potatoes, "chitlins", fire wood, kindling pine, ribbon cane syrup, sorghum, tomatoes, green corn, dry corn, pumpkins, cushaw, cantaloupes, grapes, okra, lumber, butter, hog head, scuppernongs, sugar cane, honey, potato plants, cucumbers, beans, peas, home-made candy, "possums" strawberries, peaches, apples, watermelons, oranges, tangerines, turnips, pop corn, fish, home-made tobacco, pulverized graphite and petrified tree stumps. That's a few of the things. In fact, if a fellow comes in hankering for the Union-Banner to come to see him every week, he comes darn near getting it, if he can beg, borrow or steal anything under the sun that the management can possibly use, sell, or give away. To tell the truth, there was at least one chance to trade for a quart of corn liquor but, as the shop is so close to the jail and the sheriff's house, the fellows decided it would be better just to give the paper to the man and let him keep his liquor. But, if you want The Union-Banner, there are lots of ways to get it.

The Wet and Dry Spots

When the 18th Amendment was repealed, lots of folks thought we would be able to buy liquor the next day and walk down the street with it without being molested. When they found this was not the case, some of them wanted to know why. They heard it could be done in other places in the country. Then why not here. The answer is, each state now has the right to form its own liquor laws. And here's how the several states stand on the subject, so far as the present laws are concerned: Alabama — dry. Arizona—dry. California — state controlled liquor stores. Colarado—wet, but no saloons. Connecticut — liquor stores. Delaware—liquor sold in cafes and stores, but no bars. Florida—dry. Georgia—dry. Idaho—dry. Illinois—local liquor control. Indiana—state liquor control. Iowa—dry. Kansas — dry, but judges and other authorities must determine if seized beverages are intoxicating or not. Kentucky—dry, but liquor prescriptions are allowed. Louisiana—wet, but officials are undecided and a dispute has risen over control laws. Maine—dry. Maryland—county option. Massachusetts — local option. Michigan — state liquor stores. Minnesota—dry, but control plans are under way. Mississippi—dry. Missouri—3.2 per cent beer legal, and control laws for hard liquor are under way. Montana—state liquor stores, with sales limited. Nebraska—dry. Nevada — open saloons. New Hampshire — 6 per cent beer legal. New Jersey—state and local control. New Mexico—state control board, with local option. New Cork—licensed liquor stores, but no saloons. North Carolina—dry. North Dakota—dry. Ohio—State-owned liquor stores. Oklahoma—3.2 per cent beer legal. Rhode Island—state and local control. South Carolina—a quart a month. South Dakota—dry. Tennessee—dry. Texas—3.2 per cent beer legal. Utah—3.2 per cent beer legal. Vermont—dry. Virginia—dry, but control plans being framed. Washington—wet, with control plans being framed. West Virginia—personal liquor imports allowed. Wisconsin—dry until control laws can be rushed through. Wyoming—dry. So there you are, folks, with the liquor map all spread out before you. Now those with dry throats can begin mapping out their vacation trip routes. And, too, those who do not like the cup (or bottle) that cheers may plan their trips. And, after looking the whole thing over, I feel sure that Nevada is going to prove to be a travelers Mecca in the months to come.

Pay that Poll Tax!

If you haven't paid that poll tax yet, by all means do it now! Remember, you have to February 1st to pay it in, and that time is drawing very close. This is going to be a rip-snortin' year in the county's politics, and if you ever have voted you should, by all means, take a hand now. If you have never voted, I can't think of a better time to begin than this very year. Pay 'em up! Remember, the money goes to educate your own children, so you get the privilege to vote for nothing, after all. The Republicans have some good ones to beat this time, including Luther Little and Mr. Hardy (for sheriff) if rumors count for anything. The last I saw of Will Cup he was up there in his office "rarin' to go." Go and make him smile. It'll cost you only $1.50, and you'll be glad you did it some time.—Man in the Moon.

The Era of Dictatorship

One of the most interesting political developments in many weeks was the message sent by Senator Borah, Republican, to Governor Lehman, of New York, Democrat, congratulating the state executive for his sharp criticism of Mayor LaGuardia, of New York City, for the latter's proposal of what is said virtually to amount to a mayoralty dictatorship over the city of New York.

Mayor LaGuardia, it is said, wanted from the New York legislature authority in himself to force furloughs, suspend city salary increases, consolidate and eliminate ruthlessly so far as the city government is concerned. The new mayor seemed to have taken a chapter out of the national administration book.

In his telegram to Governor Lehman, congratulating the latter for turning thumbs down on the LaGuardia proposal, Senator Borah said:

"Permit me to offer you my most sincere congratulations on your letter to the Mayor of New York. It was timely, it was statesmanlike, it was patriotic.

"It is distinctly a matter of congratulation to the whole country that the governor of a great state in these days of wild grasping for power and utter disregard of personal rights should say once and for all that such things are essentially un-American."

Mayor LaGuardia, like the astute politician he is, attempted to sidetrack the Borah message discovering in it a rap at President Roosevelt rather than himself, declaring that the Senator from Idaho was speaking "against President Roosevelt and not against me."

At any rate, Senator Borah's message to Governor Lehman is significant in that it typifies what seems to be a rising sentiment in the United States among leaders and leading newspapers to call the halt on the delegation of dictatorial power men in executive positions. It is more than likely that Mr. Borah will have something to say on the subject in the Senate from time to time. In the general fear following the bank holiday in the spring of 1933, Congress was lavish in granting dictatorial powers to the executive department. The situation was not unlike that in war times when there must be quick decisive action and a supreme central authority. But the bank crisis has passed and it is not likely that our national and state legislative bodies will be so free in conferring dictatorial powers as they were a few months ago.

An Associated Press dispatch from St. Paul on January 6, disclosed the fact that Governor Olson's plan for a Minnesota recovery act modeled after the NRA had been defeated in the House of the State Legislature by a vote of 70 to 41. The act, it was stated, would have given the governor similar powers in the state as enjoyed by the president under the national act. Another plan, designed to authorize the governor to apply the national recovery code to Minnesota firms was also defeated.

As the atmosphere clears men are beginning to wonder whether after all, dictatorship is necessary to recovery. Over in Europe, England, with its democratic form of government, is leading the way to recovery and is advancing faster along the road to normalacy than some of the nations which adopted the dictatorial form of government. The pendulum usually swings back. Time is the great stabilizer.

Another profession that seems to have totally disappeared during the past four years is that of efficiency expert.

Japan says she will not attack Russia but will defend herself if attacked. Russia says she will not attack Japan but will defend herself if attacked. This sounds like they were getting ready to fight, and is another indication of how difficult it is to find the aggressor in case of war. No nation ever claims to be the one which starts trouble.

One of our readers writes asking what this Saar region is that France and Germany are arguing over. It is the place where the Saar kraut comes from.

Those employers who had their emblems taken from them for violation of the NRA code found the Blue Eagles were homing pigeons.

I hear it rumored that Pete Jarman is planning to get into the race for Congress in the Sixth District against our present representative, Buck Oliver. Pete, you know, just recently "passed" on the bid of his friends to put him out for governor. Wonder if, at that time he was figuring on "snaking" up on Buck for the seat in Congress. Well, it will be interesting to see Pete and Buck scrap it out.

Now we have it. The long expected has happened. Judge Reynolds and Zeb Mims are both candidates for Probate Judge on the Republican ticket. It has been predicted for a long time that they would oppose each other and finish tearing the Republican party to pieces. I don't believe a word of it. There is no reason why they should not run if they want to. The Republicans of the county will say which one they want to nominate, and I think that will be the end of the argument. Don't let yourself get all het up over something that ain't going to happen. They may not be the only Republican candidates, either. I hear that Jasper Dennis may get in the race.

About the only fellows I have noticed predicting the downfall of the Republican party in Chilton County are those who want that very thing to happen above all else. There are no Republicans in the bunch.

Dewey Hughes, of Beat 10, and Dudley Collins, of Beat 4, are announced candidates for Sheriff on the Republican ticket. Hughes is a new man who has never held public office. He ran for Treasurer one time and was defeated in the primary. Collins is an old head at the political game. He has served as Tax Collector and also one term as Sheriff. Hughes is a product of Beat 10, where he has lived all his life. He is a son of Rev. J. D. Hughes. His wife is a daughter of Mr. Alfred Robinson. They have two or three boys.

Few of us will ever see the biggest sign in Clanton. It is the air marker on top of Upchurch Drug Store. Painting of this marker has been done for the guidance and direction of airplane pilots who come this way. It embraces the name of Clanton in huge letters that can be seen from thousands of feet in the air; also direction and distance to Clanton's airport now under construction. The sign was made by C.W.A. under direction of Col. Sumpter Smith advisor to C.W.A. in aeronautics.

The unexpected death of Rev. Joseph Each, of Thorsby last Friday was a distinct shock to his many friends and admirers in Clanton and throughout Chilton County. A frequent visitor here, he was always the personification of kindliness. Everyone who had the pleasure of his acquaintance regarded him as a man of fine qualities.

"Four more weeks of school after this week," says Prof. Abrams, principal of the Clanton Grammar School. That will make a total of six months for the term, I believe. I judge that the students will have to have more than that to pass their grades. What can we do about it?

I am told the ditch south of Clanton has been completed to the railroad, and that the crew will be transferred to the lower sector in the neighborhood of Dake's old mill. That part of the job is important. In fact it is the key to the real effectiveness of the ditches that have been dug closer to town.

Cohen Stapp was a visitor to Clanton last Thursday and Thursday night. He had been to Birmingham to receive treatment for his eyes. While here he attended the meeting of the Kiwanis Club, and was greeted cheerfully by the old gang with which he was associated closely during his stay in Clanton.

Members of Kiwanis and Pilot Clubs go to Isabella tonight for a meeting with representative people of that community.

Next Tuesday is President Roosevelt's birthday. The country will unite in expressing congratulations to him, with thanks for his achievements toward recovery of business and reemployment of the idle millions. Chilton County people will unite heartily in this expression of gratitude to our Chief Executive. Locally we have had a good share of the national reemployment work. Regardless of what we may think about politics, we must recognize that the emergency measures of the government have helped our people a great deal. They will not fail to feel, even if they do not express in words, their appreciation to Mr. Roosevelt on the occasion of his birthday.

I believe Chilton County has had the most efficient and systematic ogranization of any county in the state in the application of the national reemploment and civil works program. My observation is that the local administrators and directors of the work here have carried out the rules, regulations, intents and purposes of the national program in a very fine manner. I notice that some objections have been voiced, but I fear those objections are without proper foundation.

News from Beat 7 says that Miss Anne Hicks was married to Mr. Ben Chism on January 14th.

The Frost Sibby Lumber Company is rebuilding their sawmill at Lamison. The plant was blown up eighteen months ago.

The church building at Concord, two miles east of Clanton, was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning about 2 o'clock. A singing school was being taught there by Prof. H. M. Eagle.

President-Elect Taft attended a possum dinner at Atlanta Monday of last week. He was in that city 24 hours and a great reception was arranged for him.

The M. E. churches of America celebrated the diamond jubilee of missionary work last Sunday. Seventy-five years ago they sent out their first missionary.

The salary of the president of the United States was increased to $100,000 per year by the Senate Tuesday.

Married this week: T. J. Wadsworth and Miss Alice Wright, Frank Atchison and Miss Bessie Waldrop, N. C. Martin and Miss Dora Clemons.

Mrs. Louise Campbell returned to Birmingham Tuesday after visiting Mrs. Crit Jones.

This is the season when we wonder if the January bills will leave us anything for the January sales.

BILL EASTERLING'S STORE OFFERS SPECIAL BARGAINS

W. J. (Bill) Easterling has opened up a store in the building formerly occupied by Jesse Baker, next to Marion Gore's. For some time he has been laying in his new stock of goods, and he announces this week that he is ready to serve the needs of the buying public.

Elsewhere in this paper will be found his advertisement setting out a list of special bargains he is offering for an opener. Mr. Easterling's store offers a variety of items for the home and farm, such as groceries, feeds, flour, meat, lard, etc. Special mention is made of his line of feeds, which includes horse and mule feeds, dairy feeds, and a full range of feeds for poultry.

Mr. Easterling wants the public to get acquainted with him and his business. An invitation is extended to everyone to visit his new place and see what he offers.

Kate Smith will attend the womanless wedding Tuesday night. She will sing.

Backache, Nervous

Mrs. Maggie M. Shaw of 911 Augusta St., Mobile, Ala., said: "I had very little strength, my nerves were bad, I could not sleep and had severe pains in my back. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and soon felt stronger and it was not long until I was enjoying real health again." All druggists.

New size, tablets 50c, liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. "We Do Our Part."

REFUGE

Our Sunday school was just fine Sunday. We had a fine lesson and also a large crowd was present. We also had a good B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. So lets all try to come back next Sunday and Sunday night with a well studied lesson.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. We should try to come because I don't know of anything that is more pleasing to the Lord than going to the house of worship if we go in the right spirit.

Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Mims and two daughters, Clara May and Vera Nell, visited back here Saturday and Sunday. They returned to their home in Sylacauga Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Lockhart and family spent the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson Sunday.

EXPERT DRESS-MAKER AT THE DOLLAR STORE HERE

The Dollar Store in Clanton announces this week the active connection with it of Mrs. E. D. Hand, expert seamstress. Mrs. Hand, who has had special training in dress-making, altering, and all types of seamstress work, states that she will be glad to have her friends call on her there. She is equipped to do any kind of dress-making, or altering that may be desired, she announced.

IT'S A BOY

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Moore of Maplesville are the proud parents of an eight-pound boy, born Tuesday night, which they have named Denny Edward. Both mother and baby are doing fine.

How to Stop a Cold
Quick as You Caught It

Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets.

Drink full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half glass of water and gargle according to directions in box.

Almost Instant Relief in This Way

It is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way to treat a cold. For it will check an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablets dissolve so completely, they leave no irritating particles. Get a box of 12 tablets or bottle of 24 or 100 at any drug store.

NEW HARMONY

Editor Union-Banner:

As it has been so long since you have heard from this part of the country I shall try my hand, and if this misses the waste basket I shall try to tell you about some of our "goings on" down here.

Although we haven't been "broadcasting" we have been busy just the same. Even if I do say it myself, we have some splendid times down here. We are denied a canning center, a club house and most every thing else, but still we have our amusements just the same. We meet each Wednesday afternoon at some of our neighbors and quilt or sew or piece quilts, and there has been a lot of beautiful and useful work sprung from those little workings. Now that it is winter and not much to do outdoors we are meeting two afternoons each week.

Last Wednesday afternoon we, the New Harmony Sewing Circle, met at Mrs. Pearl Henleys and quilted out a Dutch girl quilt. Those present were Mrs. Nora Cooper president, Mrs. Ida Cooper, Mrs. Willie Pearl Henley, Mrs. Beatrice Headley, Mrs. Delene Williams, Mrs. Sarah Bates and Miss Annie Lee Bates and Mrs. Grace Foshee. Visitors, Mrs. John Henley, and Mrs. Rebecca Foshee. We were very glad to have them with us and invite them back again.

At Mrs. Delene Williams those present were Mrs. Nettie Williams, Mrs. Ida Cooper, Mrs. Sarah and Miss Annie Lee Bates, Mrs. Grace Foshee, Delene Williams, Mrs. Louella Headley, Mrs. Gertha Culp and Willie Pearl Henley. We met here Friday evening and quilted out a Dutch girl quilt and hemmed same and pieced several squares on another quilt. Mrs. Cooper, our president, was not able to be with us for which we were very sorry, but hope she will be able to be with us next Wednesday afternoon.

Did I hear someone ask if this is all we do down here?

No. Our gardens have about all that can be grown in them at this time. Of course we would have lots more done, but wait, we have had no cold weather yet, so we must wait on February weather a while.

Some have set cabbage, planted garden peas and onions, but they may get killed. But if they do we are planning on the next crop more, for we are preparing our soil and seed bed and storing away all leaf mold and compost we can for the real crop of garden and field.

Yes, we have an agricultural school too, so you see we get lots of ideas there that we might not think of otherwise.

Mr. Marvin Durbin is our agricultural instructor and he is quite capable and competent for the job, and lots of good has been accomplished since he began. Several terraces have been built and some orchards laid off and just lots of good advice has been given.

No. There isn't much to tell this week but we will come again next week.—A Reader.

CONCORD 4-H CLUB

On Tuesday, January 23, Miss Parnie met with our club. After some discussions and attending to business plans were made for our first garment. Patterns were distributed to the members and work is to begin immediately. Our next meeting will be held February 20 and we are expecting all of our members to be present and ready to do some real work.—Lillie Mae Miller, Reporter.

CONCORD P.-T. A.

The P.-T. A. will meet Wednesday evening, January 31, at 6:30 o'clock. A large number were present at the last meeting and an interesting program was given and we are planning just as interesting a program and something different. Don't fail to come and bring someone with you.

IN MEMORY OF GRANDMOTHER

On January 19th, the death angels visited the home of Mr. E. L. Jones and bore away from him his loving wife, Mrs. Mary Jones. She was 64 years of age. Oh we miss her sweet smiles here. But God missed them more than we did so He called her to a better home.

We want to thank friends for their kindness during the illness and death of our grandmother. Grandmother will be greatly missed by all who knew her. We want to thank Dr. Lawrence for the kindness he gave grandmother and also his nurse for her help. All was done for her that loving hands could do but God saw fit to take her to a higher home.

She leaves to mourn her death her husband, five children; Mrs. Mollie Jones, Mrs. Flora Thomas, Mrs. Lola Jones, Mrs. Maggie Birdette and Mr. Archie Jones, all of Verbena; fourteen grandchildren and one great grandchild, one sister, Mrs. Sallie Jones of Sylacauga, one brother, Rev. E. A. Norris of Verbena.

We should try as much as possible to make our lives like hers, so that when death calls us we shall meet her in that beautiful city where there is no more pain or sorrow to come. She was one who loved her church and its work. We will miss grandmother in our church work.

We want to thank the ones who brought the beautiful floral offerings.

The pallbearers were Chester Miller, Clyde Robinson, Alonza Robinson, J. W. Cagle, Jessie J. Jones and Clarence Jones. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. D. Hughes of Cooper, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. —Her Granddaughter, Recy Jones.

LOMAX TABERNACLE

There will be services at Lomax Tabernacle beginning on Thursday night, January 25, at 6:30 o'clock, and throughout the week end. Everybody is invited to come.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely, new scholars every Sunday. Come to our Sunday school at 10 o'clock every Sunday.

Elijah H. Parrish, Jr., of Birmingham, is here staying with his father, Rev. M. J. Parrish, who is very ill.

Watch next week's paper for Rockett's prices on annual Plow Line Sale.

OAK GROVE

We are glad to say that our B. Y. P. U. is doing lots better, and we just urge each one to do your part and make this an A-1 union.

There will be a "womanless" wedding presented in the Oak Grove house Friday night, January 26, at 7:00. Everyone come and bring someone with you.

Misses Pauline and Irene Lessley dined Sunday with Misses Dorothy and Lillian Dees.

We are glad to have back in our community Mr. and Mrs. Irby Matthews and family.

Miss Dorothy Dees spent last Saturday night with Miss Mary Lane Cobb.

Miss Rosa Lee Martin returned home Monday morning after spending a few days with her parents in Birmingham.

Quite a number from here attended the negro minstrel given at Providence last Saturday night.

We want to invite everyone to come and join our B. Y. Y. U. and Sunday school, and bring someone with you.

WARNING

Issued by the State Securities Commission of Alabama pursuant to authority Provided in Section 9894 of the Code of Alabama, 1923, this January 19, 1934.

Information has been presented to this commission to the effect that Henry C. Jones of Birmingham and Montgomery, Alabama is and has been since July, 1933, engaged in buying and selling stocks from citizens of Alabama in violation of the securities law of the State of Alabama. Evidence has been adduced to this commission indicating that Henry C. Jones has failed on more than one occasion in the aforesaid stock transactions to remit to the sellers and or owners of the stock the purchase money promised.

The public is hereby warned that said Henry C. Jones is not a registered dealer or salesman registered under provisions of Section 9896 of the Alabama Securities Act.

The State Securities Commission hereby requests anyone solicited by said Henry C. Jones in any such proposed stock transactions to promptly advise the commission of the full facts in the case.—Signed H. H. Montgomery, State Securities Commissioner; William C. Oates, Secretary-Examiner.

State of Alabama, Montgomery County:

I, William C. Oates, do hereby certify that I am the Secretary-Examiner of the State Securties Commission of Alabama; and as such, I am the official custodian of the records of said commission; that the foregoing is a true and exact copy of the original warning issued by said Commission under date of January 19, 1934.

Done at the office of the commission this January 19, 1934.

WILLIAM. C. OATES,
Secretary-Examiner State Securities Commission of Alabama.

COLORED P.-T. A. TO MEET

The colored P.-T. A. will hold its ninth annual session at the County Training School, Friday, January 26, at 10:00 a.m.

One of the main features of the program will be an educational address by Hon. Luther E. Little, county superintendent of education; and the Child Welfare by state supervisor, Mrs. Mary F. McDavid. — Leila C. Wood, president.

SEEDS
Of The Better Quality

Give to the selection of seed one-tenth the time spent in choosing working tools for your garden—and you will find new pride in your flowers, more pleasantly flavored and tender vegetables, and higher per acre yield in your field crops.

We have a complete supply of all kinds of seeds. They have been tested for germination. They are true to variety name. Satisfied customers in every nook and corner of Chilton County attest to the dependability of the Seeds and Plants we sell. Prices are always reasonable.

BRING US YOUR CREAM—WE PAY HIGHEST PRICES

TIMELY SUGGESTIONS: Right now you should make arrangements to spray your peach trees for San Jose Scale. Use oil emulsion; bring your jug. Be preparing your land you intend using for pasture. We have Dallas Grass, Carpet Grass, and Lespedeza for the perfect pasture. Price of Seed Potatoes are climbing at a rapid rate. If you intend planting something to eat, nothing will take the place of Potatoes in your menu.

PLEASANT GROVE
JEMISON

Health of this community is fairly good at present. Mr. Z. Woolley is not well at present.

We had a good sermon delivered by Rev. Horace Nabors Sunday. There was a good crowd present.

Mrs. Jim Woodley visited the Misses Champion Monday morning.

Lorene Davenport visited her aunt, Olis Davenport, Tuesday night.

Mrs. E. C. Davenport and Mrs. J. A. Wright visited the Champions on Tuesday.

Mrs. Hermie Hodgens is in a serious condition.

Mrs. J. A. Wright spent the evening Wednesday with her mother, Mrs. Laura Franklin, and her sister, Mrs. G. W. Spivey.

Miss Mary Lee Compton spent the day with her brother Wednesday.

Mrs. E. C. Davenport, her daughter, Olis, Mrs. John Davenport and children spent Sunday evening with the Misses Champion.

Mrs. Algi Compton spent a while with the Misses Champions Wednesday.

We are sorry to say the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hughie Waldrop last Wednesday and carried their little girl, Margaret. We know they miss her so much. She was five years old. We are going to say to the father and mother and all her relatives: Do not weep for her; just think, she has gone to live with God and await your coming, to join her where there shall be no more separation. Little Margaret was buried at Pleasant Grove Thursday at 11:00 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wright and daughter, Miss Ruby, and sons, James, Frank, and Maurice, went to Clanton Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley spent while with Mr. and Mrs. Phillip a while Saturday night.

Mrs. Dovie Dawson is spending a few days with her sisters, the Misses Champion.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rasberry, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hayes and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Franklin.

Mr. Dewey Robinson is in the hospital. He is doing fine after an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Briggs Hodgens, who has been sick for some time, is able to be out now. He is improving very fast. We are glad to have Briggs back with us again.

CANDIDATES BUSY IN COOSA CO.

Rockford, Ala., Jan. 23. — Despite the fact that the spring primary is several months distant, the political pot in Coosa is beginning to boil.

Several candidates have already made formal announcements and on every side can be heard discussions of the chances of various candidates.

Judge E. P. Gay, Ashland, judge of the 18th judicial circuit, was the first to make a formal announcement. He is serving his first term as judge of this circuit. He is opposed by W. W. Wallace, Columibana attorney.

Winston Stewart, treasurer of Coosa County and former cashier of the Bank of Rockford, and Lofton Thomas, of Goodwater, a former probate judge, have announced for the office of judge of probate. They will most likely be opposed by George B. McDonald, incumbent, and Sheriff R. O. Neighbors.

Others who have made formal announcement for county offices are: M. C. Waites, former deputy sheriff, for sheriff; L. O. Johnson, of Fish Pond, for clerk of the circuit court; Teman L. Burke for reelection as tax assessor and T. Owen Dosier for reelection as tax collector.

A number of other candidates have qualified with Judge George B. McDonald, judge of probate of Coosa County, and it is estimated that there will be four or five candidates for each office in the county.

Political interest is steadily gaining grund in all sections of the county and it is predicted that Coosa County will wage one of the greatest political campaigns in its history.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Littlejohn are moving this week to their new country home recently built on the old Littlejohn farm a few miles northwest of town.

NEW OFFICERS FOR RED CROSS

A meeting of interested citizens and leaders in the local Red Cross movement was held at the office of County Superintendent Little last Friday morning, for the purpose of re-organization of the Chilton County chapter, and the election of officers of the same for the coming year.

The following officers were elected: Chapter chairman, W. M. Wyatt; vice chairman, C. C. Conway, Jemison; S. L. Gibson, Verbena; E. R. Piper, Thorsby; Dr. H. M. Nix, Maplesville; secretary, J. Mell Martin; treasurer, C. Fenn Jones.

Roll Call chairman, Rev. S. J. Ezell; disaster chairman, S. L. Gibson; first aid chairman, Samuel Martin; junior Red Cross chairman, U. H. Abrams; home service chairman, Dr. V. J. Gragg.

The Board of directors, in addition to the above officers, is constituted by the following: Billy Smith, Frank Callen, J. C. Page, Luther Little, H. F. Roberts, Mrs. J. Q. Wade, Mrs. J. R. Mullins, Mrs. J. P. Hayes.

Mr. C. H. McFarland, of Birmingham, representing the National Red Cross, attended the meeting, and assisted in outlining plans for activities in the immediate future.

Plans are being made for instituting the Red Cross Roll Call drive for membership in Chilton County. Rev. S. J. Ezell is chairman of this movement, and it is hoped that full plans will be made and announced in the near future.

GEORGE THOMAS MIMS DIED

George Thomas Mims, age 71 years, died last Saturday at his home in Temple community, after an illness of four and a half years. He had been confined to his home constantly since he was stricken with paralysis.

Burial was at Temple church Sunday with Martin in charge. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. E. J. Orange, of Montgomery. Pallbearers were six of his grandsons: Shelly, Tommie, Erva, Preston, Marion and Morris Mims.

Mr. Mims is survied by his wife, Mrs. Laura (Baker) Mims; seven sons, Isaiah, Ocie, Archie, Washie, Charley, Evon and Jonah Mims; one daughter, Mrs. Elsie Payton.

He was a son of George (Dock) Mims and Tabitha Mims, who were among the pioneer citizens of Chilton County. All of his life was spent in the community where he died.

In addition to his immediate family, Mr. Mims is survived by two brothers, Jodie and Henry Mims; six sisters, Mrs. Riley Robinson, Mrs. Mahala Robinson, Mrs. Jim Baker, Mrs. Rosa Baker, Mrs. John Wyatt, Mrs. Delilah Baker.

J. Z. Mims Makes Formal Statement As Candidate For Probate Judge

To The Republicans of Chilton County, Alabama.

In making my announcement last week for the office of Probate Judge, I did so at the solociations of many of my friends and on account of my ambition to serve the people of my county in a larger way and in a broader field. But first of all let me say just here I cannot command words to express my sincere appreciation of the support, confidence and copoeration I have received from you in the office I now hold.

You gave me this office when I most needed it and should I never hold another office I will always cherish a fond recollection of this one. I have given the duties of this office my personal attention. "Service" has been my motto. I have never turned the first person away whom I could serve.

It is on my record as a citizen, as an officer and as a Republican that I am now asking to be promoted to the office of Judge of Probate of your county. I think I understand the needs of the people of this county, and I am willing to work and cooperate with the people for the common good of all. It is my ambition to serve you in the honorable position as Judge of Probate. I realize it would be an honor to me and I will strive to make my service an honor to the office.

I do not say the following to criticize in the least our present county administration for I believe our present Probate Judge and Board of Commissioners are doing the very best they can and konw under present conditions, but I am convinced that we as a people are paying too much tax and license for the operation of our government.

For the last twenty-five years the trend has been to devise plans and means to extract more tax from our people and then hunt places to spend it. And the indications are that the great problems of our national congress, now in session, centers around ways and means to levy and collect taxes and spend them. Our present Governor, Miller, has called extra session after extra session of the state legislature for the purpose of trying to devise plans to levy and collect taxes to run what he called an economical administration of the state government and I presume the next state legislature will have to levy and collect more taxes than the present, else it will not have made any progress. Seemingly progress is measured by the amount levied and collected instead of service rendered.

I believe in progress. I do not believe in standing still nor going backwards, but I do believe we should economize in the operation of our government, county, state and nation. We economize in our homes and business, so why not in the operation of our government?

In 1922 it was a pleasure to pay tax. In 1932 it was a burden. What is the difference in service rendered?

I realize the judge of probate has little or nothing to do with the valuation of property and the fixing of tax rates, except his influence by virtue of his office and the economical administration of the affairs of the county. But if you nominate and elect me your probate judge I shall advocate a lowering of taxes at present and shall advocate a proper adjustment of taxes at anytime. The power that can raise your valuation and rate when deemed necessary should be able to reduce the same when necessary. I shall advocate the education of our children, having proper consideration in the expenditure of our tax money. I shall also advocate the health of our people and the care of the poor, having proper attention.

I shall conduct my campaign upon a high plane. My purpose shall be not to do nor say anything that will give any Republican just cause to refuse to vote for me if nominated. I have always stood true to my convictions, true to my party and have always answered its call when it needed my service, time or money.

May I now call upon my friends to give me your support in this undertaking of one of the ambitions of my life. I appeal to the aged voter to help me give my generation the privilege of having at least one to enjoy the high honors of the office of Judge of Probate, as we have untiringly assisted you in giving one for your generation.

To the young and middle aged voter I appeal to you to help me give my generation the high and distinct honor above referred to. Then I will willingly pass on and help others of my generation or of yours have the same opportunity.

Permit me to call attention to all who were twenty-one and not over forty-five years of age on the first day of October, 1933 to come and pay your poll tax by February 1st, 1934, for Thursday, February 1st is the last day. Come now and avoid the rush.

Again thanking you for all past favors and with fond anticipation for the future, I am,

Yours very truly,
J. Z. MIMS.

HARRIS WILL RUN FOR CLERK

For some time it has been rumored in Republican political circles that Prof. H. A. Harris, former Sheriff of Chilton County, would be a candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court in the Republican primary of May 1st.

When asked for a statement about the matter Tuesday, Mr. Harris said: "While I am not yet ready to make a positive statement about the proposition, I might state that I am seriously considering it, and unless I change my mind, I expect to make formal announcement in the next few days."

As Sheriff of Chilton County Mr. Harris was one of the most popular officials we have ever had. Since his retirement from office he has been engaged in teaching school. At present he is principal at Cooper.

He has a large following of friends who will support him for Clerk with enthusiasm, and if elected, he would make an official worthy of the place and competent to handle the job.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PARDON

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Napoleon Lockhart, will make application for a pardon or parole.

The said Napoleon Lockhart was convicted in the Circuit Court of Chilton County in November, 1933, on a charge of manufacturing liquor, and sentenced to the penitentiary for a year and a day to a year and six months.

J. N. DENNIS IN RACE FOR PROBATE JUDGE

W. H. Conway, T. A. Maddox, Perry Gore For Commissioners.

H. A. Harris And M. W. Mims Out For Circuit Clerk.

Sam Pate In Race For Tax Assessor.

Mr. Jasper N. Dennis, prominent farmer and business man, of Clanton, this week enters the list of candidates for Probate Judge of Chilton County, in the Republican primary campaign. This decision of Mr. Dennis brings the total of Republican candidates up to three, Mr. J. Z. Mims and Judge L. H. Reynolds having already entered the race.

Mr. Dennis is one of the leading Republicans of Chilton County. He has been known and recognized for many years as among the outstanding citizens of the county. He served in public office many years ago as Tax Collector and Tax Assessod. During all the years he has taken an active interest in support of the Republican party, particularly as Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee.

In addition to his political activities, Mr. Dennis has been in intimate contact with the people of Chilton County as a farmer and business man for many years. He has been a constant advocate and supporter of all measures looking toward agricultural progress and betterment of farm business and living conditions.

It has been known for some time that legions of the friends of Mr. Dennis want him to be Probate Judge of Chilton County. It may be said that their confidence in him has been well placed, for he is indeed a man who is worthy, able, and capable for the duties of that office.

STATEMENT FROM J. N. DENNIS

Clanton, Ala., Jan. 29, 1934.

In making my announcement as a candidate for the office of Probate Judge of Chilton County, I beg to say that it is done by the request of many Republicans and in the interest of harmony in our county.

I expect to see as many of you as I can and assure you that my campaign will be on the square.—Yours very truly, J. N. Dennis.

SAM PATE CANDIDATE FOR THE OFFICE OF TAX ASSESSOR

Nobody runs without opposition in the Republican primary this year. Possibility of a one-man race for Tax Assessor went a glimmering Monday when Sam Pate of Thorsby announced that he would match his strength with Akins I. Collins, present Assessor, and candidate to succeed himself.

Sam Pate needs no introduction to people in any part of Chilton County. He held the office of Tax Assessor for ten years, during which time he came into contact and acquaintance with nearly everybody.

Mr. Pate has a most excellent record as a county official. He is a man who is admired by everybory, and whom, his friends insist, makes an ideal, able, pleasant and accommodating Tax Assessor.

Since he first came into public life, Sam Pate has been a staunch Republican. More than that, it may be said he was born and reared a Republican, and has always remained true to his raising.

He has been a faithful steward of every trust imposed in him, and he has friends by the hundreds who will scramble up to the polls on May 1st and put in one more for "Old Sam."

Tuskegee Quartet Saturday Night

Famous Negro Singers Will Put On A Concert at The Courthouse

The Tuskegee Quartet will render a program at the courthouse Saturday night, February 3, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The entertainment is being sponsored by the ladies of the Clanton Methodist church. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the Circle treasury. Everybody is invited.

The quartet from Tuskegee Institute is known all over the country as one of the finest entertainment groups of the present day. Not long ago they sang for President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga.

The Methodist ladies are glad they have been able to secure this program for presentation in Clanton, and they urge the public to take advantage of the opportunity to hear them.

Charges for admission will be only 15 cents for children and 25 cents for adults.

A special feature of the program will be a song dedicated to each candidate for political office in Chilton County. This will be highly interesting and of particular appeal to the friends of the men in the various races.

Don't fail to hear your candidate presented in a song that fits him.

T. P. (PERRY) GORE CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER 2ND DISTRICT

Mr. T. P. (Perry) Gore, prominent farmer, citizen of Collins Chapel community, formally announced last Saturday as a candidate for Commissioner of the Second District of Chilton County. A native of Collins Chapel community, Mr. Gore has taken an active part in public affairs of his community since he became a man of maturity. He has always stood for measures, policies and principles that represented the best and soundest course for substantial progress.

Personally Perry Gore is regarded by all who know him as a man of clean morals, upright character, and sound business integrity and judgment. His past life and conduct has proven him to be a man of those qualities.

His interests have extended beyond his own community and his own personal well-being. He has long manifested a keen interest in affairs of Chilton County. He is a Republican, without spot or blemish. His neighbors and friends throughout the second district and in other parts of the county believe that he is preeminently fitted by ability and business experience to properly perform the larger duties of the important office of County Commissioner. He was a candidate for the office four years ago, and was defeated in the primary. His friends insist upon him for the place again this time. It is in response to widespread solicitation that he enters the race.

W. H. CONWAY CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER OF 1ST DISTRICT

Mr. W. H. Conway, of Jemison, Beat 2, enters his announcement this week as a candidate for Commissioner of the First District, in the Republican primary of May the first.

For eight years, 1902 to 1910, Mr. Conway served as a member of the Commissioners Court. He is a close student and observer in public affairs, and has practical ideas about some important public questions.

"One thing I can assure the pepole will be in my platform," he said, "is the reduction of county expenses and the consequent reduction of taxes."

Continuing Mr. Conway said, "I do not of course mean that our county business should return to the basis of operations we had in 1910. I realize that we have progressed far above that period, and our public business should keep up with the progress of the people. But it should be kept in proper proportions, and I believe that proper proportion will now justify a reduction in our county's exenses and in the taxes that our people pay."

In the course of his campaign Mr. Conway says he proposes to make a full statement of some of his proposed policies, and some interesting comparisons between present conditions and times past.

In addition to having served as county commissioner, Mr. Conway was for some years county farm demonstration agent of Chilton County. He is well known over the county and needs no introduction to Chilton County people.

TOMMIE MADDOX WOULD LIKE TO BE COMMISSIONER AGAIN

Mr. T. A. Maddox, who was defeated four years ago by J. M. Mims, is again seeking to be commissioner from the Second District. Mr. Maddox served as commisioner from this district four years ending in January 1931. While in that office Mr. Maddox made an enviable record as a public official, and it is with this in view that a number of his friends are offering their support again.

Before being a member of the commissioners court Mr. Maddox served six years as trustee of his school at Collins Chapel. He is always found to be deeply interested in the advancement of his home community and county.

ANOTHER PROSPECTIVE BID FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION

Up to this time there has been only one Republican candidate to get in the race for county superintendent of education, but such won't be for long, if reports circulated around rather freely recently are true. The name of Prof. Ralph D. Grant of Cooper has been mentioned quite a bit for the past few days relative to that important office.

This young man has a large following of friends who will be glad to see his name definitely placed among the list of Republican contenders for office. He is thoroughly qualified for the office so far as educational attainment and training are concerned; and as to political lineage, the Grants have all been strictly Republican for years and years past. So, the Republicans of the county might put themselves on guard, and not be surprised as to what may happen along the line.

STAMPS MELODY BOYS PRESENT CONCERT HERE MONDAY NIGHT

If you want to hear some real quartet singing, set your stakes to be at the courthouse next Monday night, February 5th, for the Stamps Melody Boys, a quartet representing the Stamps-Baxter Music Company, will put on a program beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Some of our local enthusiasts have already heard these boys sing, and say that they are as good or maybe a little better than any we have heard heretofore. An admission charge of 15c for children and 25c for adults will be collected.

Anyone wishing to get a sample of what these boys can do beforehand, may hear them at the all day singing at Calera next Sunday. Prof. P. B. Shaw extends an invitation to the singers of the county to meet him at Calera and join in the singing next Sunday.

H. A. HARRIS FOR CLERK

Prof. H. A. Harris, former Sheriff of Chilton County, announces this week as a candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court, in the Republican primary of May first.

Mr. Harris served as Sheriff of the county for one term, and went out of office as one of the most popular officials the county ever had.

Since returning from office, he has given himself loyally to the public service as a teacher in the county schools. He has been principal of some of our most important educational institutions, in which capacity his excellent service has increased his popularity with the people.

As a supporter of the Republican party in the county Mr. Harris has always taken a firm and loyal stand. He is a man of fine personal qualities, good education, and thorough business training. His friends urge him to offer for Circuit Clerk, feeling that he can be elected, and that he will make an official worthy of the place.

As the race now stands, Mr. Harris will be opposed in the Republican primary by M. D. Foshee, former circuit clerk, and Grover A. Bice, former postmaster at Thorsby, and Marion W. Mims, of Isabella.

ATKINSON-LENOIR

A wedding of much interest in this county was that of Miss Vonzelle Atkinson and Osteen Lenoir. The wedding was quietly solemnized at the home of Rev. Jones in Thorsby.

The bride was attractively dressed in a suit of blue and gray with accessories to match. After the ceremony the bride and groom left for a short wedding trip.

Mrs. Lenoir is the atrtactive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Atkinson of Jemison. She finished high school with the 1933 class.

The groom is tne son of E. L. Lenoir of near Jemison. Mr. and Mrs. Lenoir will make their home with the groom's parents.

JOHN BEAN IS CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER 1ST DISTRICT

John P. Bean, of Beat 12, Mineral Springs, made his anouncement as a candidate for Commissioner of the First District last week, in the Republican primary of May the first.

Mr. Bean is a former Commissioner who held the office for two terms. He is regarded as one of the ablest officials we ever had. By his close and diligent attention to public business he made many friends, who will be glad to rally to his support again this year.

MARION W. MIMS ENTERS RACE FOR CIRCUIT CLERK

This week Marion W. Mims, of Isabella community, is entering his card among the Republican announcements, and is asking the Republican voters to nominate him for the office of clerk of the Circuit Court.

Mr. Mims has never announced for a political office before. He has been teaching school for the past several years, most of which time he has taught in Chilton County. He has grown up in what might be termed a "hotbed of Republicanism." The Mims family has always been very ardent supporters of the Republican party. However, in making his announcement, Mr. Mims authorized The Union-Banner to quote him as saying: "I am not tying myself to anything at the courthouse. I take no stock and have never taken any in the factions of the party. I am a Republican and I am going to try my best to get Marion W. Mims nominated and elected to the office of Circuit Clerk."

Mr. Mims was out of the county teaching school some years ago, but he always maintained his citizenship in the county. He is now engaged in teaching his second term at Isabella high school.

W. H. Conway of Jemison was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

KIWANIS AND PILOTS AT ISABELLA LAST THURSDAY NIGHT

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton, and the Pilot Club of Clanton enjoyed a joint meeting at Isabella last Thursday night with members of the school faculty and citizens of the community as guest sof the clubs.

President Luther Little of the Kiwanis Club presided. A delightful dinner was served by the home economics girls under directions of Miss Bertha Dennis.

Short talks wre made by President Little, W. M. Wyatt, John Fant, John Hollis and Miss Kitty Clyde Austin of the Pilot Club.

Prof. Buford Lawrence, principal of the Isabella school, responded on behalf of the school and community in welcoming the visiting club members.

Mr. R. L. Pittman, director of the CWA in Chilton County was a guest at the meeting and made a short talk about his department's work.

Each member of the Kiwanis Club had a citizen of Isabella as his individual guest.

KIWANIS OFFICERS HERE FEB. 8

An important meeting of officers of the Alabama Kiwanis District, together with officers from all clubs in the State, is to be held at Clanton on Thursday, February 8th, with a meeting also at Mitchell Dam as an added attraction furnished through courtesy of Kiwanian John Hollis.

Presidents, vice presidents, secretaries, other officers and committee chairmen of the different clubs of the district are invited to attend the meeting, which begins here at 10 o'clock a.m. on Thursday, February 8th. Important matters concerning the future of Kiwanis in Alabama are to be considered.

The newly elected district governor, John J. Sparkman, of Huntsville, will be here to direct the conference, if his health will permit. Then too, there will be the old wheel-horse of Alabama Kiwanis, Joe Lewis, of Selma, Immediate Past Governor, who will be here for an important part in the deliberations.

District Secretary, Dwight M. Wilhelm has called a conference of club secretaries. The District Board of Trustees meets in Clanton Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. District chairman and others interested in presenting special matters will attend this meeting.

The luncheon at noon (1 o'clock) will be held at Mitchell Dam, and the afternoon session will continue there until about four o'clock. All visitors will be shown through Mitchell Dam plant.

A distinguished visitor to the conference will be Mr. Harper Gatton, of Madison, Kentucky, who is International Trustee.

Rev. M. J. Parrish Died Sunday A.M.

Old Baptist Minister Succumbs To Illness of Several Weeks

Rev. Monroe Jackson Parrish (Uncle Webb), age 83 years, passed away at his home in Providence community, Beat 16, early last Sunday morning, after an illness of many weeks. Burial was at Concord cemetery Monday, in charge of Spigener. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell, with Rev. W. S. Cox, Rev. G. G. Williams, and Rev. M. Lockhart assisting. The Clanton Quartet did the singing for the funeral.

The deceased is survived by his second wife, Mrs. Arrie (McKee) Parrish; five sons, J. P. and Monroe Parrish, of Clanton, E. H. Parrish, of Birmingham, Daniel Parrish, of Jordan Dam, and Joe Parrish, of Muscle Shoals; seven daughters, Mrs. G. W. Blalock, of Birmingham, Mrs. Annie Armstrong, of Clanton, Mrs. B. E. Mims, of Birmingham, Mrs. Maggie Robinson, of Providence, Mrs. Clara Robinson, of Providence, and Misses Pauline and Mary Lucy Parrish, of Providence.

His sisters surviving him are Mrs. James Moses Robinson, of Providence, Mrs. Mary Powell, of Blocton, Mrs. Mattie Mims, of Clanton, and Mrs. Rebecca Ann Wyatt, of Clanton. His only surviving brothers are E. H. and Tom Parrish, of Clanton.

Rev. Parrish had been preaching for more than 60 years, and during that time had pastored nearly every Baptist church in Chilton County. He was also at different times pastor of churches in Coosa, Elmore, Autauga, and Shelby Counties.

MIMS EXPLAINS PICTURES

Dear Editor:

In justice to you and to myself, I desire you to publish the following explanation.

Since my photograph appeared in the last two issues of the Union-Banner, I would like to say the first one was published by the editor without my knowledge or consent. In fact, I was not expecting my photograph to appear in that issue; and since the cut from which it was made was an old one, numerous complaints were made to me, so I asked the editor to put the latter cut in with his explanation.

It was not my purpose neither was it the purpose of the editor to be unduly courteous to me and I hope it will not be taken in that light.—Yours very truly, J. Z. Mims.

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE ONLY EVERY 5TH SUNDAY AFTERNOON

At the singing at the courthouse last Sunday afternoon it was voted that regular singings be held there only every fifth Sunday afternoon from now on until further notice. Of course, there will likely be night singings once in a while between times. This was done on account of nearby churches having their local singings somewhere in this vicinity most every Sunday in the month. Mr. Jesse C. Jones was appointed to preside over the next singing at the courthouse, which will be held on the afternoon of the fifth Sunday in April, 29th, unless a night singing is called before that time. If so, Mr. Jones will have charge of that.

The singing last Sunday afternoon was well attended and enjoyed by all. Prof. L. T. Grant presided, and there were directors present from all parts of the county. Two special numbers were sung from Harbor Bells No. 3, the new Stamps-Baxter book, by Mr. Jesse C. Jones and others.

J. O. MIZE WANTS TO BUY SOME DOGWOOD TIMBER

Mr. J. O. Mize, of Maplesville is in the market to buy dogwood timber in car load lots, for shipment from railroad points in Chilton County.

This appears to offer an opportunity for somebody to pick up a bit of business to help overcome unemployment and depression.

Those who may be interested in Mr. Mize's proposition should read his advertisement in this paper. He sets out in detail all specifications, requirements and regulations, as well as the price of dogwood timber he can handle.

PLOW LINE SALE SATURDAY

Dewey Rockett's annual plow line sale comes off next Saturday. He will make a special offer for one day only. The price is low, even if higher than last year. The difference is caused by the price of cotton, which is now about double what it was a year ago.

Elsewhere in this paper is an advertisement concerning the plow line sale. It is being put on at Clanton Building Supply Co., in Clanton, and Thorsby Hardware Co., in Thorsby.

SHOWING THE NEW PLYMOUTH

Polk Brothers Motor Co., of Clanton, local Chrysler-Plymouth dealers, have been showing the new 1934 Plymosth for the past few days.

"All we ask our friends to do," said W. M. Polk, "is to ride in the new 1934 Plymouth, drive it, understand its superb performance and extraordinary mechanical advantages. When you have done that, we are willing for you to be the judge of the car."

Walter P. Chrysler, builder of the Plymouth says this car was built for first place in the field of Amerisan motor cars. Polk Brothers declare that it thoroughly fulfills the purpose expressed by the manufacturer.

THE LEADER PREPARING FOR SPRING TRADE NOW

Mr. M. Lande, of The Leader, is getting his store prepared for the spring trade. Right now he is making some special offers on a clearance of winter merchandise.

"We have many items of winter goods which we prefer to sacrifice rather than carry over. These are being offered at mighty low prices," he said. "We urge our customers to take advantage of these sacrifice prices."

RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

A roll call of membership in the Red Cross will be put on in Chilton County, beginning February 10, and ending February 17th. This will be a campaign to secure memberships along the same lines and with the same purposes as that which was to have been done in November.

Rev. S. J. Ezell has been designated as Roll Call Chairman. Under his direction a corps of workers will be organized at Clanton, Thorsby, Verbena, Jemison, Maplesville, Lay Dam and Mitchell Dam, to solicit Red Cross memberships during the period from February 10 to 17.

It is felt that the people of Chilton County will be glad of the opportunity to subscribe their memberships in the Red Cross again this year. Inasmuch as the Roll Call was not fully carried out last November, it is planned now to put it before the public in a thoroughly systematic manner.

Full details of the Roll Call organization, with committees and workers will be announced by Rev. Ezell next week.

INTERESTING SERVICE AT FRIENDSHIP SUNDAY NIGHT

The people of Friendship community were accorded a rare favor last Sunday night by their neighbors from Poplar Springs. Prof. W. M. Devaughn came up with several of his singers, and they together with home folks and other visitors engaged in fifteen minutes of singing. Then the Poplar Springs B. Y. P. U. put on their program for the evening. All of this was greatly enjoyed by the house full of people from that and adjoining communities.

Following the B. Y. P. U. program, the pastor, Rev. Wm. E. Robinson, preached a short but forceful and inspiring sermon. Everyone went away feeling that the evening had been well and profitably spent.

There was a fine attendance at preaching Saturday night and at Sundy school and preaching Sunday morning.

Report Of Chilton County Grand Jury

Thirty-Three Cases Examined and Twenty-Two True Bills Returned

To the Honorable F. Loyd Tate, as Judge of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama:

We, the grand jury, impanelled for the January term of the Circuit Court, after receiving your honor's able and instructive charge, entered upon our investigation of the matters that came before us as grand jurors and herewith submit the following report:

During our investigation we have considered 33 cases and have examined 53 witnesses and are returning herewith 22 true bills.

We have examined the fee book of the Probate Judge and find it neatly kept and correct in so far as we were able to ascertain. We examined the bonds of the various county officials and find that they are ample for the protection of the public and on our examination of the sheriff's account with the state for feeding prisoners we find it being kept in accordance with the law. On our examination of the office of the county superintendent of education, we find that his books, records and papers are being kept neatly and in accordance with the law insofar as we were able to ascertain.

We have made a personal inspection of the county jail and believe it to be sufficiently safe for the keeping of the prisoners and find that the prisoners confined therein are being well fed and cared for with reasonable comfort. The Grand Jury inspected the county property that is furnished the sheriff as a dwelling and recommend that the proper county officials make an inspection of the building with the view of having the building repaired where needed, and further to make what changes with reference to the building that present conditions require. On our inspection of the almshouse, which is located about four miles from Clanton, we find that it is being well handled by those in charge and that the occupants get meals and attention in so far as the arrangements for taking care of the inmates will reasonably permit.

The grand jury wishes especially to thank your honor for the very able charge given us when we were first impanelled as it has been most helpful to us throughout all our investigations.

Sheriff Gillespie and his deputies and Mr. Ellison, the bailiff for the grand pury, were most courteous to us during our investigations and rendered us valuable assistance in the dispatch of the business before us, all of which we greatly appreciate.

We having complied to the best of our ability with your honor's charge, respectfully ask that we now be dismissed until such time as your honor may see fit and think proper to have us to again convene.

This January 25th, 1934.—John W. Cagle, Foreman.

Grover Bice Road Foreman District 2

Appointed To Look After Business of J. M. Mims, Who Is in Ill Health

By action of the Commissioners Court in session last Friday, Mr. Grover A. Bice, of Thorsby, was appointed chief road foreman of roads and bridges in the second district of Chilton County. Stipulation of salary was made at $3.00 per day for the number of days working, together with mileage.

The question of selecting a foreman for roads and bridges in the second district was placed before the court by the following signed communication from Commissiner Mims:

"Commissioners Court of Chilton County, Clanton, Alabama: Gentlemen: By reason of my temporary illness, and being unable to inspect or supervise the road work in my district, together with inspection of bridges being repaired or constructed in my district, I respectfully request that the court at this time elect or select Grover A. Bice as chief foreman of roads and bridges for my district. This man to be allowed $3.00 per day for number of days working, together with mileage.

"I trust in near future that I will be able to meet with the court and will be physically able to do my work as commissioner. Respectfully yours, J. M. Mims, Commissioner."

As stated in his communication to the court, Mr. Mims has been in ill health for several months, and has not been able to attend the sessions of the court, nor to look after the business in his district. His many friends are glad to know he is better now, and expects to be able to look after his official dutles again soon. He was able to be out on the streets a little last week.

E. M. Bean of Sylacauga was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bridges have returned from a recent visit to Montgomery.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

The ninth annual session of the county-wide P.-T. A. was held at the County Training School Friday, January 26. The meeting was largely attended by patrons and teachers of the various schools in the county; and the program was very well carried out. These two things, above all others, made the ninth annual session one of the best ever held.

There were several interesting features on program. Among them was the address on child welfare given by our state supervisor, Mrs. Foster McDavid. Some very good advice on the subject was given to parents and teachers by Mrs. McDavid, who is well experienced along the line of child welfare.

The financial reports of the various county units showed marked increase over previous years.

After the very inspiring address by the president, Mrs. Leila C. Woods, I am sure that each patron and teacher went away with the determination of doing more and better work for the remainder of this year and of having a still better session next year.

Evening School Farmers Have Some Good Gardens

I was down in the Riderville community the other day conducting a seasonal meeting with my evening school farmers. It was quite pleasing to note that they were carrying out the instructions given in "Year Round Gardening." In many of the gardens were such vegetables as collards, cabbage, rape, turnips, mustard, tender greens, onions, etc.

Those are prosperious people down there, and if they had a good leader to work with them, soon they would be showing the way for all other sections of the county. I refer to such persons as J. E. Ford, Will Waters, Frank Shelton, Rev. Melton, and Hubbard Goodwin.

One is made to feel proud when he sees such fruits of his labor.

I See Signs—

Hedges are burning. Fences are being repaired. Soil is being turned and terraces are being repaired. Such may be seen as one passes through the County Training School community. To my mind it is one of the most picturesque seasons of the year when farmers begin busying themselves for the planting season.—Benj. Anderson.

WOMANLESS WEDDING PUT OFF

Because of the extreme cold weather, the womanless wedding that was to be given at Chilton County High school, Tuesday night, January 30, has been postponed for a short time. An announcement will be made, through the county papers, just when the wedding is to take place. Watch the papers for the announcement.

REFUGE NEWS

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are progressing nicely. There was a large crowd present at every service Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night. We want to thank everyone for their nice behavior at each service.

Dr. L. E. Barton of Montgomery preached at this place Saturday at eleven o'clock. He gave us a message which we should never forget, for with everything we can do we can never get too close to the Lord.

We also had with us Dr. Ezell of Clanton and his father from South Carolina and many other visitors, whom we were glad to have. We welcome them back at any and all times.

Rev. Lockhart filled his regular appointments Sunday and Sunday night with two wonderful messages. We dedicated the service Sunday night in honor of Rev. M. J. Parrish. We as a community feel like there has gone one who has meant much in this community. Bro. Parrish constituted this church in 1919 and preached for us ten years. He was a faithful minister of the Gospel. To know him was to love him. We are sure that he had lots of struggles in and through life, but God has called him to that great beyond where there is no more struggles and sorrow but everlasting joy and peace. May we take his life as an example and be ready when God calls us. We don't look upon him as being dead, but just sleeping with Jesus where the sun upon him will never go down.

Mr. Elijah Mims and family were visitors here Saturday night and Sunday. They attended the funeral of Bro. Parrish after which they returned to their home in Sylacauga Monday.

A weeding of much surprise was that of Miss Clara Mae Mims and Mr. Howard Wyatt. They were united on Saturday at one o'clock at the home of Rev. G. G. Williams. We wish them a long and happy life together. They returned to Sylacauga where they will make their home.

Rev. Lockhart and family spent the afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Mallie Easterling Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Connell, Mr. Crawford Easterling, Mr. Berry Bice, Mr. Clinton Lockhart spent the afternoon with Mr. J. S. Easterling and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Minor were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Robinson Sunday afternoon.

Let us not become discouraged but look forward to the future and ask our Lord to continue His blessings upon us. There were three members added to this church Saturday and Sunday, which we were glad to have. They were Rev. Durbin and two daughters.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

So much has been said about the rates for electric service being based upon values which include "write-ups" and "watered stock" that we feel an explanation of the fundamental principles of rate making should be given to our customers.

The amount of stock which may have been issued by a utility has nothing to do with rates. Nor has the value of its stock.

The rates which a utility is allowed to charge are such as would entitle it to "earn a fair net return on the reasonable value of its property, devoted to the public service."

Take two utility companies, for instance, the value of whose property is $100,000 each. With the same rates and a return of 6%, the earnings of each company would be $6,000. One company might have 1000 shares of stock issued and thus be earning $6.00 a share; the other company might have 100,000 shares of stock and thus be earning 6c a share. Regardless of the number of shares of stock, the rate of return on the property value would be the same and the rates charged would be the same. In brief, the allowance of earnings is only on the reasonable value of the property.

The fact that a utility is regulated forms the basis for the belief that it is therefore guaranteed a fixed return on its investment. This is not the case. The problem of earning the sum of money permitted by law to be earned is up to the management of the company. The law will not permit a utility to earn more than a fair return, but it does not guarantee such fair return. The State will not make up any deficit which may result from faulty or inefficient management, or an improper rate structure.

Yours very truly,

President.

Lesson for February 4

PUTTING GOD'S KINGDOM FIRST

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 6:1-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you. Matthew 6:33.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Tells of God's Care.
JUNIOR TOPIC—In Search of Riches.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Serving One Master Only.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Putting First Things First.

Having set forth in the previous chapter the standards of the kingdom, Christ the king now exhibits the underlying principles which control the subjects of the kingdom.

I. As to Giving (vv.1-4).

Doing alms before men is not condemned as that would contradict Matthew 5:16, but the doing of them before men to be seen of them. To seek publicity in doing our alms is to miss the reward of the heavenly Father.

II. As to Praying (vv. 5-15).

The spirit of self-advertisement frequently displays itself even in the holy exercise of prayer. In order to correct this evil tendency he sets forth

1. False prayer (vv. 5, 7). This consists in

a. Praying to be seen and heard of men (v. 5). Many of the prayers uttered in public are false, for the thing uppermost in the mind of the one praying is what the people think rather than what God thinks.

b. Using vain repetitions (v. 7). This does not mean that we should ask but once for a given thing. We have examples of both Christ and Paul praying three times for the same thing (Matt. 26: 39-46; II Cor. 12:7, 8). It means rather the using of meaningless repetitions.

2. True prayer (v. 6). Since real prayer is a transaction of the soul with God, there should be a real desire for fellowship with him which moves one to meet him in the secret place.

3. The model prayer (vv. 9-15). This involves

a. Right relationship—"Our Father" (v. 9). Before one can pray so as to be heard he must, through the regenerating work of the Holy Spirit, become a child of God.

b. The right attitude—"Hallowed be thy name" (vv. 9, 10). While God is our heavenly Father he is more than that. He is the Almighty. We should go before him then with reverent adoration.

c. A right spirit—"Give us this day our daily bread," "Forgive us our sins," "Lead us not into temptation" (vv. 11-13). Those who would pray effectively must have such faith as would trust him for daily bread, and such love as would forgive those sinning against them, and such hatred of evil as to desire not to be led into temptation.

III. As to Fasting (vv. 16-18).

The true reason for fasting is to be found in the opportunity it gives for a clear vision of God.

IV. As to Earthly Riches (vv. 19-24).

The Lord knew the temptations which would befall his children in ther pilgrimage and the anxiety to which they would lead; therefore he set forth the proper attitude toward earthly possessions.

1. The nature of earthly riches (vv. 19-21).

a. They are uncertain (vv. 19, 20). Earthly treasures corrode, and may be taken from us.

b. They are seductive (v. 21). Christ called riches deceitful (Matt. 13:22). It is not wrong to possess earthly treasures, but when earthly treasures possess us they become a snare unto us.

2. The effect of earthly riches (vv. 22-24).

a. They blunt the moral and spiritual perceptions (vv. 22,23). Those who become enamored with the things of the world soon become irresponsive to spiritual things.

b. They render service null and void (v. 24). As soon as one's heart is stolen by riches, he is unfitted for spiritual service.

V. As to Faith in the Heavenly Father (vv. 25-34).

1. Be not anxious about food and clothing (vv. 25-32). To be filled with anxiety concerning food and clothing

a. Shows distrust of God (v. 30).

b. It is useless (v. 31). Anxiety brings us absolutely nothing.

c. It is heathenish (v. 32). Those who know God as the loving Father will be free from anxious care.

2. Be sincerely anxious to seek the kingdom of God and serve him (vv. 33, 34). This means that world affairs should be subordinated to spiritual affairs.

Friendship

No matter how prominent or how numerous the advocates of error may be, that is no reason why you should espouse it. Personal friendship is one thing, friendship for error is quite another thing.

God's Name

As Phidias contrived his mechanism so that his memory could never be obliterated without the destruction of his work, so the great name of God is interwoven in the texture of all that he has made.

Ben Margolis, Miss Bertha Margolis, Mrs. M. Lande and son, Ervin, are spending this week in Florida.

CANE CREEK

Our B. Y. P. U. training school was a wonderful success. We had an average of about thirty-two every night, with about twenty receiving award. We put on our first B. Y. P. U. program Sunday night with fifty-eight present. Listen you larger churches with your well drilled B. Y. P. U.'s, we are giving you warning. We are really going places and do things. Our church is really growing now and we want to keep it growing. Had over seventy for Sunday school last Sunday. Now if you older folks will only do your part and help the younger ones we can soon pass the one hundred mark. So come on folks and let's make our church grow. Our pastor is doing everything he can for us, and if we will only do our part we will have a worth-while church.

Remember our Sunday school at 10 o'clock promptly and B. Y. P. U at 6:30; and our preaching day is the second Sunday and we want to have the house filled. Because you will hear something good. Everybody has a hearty welcome.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Our Sunday school and Christian Endeavor are growing nicely.

Rev. A. C. Nelson will preach here Sunday at 11 o'clock. We are in hopes that Mrs. Nelson will be able to be with us, as we miss her so much.

Our Ladies Aid met with Mrs. Otis Rutherford last Wednesday. We had a good program with eight present.

We had a splendid C. E. program last Sunday night led by little Evelyn Williamson. Gertrude Eubanks recited a beautiful poem. The leader for next Sunday night is Mrs. Lubie Moates.

Mr. Loyd Teel has been called to Gadsden to work. We will miss him in our Sunday school and C. E.

Mrs. M. C. Rutherford, Mrs. A. C. Williamson and children and Mrs. M. A. Rutherford and children and Mr. Thomas Gragg were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Teel and family Sunday.

Mrs. Geo. Kilgore visited Mrs. G. W. Golson Saturday.

JACKSON CHAPEL NEWS

There will be Sunday school as usual here Sunday.

We have changed the preaching day from the first Sunday to the third Sunday, so we will not have any preaching next Sunday. But will have our regular singing. Everybody come and be with us and bring someone with you.

The play put on by Tom Frank Teel and his bunch was a great success and was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Harton and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Barnett of Montgomery spent the past week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wyatt.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Page spent the past week end with Mr. and Mrs. George Trotter at Martin Dam.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Our crowd was somewhat small both Sunday and Sunday night. Let's everybody come back next Sunday and bring someone with you. We had several visitors with us Sunday night. We are glad to have you with us and want you to come back to see us.

Folks, there will be singing at this place the third Sunday afternoon, on February 18th. It has been quite a while since we had a singing here. We invite everybody, who will, to come and help us out. Don't forget the date, February 18th.

Misses Elsie and Lera Glenn were the Sunday all day guests of Miss Annie Ree Jones.

Several from here attended the singing at the courthouse Sunday afternoon and reported a fine singing.

Miss Lera Wright and Myrtle Lee Baker spent a while Sunday morning with Miss Annie Ree Jones.

Misses Mildred and Delene Wright and Delene Glenn were the Sunday guests of Mises Elmer Reene and May Willie Jones.

Well we must go, we will see you again next week.

PASTORS TO MEET MONDAY

The pastors of the Chilton-Unity Baptist Association will meet Monday, February 4th, at ten o'clock at the Clanton Boptist church. A full attendance is very much desired.

DOCTOR'S ANSWERS To Questions

By P. C. Cripps, M. D.

Q. I get attacks of indigestion and the gas presses up around my heart, I belch gas frequently and I have a burning sensation in my chest. What can I do to help this condition?—"Anxious."

Ans.—Usually such cases are benefited by strict diet of vegetables or milk. A good tonic like Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, is used by many people and has my greatest confidence. To be had at any drug store.

EXPERT DRESS-MAKER AT THE DOLLAR STORE HERE

The Dollar Store in Clanton announces this week the active connection with it of Mrs. E. D. Hand, expert seamstress. Mrs. Hand, who has had special training in dress-making, altering, and all types of seamstress work, states that she will be glad to have her friends call on her there. She is equipped to do any kind of dress-making, or altering that may be desired, she announced.

"I keep fit-

"...in these days of recovery...if I don't, someone else will have my job." How? "Well, I learned years ago that work...wear and tear...takes something out of men and women—particularly those who work indoors.

"I tore down those precious red-blood-cells faster than my good body could rebuild. A friend told me the story of that grand medicine S.S.S. Now at 4 P. M. I am still fit.

If you feel weak...lack a keen appetite...or if your skin is pale...try S.S.S. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite...your color and skin should improve with increased strength.

S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic but a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood to enable you to "carry on" without undue exhaustion.

S.S.S. is truly a blood and body tonic. Its value has been proven by generations, as well as by modern scientific appraisal. S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes...the larger is more economical.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

BANKHEAD BILL GAINING HEADWAY IN CONGRESS

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 30.—Through extension service agencies, Director L. N. Duncan is informing Alabama farmers of "the very great possibility" that the Bnakhead Cotton Control Bill will become law at an early date.

"Reports indicate that this bill is gaining a geat deal of strength in congress and apparently will pass," said Dr. Duncan in a communication to all county agents in which he asked them to pass the information on to farmers in their counties.

Dr. Duncan said that in Alabama the sentiment of farmers and business leaders is almost unanimously in favor of the bill. In his opinion the position of formers who cooperate with the government in the present cotton reduction campaign will be much better than that of those who do not agree to cooperate and are later affected by regulations of the bill in event of its passage.

As introduced in congress, the bill calls for reduction of number of bales ginned per year in order to regulate the price. The allotment to a farm will be based on past yields similar to regulations of the present reduction program. Farmers will be allowed to gin a number of bales in accordance with the allotment designated for their farms on a proportion basis fair to each producer.

"Of course we are not in position to say definitely that the bill will pass, or to indicate just what rules and regulations will be adopted under the bill for cotton control," said Dr. Duncan to the county agents. "It occurs to us, however, that it is exceedingly important for each county agent through his committee, his county papers, and otherwise, to let the farmers know the very great possibility of this bill becoming a law."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Proper terracing of Alabama farm lands will increase their value at the rate of $10 per acre, according to County Agent F. N. Farrington in Tallapoosa. A county-wide program of terracing by means of modern machinery is under way in this county with prospects of over 6,000 acres being completed before planting time. It is costing farmers from $1.25 to $2.50 per acre.

It is estimated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that $200,000,000 worth of soil fertility is lost annually in the United States by allowing the rich top soil to wash away.

Slash pine is a valuable tree to plant on farms in the southern part of Alabama. It is considered to be the most profitable forest tree to grow because of its rapid growth and high value for the production of naval stores, pulpwood, and lumber.

Legumes are of special importance on account of their ability to utilize nitrogen from the air through bacteria containing nodules or tubercles on their roots. This results in increasing the protein content of the plants and enrichening the soil in which they are grown. Non-leguminous crops, including corn and other grains, cotton, and the grasses obtain all the nitrogen for their growth from the soil.

W. A. Barnett, of Jemison, one of the old friends of The Union-Banner, came in Tuesday to renew his subscription.

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 30.—Those cotton growers now signing acreage adjustment contracts are cooperating with other farmers to help relieve the economic plight of agriculture throughout the nation.

The cotton farmer is only one part of the rational picture. In other other sections of the country growers are signing or have signed for wheat contracts, corn and hog contracts, tobacco contracts, and other agreements seeking to restore the purchasing power of farmers throughout the United States.

It is to the interest of the southern cotton grower, therefore, that he have a part in this whole national scheme," declares Gully A. Cobb, chief of the cotton section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. "The cotton grower is entitled to a share of the national wealth, and he can be better assured of his share by cooperating in the general movement to restore farm prices. I hope the growers of the South understand that they are not being asked to do something that no other farmers are being asked to do. If the rate of acreage reduction in the case of cotton is somewhat greater than for other basic crops, it is because the need to reduce is greater. By the same token, however, the rental payments are in proportion, and the total distribution of money through these payments, based on a reduction of 40 per cent under the average of the years from 1928 to 1932, will amount to $100,000,000."

Basic cash crops are not being increased in any part of the nation, and the general cooperation by all farmers is necessary to accomplish the purposes of the Agricultural Adjustment Act. By doing his part, the cotton grower is helping to improve the condition of all farmers generally and of himself in particular.

TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY

The Tennessee Valley Associated Cooperatives has been incorporated to help organize and promote cooperatives in the Tennessee Valley Authority area. A fund of $300,000 has been allocated by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. The aim of the central cooperative will be to go into the plans and methods of cooperative organizations and to help to stabilize those which seem to be well organized and to have a proper function. Among those which are planned for the near future are certain cooperatives at Norris, Tennessee. These include a cooperative of egg producers, milk producers, a cooperative store and perhaps later some small industries. The Board of Directors of the Tennessee Valley Authority are directors of the Associated Cooperatives.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the people for their kindness during the illness, death and burial of our mother, Mrs. Christianne Smith. We especially wish to thank Mrs. Houston Jones, Mrs. Willie Smith, Mrs. Walter Blankenship, Mr. Alvin Traywick and Mr. Johnnie Miner. We also want to thank those for the floral offerings, also the Clanton Quartet for the singing at the funeral.—The Children.

Why Hospitals Use a Liquid Laxative

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know the reasons?

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right dose of a liquid laxative brings a perfect movement, and there is no discomfort at the time, or after.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

A properly prepared liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin brings safe relief from constipation. It gently helps the average person's bowels back to regularity. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative which all druggists keep ready for use. It makes an ideal family laxative; effective for all ages, and may be given the youngest child. HISTORIC SPOTS ON ROADS TO BE MARKED BY SIGNS

Montgomery, Jan. 30. — Historic spots on Alabama Highways are to be marked by the Alabama Department of Archives and History in cooperation with the Civil Works Administration, it is learned. Data from which inscriptions to go on all markers is now being compiled by a corps of research workers under the direction of Thomas M. Owen, Jr., of the History Department's staff. The plan has the approval of the C. W. A. leaders. Work will be started it is understood as soon as details have been perfected. Each county will play a part in making the plan a success it is understood. Much interest has been shown in the program since it was started several weeks ago.

This is the first time in the history of the state that an effort has been made to mark all spots of historic significance which are situated along Alabama Highways, as a statewide effort. Heretofore local organizations have taken the led in this type of work, and the state has given whatever assistance it was called upon for. Letters have been written to Judges of Probate, mayors of cities and other incorporated places, to presidents of patriotic societies as well as to interested individuals. The response has been most gratifying, declares Mr. Owen, yet there are same to whom he has written who have not as yet resopnded.

There are a number of details still to be completed before final preparations for marking the points selected can be made. Due to the fact that counties will be honored in this work, Mr. Owen sincerely hopes that all of those to whom he has sent letters and who have not as yet replied will do so at their convenience.

The program was originally designed to give employment to women. In its larger aspect both men and women will be employed. Only persons employed on C. W. A. work will be used. Aspirants for jobs in connection with the project will not be considered if not on the C. W. A. rolls already or if they have not registered with their local reemployment offices. No one need write to Mr. Owen in connection with a position, it is stated, as local agencies will determine who is to be selected for the county work.

Persons who are familiar with historic places in Alabama counties are asked to send the infrmation which they possess to Thomas M. Owen, Jr., State Capitol, Montgomery, Alabama.

Many states have written to the Department of Archives and History for its plan for marking historic spots in Alabama. All details have been forwarded to Washington, and will be distributed through channels to Civil Works Administration in other states.

SOUTHERN FARMERS FAVOR BANKHEAD'S COTTON BILL

Most of the cotton farmers of the South favor Senator Bankhead's bill limiting to 9,000,000 bales of cotton that can be ginned during 1934, according to statements before the senate agriculture committee by southern commissioners of agriculture.

Harry D. Wilson, commissioner of Louisiana and president of the southern commissioners, reported that practically all farmers of his state desired the bill. Similar statements were made by G. C. Adams, commissioner of Georgia, J. C. Holton, Mississippi; J. C. McDonald, Texas; W. A. Graham, North Carolina; and Seth P. Storrs, Alabama. State Senator S. F. Fletcher, Huntsville and Will Nance, Madison county farmer urged the bill be passed.

News has reached Alabama that Secretary Wallace has prepared questionaires to send to 32,000 crop workers and persons engaged in signing up farmers in the volnuntary acreage reduction program, to determine how the farmers feel about the Bankhead Bill.

Senator Bankhead declares that it is immeterial whether enforcement is at the gin or by prohibitive tax on excess balage. "The important thing," he said "is to make effective the limitation on the number of bales that can be sold."

Resolutions by state-wide meetings of farmers are almost unanimously in favor of compulsory control of the number of bales of cotton that can be produced and sold.

WHITE CITY SINGING SCHOOL CLOSES WITH CONCERT FEB. 9

The singing school which Prof. L. M. Harden has been teaching at White City, at nights for the past several weeks, comes to a close Friday night, February 9th, when a concert will be held. The program will begin at 7:30, and will consist of quartets, trios, duets, solos, etc. A small admission will be charged. The public is invited to attend.

FORESTER WHEELER ADDRESSES CAMP WORKERS

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 30.—In an address on "Forestry and National Wealth," before members of Forestry and Park camps during the past week, H. N. Wheeler of the U. S. Forest Service, Washington, D. C., showed in graphic detail the close connection between national wealth and the care given the great twin resources of soil and forests.

From experience gained during a long career as a forester engaged in nation wide projects, Mr. Wheeler pointed out the fate of those who neglect to save the soil by the use of forests. In part he set forth as follows: "Forest land is the everlasting bank account of our nation. Much of the poverty of men and communities is caused by their neglect of soils and failure to protect them by preserving and protecting forest growth.

"In Alabama for every acre of tillable farm land we have two acres of land mainly suited for forestry. With many areas so steep that tree cutting inevitably leads to destruction of soil, the only salvation of man lies in land protection and forest restoration. Unless we do something speedily to save our bank account, much of our permanent resources of soil will be depleted beyond repair."

Mr. Wheeler spoke in high terms of the work of the C. C. C. camps in educating the public to care for soils and trees. He praised the work done by the ex-service men in the veterans camps and dwelt on the activities of the Alabama Forest Commission in its forest plan of protecting forests from fire, the soil from Washing and the citizens from loss.

CALIFORNIA PROCLAIMS NET RESULTS OF NRA

Washington.—In a survey of NRA results on the Pacific Coast, the San Francisco News declares: "Industrialists, labor leaders, and the consuming public have accepted the Blue Eagle with open arms. E. Tilden Mattox, district compliance director, has statistics to show not less than 300,000 have been reemployed under NRA codes in California, Nevada and Utah. Payrolls in northern California and Nevada only have jumped $17,200,000 monthly over the figures of last summer. There are 45 county compliance chairmen in northern California alone reporting to Mattox. Records show the organizations functions smoothly. In November the 14 leading cities of California reported an increase of 4.3 per cent in bank debits. San Francisco's gain for the one month was 9.8 per cent. Reserve account of member banks with the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco jumped from $144,338,000 in June to $186,000,000 December 27. Employment in Los Angeles has increased 21.4 per cent from a year ago and weekly payments 22.3 per cent. The leading industrial groups reporting increases for that region are: Motion picture, 53.8 per cent; paper products, 31.9 per cent; metals, machinery and conveyances, 24.9 per cent; furniture and fixtures, 23.9 per cent; and stone, clay, and glass products, 23.1 per cent. The Eagle is in California to stay; there is no doubt about that. Strong individualists who have hoped the time would come when they might take a pot shot at him have gradually been lining up to pay him homage."

NOTICE—MACEDONIA, BEAT 11

I wish to call the attention of all people who have been connected with the church or schoolhouse at Macedonia, that the buildings need recovering and repairing. Both buildings are in bad shape. There is plenty of timber on the church property to do both jobs if people will volunteer to do the work. Anyone interested may see me in Clanton Saturday afternoon or meet me at the schoolhouse Saturday night, February 3, at 7:30.—Virgil G. Smith.

SCHOOL MEETING AT THOMAS JR.

Next Thursday night at 7:00 o'clock all parents of Thomas Jr. School are requested and especially urged to be present at the school building to attend an important meeting. Several matters of great importance are to be discussed and require the voice and careful consideration of every patron of the school. So everybody make a special effort to be present and give this matter your worthy attention.—Ben Jones, Marvin Kelley, Oce Devaughn, trustees.

R. H. Gandy of Maplesville was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

It is my sincere opinion that the next great religious movement will be a preaching crusade. It is God's plan. We had so many drives on during the World War and have had so many since the World War that we haven't had much time to preach. That is one thing the matter with the world.

The Apostle Paul didn't build a church. He didn't build a school. He didn't organize committees. He preached. He turned the world up side down and changed the current of human history by the propagation of a great truth. That truth was that Jesus Christ died on the cross to save people. Men were trying to save themselves. The gospel says they can't do it, but they don't have to do it. Christ died for us. He can save us.

Christ is the world's great Teacher. He is the only perfect Example. But that is not sufficient. If He is just an Example, then He is not my hope, but my Despair. He died for me. That is all the flowers of all springtimes in one bouquet. He died for me. That is all the day dawns of all worlds breaking forth into a glorious morning.

Some of the modernistic brethren say, "Back to Christ." All right, let's go back to the manger where He was born of a virgin. Back to a mountain where He taught. Back to a cross where He was wounded for our transgressions, where He died a substitutional and vicarious death. Back to a grave from which He arose bodily from the grave. Back to the Mount of Olives whence He went back to heaven leaving behind Him the assurance that He will come again.

STATE GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Jan. 31.—A. E. Tidmore, manager of the Sumter Farm and Stock company, has advised the state game and fisheries department that he is setting aside a large area near Geiger for development as a quail preserve.

Mr. Tidmore said he expects to stock the preserve with Bobwhites, halt promiscuous hunting on his land and take extra precautions against fire hazards.

His success with deer has convinced him that wild life will thrive on the land. In 1931, he said, he saw his first deer track and this past season six bucks were brough down.

I. T. Quinn, state commissioner of game and fisheries, was re-elected president of the Southern Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners at the recent annual meeting in New York.

He also was named chairman of the National Committee on Wild Life Legislation, succeeding George D. Pratt, of New York. As chairman of this important committee he will have a voice in the perparation of wild life legislation submitted to congress.

The Alabama commissioner also attended the twentieth annual American Game Conference in New York which advocated adoption of the so-called duck stamp bill now pending before congress. After the meeting Mr. Quinn went to Wishington for a conference with President Roosevelt on wild life legislation.

Huntsville, Ala., Jan. 31.—Following reports that quail were being sold in Madison county, District Game Warden Claude Harwell has enlisted the aid of citizens of the county in breaking up game law violators.

"It is hard to believe that any good, self-respecting citizen will conspire with a law breaker to violate the law," said Warden Harwell. "Yet I am informed that some highly respected people are doing this. I cannot help but feel that they do not fully appreciate the position they occupy in these illegal transactions and I trust this warning will be timely to them."

"The law allows an officer to deputize citizens to aid in arrests and help enforce the law. I am doing just this thing. All self-respecting citizens are hereby conscripted by me to help break up this nefarious practice."

DOCK B. WILKINS DIED

Mr. Dock B. Wilkins, age 67 years, died last Thursday afternoon at his home 801 South Court Street, Montgomery. The body was brought here by Martin, and buried at Bethsalem Saturday. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. E. Moore.

Mr. Wilkins is survived by three sons, O. C., Milton and William, and one daughter, Miss Mamie Wilkins, all of Montgomery.

JACKSON HARRIS APPERSON

Mr. Jackson Harris Apperson, age 80 years, died Thursday, January 25, at his home near Billingsley. Burial was at Big Springs in Autauga County Friday, with Martin in charge of arrangements.

The deceased was a brother of Mr. J. F. Apperson.

MRS. H. A. RAY DIED

Mrs. H. A. Ray, of Jemison, age 43 years, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Guy Williams, early Friday morning. She is survived by her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Guy Williams; and one son, Burgin Ray; one sister, Mrs. A. J. Davenport.

Funeral services were held Saturday at eleven o'clock at the Jemison Baptist Church and internment in the Pine Hill Cemetery with Spigener in charge.

POPLAR SPRINGS CLUB

On Wednesday, January 24, the Poplar Springs Club met at the home of Mrs. W. A. Foshee. Fifteen women were present and there were two new members added to our club. Miss Pardue could not be with us, but our demonstration leaders took up the discussion on poultry after which we turned the meeting into a round table discussion. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. J. Duke, Friday, February 2, at 1 o'clock. —Reporter.

Uncle Jim Mims, County Commissioner, was able to be out again last week, after an illness of several months. His many friends were glad to see him, and to note his improved condition of health.

MRS. MARTHA T. YATES

Mrs. Martha T. Yates, age 86 years, died Thursday night, January 25, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas, east of Cooper. Burial was at Chestnut Creek Friday, with Martin in charge. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. D. Hughes and Rev. J. W. Jones.

Mrs. Yates was the widow of the late Sam M. Yates, Sr., who died on March 5, 1932. She is survived by two sons, S. M. and W. T. Yates; two daughters, Mrs. Eulela Thomas and Mrs. Nancy Thomas; ten grand children and fourteen great grandchildren.

Since the death of her husband Mrs. Yates had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Nancy Yates, although she frequently visited with all the children. She had just left the home of her son, S. M. Yates, Sunday afternoon, and gone to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eulela Thomas, and was there when God called her, about 10:20 o'clock Thursday night.

Mrs. Yates was a consecrated Christian who always trusted in God, and taught her children to love, honor and obey the Heavenly Father.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

The chief topic of conversation, the country over, as this is being written, is the latest development in the administration's monetary program, the taking over of the Federal Reserve's gold supply by the national government, with the proposed stabilization of the dollar some time in the future at a figure between fifty and sixty cents. The public discussions have led to no great crystalization of opinion on the subject, although the general tendency is to follow the president in his program. There is small wonder that there is so much in the public mind as to what it all means and just where we are going. Even the so-called financial experts of the country are divided in opinion. There are not only two camps but a dozen camps. And if the college professors and economic authorities cannot agree on money policies, why expect the man in the street to be able to reason clearly on the subject?

Perhaps the announcement of the administration plan is as important in what it proposes not to do as in what it proposes to do, as the New York Times editorially suggests. The outlining of the program would certainly indicate a few things in this respect. One of these is that the prospect of free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 or at any other ratio, has been placed in the discard for the time being at least, much to the disappointment of some of the silver statesmen of the West. Again the developments of the plan indicates that there is to be at present no uncontrolled inflation, no oiling up of the presses which turn out paper money. When we begin to talk about stabilization of the dollar in a serious way, the prospect for currency inflation is dimmed accordingly. This does not mean that there will be no inflation in the future, of course, but it at least indicates that the prospect is not imminent.

Here it would seem, therefore, are two negative developments which ought to bring assurance to those economists who believe that public confidence cannot be restored and that we cannot move forward until the threat of inflation is laid to rest. Just what, it may then be asked, will be the result of the move to keep the dollar between fifty and sixty cents, as measured in terms of our former gold dollar? Here again we run into a fog of conflicting opinions. Some economists, who favor the plan, say that it will restore prics to the 1926 level, and that this is what is needed to take us back to normalcy. Others state that the effect will be to injure the wage worker, the salaried employe and the man who has his money in the savings banks or in life insurance or other fixed investments. They point out the fact that in a time of rising prices wages always go up last, and that the worker, the salaried man, and he who lives on a fixed income is pinched. Even the debtor, they claim, will not gain much for the reason that in the rising cost of living which will confront him he will find that he has no more sixty-cent dollars left above living expenses to pay on his debts, than he formerly had 100-cent dollars.

Then there is a third class of financial experts who assert that the effect on prices, and on our living conditions, by the proposed sixty-cent dollar will be so small as to hardly be noticeable. They point to the fact that the dollar has been forced down almost to a six-cent basis for the past few months without any appreciable difference in prices. There have been increases in some lines of manufactured goods, they admit, but they charge this to the higher wages now paid under the NRA. They add that the value of the dollar has less to do with prices and prosperity than the advocates of devaluation seem to believe. Devaluation, they state, will not repeal the old laws of supply and demand, and will not make business better. They point to the experience of France and other nations, and to the fact that the French back in 1927 devalued the franc to one-fifth of its former value. According to the rubber dollar theorists, they say, this would have increased prices in France five times over what they were in other countries, and they add that since nothing of the kind happened, there must be a flaw in the reasoning somewhere. Only time can tell which school of financial theory is right. Perhaps it is best not to expect too much change from the new program. That, at least, lessens the chances of disappointment.

How . . . Except He Be Sent?

A man of God has departed from the walks of the people of Chilton County. And if we did not mention a name, nearly everyone who glances at this passage would know whom we refer to; but it has been a cherished name in this part of the state and a family by-word in Chilton County for the past half a century. Therefore we get some kind of peculiar delight in calling the name of Rev. M. J. Parrish, or Uncle Wibb, or Bro. Parrish, as he was generally known. The name has always been so associated with things that are good and sacred and cherished by everybody that it has become to carry with it the idea and even the inferred meaning of Godliness. He was a good man whom everyone loved. He held on tenaciously and doggedly to what he construed the Holy Scriptures to teach, but even those who broadly differed with him loved him dearly. No one, good or bad, could dislike Bro. Parrish. He uncompromizingly hated sin, but he loved sinners; and his ways were such that even the wayward loved and respected him highly.

Now, where did such a personality come from, to dwell among the people of Chilton County for eighty-three years and to preach for over half a century? Of course Uncle Wibb Parrish was only a human being like we are, but he had something that all of us haven't got. He never tired of his work. He labored hard and was satisfied with whatever results he obtained and claimed no praise for himself. These traits are not human, and they bring us to the question asked above: How can there be such a preacher except he be sent from God? Though the body has returned to the dust, the life remains an abiding index to the fact that our God is real and that He dwells in the lives of His earthly children.

The churches of Chilton County are going to miss this man; his place is going to be hard to fill. But we have young preachers who have only for the past few years entered the ministry. Some of them were converted under the preaching of Rev. Parrish and ordained by him—these must take up the work which this old veteran has ceased to do. May these young men prove worthy of their foster-father in Christ and fearlessly emulate the good things for which he labored during his sojourn among his fellow men on earth.

A Reversal of Policy

It hasn't been so many years ago that the United States combatted its depression problems with its areas of unoccupied lands and, by parcelling them out as homesteads, took care of thousands of unemployed. Today the process is being reversed. President Roosevelt's advisers have urged upon him the necessity of taking much of the land under cultivation out of production and, having succeeded in getting the government to adopt a schedule of bounties for those producers who agree to curtail acreage, now propose to go further, and buy outright 25,000,000 acres of land, more or less, and retire it permanently from production.

Such a plan doubtless would go a long way toward reducing crops and bringing agricultural production within the present limit of consumption, but a human element enters into the problem. What will be done with the thousands of farmers who under this scheme would be relieved of any occupation? The brain trust has an answer. It is, briefly, that families affected by the plan would be installed in other regions, where they could carry on more profitable farming, or would be given occupation in the cities.

The answer, however, hardly simplifies the difficulty as much as it raises another.

The proposal is a part of the economic planning program of the new deal, but as yet is in only nebulous form. Its inauguration naturally must rest upon some solution first of unemployment in the cities and a plan of help for agricultural districts in general that would enable industrial and rural sections of the nation to absorb any new labor supply. It likewise must meet the objections which it is bound to run into, if and when it is actually tried, and American home owners rebel at the idea of any Russianizing of the American right to live where one pleases, and engage in whatever lawful occupation one chooses. — Columbus, (Ohio) Dispatch.

Those Poor Symbols

Remnants of American Army supplies taken over by the French government at the end of the war are reported still to be on sale in some Paris shops. The intrinsic value of these goods must have suffered substantially during the last fifteen years, but it is almost time for them to take on a curio value.

These poor remainders are at the very least symbolic. A khaki blanket marked "U.S.A.," even though somewhat motheaten; a pup tent, even though patched and worn; knives forks, spoons and trench spades, carrying the rusty imprint of high emprise—all these things mean something in the way of remembrance.

They are also symbolic from another viewpoint. This war material, which cost the United States several billion dollars, included doiks, warehouses and communication lines built by the American engineers as well as locomotives and freight cars, barracks, food supplies, clothing, bedding and medical goods. The entire lot was sold to the French government for $407,000,000, to be paid for in ten years with interest. The payments are now in default, along with the larger item of the French war debt.

The French have a grand and glorious tradition which they pass down from generation to generation. But their dealings with the United States since the war and insults which they have heaped upon the American contribution in that conflict have been and remain a blemish on their scrutcheon. It is not a proud heritage for the sons of France to contemplate.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Chicago gained 51,000 population in the last year, perhaps because some people who went to the fair didn't have money enough to get back.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

Rev. M. J. Parrish

Rev. M. J. Parrish has answered his last call, and another landmark of the present generation has gone. "Uncle Webb," as I always knew him, was one of the best men it has ben my pleasure to know. He was one of the first ministers I ever heard preach. His sincerity compelled reverence for him, for he was ever mindful of his fellow-men. In fact he lived for them, and his whole life was wrapped up in them. No night was too dark or stormy, nor no task too hard but that he was ready and more than willing to go as far as need called for his sympathy and help. Ever since I have known him he has been an upright man and one of the most highly respected citizens of our county. His ideals were high, worthy and noble. And now that his sun of life on earth has set, I am quite sure that he has been welcomed to his seat beside his Lord and Master, Whom he so loved, and for Whom he strove so faithfully. I am sure that Rev. Parrish has heard the words: "Thou hast been faithful in a few things; I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." After all these years as leader of his flock, in first one church and another, I am sure that he can still look back upon them and bid them "Follow me." He has done his best, and no more is required by our Creator.

Another Nosey Guy

Without any provocation whasoever, Mr. Victor Norris has poked his nose into my affairs, and, as I hate busy-bodies in general, and nose-pokers in particular, I shall attempt to answer his somewhat "catty" charges. Although his commendation of my column may have been in a sarcastic vein, nevertheless I accept that commendation for what it is worth, much or little as that may be. Mr. Norris states that I have kept up a barrage on Mr. Roosevelt and his methods. This is not true. Anyone who wishes to be fair about the matter can easily scan the files of my column for the true facts. In fact, I have stated many times that I heartily commend Mr. Roosevelt's manner of going about the work of combatting the gigantic problems before him. They have been the actions of a born fighter, and he has tackled these problems with as much zest and enthusiasm as one could wish for. I have said, however, that I believed he has made some errors, and I believe that now, as strongly as ever. To begin with, I believe that the complete abdication of the powers of congress to Mr. Roosevelt and the "brain trust" was a direct violation of the Constitution, which vested this power of deliberation in the congress. This was what the Constitution was for—to get away from the English system of government, where one monarch had all power. And I still believe that this move was a bad one. I have never seen the wisdom of founding the reforestation camps, unless it be for the purpose of secretly fitting up a reserve standing army in case of trouble. And then, I do not believe it should have been done at the expense of the World War veterans, as was the case. Again, I believe governmental tampering with prices and production of raw materials was against a natural law—remember "competition is the life of trade." And if someone will point out to me one good thing that the NRA has accomplished, it will be one more than I have had pointed out to me heretofore. Mr. Roosevelt, himself, has realized that it is a big flop, in part, at least, as he has already ordered it discontinued in small towns. And it must have been pretty weak, for Henry Ford whipped it and General Hugh Johnson to a frazzle and got away with it. The last big break was the recognition of Russia—if that doesn't get us into some entangling alliances, we'll be lucky. That is the set-up. And I'll stack my column against that of Victor Norrins any day in the week, in regard to the matter of commendation of the President's sincere attempts to bring this country out of the mud. But I will say this, for the benefit of Victor Norris and any others who may be interested. Any man, no matter how great, is subject to errors, and in the future, as in the past, when, in my estimation, I believe that the president or any other official has erred, I shall not fail to say so, and no backbiting wise-cracks of the caliber of Mr. Norris's can stop me. Too, as in the past, when I think that he has done something commendable, I shall offer commendation. What busy-bodies and nose-pokers and wise-crackers have to say about what I write mean less than nothing to me. It's a take it or leave it proposition. And about Mr. Norris's catty little remark—it may be that he would have been working for CWA had he not been just a little leary of the business end of a shovel. That wisecrack has all the earmarks of being the brain product of someone who earnestly aspired to be a wit, and had half reached his ambition. And that closes the matter, so far as I am concerned. I have far more important things to think of and write about than Vic Norris.

Circle February 10th

Find your calendar and put a ring around February 10th. On that day and night, Aimee Semple McPherson will appear in Birmingham. At present I am not sure of the building she will preach in. Here is Mrs. McPherson's system: When she goes to a city and cannot find a hall large enough, she generally engages a down-town theatre. She says: "If I can not get the people to come to me, then I will go to them." So it may be that this will be the case in Birmingham. I will try to find where she is to preach, and announce it in both county papers next week. To now, "Sister," as she is known on the Pacific coast, has spent most of her time in Canada and up and down the west coast from Washington to California, and has founded hundreds of churches there, which have something over 50,000 members. This year, her plans call for an extensive tour of the South, appearing in Memphis, Atlanta, Miami, New Orleans, and other cities; later she expects to return to these cities for campaigns and establishment of churches. An attempt is being made to have Mrs. McPherson come to Clanton for a few hours on Sunday, February 11th. Whether or not her plans will allow this, has not been decided, but announcement will be made about this, too. I am sure most everyone has heard of this woman evangelist, and if you have, you will want to hear her, in person. Watch for announcements next week.

A Check Up

According to press dispatches, Congressman Charles L. Gifford of Massachusetts is asking for an audit of the huge recovery expense of the New Deal. Gifford is the ranking Republican member of the House Committee on Expenditures of the Executive Department, and it is believed that he will finally force through such an investigation. Gifford is said to be first of all anxious to look into the expenditures of the CWA funds. He is quoted as saying:

"We can't give away money which we have not got. It is not right that the federal government give money to communities that can well afford to take care of their local needs."

There is no disputing the second part of Mr. Gifford's statement. It does look a little thick for the CWA to be taking care of communities that should be taking care of communities that should be able to take care of themselves. But Mr. Gifford's first statement is open to question. Personally we cannot give away money which we "haven't got." But Uncle Sam can do it. He has been doing it for several months and the sum which he has given away, but never had, already mounts up into the billions.

Meanwhile the expenditures go merrily on. The communities which are getting the easy money are enthusiastic. The people on payrolls are enthusiastic. Retail business is ahead of a year ago, and some merchants are very optimistic.

But Mr. Gifford introduces a discordant note in the New Deal harmony when he asks for a check up. Of course we know that there will have to be a casting of accounts sooner or later and that Uncle Sam will have to get the money which he is now giving away in advance. But the fellow who is on a spree rarely worries about the morning after. Sufficient unto the night is the evil thereof, so he thinks, and he refuses to worry about the furry tongue and the headache until it is upon him, and there is nothing to do but suffer the consequences.

So just now we don't like to be reminded of that day in the future when payment will be called for. Maybe things will be so good (so we argue) that the payment will be easy. Let us hope that in this we are better prophets than the celebrant who thinks his liquor is so good that there will be no morning after headaches.

General Johnson says that there has been a great change of opinion regarding the NRA. May it not be due in great part to the great change in attitude on the part of General Johnson? There is nothing like a few soft answers for turning away wrath.

"It's Roosevelt or Hell!"—Senator Hiram Johnson. The churches used to threaten us with hell if we were wicked, but now we're told we'll go to hell if we don't support the president. This must be a new religion. All right, I'll join. I still don't want to go to hell.—From "A Line o'Type or Two," in Chicago Tribune.

Improving the Stock

By official order, Germany has undertaken a steralization program, calculated to improve the physical condition of the German race in years to come. Other countries are studying the process, with an eye to installing it themselves if it works well in Germany. Even here in the United States there are some who advocate some kind of measures being enacted along this line. The program looks fine on paper, but whether or not it will work when tried out on people is yet to be learned. Under the system, if it can be carried out, it would be impossible for people of low mentality or with diseased bodies to raise children. By ruling thus, the Germans hope to see their future generations spring from parents who are well fitted, physically and mentally. It may be, however that when the people who come under the ban come face to face with the reality of their predicament, they may not stand for it. Here in America, I don't believe our people would. And, too, there are many people who have an idea that such procedure is, in a way, meddling with the Creator's handiwork, and that this ought not to be. One distinguished member of the medical profession has this to say about it: "There is no doubt but that the race might be improved by such a course, but I believe if God had intended that some of us should raise children and others should not, He would have provided for such in the creation of our several bodies. Instead, He has said: "Multiply and replenish the earth', and He didn't set out any particular people to do this, either. I do not believe it will work successfully. The people will fight such high-handed man made rules concerning their God-given rights.

Let Them Drink

Since prohibition has been repealed, and "the good old days" have come back again, it might be in order to say a few words in this connection. I hear lots of people say: "If a man wants a drink now and then, let him have it. A drink never hurt anybody." That's OK, if that man sticks to "a drink." However, these same people will tell you, that there is nothing more disgusting than a "drunk." There is the crux of the matter. One drink calls for another, and for many people, this craving is stronger than their will power, and, before they know it, they are "well organized"—steeped to the gills. One eminent authority has this to say: "I have been all around, and the following facts I have found to be true. A German can drink his beer from time to time throughout the day, and still be as sober and cheerful as at the beginning. The French can drink their wine, temperately, and still keep their wits about them. The English will have their wee bit o' Scotch and be none the worse for it. But, for some unaccountable reason, when most Americans make connection with the stronger spirit, they poke their snouts all the way into the bung hole and the quicker they become soused, the better. There are exceptions, of course." Another angle of the matter is peculiar to America. We have more automobiles per capita than any nation on the globe, and about the first thing a drunk wants to do is grab a steering wheel and go for a ride. And he usually does it, too, until he is stopped by plowing into a ditch, or wrapping himself around a telegraph pole. Nor would this be so bad. But in many, many cases, the drunken driver does not go into a ditch or tree, but plows head-on into another car, endangering the lives of others. There is the main evil. No, "a drink" is not so bad, if it is confined to that. And whiskey is not so bad in its place, but it's place most certainly is not in the driver's seat of an automobile. A car can't see. Neither can a drunken driver. This is a case of "the blind driving the blind, and they both land in the ditch," or worse.—Man in the Moon.

Dawn of a New Day

Allen Cook, an enrolled member of the Civilian Conservation Corps, from Stanton, in Chilton County, has written a remarkable story for "American Forests," a national magazine published at Washington. His story entitled "Dawn of a New Day," was published in the December issue of the magazine.

Mr. Cook has, in fine literary style, bared his transition from a state of utter desperation to the realm of spiritual contentment in the opportunity afforded by President Roosevelt's Conservation work program.

Born in Newbern, Alabama, in 1911, one of seven sons of a railroad foreman, he received a high school education before the failing health of his father forced him to seek work. For two years he made great strides, becoming an advanced mechanic. Then came the depression, and he lost his job. From that day until he entered the Civilian Conservation Corps in 1933, he became one of the great tide of restless, wandering youth which rolled over the country seeking something that did not exist—work.

Allen Cook's story has gained widespread popularity. In addition to publication in American Forests, it has also been published in The Readers Digest. The writer is Post Exchange Steward of Company 487, in camp near Bessemer.

The Weather Bureau now admits that the winters are milder than thy used to be. But we seem to have just as many frozen assets as ever.

Sound vibrations are said to coagulate proteins when beyond audible limits, but some, which are within range, coagulate the milk of human kindness.

Now is the time to do some thrifty early Christmas shopping for next Christmas.

Western farmers complain that the price of overalls is rising faster than the price of wheat. Marie Antoinette would have said, "Let 'em wear dress suits."

Biggest "Special Interest."

Many radical professional politicians who make a living out of office holding, and who are continually seeking through legislation to destroy private and to build up public payrolls, talk frequently about the malign influence of "the interests" in politics.

It is not generally realized by the public that the most active "interest" operative in politics is the "office-holding interest," and that it contributes to politics more in time, which means more in (public) money, than all the other interests combined.

Today more than 6,000,000 men and women are on our national government payroll. Add to this the number of office holders and workers for state, county, township and city or town "political interests" and one will begin to awaken to the enormity which the growth of governmental bureaucracy is fast reaching. Every eight persons are supporting an employe of either national, state or local government, and this ratio is increasing, not decreasing. Besides paying out billions for the upkeep of national, state and local governments and for huge relief through same, Americans paid out in 1933 over $75,000,000 in charities. It would appear that if this keeps up, the cow will sooner or later be milked dry.

The professional politician of the demagogic sort speaks often of high transportation rates, of high power rates, high this and high that, but he never speaks of the fact that these industries pay in taxes more than they pay in dividends to their owners.

The declared purpose of the radical politicians is to still further lengthen the public payrolls, and thus still further increase the number of government office holders who have interests in politics not always identical with those of the people who pay the bills for the huge government upkeep. They object to the activities of private individuals and concerns in politics, even when questions are involved which threaten the rights or the investments of the non-office holding portion of the population, but uphold the right to carry on in politics against them without criticism.

The individual investors and workers in private enterprises who are the targets of socialist and semi-socialist politicians, are engaged in undertakings which increase the common wealth. Some office holders are and some are not, but the public payroll is a charge upon the cost of living for every citizen.

The objective of some of these professional-perpectual-political-office holders is to destroy private ownership of industry and therefore public jobs, by taxing industry to death or interfering with it to the extent that it becomes an unprofitable enterprise. This they term "socialization of industry." Their object is "political ownership" which would put on the backs of every five, not every eight, ordinary citizens a political employe to support. The end is complete socialism.

CONFERENCE, CHILTON CIRCUIT

The first quarterly conference of Chilton circuit will convene with the Pleasant Grove M. P. church, seven miles southwest of Clanton on Saturday, February 3, at 2 p.m. There will be preaching at 11 o'clock Saturday morning. Everybody is invited to come and be with us, especially the members of the quarterly conference, as we have some business matters that will be brought up. Rev. C. W. Molton, president of Alabama Conference, is expected to be with us.

The good people of the charge have built a new parsonage and we appreciate it so much. Our good Baptists, together with our M. E. friends have been a great help to us in making a success. Will write more next week, giving account of the work more fully. May the Lord bless each one.—Yours to serve, Rev. J. S. Johnson, pastor.

FRIENDSHIP NEWS

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely, with an increase in number and interest. We had a large crowd last Sunday at Sunday school. At 11 o'clock Rev. Robinson went into the pulpit and delivered an interesting sermon to a large and very attentive audience.

In the afternoon a good number of the Friendship people went to the almshouse and held services for the old folks, which they seemed to enjoy very much.

Sunday night the Poplar Springs B. Y. P. U. came and put on a program, which was enjoyed very much. After this our pastor, Bro. Robinson, delivered a fine sermon. We also had some fine singing. We are glad to say that the church and Sunday school seem to be under a great change for a better revival this year, and we are praying to that end that much and lasting good may be done in the name of the Lord.

Everybody has a welcome invitation to come and help us worship.—H. F. McCary.

HELP "PREACHER" SALSER TO WIN POPULARITY CONTEST

Radio station WAPI, of Birmingham, in its sunrise program, is holding a contest to determine Birmingham's most popular policeman. "Preacher" Salser is in the contest.

The friends of this popular entertainer in Chilton Cohnty will be glad of the opportunity to vote for him. You can do it by signing your name to a list, which may be found at Dief's Service Station, the Chilton County News or The Union-Banner.

The votes must be in by February 7th. Every friend and admirer of "Preacher" Salser is urged to vote for him by signing a list.

Mr. Salser has been on the entertainment program of our county picnics in past years here. He is known to thousands of Chilton County folks, and all of them will be glad to help him get a prize.

Don't forget to sign a list at one of the places named above, and do it before February 7th.

C. W. A. REDUCTION SPURS DRIVE TO ADD TO FUNDS

Washington, Jan. 19—Seeing the time growing short before exhaustion of civil works employment funds, the administration put under way Friday a plan to expedite the President's recommendation to congress for over a billion dollars out of which the CWA would be financed until spring months.

Protests against dimunition of this job-making activity deluged Harry L. Hopkins, its administrator. With a liaison in effect between his office and the White House, it was apparent also that Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill intended to hasten the funds to be asked soon by Mr. Roosevelt.

The order cutting hours in cities to twenty-four a week and in rural districts to fifteen a week, Hopkins said, was the result of an 'original bad guess," as to the size of pay rolls and average pay.

"We estimated at the outset that the $500,000,000 of federal funds would last until February 15," he said.

"I estimated the average weekly pay rolls on the basis of an average of $12 a week per person. It ran that way for a while. Projects calling for unskilled workers got started first. Then the projects that called for skilled labor came in and the average wage last week was $14.37.

"This indicated we were running behind from $8,000,000 to $9,000,000 a week."

After present funds run out and when congress provides the money which the president plans to ask, Hopkins said there probably will be a new method of handling materials. Control of this phase may be kept in Washington.

Officials said Friday that no new Federal CWA projects would be undertaken, even though approved, until additional funds were obtained. The same hour reductions ordered for other projects, they said, would be applied to the federal projects.

As soon as new funds are available, employment will be returned to the thirty-hour-a-week basis. It is planned, however, he said, to reduce the civil works force 1,000,000 men every two weeks after February 15.

The whole civil works project, Hopkins said, is costing about $75,000,000 a week, of which the federal government has been paying $60,000,000.

The reduction of civil works labor brought immediate reaction on Capitol Hill, Senator Dill (Democrat, Washington) telling newspaper men the program would not only have to be continued but enlarged with greater inheritance taxes to pay the bill. He added the project should be made more or less permanent.

Official estimates Friday were that about 4,000,000 CWA workers in every section of the United States would draw pay envelopes.

All civil works job-giving throughout the country, where many applications for work were still being filed, was called to a halt. The only exception made was for replacing workers who had quit and been paid off.

One protest against the orders dispatched from CWA headquarters here was placed on file almost as soon as the move became known. The executive committe of the United States Conference of Mayors said in a statement:

"We have now come back to the thoroughly vicious dole system."

Indications were given at C. W. A. headquarters that had immediately retrenchments not been made exisiting funds might have been exhausted within little more than another week.

MARCUS L. HOSEY DIED

Marcus L. Hosey, age 82 years, died Tuesday night at his home in the pleasant Grove community west of Clanton. Burial was at Pleasant Grove Thursday, with Martin in charge. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. S. Johnson.

Mr. Hosey is survived by four sons, Jude, of Goodwater, Knox, of Tuscaloosa, Mark and V. L. of Clanton, and four daughters, Mrs. Roxie Jackson, Mrs. Mattie Pitts, Mrs. Lillie Wilson, Mrs. Minnie Mims.

PATES CHAPEL

Everybody remember Saturday night at 6:30 and Sunday morning at 11 are our regular preaching times. Everybody is invited and don't forget there is to be a bed spread given away to the one who bought the lucky ticket, and a prize for the one that sold the most tickets. The school kids are working for it. Everybody come on time Saturday night if you want to see who comes out lucky. Our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart, will preach. If you hear him one time, we won't have to beg you to come again. Rev. Lockhart has been with us nearly three years and has done great service for our church, and we would hate so bad to give him up. So come on, Pates Chapel folks, and let's do our best by him and see if there's a chance to keep him for five more years at least.

We had a pretty bad wreck in this community Saturday night. Bernie Whatley and Harvey Davenport were driving Tom Foshee's car just somewhat too fast and lost control of it and the thing hit the bank. It didn't kill anybody, but it's a wonder. The car was torn to pieces.

We are glad to report that Pates Chapel won the banner at the W. M. U. Association at Jemison Thursday of last week, for having the most present.

B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school are going along just fine, we are glad to report. Everybody come Sunday at 10 and Sunday night at 6:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rainwater and son and Mr. and Mrs. Vastine Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hayes were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs E. C. Hayes.

Misses Carrie Bolton, Lorene Cleckler, Mildred and Martha Hayes spent Sunday with Miss Emily Pate.

Miss Martha Hayes spent Saturday night with Miss Zemma Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ethridge Williams spent Saturday night with his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Vastine Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hayes have moved back home.

SPECIAL DAY AT WADE'S SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3RD

Mr. Shanks, representative of the H. G. Heinz Company, will be at Wade's Grocery Store all day Saturday of this week. He will give away samples of their soups, and there will be special prices on all products. The ladies of the vicinity are urged by Mr. Wade to visit their store Saturday and get these samples and learn more about Heinz products.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. S. M. YATES

On Thursday night, January 25th, at 10.30 o'clock, the spirit of God came into our midst and carried the beautiful spirit of Mrs. S. M. Yates to that home above. Words cannot express the sorrow in our hearts to have to give her up, but we can only say "thy will be done," and let us live to be ready to meet her when Jesus sees fit to call us home.

Her life was a light that will live here in the years to come. She was a devoted Christian and worker for her Lord, and a loyal wife and mother.

Oh, how we know she suffered, but she knew she could not stay with us, and was ready to meet her saviour. She bore her sufferings without complaint. She had been blind for about four years, but she always had a smile and a word of cheer for everyone. She was 86 years of age November 10. Her children were blessed in having mother with them this long.

There is a vacant place here that can never be filled, but there is one more crowned in heaven. I know there was rejoicing among the angels when she entered the pearly gates above.

She leaves to mourn her loss, four children. They are: Mrs. Joe Thomas, Mrs. Mose Thomas, Mr. S. M. Yates and Mr. Willie Yates; ten grandchildren and 5 great grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends.

She was laid to rest at Chestnut Creek church of which she was a member. The Rev. J. D. Hughes and Rev. Willie Jones officiated. Martin was in charge.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. MARY JONES

Mrs. Mary Jones departed this life on January 18. She was a deconess of Corinth church, and had been for years. She joined the Missionary Baptist church in 1888. For 46 years she was a faithful member, who lived above reproach. She always attended church unless providentially hindered. Her home was the preacher's home and she always made him feel welcome.

If there was sickness in the community you would find her there. She was like the good woman we read about in God's word, "She did what she could." She was always ready to teach her Sunday school class and to do any other good work she was called upon to do. No one can fill her place. She was successful in getting her children to follow her in the good and right way. Now she has gone to her great reward and we must bow in humble submission to the master's will and try with all our might to imitate her Christian life and to build up the church she loved so much. Her pastor for 24 years,—J. D. Hughes.

IN MEMORY OF REV. F. A. GIBSON

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom, has called from among us our dearly beloved brother, neighbor and paster, and

Whereas, he was a faithful servant of the Gospel, having served since manhood until just a few years before his death; was honored and respected by his, The Alabama Conference, and

Whereas he had led a courageous life

Be it resolved: That, we who are yet living take not of such a worthy life, that we, through courage, inspiration and devotion, which sustained him, shall not be satisfied with less than putting forth every effort to bring about those great principles for which he stood; and that we may so live that when we come to die it may be said of us as of him, "Our loss is heaven's gain."

Be it further resolved, that we extend to his wife our help and sympathies.

Under authority of the Fourth quarterly conference in session at Concord, Chilton Circuit.—Signed W. L. Williams, S. A. Henley, J. Hudson Williams, Committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. John Burnett visited Mr. and Mrs. Barney Wilkins Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. F. Devaughn, William and Lela Devaughn visited Mrs. Lula Jones Sunday.

Everyone remember preaching and Sunday school Sunday. Come and bring someone with you.

VERMONT SCHOOL

The reception given by the Vermont P.-T. A., honoring the Isabella High School P.-T. A. on Tuesday night, January 23, was highly successful and gratifying in all respects. Twenty-eight members from Isabella and forty-seven parents from Vermont and a host of young people were attendants to the entertainment. Devotional exercises were conducted by Mr. Johnson, following this was the presentation of the minutes and roll call by the secretary and treasurer. After a few preliminary announcements by our president, Mr. Johnson then briefly summarized the worth-while features of aligning ourselves with the state and national P.-T. A. Then a rising vote was given by our membership as to whether we would join or not. It was unanimous that we join at once. So our secretary and treasurer was requested to collect and send in our dues at once. Thus we are in line now to reap the benefits offered by our state and national association. Following the business order came a short but keenly interesting program by a group of the students. Then came the games of the occasion. This was another one of the pleasure giving features of the evening. After the games the refreshments committee chimed in with their contribution to the evening's festivities. A nice large plate of baked chicken, salad, dressing and all the other trimmings, served with either hot cocoa or coffee and cake. During this feature Miss Grant rendered a choice selection of popular and classical songs on the piona. Adjournment was then declared, everyone leaving for home feeling much better and far happier for having attended.

The. Jr. I and Jr. II classes, under the direction of the faculty are making final plans for the social to be given at the home of Mr. W. W. Klinner, honoring the Jr. III class. Lively games and exciting contests will be given to round out the evening's entertainments. The social will be given on next Saturday night, February 3. Only those who are members of the Jr High school departments are requested to be present.

Our P.-T. A. meets next Wednesday night, February 7th, at 6:30, at the school building. All members are especially urged to be present as we have several matters of importance to discuss. These were ommitted at our last regular meeting due to the other features of the program.

Superintendent Little was a visitor to our school last Thursday morning.

Attendance has been gradually getting back to normal the past ten days. We trust all danger of measles has passed, and no others will be detained from their school work.

The boys Jr. basket ball team is getting in some real good practice at recess and after school hours. Watch them go three years from now.

The girls basket ball team expects to play Mt. Pleasant team at an early date. A definite announcement will be made in next week's paper.

A cold blast from the north has almost depleted our supply of wood. Those few who have not brought any fuel this school year are requested to take at least enough interest to provide fuel for a few days anyway.

Think what kind of progress your child will make in his studies while sitting in a damp, chilly room.

Miss Pardue met with the 4-H club girls Monday, January 29. There were 21 present. They are doing some fine work. They have gotten organized, and their officers are: President, Francis Kendrick; vice president, Lizzie Mae Lewis; secretary, Mary Owen; reporter, Frances Kendrick.

We deeply regret the loss of our little school mates, Loyd and Carroll Smith, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Smith. They are moving to Geneva County.

Folks, if you want to scream with laughter, just keep up with our school news and watch for announcements of the staging of a burlesque debate. The debating teams have not yet been chosen, neither has the subject, but we have a wide choice of both and we hope to put on the funniest and most laughable program that has yet been given at Vermont Junior High.

The Jr. III class will organize this week. A class president, historian, valedictorian and prophet will be selected.

Miss Manning spent the past week end with her parents at Isabella. The other members of the faculty made a business trip to Clanton Saturday, and Sunday they attended the morning and evening services at Antioch church.

Examinations are over for the fourth month. Some have made good records, some have made average, while some have not made so good. The latter includes those who have been absent from class so much. We wish you better luck this new month.

Several mmebers of the school are to be congratulated for their spirit, their interest, and their pride, in our new building. They have been bringing in beautiful flowers and pictures to adorn the interior of the class rooms.

MRS. CHRISTIANNE SMITH BURIED LAST FRIDAY A.M.

Funeral services for Mrs. Christianne Smith, age 66, widow of the late Dudley Smith, who died fifteen years ago, were held from the home two miles north of Clanton last Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. W. S. Cox and Elder Huffman officiated. Four songs were sung by the Clanton quartet. The remains were carried by Spigener Funeral Home to old Macedonia below Lay Dam and buried. Mrs. Smith died just after midnight Wednesday night.

The deceased is survived by nine children, 3 sons and 6 daughters. They are: J. Walter Smith of Jemison, Robert G. Smith of Clanton, Virgil G. Smith of Clanton; Mrs. T. E. Williamson of Clanton, Mrs. W. W. Jones of Clanton, Mrs. A. D. Blalock of Anniston, Mrs. Tommie Patrick of Clanton, Miss Leila Belle Smith of Clanton, and Miss Ruth Kate Smith of Sylacauga.

Three sisters survive: Mrs. John Goodgame of Little Rock, Ark., Mrs. Fannie Dykes of Hale Center, Texas; and Mrs. Jim McKee of Clanton.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Feb 1.—The state institute of the Alabama Federation of Women's Club was held at the University of Alabama January 31 and February 1. This was a training school for Alabama club women and each person in attendance was given a certifcate.

Among the prominent speakers were Mrs. A. E. Morgan, wife of the chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority; Mrs. Percy B. Pennybacker, Austin, Texas, prominent national leader; and a number of University of Alabama professors.

Blackfriar Players of the University will present the Avon Players in "Romeo and Juliet" here on February 5, it was announced by T. Earl Johnson, director of dramatics. The Avon Players will give two performances. The comedy is to be given in a matinee, while "Othello" will be presented Monday evening.

The Avon Players are considered one of the leading Shakespearean companies now traveling.

A marked increase of heart disease diabetes, cancer, appendicitis, and such diseases within the next decade or two, may indicate physical deteration of modern man, in the opinion of Dr. R. M. Harper, University statistican.

Lack of exercise among urban people, which is being rapidly extended to suburban and rural arears through increased use of machinery, is the cause of this deterioration, Dr. Harper believes. Declining birth-rates in the United States and other civilized countries also was noted by Dr. Harper. This may be attributed to the improvements in medical science.

Dr. Septima Smith, professor of parasitology at the University, has returned from a collecting trip in Florida, where she was able to secure valuable additions for her department.

The lecture by Amelie Earhart Putnam, which was scheduled for the University, has been postponed, it was recently announced. Mrs. Putnam contracted a severe case of laryngitis, and has been compelled to concel all lectures on her contemplated tour of the South.

Most of the officers attached to the Reserve Officers Training Corps at University unit will be detailed for summer camp service, it was announced by Maj. E. H. Underwood recently. Maj. Underwood is to be in charge of the R. O. T. C. camp at Ft. Barrancas, Fla., according to tentative plans.

Camps will be held from June 7 to July 18. Officers attached to the University unit will be deailed for duty at Ft. McClellan, and Ft. Benning as well as at Ft. Barrancas.

TRAINING SCHOOL AT CHESTNUT CREEK HELD FOR S. S. TEACHERS

A training school for the officers and teachers of the Sunday school at Chestnut Creek church at Cooper will be held beginning Thursday night of this week. Also a training program will be held in connection with this school for B. Y. P. U. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. Saturday and Sunday are also our regular preaching days and a full attendance is urged by the Pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones.

PLYMOUTH'S HERE TRY THE 1934 Ride

DON'T ask us how it was done! But one of the biggest, safest, most luxurious automobiles you'll see this year, is in the lowest priced group!

It's on our showroom floor right now. It has a lot of things you'd not expect in a low price car. Especially its performance—we call it The 1934 Plymouth ride.

We want everybody in town to arrange to take this ride. To learn what Individual Front Wheel Springing, plus Patented Floating Power Engine Mountings means to comfort and riding smoothness!

And this Plymouth has plenty more to talk about . . . 77 horsepower, hydraulic brakes, safety-steel body, rigid-X-frame and valve seat inserts.

Come in—arrange for a ride. It's an experience you will be glad to know about.

BETHSALEM NEWS

Our singing society met Sunday with a fairly good attendance, but we want a better attendance next time. We had visitors from Pleasant Valley and some from Indian Grave, which we were proud to have with us, and we invite you back again and bring someone with you every fourth Sunday evening.

Our Sunday school meets at 10:00 o'clock Sunday morning. We had a good attendance, and a good lesson. We want to invite each and everyone back every Sunday and bring someone with you, and let's make it a bigger and better Sunday school.

We are proud to know that the health of this community is fairly good at present, and hoping it to be better.

Our B. Y. P. U. is progressing nicely. We have a good attendance and are hoping that those that have not been attending will come back again soon.

We meet every Sunday night at 6:30 o'clock. Everybody come and be with us that can. We had some visitors last Sunday night. We invite them back again.

Remember our preaching days are every third Saturday and Sunday in each month. Everybody come and be with us on these days.—Just a Reader.

SUNSHINE NEWS

Our Sunday school is still fine. We had one hundred and four on roll last Sunday. We are proud of our Sunday School and invite all who can to come out every Sunday morning at ten o'clock.

Services at this place Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night were enjoyed by a large crowd. We had some visitors from Atlanta, Ga., Montgomery and other places. We inivte them all back. We also had Sister Maefield with us Sunday and sure were glad to see her bright face and hear her kind words.

We greatly miss Mr. Marion Easterling from our midst, as he was our pianist. He is studying music in Tennessee.

A wedding of much interest took place at this church Saturday night when Mr. Toy Baker and Miss Essie Easterling were united in matrimony by the pastor, Rev. E. J. Orange. A large crowd witnessed the ceremony and wished them many happy years together. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Baker and the bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Easterling.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley glass and children from Clanton spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barrett.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Easterling visited friends in Stumps Hills Sunday.

Mrs. Berry Bice visited her sick mother, Mrs. Moates, near Clanton, Sunday.

We have preaching here every two weeks and prayer services every Thursday night, Sunday and Sunday night. We are planning on having the new benches for the church within the next two weeks. We want to thank everyone who has put forth a helping hand in this church. May the Lord bless everyone, si our prayer.

J. M. Smith, of Thorsby, manager of Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association, was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

Concord - Billingsley

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit, composed of the counties of Autauga, Chilton, and Elmore, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries in May and June, 1934.

Your vote and influence will be appreciated in the coming Democratic primaries.

Respectfully,
J. B. ATKINSON.

(Paid political adv., by J. B. Atkinson, Clanton, Alabama.)

OAK GROVE

We beg your pardon. Last week we announced a womanless wedding at Oak Grove school building. It was an error and by this means we take pleasure in correcting our mistake. The date has been set for Friday night, February 2, 1934. The wedding procession will begin at 7:30. During the time before the wedding, we will have negro stunts and spirituals. If you want to laugh until you can't, be there for the comical entertainment. After the wedding ceremony has been performed by Bro. Northcutt, the remaining social hour will consist of a fashion show. The wedding party will be the contestants in the show. A prize will be awarded to the lady who is best dressed. The entire audience will act as judges. So don't fail to be there at 7:30 p.m. A small admission of 10 cents will be charged. You and your friends have a cordial invitation to the wedding.

A crowd of the younger set enjoyed a social given by Miss Flora Martin at her home Saturday evening.

We had a large crowd at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. Our B. Y. P. U. has been on the incline since the new year came in. Here's hoping we keep it this way. During the business session we made plans to attend our country crusade rally on February 11. Don't forget our church services next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Let's give our pastor a large crowd. Everybody come to B. Y. P. U. Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. We need your presence and help.

Miss Gladys Mae Cobb has been ill at her home the past few days. We wish her a speedy recovery so she can resume her studies at school.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Edwards from Bessemer are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sutley.

Quite a number attended the singing at Center Hill Sunday, reporting a good singing.

Don't forget the singing at Oak Grove next Sunday evening. Everyone come and bring someone else with you.

UNCLE BUD AND HIS BOLL WEEVILS AT JEMISON 2ND

Coming with a newer and better show than ever before, Uncle Bud and His Boll Weevils, of radio and stage fame, will be presented at Jemison High School Friday night, February 2, at 7:30 o'clock. Jemison High School P.-T. A. sponsors the show with admission charge of 15 cents for children and 25 cents for adults.

This outstanding group of entertainers render instrumental, vocal numbers, comedy, buck dancing and black face dialogue. They give you an hour and a half of the most fun you ever had.

The P.-T. A. of Jemison will appreciate your attendance.

HOG PROCESSING TAX EFFECTIVE

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue advises that the hog processing tax rate beginning February 1, 1934, will be $1.50 per hundred pounds, and on and after March 1st, 1934, $2.25 per hundred pounds, based on the live weight of the hog at the time of processing.

PASTURES

At this time of the year when farmers are cleaning off fence rows and pushing back the edges of the field, they are naturally thinking about the planning for the year's crops.

There is one crop that most farmers fail to think seriously about until it is too late. That is a good summer pasture.

After we are through cultivating our crops we turn our mules in the pasture and in a few weeks the pasture grasses give out. There are two reasons for pastures "playing out" in the summer: 1. We increase the number of livestock on the pastures in the summer. 2. We fail to prepare in the spring for the dry summer.

It is impossible to have good summer pastures without some preparation in the spring. There are a few things a farmer may do now to increase the grazing capacity of his pasture during the summer and early fall.

1. Cut the bushes and shade off and ditch low places. If this is done on most low land, carpet grass will soon form a good sod and make good grazing.

2. Cut bushes and shade off the hill sides and terrace. Terraces will stop washing and the natural growth of grass will be much better.

3. Make the surface smooth so that one may use a mower to control the weeds.

4. Plant grass seed. For low lands plant four pounds of carpet grass and six pounds of Dallas grass per acre. For upland plant Bermuda sod and 25 pounds of common lespedeza per acre.

Good results may be had by sowing the seed and dragging with a spike harrow. I have seen farmers plow furrows with a narrow scooter about 18 inches apart then sow the seed and draw with a harrow or brush, and get good results. The land need not be plowed. All that is necessary is to get the seed covered enough so that heavy rains won't wash them away or drift them to low places and prevent a regular stand.

A good sod of Bermuda may be had by plowing furrows with a scooter plow about two feet apart, then cross plow so that you have the land checked. Place a bunch of Bermuda sod where the furrows cross and press it down with your foot. When sodding with Bermuda be sure to get the surface smooth before you plant the grass. It is necessary to have the surface smooth in order that one may run a mower to control weeds.

If a farmer is to pasture land for only one or two years he would not want Bermuda grass on the land. The best thing to do in this case is to plant lespedeza alone. Plant about 25 to 30 pounds per acre. This will gave good grazing during the summer and fall months. Lespedeza will reseed itself from year to year.

Get your seed and be ready to plant during the last ten days of February. For further information see the county agent.

SERVICES AT NEW SALEM

Next Sunday morning at New Salem Baptist church the pastor will begin a series of sermons on "The Sunday School and the Church." The subject next Sunday will be "What the Master said.". All members and friends of the church are urged to be present at both morning and evening services.—G. H. Carroll, Pastor.

PLEASANT GROVE—ROUTE 7

There will be a singing at this place next Sunday evening at two o'clock. The Christian Harmony and Sacred Harp books will be used. All lovers of music are invited to be present.

These books are like the Bible, they never grow old. Remember the date and place.—N. H. Culp.

NEW HARMONY NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Jackson and Mrs. Lester Coody are on the sick list this week, but we wish for them a speedy recovery.

The singing at Pleasant Grove last Sunday evening was very good. We had lots of visitors and were very glad they come and welcome them back any time.

Mrs. Nora Cooper has quilted out a new "windmill" quilt last week. Mrs. Ida Cooper and Willie Pearl Henley helped Tuesday afternoon and Sara Bates helped Wednesday afternoon.

We are all going to help Mrs. Beatrice Headley Wednesday evening of this week to quilt a quilt and to piece some squares on another.

Our workings are lots of fun and are of some value also. We are just ladies, but as we sit around our quilts we discuss other things besides just what our neighbors do and say. Yet we are just natural and have to do that too. Some talk chickens, some cows, and some crops and some gardens. As for me, my pet project is gardening.

I have gone to the woods and raked and hauled old rotted leaves and straw and brought it home and filled a cow stall and am going to leave it there until spring. And then with the addition of the fertilizer it absorbs between now and (I'll say) the week before Easter Sunday, I believe I will have a fertilizer superior to just common compost or guano either.

Mr. Jadie Culp has built a brooder house and bought 200 baby chicks, some are over two weeks old and are doing well.

Mr. Willie Cooper has repaired his old brooder house and installed a rock heater instead of his regular oil brooder and has bought 200 baby chicks. They are just a few days old but look like they are ging to do fine.

Everybody has had their cows tested and not a one in our community has had T.B. I also believe if every individual in this community had an ex-ray picture made it would be found that we are as free of T. B. germs as our cows. For everyone raises windows and leaves their doors open, except nights like Sunday and Monday nights; cans fruit by the hundred and has learned lots about health that people did not know fifty years ago.

This community is glad to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Willie Pearce, who have moved to Mr. Grady Culp's place.

Annie Lee Bates spent the week end with Misses Caudell Chapman and Mary Owens.

Mr. W. H. Headley and family spent a few hours at the home of Mr. Grady Culp Friday night. Mr. T. G. (Grady) Culp has installed a new radio.

There will be a singing at Pleasant Grove Church next Sunday evening in the Sacred Harp and Christian Harmony song books. Everybody come and bring all the books yau have of this sort.

NOTICE!

Mrs. W. B. (Nora) Cooper wishes to take this opportunity to express to the people everywhere, who helped her to raise her $20 for the parsonage, her thanks and best wishes.

Mr. Joe Mims of Clanton won the bed spread she sold chances on. Several dollars were raised that way, while others just contributed some and she gave some herself. The $20 went to buy windows and doors for the parsonage.

May this and each succeeding pastor, as he enters the portals of the parsonage, or looks out the windows, breathe a fervent prayer for Mrs Nora Cooper and all who contributed to this cause.

IN MEMORY OF M. J. PARRISH

On January 28, 1934 when all nature was hushed and still and the morning hours were so quiet and lonely, a gentle voice from above whispered "Come" and the beautiful spirit of Rev. M. J. Parrish was ushered into another world. An all-wise, omnipotent father, in His merciful providence deemed it best that his suffering cease.

It was with sorrowing hearts we watched him go, but with deep conviction that it was the Master's will, not ours.

Bro. Parrish had been in declining health for some time, his sufferings very acute, although he never complained, but bore it with that Christian fortitude that characterized his entire life.

We, as a church at Refuge, Clanton, Ala., Route 1, meet to pay tribute to the memory of our beloved expastor and founder, the hour is poignant with tender memories.

Our sorrow over his going away is blended with a sense of exaltation. One who so interpreted and used the privileges and relations of life as he did is assured not alone of blissful immortality in heaven but an endless rememberance here below. The animating principle of Bro. Parrish's life was the recognition of his stewardship, and in full surrender to the cause of Christ, he laid his all upon the altar of devotion.

Endowed with a magnetic personality, a vigorous mind richly stored with knowlege, a voice whose eloquence mightily stirred his hearers, he inspired others and led them to greater heights of vision and service.

He longed to share with all people the beauty and joy and consolation of Christianity. His consecration, zeal and noble generosity furthered every phase of the kingdom's work. So wide was the sphere of his service, so manifold the positions of responsibility he held that only in heavenly records may they be known.

He was born December 30, 1851. His first wife preceeded him to the grave many years ago. He leaves a second wife and a number of children and a host of friends and relatives to mourn his passing.

The churches of this and adjoining counties have lost one of their pillars of strength in Rev. Parrish. He fought a good fight. He kept the faith. He finished the course.

Funeral services were held at Concord Monday morning at 11:00 a.m. S. J. Ezell of Clanton officiated and Spigener was in charge.

Therefore, be it resolved, that we, as a church, extend to the sorrowing wife and family our love and sympathy, assuring them that we share their bereavement and remind them that "He who tempers the wind to the shorn lamb," looks down with infinite compassion upon the bereaved in this hour of sorrows, and will fold the arms of his love and protection about those who put their trust in Him.

Whereas, God has called this faithful servant to his eternal reward and

Whereas by his life and work we have been immeasureably helped, our horizons broadened, our spiritual powers vitalized and our capacities for service multiplied;

Therefore, be it besolved, hat we, the members of the Refuge Baptist church, deem it a sacred privilege to have had him as pastor and founder. His faith, his strong loyalty and profound theology translated the Bible into daily life. He broke the bread of life to us so that our souls were nourished and we were made "strong" in the Lord in the power of His might. As he interpreted to us the Master's "follow me" so do we hereby pledge ourselves to follow him in our pursuit of a wonderful life.

As he led us to drink from the living fountain, so may we ever refresh oursleves from the spirit of God's love.—Rev. M. Lockhart, Pastor.

RUMMAGE SALE THIS WEEK END

Circle No. 1 of the Clanton Baptist church will have a rummage sale Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. It will be held in the building of Mr. Wade next to the railroad.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

We had a nice crowd at Sunday school last Sunday and were very glad to have them present and hope to have more next Sunday.

Several from here went to Pilgrims Rest to preaching Sunday.

The Pilgrim Rest singing class say they are coming to sing before long. So come and be with us.

Now! Ease Sore Throat Instantly!

Remember: Only Medicine Helps Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes!

It requires medicine—like BAYER ASPIRIN- to do these things! That is why throat specialists throughout America are prescribing this BAYER gargle in place of old-time ways.

Be careful, however, that you get real BAYER Aspirin for this purpose. For they dissolve completely enough to gargle without leaving irritating particles.

MORE ABOUT C. W. A.

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me space in your paper to write a few words about the C.W.A. work?

Oh yes, the people need to get some of the officers in hot water so they will divide the work up equally. It might be better if they were in boiling water. Well, how does the county get by at a dollar a day when the rest of them have been getting $1.80 a day.

I believe the president's intention was for all the laboring class of people to get their share of the work. But do they get it? No. They do not. The ones that do not need it is the ones that are getting the work. No, I do not blame the man for working. If an investigation was made, I believe it would be divided up.

About two weeks ago we heard that they were going to cut the men half of the time and put some more men to work, but have they done it? No one up around Jemison has got a card to go to work.

People of Chilton County, do you believe this work has been carried out right For one, I do not, and I will do all that I can to see that it is carried out right.

Well I have been reading in the paper where there is more than myself that feels like the work has not been divided up equally. For instance Mr. Marlar is one of the soldier boys and he can't get it. I am asking the officers why don't they carry out the work right instead of the way they are carrying it out. Then it might be a help to all.

Well understand I am not writing this because I need the work so bad, it is because there are some people around me that have not got the proper kind of food, and have not got clothes to change in. How can they make a crop? They have been looking to get a job ever since they changed the work, but they have not got it yet. No, I guess not.

I am writing and asking the citizens of Chilton County how many of them are willing to help make a thorough investigation about this work to see that it is carried out right. Well I do want the people of this county to be treated like they were white then maybe they can get back on their feet again. The people are paying back this money every day. They are having to pay tax and this is paying it back.

As I am writing this letter there is a woman going around wanting to know if you want a sanitary toilet built. She says that the government will build it for you if you will furnish the lumber. Well, if we could buy the lumber to build the toilet, they would not need any jobs.

Well Roosevelt is sending a gravy train down here and maybe the poor farmers will get to lick the greasy spots where the rest have already licked. We are paying for the gravy but we are not getting any of it.

I am asking the officers how long can this work last? The government is now borrowing money to run this C.W.A. work until May. Well we might live fat if they would furnish us meat, eggs and butter.

Well, I notice in the paper where the Man in the Moon was throwing it at me as if I were a Democrat but God knows I have been a Republican all of my life. I was even rocked in a Republican cradle. This is the way I feel about this work.—Yours truly, H. O. Little, Jemison, Ala.

CLANTON SCOUTS MEET

Troop No. 47, Clanton, met Monday night at the Clanton Baptist church. It was mighty cold but a few boys braved the weather.

The meeting was opened with the pledge of allegiance. Then some of the boys boxed, but the fun came when Mr. Smith, then Mr. Sweat boxed Sam Johnson. We played skunk tag and then capture the flag. The meeting was then closed with the scout oath.

If any boys over 12 years of age want to join the Boy Scouts, see Mr. Louie Smith or come to the Baptist church on Monday night.—Guy Alred, Scribe.

HIGHLAND NEWS

A large crowd attended Sunday school here Sunday. Everyone come back next Sunday and bring someone with you.

Quite a large crowd from here attended the singing at Pleasant Grove Sunday. They reported a fine singing.

Is This Too Good for Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven major helps in one—the best helps known to science. It is made for quick relief, for safety.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist guarantees it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known. (3dv.)

MRS. HARLEY OF CHICAGO DIED HERE WEDNESDAY

Mrs. Millie Harley, age 62 years, of 6938 Jeffery Avenue, Chicago, died in Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton at an early hour Wednesday morning. She had been sick in the hospital with pneumonia for a little over a week.

The body was taken in charge by J. Mell Martin and Sons, and shipped to her home in Chicago Wednesday night. Accompanying the body on its return home was her sister, Mrs. W. R. Scott, also of Chicago, who had been here with Mrs. Harley for the past week.

A week ago last Sunday Mrs. Harley was taken ill here as she was enroute to Miami, Florida, with some friends. She went to the hospital, and other members of the party continued on to Florida. Her sister, Mrs. Scott, was notified of her illness, and came to Clanton, remaining here with her, and returning to Chicago with the body.

McCrossin Takes Pittman's Place

Mr. R. L. Pittman, director of Civil Works Administration in Chilton County, has received a promotion to the position of Field Director of the Civil Works Administration of Alabama, it was announced here Tuesday. He will leave here Friday of this week to assume his larger duties, and will be located either in Birmingham or Montgomery.

Succeeding Mr. Pittman here, the duties of Director of Civil Works in Chilton County will be assumed by Mr. E. J. McCrossin, of Birmingham, who arrived in Clanton Tuesday. He has been busy, with the assistance of Mr. Pittman, in familiarizing himself with the details of the position, preparatory to taking the helm when Mr. Pittman departs Friday.

Mr. McCrossin is a graduate engineer with experience in different types of construction work. He has been engineer examiner for the Public Works Administration in Montgomery.

The work of Mr. Pittman as director of Civil Works in Chilton County has been a splendid accomplishment at organization and performance. He has instituted the widespread program upon a splendid basis. Altogether he has made many friends here who regret to see him leave, while at the same time they are glad to see him get a deserved promotion to higher duties.

His successor, Mr. McCrossin, is welcomed to the field by everybody. He will have united upport and hearty accord of workers, assistants, and the public in helping to keep our splendid C.W.A. program pushing forward to successful accomplishments.

Miss Peggy Mullins, of Judson College, was the week end guest of Miss Helen Moore.

THORSBY INSTITUTE NEWS

Saturday night there was an open meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society of Thorsby Institute. The French classes, under Mr. Maddox, gave the program, consisting of three essays and a play, "Cendrillon" which translated is "Cinderella." Devotion consisted of the first Psalm and the Lord's Prayer, both of which were read in French by Phares Raybon. Those in the play were: Cendrillon, Linnie Bell Reinhardt; Prince, Phares Raybon; Javotte, Nelle Tracey; Charlotte, Ruth Foss; Stepmother, Mary Sue Porter; Godmother, Ida Lou Pate; King, C. B. Jean; Queen, Edith Foss; Page, Jane Billingsley; Coachman, Sam Bentley; and the following children represented the horses and footmen: Imogene Lowery, Peggy Mims Franklin, Elizabeth Jean Collins, Marjorie Bentley, Mary Margaret Mims, Jack Sorrell, Calvin Pate, Frank Porter, Fred Honeycutt, John Floyd Mims, Billy Childers. All who took part in the play were members of the French classes, except the coachman, Sam Bentley, and the children. The play was acted in such a way that if one did not understand French, he could understand for the most part, what was going on. It was very much enjoyed.

The next open meeting of the Literary Society will be in March, when a debate is expected to be the main part of the program.

February 17 at three o'clock in the aftrnoon, the music department, directed by Miss Helen Phillips, will give a music recital to which everyone is invited.

Chitlon Cotton Plan Will Go Over O.K.

According to County Agent, J. W. Fant, indications are that Chilton County will go over the top in its cotton acreage reduction campaign for 1934-35. So far, it is stated by Mr. Fant, 2,360 contracts have been signed, with approximately 14,160 acres rented to the government.

Below are listed some of the farmers of the county who have signed for large acreage:

Miss Blossom Crumpton, 219 acres; Mrs. Sophia Jones, 50 acres; Mrs. C. Fenn Jones, 81 acres; H. F. Downs, 53 acres; William Walker, 47 acres; B. F. Higgins, 44 acres; J. B. Hicks, 43 acres; J. J. Jones, 40 acres; D. O. Manning, 37 acres; W. J. Easterling, 36 acres.

IN MEMORY OF DEAR MOTHER

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their sympathy in our bereavement during the illness and death of our dear mother, Mrs. Mary Jane Jones. She was called from her earthly home to the mansion she had prepared and is now gathering the beautiful grain which she had sown. Her greatest pleasure on earth was to be in some work for her Lord and Master. We feel sure that her labors were not in vain.

Her sickness and pain was endured with all patience possible. I have heard her express her desire that she wanted all her suffering here on earth and not after her death. But oh how we miss her presence with us. For she was a mother that never forgot us children when any of us were sick. Oh how I have missed her this week with my own dear chi'dren. Yes, mother is already missed.

But how well do we remember her caresses of long long ago in our childhood. Bright were the joys, when I sat on mother's knees when she would press her dear lips on our aching forehead. And the sweet hymns she would sing while at the daily work at home. Oh how we loved her, no human tongue can tell. We said good bye to mother, but we never said farewell. It was only a few days ago, we can not forget that sad day, when God called her away to live with Him above.

We know that she is resting in Paradise above. We hope some day to meet her in joy, peace and love. No more on earth we see her face. Her sweet voice we hear no more. But only let us live to meet her on that bright and sunny shore.

The death angels visited her on January 18, 1834. Mrs. Mary J. Jones, wife of Mr. E. L. Jones.—Written by her daughter, Mrs. Maggie Birdett.

BAPTIST MINISTERS CONFERENCE

The Baptist Ministers Conference of the Unity and Chilton County Associations will meet at the Clanton Baptist church Monday morning, February 5th, at 10 o'clock.

Devotional will be conducted by Rev. W. E. Robinson.

"The Hundred Thousand Club," will be discussed by Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorsby.

Rev. G. G. Williams will discuss "Ministerial Problems."

All ministers and Baptist workers are invited to attend this meeting.

MISS ORA DEVAUGHN HURT IN ACCIDENT

Miss Ora Devaughn, daughter of Mr. Hiram Devaughn, was painfully hurt in an accident last Sunday night on the highway south of Clanton.

A large party of young people were returning from a B. Y. P. U. meeting at Friendship. They were sitting on a flat bed truck, when it was sideswiped by a big freight truck.

Miss Devaughn was the only one hurt. She was carried to the hospital in Clanton, and is reported doing nicely now.

Hard Of Hearing

BRACKIN'S New improved hearing device costs only $10.00 cash. No batteries, no cords, very light and compact. Positively your money refunded in full if not satisfied after 15 day trial. If you are hard of hearing, please see Dr. Goldner, next door to Dr. Hayes office in Exchange Hotel in Clanton, Monday, February 4th. Get free demonstration.

453 Men Added To C.W.A. Work

According to information given out by the director of Civil Works in Chilton County Tuesday, 453 men have been added to the quota, making a total of 1,330 workers now employed, exclusive of those on Federal projects, etc.

This, it is stated, makes it possible to operate fifteen local projects in two shifts of fifteen hours each per week.

There are a total of thirty active projects under supervision of C.W.A. in the county at present. These include the airport at Clanton, all drainage projects, all of the school buildings that have been approved. Also the roads from Clanton to Billingsley, Clanton to Higgins Ferry, Verbena to Elmore and Verbena to Rockford.

The safety department of the local C. W. A. has issued warnings concerning the danger of attempted landings or take-offs from the airport before the field is finished. Notices have been posted that no voluntary landing or take-off will be permitted until the field has been inspected and approved by the State Adviser in Aviation.

Mr. Chas. Gulledge, safety director of C.W.A. in the county, will be glad to advise with any group, school, or other organization, in developing approved safety plans or devices that may be needed. This may be made to include first aid suggestions. The director of C.W.A. is desirous that the public have full knowledge of the assistance and advantages that are offered through the safety program.

THE FIRST NEW CHEVROLET

Dr. H. G. Franklin, of Thorsby, has the honor, distinction and personal pleasure of being the first purchaser of a new 1934 Chevrolet passenger car in this territory. He bought it from Hayes Chevrolet Co., of Clanton and it was delivered to him last Saturday by salesman, Luther E. Foshee.

Dick Hayes says the satisfaction which this new Chevrolet has brought to Dr. Franklin will be conferred upon many other deserving motorists in the near future.

JOHNNY PLIER IS NOT GUILTY

Former City Clerk Acquitted On Charge of Embezzling Public Funds

"Not guilty" was the verdict of the jury in Circuit Court of Chilton County last week in the case of Johnny Plier, former City Clerk of Clanton, charged with embezzlement.

The case has been hanging on the docket of the Circuit Court for several years. Time after time it had been called up, only to meet with some sort of obstruction, and get a continuance order.

Some months ago Judge Tate gave notice that the case would be tried when next called, regardless of objections. Therefore, it was put on for first order last Monday morning, and the wheels started to grind. A long list of witnesses were summoned to testify. The jury was drawn. Through Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the case occupied the court, until the verdict of the jury was received late Thursday afternoon.

A few other cases were disposed of by the court last week, as follows:

Arch Hall, charged with manufacturing whiskey; nol pros.

Joe Miller, charged with grand larceny; discharged upon payment of the cost.

Marcus Selman, charged with manufacturing whiskey; plead guilty and sentenced 18 months to two years.

L. C. Darby, charged with assault to murder. Jury and verdict of guilty of assault and battery; sentenced 20 days for fine and 108 days for cost. Sentence of three months additional punishment was suspended pending good behavior.

The case of Walter Quarles, negro, of Verbena, charged with murder in the first degree, was continued.

Hiawatha Woodson, charged with carrying concealed weapon. Plead guilty and fined $50 and cost; sentenced 20 days for fine and 62 days for cost. Sentenced three months for additional punishment.

Theodore Arquer, charged with violating prohibition law. Plead guilty and fined $50 and cost. Sentenced to 20 days for fine and 53 days for cost. Sentence of 6 months additional punishment was suspended pending good behavior.

James Clyde Brooks, charged with violating prohibition law. Plead guilty and fined $50 and cost. Sentenced 20 days for fine and 56 days for cost. Sentence of six months additional punishment suspended pending good behavior.

Charlie Kirkland, charged with violating prohibition law. Fined $100 and cost.

J. C. Goodson, charged with shooting firearm into house. Plead guilty and fined $100 and cost. Sentenced 30 days for fine and 46 days for cost, and six months for additional punishment.

Hiawatha Woodson, charged with violating prohibition law. Jury and verdict of guilty. Fined $50 and cost. Sentenced 20 days for fine and 76 days for cost.

Alfred Miller, charged with transporting five gallons of whiskey. Jury and verdict of guilty. Sentenced for 14 days for fine and 20 days for cost.

$44,876 Cash For Cotton Contracts

County Agent is Delivering Checks to Farmers This Week

County Agent, J. W. Fant, this week announces that his office has received cotton option checks for Chilton County farmers to the amount of $44,876.30, covering a total of 2,243 bales of cotton. These checks represent the amount due farmers on their option contracts of last year in connection with the plow-up campaign.

Mr. Fant is now engaged in delivering the option checks in his hands. He was at Verbena Tuesday, Thorsby Wednesday and will be at his office in Clanton Thursday. On Friday he will be at Maplesville, and back at his office Saturday. Farmers who are to get checks have been notified by letter from Mr. Fant. They are asked to bring the receipt which was received when cotton option was pooled.

The letter of Mr. Fant to the farmers says he will be unable to deliver your check unless you are able to prove one of the following statements:

1. You have signed a 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction contract.
2. Or, you will farm land that is under a 1934-35 contract.
3. Or, you will farm land that the cotton history for 1928-1932 is less than five acres.
4. That you are willing to sign a 1934-35 contract but your landlord refuses to sign with you.
5. Or, that you are not going to farm in 1934.

Some more checks are yet to come. Mr. Fant says unless you receive a letter from him, it will be a waste of time and energy to come and inquire about it.

TUSKEGEE QUARTET RECEIVED WITH MUCH ENTHUSIASM HERE

The Tuskegee Quartet, composed of four professors from the Negro institute of that city, put on a program at the courthouse in Clanton last Saturday night. It consisted of singing of popular songs and negro spirituals.

These negroes left a fine impression on the large audience that heard them. The spirit of that famous institution of learning was brought to the people of Clanton by these singers, and presented in such a manner as to invoke the good will of all toward the institute and the ideals it stands for.

It was indeed a pleasure for the people of Clanton to have them pay us a visit, and we thank the ladies of the Methodist church for making this privilege possible.

FEDERAL AID FOR COUNTY SCHOOLS

Prospect Is That We Will Secure One Month Addition to Term

If present hopes of County Superintendent Little and the County Board of Education carry through as they anticipate, the application of Federal aid for schools in Chilton County will mean the extension of terms of all schools for one month longer than the original local program outlined.

Those schools which were scheduled to run six months will run seven, and those scheduled to run eight months will run nine, said Mr. Little Tuesday, if we can get the Federal Aid of around $12,000 which we are asking for. If we do not get the full amount requested, we will first provide for extension of the six months schools, and then extend the eight months schools as far as we can.

Mr. Little explained that Federal Aid was provided through C.W.A. for the continuation of school terms in counties and districts where all efforts have been spent locally to carry on and have failed.

He said counties that have not voted a one-mill tax will be penalized or denied federal aid funds to the amount which would have been represented by the one-mill tax. This will mean, he pointed out, that Chilton County will be penalized about $9,000 which we could have received of federal funds, had we voted the one-mill county tax.

Mr. Little gives assurance that all efforts are being made to get the required funds for carrying the schools an extra month. Final plans, he said, are being drafted by State Superintendent Harman and Thad Holt, director of C.W.A. The details of these plans will be released Thursday or Friday of this week, after which it will be definitely determined as to how much benefit will be available locally.

CAROLINA TARHEELS COMING HERE WEDNESDAY, FEB. 14

The Pilot Club have secured the Carolina Tarheels for a program at the courthouse, Wednesday night, February 14th. Charge for admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

The Tarheels are a group of tremendously successful artists and are breaking attendance records everywhere. The Pilot Club is glad to afford the people of this vicinity an opportunity to hear them.

PUT FIRST THINGS FIRST

All members of the Young Mens Sunday school class of the First Baptist church of Clanton are requested to be present on next Sunday morning and bring someone with you. Kiwanis Conference In Session

ALA. DISTRICT OFFICERS HERE

Annual Midwinter Conference Brings Leaders of Kiwanis Together

Clanton generally, and Clanton Kiwanis Club in particular, are hosts to Kiwanis of Alabama today. Alabama Kiwanis District officials, together with officials and representatives from all the clubs in the State are here for the annual mid-winter conference, which will chart the couse of Kiwanis for the coming year.

John J. Sparkman, of Huntsville, newly elected District Governor, and Past Governor, Joe Lewis, of Selma, are here to direct the activities of the conference. Lieutenant Governors of the different divisions of the district are here and in charge of conferences of particular interest to clubs in their divisions.

District Secretary, Dwight M. Wilhelm, of Huntsville, is directing a conference of secretaries of all clubs of the District.

President Luther E. Little, of the local club, together with each of the tweny-five club members, are all busy, watchful of every minute to see that our visitors have a good time, and get a good taste of Clanton's hospitality.

At noon to day, when most of the business shall have been completed, the entire group of visitors, together with local club members, will journey down to Mitchell Dam, where John Hollis has arranged a luncheon, with other interesting features of entertainment and sightseeing. The program says some business will be done at Mitchell Dam in the afternoon. Whatever business is left for that time will most likely remain undone.

When John Hollis takes charge of a gang to entertain them at his place, everything else but a jolly good time is dumped overboard. Such things as business, cares and worries have no place on the menu at Mitchell Dam.

A representative of Kiwanis International, Mr. Harper Gatton, of Madisonville, Kentucky, is in attendance. He is one of International Trustees, and is a power in the way of inspiration for Kiwanis.

Notice To Unemployed

The following Bulletin has been issued and authorized by Mr. C. G. Stokes, director of the National Re-Employment Office for Chilton County:

"All registrants at the re-employment office must report to the office in person or by letter once each month, giving notice if they are still unemployed and available for employment. Farmers will not be considered unemployed after the crop season begins."

Old Maids Club Meets On Feb. 16

Program Sponsored By Ladies of Methodist and Baptist Churches Jointly

The date for the Old Maids Matrimonial Club has been set for Friday night, February 16th, at the Chilton County High School auditorium. This is a screaming program of fun which will be put on by a group of local entertainers, and sponsored by the ladies of the missionary society.

In addition to an array of interesting characters making up the cast, a number of special features will be presented. Loyd Howard, of Thorsby, will play the accordion. The Clanton Quartet will sing a group of numbers, and there will be chorus girls by the dozens.

Everybody is urged to put this date down in the book, and make plans to attend. It will be one of the most interesting events of the season. The price of admission will be very small.

Night Marshal W. B. Foshee asks The Union-Banner to warn all auto owners that their cars must have two front lights, a tail light, and good brakes. A state inspector is expected soon, and will place under bond all auto drivers whose lights and brakes are not up to specifications.

W. T. Bean Is Republican Candidate For County Superintendent

The name of W. T. Bean, former superintendent of education of Chilton County, appears this week as a candidate for that office in the Republican primary of May 1st. Mr. Bean is a native son of Chilton County, and has been prominent in public life for several years. He received his early training in the school of hard knocks, out of which he grew to manhood with a sturdy character, firm convictions, and a sincere determination to make his life and his abilities of service to the people of his county.

Mr. Bean graduated in 1911 from the Alabama State Teachers College at Jacksonville, with honors in scholarship attainments. Since graduation he has done extensive studying in education, through correspondence courses, and in extension work. He has had several summer courses at the University of Alabama with special training in the problems of supervision of schools.

In 1925 he took a full year's special training at Auburn for work as county superintendent of education, studying under one of the foremost educators of Alabama, who had himself been a county superintendent and city superintendent of schools for many years.

For six years W. T. Bean served as county superintendent of education of Chilton County. His successful record in administering the affairs of the county schools is well remembered and admitted by his fellow citizens even until this good day. Furthermore, his splendid record of usefulness in his home county has been further accentuated by many years of successful teaching experience in our schools.

The people of Chilton County doubtless will agree that it would be no experiment to place Mr. Bean again in the superintendent's office, in view of his experience in and familiarity wtih our school affairs. He has been on the firing line of almost every progressive and forward movement in Chilton County for the past twenty years. He has spent much time and has gone to much personal expense explaining and campaigning for many of the important public questions which we are now proud that our people have come to understand and to adopt.

In December, 1931, Mr. Bean championed the movement to keep county schools from closing. He was teaching then, and was president of the county teachers association. Through

J. E. COBB CANDIDATE

County Commissioner Joe E. Cobb, of the First District, is a candidate in the Republican primary to succeed himself in this office. His announcement as a candidate was made during the past week.

Mr. Cobb is just now completing his first term in office of Commissioner. He was elected on the Republican ticket four years ago.

Time Extended To Cotton Farmers

May Have Until February 15th To Complete County's Acreage Quota

The time for signing cotton acreage reduction contracts has been extended through February 15th.

New administrative rulings gives the farmer a chance to sign a contract even though his average yield for the base period, 1928-32, is as low as 75 pounds of lint cotton per acre. Another ruling permits a farmer who has less than an average of five acres for the base period to sign a contract and receive benefits and parity payment based on his average production.

People who failed to sign wheat reduction contracts in the wheat belt during the campaign are now requesting Washington to give them another chance. Farmers who have failed to sign cotton acreage reduction contracts should take advantage of time and sign. They might be requesting another chance later on.

Seven Sent To Do Hard Labor

Sentences Imposed In Circuit Court Here Last Week By Judge Tate

Seven men convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary by the Circuit Court last week, were carried to Kilby Monday, as follows:

Alfred Miller, negro, charged with transporting five gallons of whiskey; sentence 14 to 18 months.

L. C. Darby, negro, assault and battery; sentence 125 days.

Hiawatha Woodson, negro, two cases, violating prohibition law and carrying concealed weapon; sentence 91 and 79 days.

J. C. Brooks, violating prohibition law; sentence 75 days.

J. C. Goodson, negro, charged with shooting into house; sentence 75 days.

Marcus Selman, manufacturing whiskey; sentence 18 months to 2 years.

Theodore Arquer, violating prohibition law; sentence 73 days.

After the above named persons had been carried to the penitentiary there remained only two persons, negroes, in jail.

GROVER BICE RESIGNED AS LEGION COMMANDER

Grover A. Bice has resigned his position as Commander of Chilton County Post of the American Legion. He is succeeded by Vice Commander, Reuben Lowe.

Resignation of Mr. Bice was made some time ago to the Department of Alabama. In a statement to members of the Post Tuesday night Mr. Bice explained that his action was taken out in compliance with the law of the legion that no public official or candidate for public office shall hold office in the Legion.

Mr. Bice is a candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, in the Republican primary of May 1st. He has served as Post Commander since his election last July.

SPECIAL DRIVE FOR RED CROSS

Membership Will Be Solicited During Campaign Lasting One Week

The date for Red Cross membership roll call in Chilton County has been set for the week of February 10 to 17. Rev. S. J. Ezell is roll call chairman, and he has been busy during the past week perfecting community organization for carrying out the membership drive.

Committees have been arranged for the work at Clanton, Jemison, Thorsby and Maplesville. On next Saturday morning a corps of workers will begin solicitation for memberships.

A statement from Rev. Ezell gives the following explanation of the purposes of the membership Roll Call:

"Last fall Chilton County was supposed to put on the annual Roll Call for the Red Cross to help it carry on its great work for the needy and suffering. The truth of the matter is that we did not put the Roll Call on except in one or two communities, raising less than one hundred dollars in the whole county. At a meeting of the county Red Cross Committee some days ago, I was asked to assume the chairmanship of the Roll Call. As a matter of duty I have accepted the task and have set up in each community a chairman who is to select a local committee to see the people from February 10th through February 17th and solicit memberships. I am taking this opportunity to appeal to our citizenship to give a whole hearted support to this good work. There are many reasons we should do this, but I mention two that appeal to me strongly.

"In the first place we should support this good cause for the great and good work the Red Cross does in caring for the suffering and needy all over this land. This work can not go on without the support of the people.

"In the second place, as a matter of county-wide gratitude upon our part for what the Red Cross did for our storm victims two years ago. Surely we have not forgotten the great and generous help given to our needy. It is hard to see how many in our county could have gotten along without this help. Surely our gratitude should cause every man and woman who is able to give one dollar for a membership. If we are to get anywhere near our quota of 500, we must rally to this drive in a big way. We ought to do this. We will do it. Give us your help."

Supreme Court Frees Violators

Ruling Comes Out of Repeal of Prohibition Amendment To Constitution

Washington, Feb. 5.—The person charged with violating the federal prohibition law and not yet tried, or who has been convicted and has an appeal pending in a higher court, will go free.

The Supreme Court ruled today in a unanimous decision handed down by Chief Justice Hughes. Justice department officials said it affected upwards of 9,000 cases, involving 13,000 or more persons.

Under the decision, cases pending against persons charged with violating federal prohibition will be quashed. Those who have been convicted and have appals pending will be set free. The ruling, of course, does not affect persons convicted of violating state prohibition laws.

Nor, the court explained, will it affect those convicted before repeal of the prohibition amendment who are now serving sentences. At the justice department it was explained, however, that the policy so far had been to give more favorable consideration to applications for pardons from those who had good records aside from their prohibition violations than those from racketeers and gangsters.

FIVE CLUB HOUSE PROJECTS SUBMITTED FOR APPROVAL

Miss Ruth Pardue, county home demonstration agent, reports that estimates for five community club houses in the county have been submitted to the C.W.A. board for final approval.

Locations of the proposed community centers are as follows: Pletcher, Fairview, Bethsalem, Maplesville, and Clanton. If approval is given to these projects, work can be started immediately, it was stated.

Miss Pardue said surveys have been completed for about ten other club houses at various places in the county, which will be ready for submission to C.W.A. as soon as those already submitted are approved.

EXPLANATION OF THE NATIONAL RECOVERY PROGRAM

In response to the invitation of Mr. Cecil G. Stokes, director of the National Re-employment office of Chilton County, a representative meeting of citizens and county officials met at the County High School building last Friday morning, together with local staff representatives and officials of the re-employment office, Civil Works Administration and Relief Administration.

Mr. Stokes presided at the meeting, and at the beginning introduced Mr. Speer, who is state director of the Alabama National Reemployment Service.

After introducing Mr. Speer, the presiding officer outlined in a clear and concise manner the distinction between the re-employment service, the C.W.A. and the Relief Administration.

The General Recovery Program has numerous departments carrying on distinct functions all over the country. In every county in Alabama there are operating at least three divisions of the General Recovery Program. These three divisions function separately.

Civil Works Admisitration

A Civil Works Administration Office has been set up in each county with the following personnel:

A County Civil Works Director (a qualified out-of county man.)

An Engineer, working with the Director.

A Disbursing officer.

There are also several clerical assistants in the Civil Works Administration offices.

The Civil Works Administration program in the county is headed up by the Civil Works Administration Board. This board also serves as the official advisory board for the relief program in the county. Although the same group of people is serving in two capacities, their duties in these two capacities are separate and distinct. When they sit as a Civil Works Administration Board they have no responsibility toward the relief program and do no act upon matters pertaining to the relief office.

All Civil Works Administration projects originate with the public body concerned, and the county Civil Works Director will advise them, if requested, to get these projects in proper shape to present to the C. W. A. Board. The C. W. A. Board will then pass on these projects and send to the State Civil Works Administration office in Montgomery. If these projects are approved in Montgomery they are returned to the County Director as approved.

The Civil Works Director requisitioned the first half of the county's quota from the Relief Office. As soon as the Reemployment Office in the county was released for work by the State Reemployment Director, Mr. A. J. Speer, then the County Civil Works Director, upon approval of a sufficient number of projects by the Montgomery Office requisitioned the second half of the county's through the County Reemployment Office. The local Civil Works Director is responsible for the proper functioning of these Civil Works Administration projects in the county.

Reemployment Service

The Reemployment Office in the county has a local Reemployment Manager appointed by Mr. A. J. Speer, apointed by the U. S. Employment Service of the Department of Labor, as State Director. Under him are employed several interviewers and file clerks. The responsibility of this office is to take all applications for employment and, upon requisition of the Civil Works Director for a certain number of workers for an approved project, to furnish the required num-

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 26, 1934.
Editor Union-Banner and Voters of Chilton County:

In scanning over the old home paper I notice a number of good men out for various offices; one of them I would like to mention in person. He is Mr. Andrew Davis. I have known Mr. Davis all of my life and I do not know a man in Chilton County or in the state that I respect any more than I do him. He is truly a self made man, and one that any community should be proud of. He is an honest four-square gentleman in every respect. His fitness for the job is far above par. His character reveals his executive ability, his fairness to his home community, county and state; then too, I do not believe that Mr. Davis is a man to use partiality or nepotism. I do not believe that the people of the Second District could have picked a more suitable man for the job, and now get behind him and elect him. I am sure that he will give you people a square deal and be a man that will come up to your expectations and requirements.

There are several other candidates that I would like to mention, but space and time does not permit. However, I am going to mention the "Old Judge." I am sorry that he did not see fit to come out as a candidate for governor. I feel that the Republican party would stand a good chance to elect a good man like this, as the people of our state are fed up on this "stuff" such as has been put out by the Democratic party.

At present the state is in a bad condition and the only redemption that I see is for our party to put out a man like the old "vet" (L. H.), and get behind him and "shove" him over the top. The only thing that would beat him would be a croocked election, and the people of Alabama have been crooked until they are tired of it.

Compare your county with the other counties of the state and see if I am not right. Get on the outside and look in at Chilton, and you will be as I am, "proud that you hailed from her." I sincerely hope that the candidates will refrain from mud-slinging. Look at the Democratic candidates now, Isn't that enough to disgust anyone, most especially a good true Republican.

I wish you people all the success and I remain a Republican, and a friend to you all.—W. K. (Kelley) Gentry, Sec'y Montgomery County Republican Executive Committee.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Feb. 6.—Federal aid to education is essential and emergency aid is needed at this time to save the schools in Alabama and other states, Dr. John R. McLure, professor of school administration at the University of Alabama, told the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs here at their annual meeting.

This should be made available to states on some sound basis which takes into consideration the needs and abilities of the states, Dr. McLure stated. It should be given as an equitable and outright allotment to the states, without any restricions. There should be no element of federal supervision or control.

Reapportionment of Alabama's 67 counties into 15 districts under the direct supervision of the governor was recommended by Prof. E. Baskin Wright, of the department of political science, in a recent address. This reapportionment of the counties would relieve the taxpayers of the state of a great burden of taxes they now bear. "Alabama's present political system is an oxcart in a machine age," Prof. Wright stated.

Coke and steel products in the state showed a marked increase in activity during December, in comparison to the business done in November, according to the University Business News. Steel ingot production rose over 80 per cent over November, while pig iron showed a 50 per cent increase.. Coke production rose over 45 per cent.

These industries showed a great advance over the same period in 1932, also. Other industries in the state continued on practically the same level established in November.

American people are starving themselves to death by eating white bread and white sugar, Mrs. E. A. Morgan, wife of Chairman Morgan of the Tennessee Valley Authority, told club women at the recent institute of federated women's clubs.

Peasant classes in Europe are possessed of strong physical bodies and healthy, happy minds, despite their poverty, because their diet included whole wheat, whole rye, raw goats' milk, and other rough foods. Those unrefined products include the essentials demanded by the body.

MT. PISGAH SINGING SOCIETY

Last Sunday afternoon, February 4, at 2:00 o'clock, the singing was called to order by the chairman, Mr. Cecil Yeargan, with two songs followed with prayer by Rev. Ollie Hayes.

Directors for the evening were: Marvin Huett, Soverign Dickey, Reuben Devaughn, Eugene Aldridge, Jake Henley, Miss Dessie Wyatt, Mrs. Evelyn Devaughn, Prof. C. M. Billingsley and Cornelius Hand. Several quartets were arranged by Prof. Billingsley. Cecil Yeargan sang the closing song and Jake Henley dismissed with prayer.

Maple Springs, Highland, Bethsalem, Pleasant Valley and Liberty were represented.

Organists for the afternoon were Miss Dessie Wyatt and Prof. Billingsley. We appreciate your help and interest, and invite you all to come again on next first Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. We were very glad to have so many visitors. Remember you are always welcome here.—W. J. Rollan, Route 6.

SERVICE AT PLETCHER

There will be service at Neely Baker's near Pletcher, Saturday night, February 10th, at 6:30 o'clock. The service will be conducted by Bro. James Baker and his helpers. Everybody come Saturday night, Sunday at 11 o'clock and Sunday night at 6:30. —A friend to all.

CHESTNUT CREEK CHURCH SINGING SOCIETY MET SUN.

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon as usual. We had a beautiful day and everybody seemed to be in a singing spirit. We had a splendid class and the house was filled with attentive listeners. Singing was opened with one song by Mr. J. Z Mims and prayer was offered by J. E. Thomas. Directors for the afternoon were as follows:

Clayton Miller, Raybon Crew, Orviel Hughes, L. J. Crew, J. B. Crew, Dewee Jones, Melton Hughes, L. T. Grant, I. D. Huett, J. Z. Mims, Maston Robinson, Floy Devaughn, Dock Harris. The Frisky Four sang two songs in the new book. The pianists for the afternoon were Rose Mary Pickens, Louanna Jones. Dismissed by J. W. Billingsley.

We were glad to have all the visiting singers and invite you back any time. We meet only on the first Sunday afternoon. Now everybody go to Maple Springs on the third.

I want to say something about the wonderful services we had at Chestnut Creek Church Sunday. We had 132 at Sunday school that reported for class, but there were more than that present. Then after that splendid Sunday school the house began to fill up for our regular preaching services. We had the largest crowd that we have had for some time and our pastor was making his announcements and getting ready for the preaching hour, when, Lo, and behold, he just stopped and looked. For in walked Dr. L. E. Barton, and of course he gave him the preaching hour. And Dr. Barton brought a wonderful message which everybody enjoyed. We could not close without saying something about the evening services after B. Y. P. U. Our old loving former pastor, Rev. J. D. Hughes, closed the Sabbath worship with a God-given message right from his heart.

He preached just like he did years ago when he was our faithful pastor. We will always love Rev. Hughes for what he has done for Chestnut Creek Church. If we had more men like Rev. J. D. Hughes and our faithful pastor, Rev. J. W. Jones, what a better world we would have to live in.

If the people of Chestnut Cheek Church don't believe that our church is getting better every Sunday, especially every first Sunday, just come out and see for yourself. Get acquainted with our fine Missionary Baptist Pastor.—Louanna Jones, sec.

East View News

The B. Y. P. U. of Pleasant Valley met with the Christian Endeavor here Sunday night and each group rendered an interesting program, followed by a talk by the pastor of this church. The services were well attended and enjoyed by all present. Everybody who loves Christ is a brother to everybody who loves Christ and strives to do His will.

The ladies aid met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Clara Rushing. They planned a chicken supper at the church on the first Saturday night in March. They will serve chicken, coffee, cake, and sandwiches. Watch the papers for more information about the supper.

The next meeting of the ladies aid will be at the home of Mrs. Mamie Traywick Thursday, February 15th.

The men of the community are invited to meet at the church next Friday to do some special work on the grounds. We can use some teams to haul rock and scoop dirt.

Mrs. Elva Mims was the Saturday night guest of Mrs. Babe Mims.

There will be preaching here Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night, by the pastor. Everybody is invited to attend.

Mrs. Cornelia Coggins spent Saturday with her mother, Mrs. A. C. Nelson.

Mr. Charlie Nelson is suffering much pain with a bruised hand that he got hurt while playing ball.

JACKSON CHAPEL SINGING

The singing at this place last Sunday afternoon was called to order by the chairman, L. F. Cleckler. The following directed one to three songs each:

Willodean Smith, Martell Blankenship, Morris Cleckler, Ruby Jones, Ludelia Cleckler, F. J. Little, Lillie Mae Weldon, Leland Powell, Harvey Parker, James Edwards, Mary Will Smith, Willie Cleckler, Myrtis Traywick, W. L. Sanders, Mrs. James Gillespie, Mrs. L. F. Cleckler, Rev. M. Lockhart, J. E. Minor, Mae Francis Bruce.

The announcement is made that Rev. M. Lockhart will preach at Jackson Chapel the third Sunday at 11 o'clock.

Jackson Chapel schoolhouse caught fire last Friday, but was put out without much damage.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for February 11

TIMELY WARNINGS
(Temperance Lesson).

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 7:1-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire. Matthew 7:19.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Golden Rule.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Keeping Jesus' Law.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Truth About Alcoholic Beverages.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Drastic Methods for a Deadly Evil.

I. Concerning Censorious Judgments (vv. 1-12).

1. The sin and folly of (vv. 1-5). This prohibition should not be so construed as to forbid our making an estimate of the lives of those about us, for "by their fruits ye shall know them." Neither should it prevent us from administering rebuke to those who deserve it. It is not wrong to condemn the errors and faults of those who are practicing sin; neither does it mean that sin should go unrebuked until we ourselves are perfect. It does definitely and vigorously rebuke readiness to blame others and to magnify their weaknesses and errors.

2. The duty of discrimination in dealing out holy things (v. 6). The gospel should be preached to all. The Word of God should be proclaimed to all, but at the same time it should be borne in mind that "dogs and swine" have no comprehension of holy things.

3. Qualification for discrimination (vv. 7-12).

a. A life of prayer (vv. 7-11). Only those are able rightly to divide the word of truth who live in close communion with God.

b. The disposition to treat others as one would be treated by others (v. 12). The Word of God and the common judgment of mankind constitute a definite standard of life so far as that standard bears on the principle governing the life. In all doubtful questions between man and man we should deal with our fellows as we would have them deal with us. In fact, the whole law concerning human relations is compressed into this one rule.

II. Entrance Into the Kingdom Urged (vv. 13, 14).

Before everyone there are set two ways and only two ways, life and death, heaven and hell. Two gates open out into these ways. The narrow gate is the way of life. The invitation is for all to enter this gate.

III. The Warning Against False Teachers (vv. 15-20).

1. Their real existence (v. 15). Ever since God had a people, false prophets and teachers have appeared among them. That they appear everywhere need not surprise us, for Christ foretold that such should arise.

2. Their nature (v. 15).

a. They are hypocritical. They are emissaries of Satan. The devil does his most successful work by masquerading as an angel of light (II Cor. 11:14, 15). All through the centuries Satan's success has come mainly through his ability to deceive.

b. They are destructive. This is suggested by their being "ravening wolves." False teachers are doing their most deadly work while pretending to be loyal to the Bible and to Jesus Christ.

3. The unfailing test (vv. 16-18). "By their fruits ye shall know them." Every tree bears its own kind of fruit. Nature is inexorable in her laws as to this. It is equally true in the spiritual world.

4. Their ultimate end (v. 19). All false teachers shall ultimately be punished by being cast into the fire. Although God has infinite patience and bears long, he will see to it that this evil work does not go on forever.

IV. The Dangers of Empty Profession (vv. 21-23).

1. Merely calling Christ "Lord" will not answer for doing his will (v. 21).

2. One may do supernatural works and still be lost (vv. 22, 23). Not all supernatural works are divine. The devil is a supernatural being. All evil doers are under his sway.

3. A coming separation from God (v. 23). One may have been a Sunday school teacher or a minister and have performed many mighty works and yet hear from Christ the awful declaration, "I never knew you: depart from me ye that work iniquity."

V. The One and Only Safe Way (vv. 24-29).

1. Hear the sayings of Christ (v. 24).

2. Do what Christ commands (vv. 24-29).

When We Are Dead

We may live when we are dead—not only, as we trust, in Heaven, but also by the impress we made in Christ's name upon others.

A Prayer

Almighty God, we open our hearts in prayer that thou lead us more into the truth as it is in Jesus. We want to serve thee in it; and we desire the days to come when the truth will be lived and followed in earth even as it is in heaven.

God's Grace

God's grace is God's love on the quest for loveless children, whose sins are scarlet and whose iniquities are red like crimson. 'While we were yet sinners Christ died for us.'

Mr. and Mrs. William Ward, Preacher Bishop and wife visited Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Ward Sunday afternoon.

IN SUPPORT OF GROVER A. BICE

Editor Union-Banner:

I just want to say a few words in regard to Grover A. Bice for Circuit Clerk.

I have known Bice for many years and know him to be a man of honest, generous and highly commendable character. I want all my friends to vote for him, for if we put him in office, I am sure we will never regret it, and we will have a man there who will serve Republicans and Democrats with equal courtesy, and that is the kind of man we need to put in office.

He is a World War veteran. He saw service overseas. He is a member of Chilton County Post No. 6 of American Legion, has served as commander of that post ably, and helped all he could, regardless of their politics. He has been a member of the Thorsby Baptist church for many years, and was always free with his time and money to help with any woorthy cause. He is 45 years old. He is just the age to take over the duties of a political office, as he is young enough to see both sides of things.

So let's wake up now soldier boys, and put a man on the stand that has been over seas, and knows just what we have all been through with, and I feel sure if we put Mr. Bice on the stand that he will treat all just right. So let's see what we can do for him. Hurray for Mr. Bice.—Old Country Boy.

LOMAX TABERNACLE

Our Sunday school is still progressing nicely. We began a new class Sunday. The crowds have been quite small on account of measles, but we hope they will be in school very soon. There will be preaching the fourth Saturday night and Sunday. Everybody come to Sunday school and services. Don't forget to come.—A friend to all.

J. R. BLOW HOME BURNED

The home of J. R. Blow, on Clanton Route 4, one mile south of Thorsby, was completely destroyed by fire January 31st, about 9 o'clock in the morning. No household goods were saved. About $11.00 in money was lost. Total estimated loss was over $1,000.

Mrs. Minnie Golf is seriously ill at her home in West End.

EZELL'S FATHER PREACHED FOR HIM LAST SUNDAY A.M.

On last Sunday morning the pulpit of Clanton Baptist church was filled by Rev. Ezell, the 83 year old father of the pastor. His discourse was most interesting, uplifting and inspiring to the congregation.

The subject of the sermon was "The rewards of serving God." Personal experiences in a long life as a soldier of the cross were given by Rev. Ezell as proof that God pays off his promises to those who serve Him faithfully.

The elder Ezell has been here for two months visiting his son. After the service at the church Sunday he departed for return to his home in Chesnee, South Carolina, accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. Ezell.

Mrs. Ezell will visit her mother, who has been seriously sick for some time.

Jerry, at the Big Game—Aren't the people numerous?

Jerrie—Yes, and aren't there a lot of them.

CARD OF THANKS

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please express through the columns of your paper my hearfelt thanks to all my friends in Chilton County and elsewhere for their many acts of kindness and sympathy shown to our family in the recent sickness and death of our father, also for the beautiful flowers. May God's richest blessings rest on everyone of you, is my prayer.—Joe L. Parrish, Nitrate Plant, Ala.

PREACHING AT CANE CREEK

Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby will be here and preach next Saturday, February 10, 1934 at 11 o'clock. All members of the church are urged to be present.—J. P. Parrish.

LIBERTY HILL QUARTET AT VERMONT JR. HIGH

The Liberty Hill Quartet, a popular group of real entertainers, will present their program at Vermont Jr. High School next Friday night, (tomorrow) February 9, at 7:30 p. m. promptly.

It will consist of comic songs, negro spirituals, sacred songs, funny recitations, comedy, dialogues, humorous jokes, etc. Cornelius Hand will be with them to unravel his negro sermon. This alone is worth twice the admission price. This group of young men are all from Liberty Hill community, and do they harmonize in their singing? Just come out and listen to them, (if you can quit laughing long enough) and you will go home saying that this program was without question worth several times more than the atcual admission was. Remember that our auditorium will seat only a limited number and if you expect to enjoy the program you will have to come early to get a desirable place.

Admission will be 5 cents for all school children and 15 cents for adults. Proceeds go to the P.-T. A. fund for school equipment. Come one come all.—R. B. Johnson, Prin.

CHESTNUT GROVE

Mr. G. G. Nabors was in Clanton last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Meeks and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Day were the guests of Mr. William Holcombe last Sunday.

Mrs. Herbert D. Williams spent the week end with her husband at Thorsby.

Rev. A. B. Camant of Wilton will fill his regular appointment here next Sunday at 3 p.m.

Miss Frances Lucas and Messrs. Grady Lucas, Johnny Jones, Curtis Anderson, and Jessie Smith were the guests of Mrs. G. G. Nabors Sunday.

We are glad to state that we have a good Sunday school here. We had a good subject, "Putting God's Kingdom First." It teaches us to worship one Master only. 1. By refusing to treasure earthly things. 2. Setting hearts on heavenly treasures. 3. Keeping hearts pure. 4. Avoiding evil doing. 5. Serving God only. 6. Avoiding worldly care. 7. Seeking first the kingdom of God.

MR. H. A. SMITH GIVES HIS OPINION OF C. W. A.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say just a few words in reply to Mr. H. O. Little's letter of last week's issue?

O yes, Mr. Little, I'll join you to do all that is in my power, to see that the C. W. A. work is carried out right. I know that I have not been treated right and I don't have to take anybody's word or guess at it. I have signed up for work every chance that I had since it was started. Have I got it? No I have not. I did work a little last spring.

Mr. Little, think if someone would look into this work they could find a number of men working that have more than you and I both. I would say it is not a fair thing at all. Well Mr. Little, if you can strat in and make this thing roll I will say that I will hang on with tooth and toe nail.

Well I could say plenty but no use to talk too much to strat. If this misses the waste basket I will come again.—Yours in need, H. A. Smith, Jemison Route 2.

BAKER SCHOOL

Our school is still progressing nicely and everybody is working hard.

Rev. Cochran, pastor of the Methodist Church in Clanton, conducted our devotional Monday morning. His talk was very inspiring and we hope to have him with us again.

The Baker boys and girls played the Concord boys and girls in a basket ball game on Baker's court last Friday afternoon. The score for the girls was 2 to 20 in favor of Concord. The score for the boys was 16 to 36 in favor of Concord.

Tom Frank Teel's black face comedy was staged at this place Friday night. The audience was very large and all those that attended seemed to enjoy it very much.

There was an ape and dog show staged here Monday evening, which was greatly enjoyed. It was real interesting to watch the monkeys do their tricks. It was especially enjoyed by the children.

The Jr. II and III English club voted on who's who in the Jr. II and III Monday. Who's who in the Jr. I will appear in next week's paper.

VERMONT SCHOOL

A large number were present at the Jr. High School social last Friday night. Those present were: J. D. Miner, Howard Donovan, Thurman Milford, Lester Rainwater, Elbert Short, Bill Traywick, Andrew Turner, Henry Smith, William Sansom, Jim Traywick, R. P. Kendrick, Earlo Short, Robert Traywick, Hugh Hayes, T. J. Ratliff, Carson Williams, Willie Clyde Williams, Irene Abbott, Laverne Crane, Francis Lewis, Clara Headley, Francis Kendrick, Gladys Sansom, Lizzie Mae Lewis, Adell Scott, Mary Jo Chandler, Mary Owen, Sdna Simms, Lillie Kendrick, Myrtle Lewis, Lucile Kendrick, Earnest Kendrick, James Kendrick, Judge Headley. A wide variety of games, contests, music, etc., made the evening delightful to the attendants. Hot chocolate and cake were served as refreshments.

Miss Cagle, Miss Manning and Miss Grant motored to Montgomery last Saturday. They report a most pleasant trip.

Listen, folks, do you like to hear good quartette singing? Do you like to laugh at clever black face antics? Do you like to listen to a real comic negro sermon? Do you enjoy wise cracks at your friend's expense? Do you get a kick out of seeing a gang of fun-makers give an exhibition of their wares. If you do then by all means don't miss seeing the Liberty Hill quartet "step on it" next Friday night, February 9, at Vermont Jr. High.

We have been expecting these entertainers down to give us a program for quite a while, but due to illness of one of their members, they have been forced to withhold their engagement. The admission has been placed at a figure where most anyone who desires good honest to goodness entertainment can afford to attend.

Due to absence of two of the class members the Jr. 3 class was unable to organize last week. They will meet and elect their class officers this week.

We are proud to learn that there is a strong possibility of a full school term of seven months. We trust that this will prove a reality, for a grade cannot be completed in a full and well rounded way on six months. The text books are prepared to give the students seven to nine months actual study in completing the grade, thus you see that any term less than the above means one or two things must be done. Several lessons in the latter part of the course must be omitted or else the student mus hastily rush over all the lessons set down. Consequently he or she may not be thorough in the work covered. Let's hope we may get seven months so we may finish our grade in a real way.

Miss Grant directed a highly interesting little program for chapel last Friday morning. The third grade rendered in a very charming way the little playlet entitled "Snow White and Rose Red."

The beautiful weather at this writing has greatly increased our attendance.

Under the supervision of Miss Manning the P.-T. A. ladies are working diligently on a beautiful quilt to be given away soon. The suilt has many beautiful designs, centered around the pattern of a star. By paying five cents anyone can have their names embroidered on the designs. By this means several dollars will be raised then the quilt will be sold, bringing in an additional amount. This too, will be deposited to P.-T. A. funds.

Miss Grant has organized a girls quartet. Several days more of practice and they will be ready to present a real nice program. The quartet is composed of Clara Headley, soprano; Mary Owen, bass; Francis Kendrick, alto, and Gladys Sansom, tenor.

Another little girls quartet too, has been arranged. They are known as the "Vermont Booster Band." You would be thrilled to hear these little girls sing their respective parts. This quartet is composed of Fannie Mae Owen, bass; Myrtice Owen, alto; Mattie Bell White, tenor and L. E. Adams soprano. We are going to hear both groups sing in the future programs of the school.

RECENT BRIDE IS HONORED WITH SHOWER LAST WEEK

Mrs. L. H. Bean and Mrs. A. C. Bratton were joint hostesses at a miscellaneous shower given in honor of Mrs. George S. Thornbro, formerly Miss Rubye Irene Dennis, Wednesday afternoon, January 31, at Mrs. Bratton's home in West Jemison.

After a series of games and contests the bride was presented many beautiful gifts by little Joe Bratton and Jack Harris. Mrs. George Nash presided over the bride's book.

Miss Geraldine Bean assisted Mrs. Bratton and Mrs. Bean in serving refreshments to the following: Mrs. B. C. Lenoir, of Ensley, sister of the bride; Mrs. Fred Smith, of Valdosta, Ga.; Mrs. Attaway, Mrs. Ensley Atkinson, Mrs. Russell Scott, Mrs. Walter McNeill, Mrs. J. P. Montgomery, Mrs. A. H. Glasscock, Mrs. T. I. Ward, Mrs. V. O. Lenoir, Miss Elizabeth McNeill, Mrs. John Cooper, Miss Mattie Hand, Miss Avon Thornbro.

B. Y. P. U. MEETING

The most important B. Y. P. U. meeting in Unity Association this year will be the Crusade Rally at Billingsley Baptist church, Wednesday night, February 14, beginning at 7:15. This meeting is for B. Y. P. U. members and all interested in young people's work.

Special speakers for this meeting are Mrs. Henry C. Roper, B. Y. P. U. Field Worker of Alabama, Montgomery, and Mr. E. E. Lee, the B. Y. P. U. Field Secretary of the Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn. May I urge you to attend. Avail yourself of the opportunity to hear these two speakers.—Mabel King, Secretary.

Hens Need White-Making Material to Lay Eggs

White, yolk, shell,—that seems to be about all there is to an egg. But the job of building, of putting together is not so simple. It is started by nature but helped or hindered by man, states Mr. E. B. Powell of the Research Division of Purina Mills, Gray Summit, Missouri.

Take the yolks. They are in the chick the day it is hatched. That is the way breeding fixes a hen's lifetime laying ability.

Broadly speaking, egg yolks are developed from scratch feeds or grain. Scratch feed alone contains little white-making material. But, eggs can't be turned out containing yolks alone. A hen can't lay half an egg. The Missouri state poultry experiment station says that hens fed grains alone lay an average of only five eggs a month. The Texas experiment station says, "Actual feeding trials have shown that the best of hens cannot eat enough grain to produce more than 80 eggs a year. The common grains contain more fat producing elements but not enough of the principal egg-forming element called protein for most economical production."

It takes 14 days for a hen to develop yolks to full size but only one day to develop white and shell. That is why you find a cluster of yolks of varying sizes in a hen but no whites or shells. The hen must build the white and shell each day.

The laying mash for the most part makes the whites. There is some yolk making material in the mash feed but, fundamentally, mash is the part of the ration that makes the whites. The hen cannot store surplus white-making material in her body and draw on it later as she can the yolk-making material. She must get it day by day.

And when she does receive ample white-making material, what a difference it makes in the rate the hen puts the finished eggs together! The Missouri experiment station shows that hens fed a laying mash with scratch feed laid an average of 17.8 eggs per hen per month. That is 12.8 more eggs per hen per month than those fed grain alone. At the Oklahoma experiment station, hens fed on a balanced ration of mash and grain laid over three times as many eggs during the fall and winter months when egg prices are highest as an equal number of hens fed on grain alone. The hens fed on mash and grain also laid larger eggs, and their hatchability was increased.

Fourteen days to make yolks, but only one day for whites. A reserve stored in the body for yolks, but no reserve for whites. Every day, the hen must get the white-making material, mostly from the mash. No white, no egg is the way she performs. The mash, therefore, controls her laying.

A hen can only eat about a cupful of feed, both grain and mash, a day. Three-fourths of this goes to keep up her body and only one-fourth for building the eggs. With so little of the feed going for eggs, it is easy to see why it is so important that every mouthful of the mash contain plenty of white-making material.

Joe—Did you get your hair cut?

Jim—No, I just washed it and it shrank.

Misses Polly and Emma Varden have been on the sick list for a week.

Bobby—Say, Mother, was baby sent down from heaven?

Mother—Yes, Bobby.

Bobby—They like to have it quiet up there, don't they?

Electric Cookery Now More ECONOMICAL And FASTER Than Ever

FOR years modern homemakers have enjoyed the thrill of Electric Cookery because it gave them more freedom from the kitchen. They liked its clean, cool and healthful qualities. They liked its dependability. And now, thanks to the progress of electrical engineers, Electric Cookery is surprisingly fast and delightfully economical. The secret of this great advancement is a new type of heating coil now made a part of every Westinghouse and General Electric Hotpoint range. Westinghouse calls it the "Quick Cook Unit." Hotpoint calls it the "Calrod." In either case, this new advancement means a substantial saving in electricity, and a great increase in the cooking speed of both ranges. This means Electric Cookery is even more desirable than ever before!

STANTON SCHOOL NEWS

The following is the honor roll for the second and third grades:

Second—Clifford Davis, Cleo Jones, U. L. Davis.

Third—Charles Dawson, Margie Nell Ratliff, Viola Walker, Thomas J. Walker, Velma Harrison, Lavern Lenoir, Daisy Green, Harold Carter.

Beauty Contest

Miss Eva Gay and Miss Ethel Rea Dyer are leading the way in the school beauty contest, but from all indications they will have to speed up a bit if they continue to lead the way for the members of the other sides have made known the fact that they are still in the race and assure us that they will be near the top if not on top themselves.

Miss Gladys Patterson and Miss Edna Harris are the other two contestants, and their sides are planning a final drive to put them on top. So, come on boys and girls, pay your incidental fees so you can vote for your side.

The Wee Three Trio

The Wee Three Trio of Alabama College will be at the Stanton school Saturday night and render a program of various musical selections. Among the features on the program will be some sacred and popular songs, together with readings which will be given by a fourth party of the group. The Wee Three Trio has given many programs throughout the state and all of them have met with the approval of everyone. Many have perhaps heard them over the radio. The people of Stanton are fortunate indeed to have the opportunity to hear this program. The admission will be 10c and 20c. Come early if you wish to get a good seat. The proceeds will go toward retiring the school debt.

South Pole Dogs to Get Select Food

Admiral Byrd's Decision Is Result of Extensive Experimentation.

Admiral Byrd's second South Polar expedition has been under way since October via Panama and Australia. The early part of 1934 will see the Byrd ships, the sailing vessel, "Bear" and the S. S. "Jacob Ruppert," worming their way through the ice pack that hems in the Ross Sea. Then they will sail across to the Bay of Whales and establish their base for the thorough exploration of the Antarctic domain.

Most important of all the supplies that have been shipped in the holds of these two vessels are 153 carefully selected dogs, real huskies of the Northland. These dogs represent the one dependable means of transportation after the Byrd expedition has established its base. Upon these dogs will depend in a large measure the range of the expedition's activities.

The task of keeping these dogs in top condition is a major concern. "A well dog is a well-fed dog," so along with the dogs are being transported 100,000 pounds of Dog Chow, a concentrated food for dogs. The selection of this food was not a hit or miss preparation; not on a mission as important as a South Polar trip!

Like the food for the men, the food for the dogs was selected only after being subjected to rigid tests to make sure that it would meet every requirement of the Commander.

Captain Allen Innes Taylor is in charge of the 153 dogs. It was under his direction that a man visited the Purina Mills' demonstration kennels at Gray Summit, Mo., last year.

He carefully went over the records of the 850 dogs that have been reared in the experimental kennels to note the development of succeeding generations, as well as the general condition of some of the original animals that have produced as many as seven healthy litters, fed entirely during their lifetime upon Purina Dog Chow.

More than that, he examined the records of the biological laboratories maintained by Purina Mills at St. Louis and checked from a scientific basis each ingredient of this commercial product.

Satisfied that here was the most compact, most nourishing and dependable dog food available, Captain Taylor contracted 60,000 pounds of the regular brand of Purina Dog Chow for his huskies and had 40,000 pounds of the regular brand particularly fortified with fats for the feeding during the colder seasons of the two-year trip. Cold at the South pole means 50 degrees below F. During the season when the sun does not appear for as much as four months, temperatures of 70 degrees below F. are not uncommon.

The Byrd expedition will really start making exploration trips late in August or early September, 1934, when the sun again appears after its four months' hideout. Airplanes will be used to fly over the South pole and beyond.

The dogs, however, will transport men and supplies to the bases that must be established and make the dashes into the unexplored regions. Upon their health will depend the lives of the men who are working with the most advanced scientific instruments to give to the world new facts and data about the mysteries of Antarctica.

It was only natural that Dog Chow should find favor with the Commissary department, who, on this expedition, must plan to save every pound of excess weight. Dog Chow checkers contain meat of first quality in dehydrated form besides its other ingredients.

The removal of the excess water makes possible absolute safety in transporting the dog ration, as there is no danger from deterioration or spoilage. The weight is reduced by approximately two-thirds over ordinary dog rations that would be needed for so large an expedition of working animals and allows for a tremendous margin of safety in supplies.

Each pound of Dog Chow is the equivalent of three pounds of fresh or canned meat. To equal in food value the 100,000 pounds taken on the expedition, it would be necessary for the explorers to carry 300,000 pounds of meat in the fresh or canned form. Aside from the dead weight that would have been placed upon the expedition's limited carrying capacity, the comparative expenditure in dollars would have been almost prohibitive.

So balanced, so scientifically constructed is the formula for Dog Chow that it will satisfy every need of the animals of the expedition without the addition of any other foods.

The expedition will be able to keep its Dog Chow anywhere. It will not require freezing through the tropics on the way down to retain its goodness. Only the ordinary care given in storing any sort of food stuffs will be required to supply the dogs with healthful, nourishing foods.

Druggist—How's your wife today?
Customer—Oh, she can't complain.
Druggist—I didn't know she was as ill as that.

She—Do you think we should recognize Russia?
He—The way things are, I can't even recognize the United States.

from
COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL
By Dan Smith

The students and the faculty of the Chilton County high school extend their sincerest thanks to the officials of Chilton County, the members of the county board of education, Luther E. Little, our county superintendent of Education and others who helped in making it possible for this school to continue for eight full months. We salute, with pride in our hearts and expressions of appreciation on our lips, to those citizens who have saved the school of this county from following the sad fate of hundreds of other schools. Two months ago we passed from class room to class room with the silent fear that we would be deprived of public education in this school after mid-term. Today three hundred boys and girls pass swiftly from class room to class room with the deeply felt joy of continuing to school at public expense. On April 20 the academic work at C.C.H.S. will end. The students of this school will have their full nine months credit. Again, to our county officials, we say, thank you.

The basketball game with Jemison Wednesday night, both boys and girls, was postponed due to the cold weather. The game will be played in the near future. Below is a schedule of the remaining games to be played by the Chilton teams.

When passing the bulletin board one's eyes are drawn to a unique sign, originated and constructed by James "Gabby" Tiffin. It is made of cardboard and is used to advertise the basketball games. Instead of putting up a new sign for every game, one has only to insert the name of the opponent in the space so provided and the sign is ready. Also the time date, admission, place and whether it will be boys, girls or both, is likewise arranged.

The long waited games with Jemison will be played tomorrow night at C.C.H.S. These games will be of the best of the basketball season. Especially will that of the boys be an important event as Jemison is Chilton's strongest foe for district championship. Our boys have the defeat by Jemison several days ago to even, and they are going to do it too.

Last night the boys basketball team went to Holtville High for a game with that school. The scores were unavailable at the time of this writing.

The school was offered several minutes of the best musical entertainment, presented here Monday when the Stamp's quartet sang a few selections.

Who am I? Week before last it was Joe Moore. You had just as well give up on this one. * * * I am a girl. I am in the Senior High. I am small in stature. Slim and have dark brown hair. Always cheerful. Have red pajamas. Popular and have good personality. I think that's enough.

The school has just added a new and modern set of the American Encyclopedia to it's excellent library. This set of referrence books is considered by authorities as one of the best, most authentic and most complete set for high schools and colleges. They cover a greater and more varied number of subjects. With this up to date addition, our library now ranks with the best high school libraries of the state.

Friday morning the students and members of the faculty were profitably entertained for an hour by Mr. and Mrs. Carlos and their trained animals. Their show, proving that kindness to animals is the best policy, was composed of intelligent and amusing tricks by superbly trained dogs and monkeys. The admission of one nickel that one paid was insufficient to pay for the lessons that one learned from this splendid performance. This was no cheap act, Mr. Carlos having played before the student bodies of the largest high schools in the country and left with high praises.

HOW

Neon Signs—Neon is a colorless, inactive gas which has the property of glowing with a brilliant fiery red tint when an electrict current is passed through it in a near vaccum. On electric signs, so popular nowadays, the air is removed from the tubes by a pump. If a blue light is desired, a few drops of mecury are instered in the tube and if a green light is desired, a yellow tube is used.

In our school there are thirty-four different subjects being taught, and forty four classes go on every day.

Mack, our faithful janitor, has been in service as janitor here every year this school has been in existence with the exception of two years. For nearly eighteen years he has walked the corridors, swept the floors, fired the furnace and done other jobs. Mack was janitor here in 1915, the first year of this school. One talking to him may find himself several years back in C.C.H.S. with such prominent men as Omar Reynolds, Dewey Rockett, Dr. Clyde Foshee, Dr. Raymond Calloway and others. Mack can tell several humorous incidents on these men as he witnessed the struggle. Mack loves music; therefore, he said the best year here was when they had music classes and lots of singing. He also got a thrill out of watching the upper classmen initiate the freshmen. He recalls the year of 1917 when a section of the Rainbow Division camped on the school grounds. This year was extremely cold and because of the lack of coal, sawdust was substituted. Mack praised our present principal, Mr. L. C. Warr, for his excellent management of the school affairs. Mack likes his work lots and hopes that he will be allowed to spend the rest of his life at C.C.H.S. with his children.

The class in democracy, taught by Mr. Warr, has been using the newspaper as material for information of the history making money changes now being enacted by the government. Current and practical examples can be studied in this way.

Student Scandal (These articles are the personal expressions of the writer, intended for the interest of the students and do not in any way relate to the school activiites).

A ceratin Senior II is getting stuck up over nothing at all, according to reports heard about . . . The new girl must have lost her charm on a certain Sr. II, or maybe he was "discarded." That's bad for a boy . . . He didn't come to see me, he came to court. Did she mean what you think or did she mean court that was in session last week. Anyway it made her blush and leave . . . It was some break.

The Unholy three have renewed their voluntary foolishness, as some call it. But I think they're "darn clever." . . . They are picking on a Sr. III now. This name is mentioned in the Who Am I section. . . They had better watch out because he is clever too. . . . I was asked to inquire why a certain Sr. III always turned his head as he went down to the lab. . . . Oh boy, wouldn't some people give their all to know who the illusive trio is.

ALABAMA AIR PARK PLAN IS COMMENDED BY U. S. OFFICIALS

An additional allotment of $1,396,500 and 10,800 jobs to carry on airport development in Alabama was announced Monday from Washington in recognition of the Alabama plan of air parks.

Col. Sumpter Smith, state aviation advisor, received the following telegram from John S. Wynne, cheif airport advisor for the CWA at Washington:

"I have today sent the following wire to your state Civil Works Administrator: 'Based on information furnished by my state airport advisor and available information in this office, we have tenatively allotted 10,080 jobs and $1,369,500 to be used in airport development for the state of Alabama if CWA program is extended beyond Feb. 15. Please wire me address Department of Commerce Building, Washington, your approval in order that we may submit final estimate to the federal administrator, Washington, in order that a definite allocation may be made to your state."

This makes the allotment subject to approval of Thad Holt, state CWA administrator, who was to confer with Col. Smith during the day.

The Alabama plan of building recreation centers in conjunction with airports has been highly commended in Washington, Mr. Wynne having written last week that "it has tremendous possibilities." Complete plans of the idea have been sent to all state advisors.

Col. Smith has also been requested by the Department of Commerce to visit other Southern states and explain the program that is under way here. Leaving the latter part of the week, he will visit Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee, Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina.

He returned from Washington Sunday with Gen. John C. Persons and Maj. Henry Badham. In the capital with Col. Theodore Swann, who has contributed in large part to the success of the Alabama plan, they also obtained concssions that will permit an increase in flying activities for the Roberts Field Squadron.

Gen. Persons said the PWA loan application for a National Guard armory here had also been furthered and that he was more encouraged than ever before.

If Administrator Holt approves the allotment for Alabama, which will be in addition to any CWA appropriations for this state, it means that many more towns of the state will be able to get air parks. The present program has 65 under construction, and the additional funds and workers will make it possible to increase this to around 100.

TOM McKEE IS DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR COLLECTOR

Tom McKee has announced that he will run for Tax Collector of Chilton County on the Democratic ticket in the May primary. Mr. McKee is one of the most widely known citizens of our county. He has many friends and admirers. While he is a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, Tom McKee always insists upon fairness in politics, and expresses upon all occasions his desire that every citizen shall have the right to his own political views. He never lets politics interfere with his friendships.

The Ladies Guild will meet on Thursday afternoon, February 22, at the home of Mrs. G. F. Harper.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin and Mrs. J. L. Mixson were visitors in Montgomery last Thursday.

Miss Fairbank spent last Friday in Birmingham.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin, Mrs. H. G. Franklin, Mrs. B. T. Franklin and Thomas Kincaid left Tuesday for a trip to Campbellsville, Ky., to visit Mrs. B. T. Franklin's daughters, Mrs. Higdon and Miss Dorothy Franklin. They expect to be gone several days.

Mr. H. V. Thompson spent the week end in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Maddox entertained the Misses Fairbank, Jenkins and Klingelhoefer at dinner Sunday.

A goodly number of ladies surprised Mrs. C. C. Peterson on Wednesday afternoon to celebrate her birthday. A pleasant afternoon was enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served.

An interesting event in Thorsby last Sunday was the celebration of Mr. C. P. Turnquist's 85th birthday. Mr. Turnquist was fortunate in having two parties on that day. His daughter, Mrs. James Bosworth, gave him a dinner at which 18 of his family partook with him. In the afternoon the family circle adjoined to the home of Mrs. A. E. Reagan, another daughter, and Mr. Turnquist's home, where a number of friends and neighbors were invited in to enjoy the beautiful large birthday cake and coffee with them. Those present aside from the family circle were Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson and Miss Edith Johnson and Mrs. Phalin.

Mr. Turnquist is to be congratulated on arriving at his 85th birthday anniversary in such good health and strength. He enjoys a walk to town several times a day, is active about the house and preparing now for his garden. Mr. Turnquist also reads a great deal and does not use glasses. He is to be congratulated on his family, besides the two daughters mentioned above, another daughter, Mrs. C. R. Foss, lives near him, Miss Naemi Turnquist, another daughter, who works in a bank at Selma, but makes home with a sister in Thorsby, also a fifth daughter, Mrs. K. P. Peterson, whose home is in Fairfield, but who often visits in Thorsby. There are also ten grandchildren. Mr. Turnquist is surely to be congratulated.

Miss Marguerite Davison, who has spent the past two months in the East, arrived in Thorsby last Friday and will be here a week.

Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Swartz, who were on their way from New Albany, Mississippi to Albermarle, North Carolina, stopped Monday afternoon for a visit with Miss Davison.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Townsend were visitors to Thorsby Sunday.

Mrs. Edward Howard, who has been in the hospital the past week, was at home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell made a trip to Birmingham Saturday.

Miss Jenkins, Miss Klingelhoefer and Mrs. S. E. Norton spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Mr. Palmer Williams, a brother of Mr. C. M. Williams, has moved to Thorsby and lives in the house recently vacated by John Billingsley.

Mrs. K. R. Peterson and daughter, Norma, were visitors in Thorsby on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin and Peggy Mims and Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Franklin motored to Montgomery on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. H. Collins, who is in the Bryce hospital at Tuscaloosa, is improving some.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Merchant had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Marcus Saturday night.

Mr. A. W. Martin of Montgomery spent the week end in Thorsby with relatives and friends.

Mrs. A. W. Martin and Mrs. Jim Nix are reported on the sick list this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner Gamble and baby, Patsy, spent the week end in Dadeville with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Homer G. Carlton and daughter, Jean, of Dadeville, are spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pate and Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Pate of Clanton spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pate.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Willis and Mrs. S. J. Davenport returned home last Friday from Billingsley where they spent several days due to the illness and death of Mr. Willis's mother.

Mrs. S. J. Davenport spent the week end in Birmingham with her husband, Mr. S. J. Davenport.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Raybon, Mrs. M. J. Primm, Mrs. J. H. Goddard, and Mrs. Eva Brown of Auburn motored to Prattville Monday and spent the day with Dr. and Mrs. Odom.

Misses Jessie Martin and Louise Robinson were dinner guests of Miss Edna Raybon Sunday.

Mrs. S. M. Connatser spent the week end in Birmingham with Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Scott.

Mrs. Lelia Martin and daughter, Miss Jessie Martin, made a business trip to Birmingham Monday.

Mr. Grady Collins and Mrs. Leonard Hayes spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Littleton.

Miss Lottis Bean of Collins Chapel community spent Monday night with her sister, Mrs. Clyde Meade.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Calloway of Cooper spent Sunday and Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Erchel Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moore and daughter, Ernestine, of Billingsley, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Smith and Everie, and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Billingsley, of Clanton, visited Mr. J. R. Martin Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Marcus of Clanton spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Marcus.

Mrs. J. E. Each, Misses Juanita, Lucile and Marie, spent the week end in Birmingham with Mr. and Mrs. William Each and Mr. Cecil Each.

Mrs. Wilburt Marcus and Glenn Hayes spent Monday in Clanton with Mr. and Mrs. Posey Marcus.

Mrs. Eva Brown of Auburn is spending this week end with her sister, Mrs. M. J. Primm.

The Misses Irene Greene and Sarah Greene, both boarding students of Thorsby Institute spent the past week end in Isabella community with Miss Sarah Green's parents.

Mr. E. E. Porter spent Saturday in Montgomery.

Miss Mary Sue Porter spent Sunday with Miss Conradine Pate.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bean and daughters, Frances and Marion, and son, Billy, and Lillian Smith, of Clanton visited Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Bean Sunday.

Mrs. Bob Smith attended church services at New Salm Church Sunday.

Misses Helen and Carolyn Albert spent the week end in Shelby with relatives and friends.

Miss Wilma Goodgame and Mr. Herman Robinson both celebrated the anniversary of their birthdays at the home of Miss Goodgame Sunday. Misses Mary Louise Baes and Katheryn Bates were invited guests.

A party was given at the home of Mrs. E. H. Marcus, January 31st, in honor of Miss Mary Gladys Childress' birthday. Those present were Jack Goodgame, Lucile Goodgame, Bernice Robinson, Marvin Martin, Joe Eastburn, Bernice Collins and Thomas Hays. After many games were played refreshments were served.

Miss Bernice Robinson of Clanton spent the week end with Miss Mary Gladys Childress.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Primm, Mrs. Gladys Primm, Mrs. Robert Williams, Miss Julia Ann Primm and Mr. Clayton Lightsey, of Randolph, visited Mrs. M. J. Primm and other relatives in Thorsby Sunday afternoon.

Christian Endeavor

The Christian Endeavor Society had a party in the dining hall of Thorsby Institute last Saturday from 7:00 to 9:30. New games were played after which a hymn, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds," was sung. We were glad to have Miss Davison present and to help out with the games and song. An enjoyable evening was had by all.

Thorsby Institute News

At the beginning of the second semester three new pupils, Hattie Porter, Louise Robinson and Edna Tracey, were enrolled.

A week from Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock the music department of Thorsby Institute will present a program in the auditorium. All are cordially invited to this recital.

A DECEASED BROTHER

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me the space in your valuable paper to add, with others, a word of testimony to Rev. Joseph E. Each.

I first met Brother Each in Atlanta, Georgia, in 1908, when he entered the Atlanta Theological Seminary. At the time I was pastor of Marietta Street Congregational Church. Being a graduate of the 1906 class I was interested in the Seminary and the men who entered there for their ministerial training.

During the first term I invited Mr. Each to preach for us at a morning service. He accepted the invitation. He delivered a good sermon which we all enjoyed.

After 1909 we did not see each other often, as I moved away. In 1927 it was my great pleasure to accept a call to this field here in West Florida which he had served so acceptably to the churches for several years. From here he went to Thorsby where he has labored so efficiently until his death.

Since coming here we have been together constantly. We were always happy to meet at Association and State Conferences, as well as at Vanderbilt Rural Church school, and at Blue Ridge M. E. M. Conference. Usually we were roommates at such places and I always found him to be so kind and agreeable, with the thought of others before himself. We always enjoyed visiting each other with our families and having a good fellowship together. In this way I learned to love him as a brother and friend as well as a minister.

[illegible] a great shock to us and the community when we received the sad news of his passing. I will not say death, for to live in the hearts of friends after one is gone is not to die. We can hardly realize that he is gone. In our church work we will miss him so much. I will miss him as a roommate and his kindly greeting "How are you?" each morning at our gatherings with his genial smile and kindly hand clasp. He loved these meetings and he will always be with us in memory but I will not have his personal fellowship as before.

To know him was to love him and while he is gone I shall always cherish his memory. Our loss is heaven's gain. He was faithful to every duty and I know that he is now enjoying a well earned reward of eternal life awarded him by our Heavenly Father.

I was glad that it was so that I could attend the funeral and extend not only my own but the deepest hearfelt sympathy of all those who knew him here to his beloved wife and children.

Yes, we had to say to one whom we loved, farewell, but thank God it is not forever.—W. H. Tillman.

RESOLUTIONS TO REV. J. E. EACH

Whereas, our beloved pastor, Rev. Joseph E. Each, has been called from us to the world unseen, we miss him sorely and shall miss him;

Therefore be it resolved, that we put on record our keen sense of a great loss. We shall cherish the memory of our pastor as among the most precious of our possessions. We desire, so far as we can, to carry on in his spirit, the work which he has laid down.

And what has been his spirit?

Let us remind ourselves of his cheerfulness, always; his cordiality, his diligence, his promptness, his orderliness, the neatness of his body, mind and soul, his devotion to his work, to his people, to his God, his sympathy with all the sick, the suffering, the needy; his love of his church and of the world for which his Master died, his desire to bear his full part in the fight against war and ignorance and poverty. Let us not forget his great good humor as shown in his inexhaustable fund of stories, always fresh, apt, witty, clean, pointed, but with never a sting. Let us have his spirit or rather let us aim to honor his memory by having in ourselves the spirit of the Christ, even as our beloved pastor had that spirit.

Finally, let us live in the hope, which we believe was ever his hope, that when our earthly life has ended, for us also the gates of heaven shall open wide, and we, without one missing, shall meet again the loved ones whom now we miss so sorely, and the Lord, who has been and is our light and salvation.

Resolved that these resolutions be spread upon our church records, that a copy of them be furnished to the bereaved family of our Brother Each and that copies be furnished to our county papers and one to the Christian Sun.

Done on the 4th day of February by the Committee of the United Protestant church.—C. M. Williams, Marian Fairbank, E. W. Butler.

"BOLD FRONT" TO BE PRESENTED AT VERBENA

A two-act musical comedy, "A Bold Front," sponsored by Mrs. Irby Deramus, will be presented at Verbena High School auditorium, Friday night, February 9, at 8 o'clock. The cast consists of Verbena's most talented actors and a chorus of ten peppy pretty girls entertaining with lively theme songs. Come and spend an enjoyable evening. Admission 10c, 15c and 25c.

OLD TIME SINGING AT BETHSALEM SUNDAY P. M.

There will be an old time singing in the Sacred Harp and Christian Harmony, at Bethsalem, next Sunday afternoon, February 11th. Everybody invited.—J. T. Askew.

MT. PLEASANT — WARNING

We, the undersigned citizens, patrons and trustees of Mt. Pleasant, do hereby warn the public that unless you have business at this place please do not trespass around the school unless it is during the school hours. If so, you might be caught with the wrong crowd and be subject to the laws of the court. Please take warning and stay away and save trouble. —Lee A. Popwell, Joe A. Logan, J. E. Miner, trustees.

PATES CHAPEL

Rev. M. Lockhart filled his place at the pulpit Saturday night and Sunday. He brought to us a couple of messages that were well rendered. They were discussed in B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. His text Saturday night was taken from the whale book "Jonah" and Sunday from the life of "Apostle Paul. We were indeed glad to see the goodly number out Saturday night and Sunday. We need not ask if you enjoyed the sermons for we know you did. We want you to come again. If you find a welcome tell others, if not tell us.

Mrs. Harrison Hayes of Thorsby happened to be the lucky one. She got the bed spread and little Miss Zelma Hayes won a beautiful doll for selling the most chances.

Rev. M. Lockhart spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion, and had dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maddox.

This community got word that Rev. Maurice Hodgens wanted to preach a sermon at Pates Chapel. Anyone that sees him can tell him that he can come anytime he can make arrangements. We talked it over with our pastor Sunday and he thought it wonderful if we could get him. We would be glad to give him an hour any Sunday or Sunday night, or even two hours if he wanted them.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Sewell of Birmingham were visitors to her mother, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maddox, also Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Scott of Clanton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Franklin of Pleasant Grove were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cleckler Sunday.

Messrs. Mildred and Martha Hayes, Carrie Bolton, Clara Smith were dinner guests of Misses Lorene and Lucile Cleckler Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Hayes were the spend the day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vastine Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rainwater, accompanied by Mrs. Lee Hayes, visited Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Manning of Thorsby Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hayes were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes and family.

Miss Zemma Hayes went to Birmingham Sunday for a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Grady Sewell.

School News

Our school attendance was better this week than last. We had more absent last week than we have had in one week yet. It was on account of the weather.

The third grade geography class are building eskimo land. They are making their sleighs now, and are having great fun.

We have already finished the fourth month's tests and have our report cards.

Last Friday evening the school children and teacher went into the woods hunting different kinds of leaves and trees. Everyone enjoyed themselves.

We appreciate the wood that has been brought, but we still need some. We hope the parents that have not brought any will do so, as we need it very much.

Most everyone is doing fine in their classes this year. We like to see our teacher smile at us when we try to do what is right. Our teacher is the best one in Alabama, always smiling no matter what happens.

We are working hard trying to catch up so as to get another coat of paint on our church and school building.

JOHN CRAWFORD SEES TRAIN FILLED WITH MANY PEOPLE

John Crawford, negro of Clanton, relates to The Union-Banner another vision. He says he has had the same impression twice. The first time he refrained from telling people about it, but it came to him again, and he felt that he must let it be known.

He said he saw a long train filled with many people, which ran at full speed until it came to the middle of a large open field. There the fuel gave out and the train had to stop, leaving all the people in great plight. While he was viewing the train and the people someone took his arm and showed him the only tree in the field. This tree was entwined with vines and the vines were covered with ripe muscadines.

John interprets the vision as meaning that the government, which is caring for so many of its people now, will run out of fuel, or money, and the people will be left with nothing to do and nowhere to go. This will come early this fall when muscadines are ripe. He is anxious that people remember this and see if it comes true as he has forseen it.

THANKS FROM PARRISH FAMILY

The family and children of the recently deceased Rev. M. J. Parrish wish to express their thanks to friends who were so kind and helpful during their bereavement. We especially want to thank Mrs. Lum Robinson, Mrs. Sam Powell, Mrs. Mell Martin and Dr. N. S. Johnson. Everyone who extended help and sympathy have our gratitude and prayers. —Mrs. Arrie Parrish, Family and Children.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of Alabama Power Company:

In this letter we are giving you some facts regarding the relation to Alabama Power Company of our holding company, The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation. These facts are presented for the purpose of correcting a current misconception regarding that relationship.

The statement has been made by many aspirants for political office that the holding company, which owns all the Alabama Power Company common stock, is "milking Alabama Power Company at the expense of the public." By this it is intended to convey the impression that The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation drains the Alabama Power Company of revenues received, thereby adding to the Cost of your electric service.

Like many other statements made by those who do not have the facts, this is erroneous. Actually the very opposite is true.

Within the past four years The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation has put more than $20,000,000 into Alabama Power Company to enlarge and improve the system and service and retire certain prior obligations of Alabama Power Company. For this money, the holding company received common stock. The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation already owned the entire common stock interest in Alabama Power Company; therefore these additional common stock investments did not improve the earnings position of the holding company. On the other hand, through this aid from the holding company your service has not only been improved but much has been done to strengthen the security of bond and preferred stockholders, who invested their money in Alabama to help us furnish you with adequate, dependable and low cost electric service.

Yours very truly,

President.

The Forgotten Man

The PWA and CWA and other terms of federal relief have in turn entered the field and the man who was down and out is probably in a better position than he has been in years. The man with plenty of money, of course, is sitting pretty now as always. The man in between, the man who owns and operates his own farm or a small business, the man who pays his taxes when they are due and tries to educate his children, the man who has been working hard to keep his credit good by paying and buying only what he can pay for, that man is the Forgotten Man in the present scheme of things.

Take the farmer on a quarter section farm of his own, for example. Relief has been provided for those who do not pay their taxes but he pays his when due even if he does not buy coal for the winter. The NRA raises the price on many things he has to buy but he has to sell his butterfat at the lowest price in years and his hogs for less than the cost of the feed put into them in 90 days. His income is getting smaller every day. His neighbor who rents a farm can get on the CWA job at 55 cents an hour but he cannot because he is not on the relief rolls. If he remains the Forgotten Man for many more moons he will be eligible for the relief rolls.

Then take the merchant, for another example. His costs have gone up because of the NRA. Some articles cost him as much as 50 per cent more than they did a few months ago, but the buying power of his customers has not increased proportionately. He has to sell higher and his sales fall off. How long will it be before his name is on the relief rolls?

Yes, the government is taking care of the poor. The rich can take care of themselves. The man in between is the Forgotten Man today. The army of middle class people who have been saving every cent toward a modest competence for the rainy day or old age, the vast majority which comprise the backbone of our American civilization, is in danger today.

The materials of education are not books, courses or laboratory equipment. They are human beings, each different in some manner, often in vital manner. It is primarily with the individual that education must do its work—not cramming, packing and filling, not putting in or imparting anything, but getting something out, developing, stimulating, stirring the mental process and turning them to fruitful endeavor.

France wants to send us some "cancellation" wine to use in celebrating our repeal parties.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

A great many people are wondering why it is necessary to have a two billion dollar stabilization fund to steady the dollar in the financial markets of the world, and to keep it within the range from fifty to sixty cents of its former gold value. But, financial experts in New York who specialize in the study of foreign exchange are of the opinion that the sum is none too large for the purpose. Great Britain has been doing pretty well controlling the pound with a stabilization fund of $1,800,000,000 but the conditions are entirely different.

The difficulty in the United States, so the experts tell us, will not be to keep the dollar from dropping below the fifty cent level, but to keep it from soaring above sixty cents. There are several reasons for this. First of all, the United States has for years had a surplus of exports over imports. This has tended to keep the dollar strong, because foreign nations have had to give us gold when striking a trade balance.

Then again, now that the dollar seems to be in sight of stabilization, a lot of money which fled from our country in 1933 will be coming back home. The money was sent abroad and converted into European money or securities because the owners felt that we were going to have inflation and the value of the dollar might go almost to nothing. When they get over the fear the money will be coming balk home. In fact, there are indications that some of it is already doing so. When this money is brought home it is converted into dollars or Ameridan securities and this results in the strengthening of the dollar. There is a third reason why there may be greater strength in the dollar. Many Europeans believe that with virtual stabilization of our money on a fity to sixty cent basis there will be a rise in American stocks. Some of them, therefore, will invest money in American securities with a consequent strengthennig of our dollar.

During the past few months, with our money fleeing to Europe, with Europeans disposing of American securities and taking their money home, the tide has been against the dollar, so that it has been comparatively easy to depress it. But with the tide now flowing the other way the tendency will be for the dollar, when left alone, will soar toward the old par. In order to prevent this our government with its stabilization fund will have to "sell dollars" and so depress the market for them. It will take a lot of money to do this especially when the natural direction of the dollar is upward. Our exchange manipulators will be rowing against the current.

On the other hand, if our cheap dollar interferes with British foreign trade, it will then be only natural for Great Britain to use some of its stabilization fund to depress the pound sterling and enhance the value of the dollar. This will take less money because the British will be "rowing with the current" while we are contending against it. If the situation gets out of hand this might result in a first class currency war, in which all nations having foreign trade would suffer. It is to be hoped and expected, however, that matters will not be permitted to drift as far as this. Certainly a stabilization of the dollar and the pound on an equitable basis will be the happy solution if it can be arrived at.

Our Business Future

Financial news services just now are emphasizing the fact that business since the first of the year seems to be making more than seasonal gains and this is taken to presage an even greater upturn in the spring. Everyone will devoutly hope that this prediction is to be realized. It will be wise, however, to temper our optimism with a note of caution just at this time. This is not taken to mean that we should be pessimistic, but that we ought not permit our hopefulness to rise to the point where we are involved in speculation if things do not turn out quite so rosy as some of the prognosticators are predicting. The reason for making this statement is that no financial expert can be sure just how much of this increased business we are now getting is due to the millions in government money which are now being poured out in the country through relief jobs. It is pointed out that during January money was being expended at the rate of fifteen billions a year. This temporarily increases the buying power, but unless it primes the pump of private industry there may be another reaction when the government spending slows up, as it must do some time in the future. The greatest reason for long time optimism now is not the government relief program but the fact that there is a world-wide improvement of business and that few depressions fail to reach the bottom at the end of four years, and we have now passed that period.

The situation was strikingly summed up the other day by Frank R. Kent, noted newspaper writer, in the Baltimore Sun, one of the leading Democratic newspapers of the country, as follows:

"The truth is that at this time the whole country is buoyed up by government money. The great bulk of its business is being done on government money. The great bulk of the re-employed are on the government payroll. The railroads are financed by the government; thousands of banks are being upheld by government loans; corporations, municipalities and states themselves are functioning on government funds. There is practically no purely private work being done. All the contracts are government contracts. The farmers have received hundreds of millions of Treasury cash, and the Civil Works payroll is now upward of $60,000,000 a week.

"This stream of federal cash has been pouring out for months. This year it will be greater and the flow faster. Naturally, it is impossible that while the flood continues business should not be stimulated, unemployment reduced and distress relieved. The point is, however, that the government is doing it all, and it cannot last forever. The time must come when the deficit and debt limit is reached. The president fixes that date in 1936. Then, he hopes, private business will have its initiative restored and the government be able to shut off the stream and save itself.

"There are those who think it can and those who think it cannot. One school believes that, by 1936, the world recovery, plus crop shortage, will have placed both industry and agriculture on their feet; that private concerns will employ those now on the dole and business generally be able to get along without the government billions.

"The other school believes the government will not be able to retrench; that the billions of farmers, unemployed, banks, railroads and contractors will continue to be demanded; that there can be no backward step in the course to which the administration is committed; that private industry will not absorb those now on the federal payroll; that inflation is the only answer. At any rate, it will be comforting to most people that the supreme court has not dealt a crippling blow to the experiments before we know which is right.

Little Fellow's Complaint

The way most of the great nidustrial leaders of the country hailed the NRA and greeted the Blue Eagle with enthusiasm when the code system got under way was decidedly encouraging, albeit a matter of mild astonishment, to those who thought that the act was the final solution of our economic difficulties, and the rescue of the forgotten man. It was pointed out with pride that even big business had taken on a patriotic hue, that the New Deal had induced the lion and the lamb to lie down in peace together. True it is that General Johnson had to do a little rough talking occasionally, but generally the industrial leaders got along pretty well with him. Perhaps, they thought, since it was reported that General Johnson had been selected for the job on the recommendation of Barney Baruch, he could not be entirely of the social revolutionary type.

Now it begins to appear that the enthusiasm of the industrial leaders was not so unselfish and patriotic as appeared on the surface. We are being told by the progressive senators that the NRA is undesignedly aiding big business to put the little independent dealer out of business. There has been much protesting on the part of the little fellow. He has declared that the NRA permits big business not only to combine to regulate trade practices but also to regulate prices in such a way as to crush the little business man and the independent dealer.

For several years past we have been told by the big fellows that the way to save business was to repeal the Sherman anti-trust law. To repeal this law is clearly impossible in the present temper of congress but it would appear that the same thing has been accomplished indirectly in the NRA. Perhaps big business has been helped but according to the little fellows their lives are being crushed out in the process.

True it is that the little fellow who thinks he has a grievance now has the right, under presidential order, to appeal to the federal trade commission or the Department of Justice. But it is to me doubted whether this will remedy the difficulty. These two governmental departments may bind up the wounds of the injured, but the real damage, according to the Progressive senators, is being done by the setting aside of our anti-trust laws, so permitting the big fellows to exercise the squeezer. But big business can be expected to continue its support of the process. Some day it expects to run the machine all by itself.

In the recent cold snap one of the CWA workers busy putting finishing touches to Mammonton Park decided to stay at home. He didn't care too much for cold weather, and he sent his son to work instead.

Now we might say a whole lot about that man, but the thing that strikes us most is the fact that his son will in all probability be on the CWA rolls, sending his grandson out to work on a cold day, some time in future depressions.

We had hoped that, given an opportunity to work, the hard-hit people would make the most of it. Most of them have, but the fact remains that some of our unfortunates did not get that way from hard work. Lack of ability to cope with life's problems has made far less failures than lack of effort.—Hammonton (N. J.,) News.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

Taking up the Slack

From time to time I read in the papers where relief organizations are releasing men off their rolls to return to their former jobs, the jobs they held before the depression came along and knocked them for a row. Only last week I read where several of the industrial plants in the Birmingham district were calling some of their old workmen back to jobs. For the past several weeks these men have been employed by the various relief organizations, CWA, PWA, and the like, and now they are releasing them back to regular employment, to make room for other unemployed. If this practice grows, as is hoped, these relief works will have served their purpose admirably. That was the purpose in the first place, to tide people over the gap when there was nothing to do. It has been at staggering cost to the government, but the people seem willing to bet the present against the future. If the relief works can accomplish the task of tiding the nation through the winter, and then hold them up until regular jobs open up, and at the same time put money into circulation like new blood to the body, it will have been well worth while. We'll soon know.

The More the Merrier

If that old saying about "the more the merrier" is true, then this election year is bound to be a merry one. If the boys keep tossing their hats in the ring, it will be merry enough for Christmas all year long. Boy! Oh, boy! How the bees are buzzing, and settling in the fellows' bonnets. And when one settles and begins boring, that fellow has to go hunting for the place to announce. The Democrats, too, are being bitten right regularly. They think they smell fresh meat in the air, and they're out after it—every chunk of it. O. K.! We're willing to share the fun, but we're giving fair warning—we'll be training our guns for them. This column is going to keep clear of the primary and watch the scrap and enjoy the fun. But when the real scrap begins and the guns begin to roar back and forth, we'll be found right on that old firing line with the old rifle all oiled and trimmed and spitting fire just as regularly as the big fellows. We may not knock as big holes as the big shots but we'll try to drill as many little ones as they do big ones. Any way, we can kick dust in the enemy's eyes, and maybe that'll help some. So, let them come—the more the merrier.

Think This Over

Maybe it's all right to have free hooch and the like come back—the majority seem to think so, anyway—but tune in your ears to this bit of news, and then judge for yourself. A recent report of the Georgia Division of the Dixie Motor Club shows approximately a fifty per cent jump in January, 1934, in auto fatalities in that state over the report of the same month in 1933. Of course, Georgia, like Alabama, is officially dry, but the very feeling that "the good old days" are come back is given as a reason for a slackening in the law enforcement in liquor cases, and the above is the result. The past month showed 51 deaths from auto accidents in January of this year, against 29 for last January. There were 1,866 auto accident against 1,113 for the whole state, and 879 persons were injured, as against 554 for January, 1933. And another check-up shows that no less than 92 per cent of all auto accidents were due to liquor in some way. So, the next time you hear somebody say we ought to have it "like we used to" tell him the above. It's bare facts and figures. Let him try it on his tambourine and see how it rattles.

Smoking for Prosperity

Here's another nice note for the fellows who keep peeping around the corner to catch a flea's eye view of prosperity. Recent reports given out by the U. S. Government show that $335,534,622.00 was turned into the government's tax office by cigarette manufacturers alone. Remember, this was for federal tax alone, the smallest tax of all. State taxes are two or three times that of federal taxes. Then, there are the county and city taxes. It is hard to imagine just what the total would be. Remember, too, that the above figures are for cigarettes, alone—just the "tailor mades." The "roll-your-own" tobacco, chewing tobacco, cigars and snuff are not included. Somebody said not long ago that with the repeal of the 18th Amendment America could levy a tax on liquor and we "could drink ourselves back to prosperity." No need to let liquor do it all. If the above figures are any indication, we can drink, smoke, chew, and spit our way out of the dumps in no time.

Your Mail Carrier

Maybe there are lots of people who take their mail carriers for granted. They have become so used to them that they seem like a fixture. They have become a sure thing, something like the rising of the sun, just like that. Without their mail, rural people would be lost, in a way. So, during the next few weeks, I am going to give you a few articles about our local mail handlers, starting with Mr. Wiley M. Bean, the postmaster here, and running all the way through the list to B. J. Sessions, carrier on Route 7. I will give all the inside dope on "the fellows", or as much as they will tell on themselves. Altogether, they are a jolly, good-natured group, and each and every one of them is well worth knowing better. I will "write up" one man each week, for ten weeks, in the following order: W. M. Bean, postmaster; Luther P. "Jack" Bean, clerk; R. R. Sutley, assistant clerk; Claud M. Baker, city carrier; Grady F. Harris, Route 1; John D. Armstrong, Route 2; Grover C. Harris, Route 3; Edward W. "Boss" Miller, Route 4; John J. "Jack" Mims, Route 5; David D. "Dave" Easterling, Route 6; and Benjamin J. "Ben" Sessions, Route 7. Watch for the article on your carrier, and find out all about him. Maybe you'll come to know him better, and appreciate him more. These fellows come to see you every day, but you may not know them yet.—Man in the Moon.

Who remembers the good old days when college professors weren't supposed to do anything but teach school.

To show how far ahead of his times Shakespeare was, just remember that he coined that phase "full of sound and fury and signifying nothing" and he hadn't even heard of a radio announcer.

Dynamite the Combination

Editor Union-Banner:

The school oligarchy is the key log in the jam that prevents our schools from functioning, and economy in Alabama state government. Dynamite this log and the timber will flow down to the mill with the current and be converted into material that can be used where it is needed.

Dynamite this key log and the office holders trust will go down the creek—salt creek—along with the oligarchy. The people have not had any say as to who shall be our state superintendent in forty years. The oligarchy selects the man to be elected and pressure is brought to bear on teachers by threats of discontinuing the teacher unless her parents (a large majority of teachers are ladies) vote for the man the oligarchy selects.

The only way to knock loose this iniquitous combination is by the people electing the county superintendents of education. There will be less graft and the children will get the benefit of money appropriated for education by the legislature.

The writer can name at least six judges, some of them on the supreme court bench of the state, that stand in with the oligarchy, and there are many that I cannot name, that protect from prosecution the members of the oligarchy when school money is misapplied and misused. The court records of the state will bear me out in this statement.

The Department of Agriculture plays with the school oligarchy to a fare-you-well. So does the extension service; said service is at the political beck and call of the director, who uses the same tactics as does the school oligarchy. Men employed by the extension service find themselves out of a job, and without a salary if the director's wishes are not complied with. The writer can name upwards of several who were dismissed for no other cause than that of refusing to comply with the bidding of the director on political matters.

It is more difficult to catch men in other departments with the goods, but the office-holder's trust is organized to use the 85 men and women in the extension service in putting over whoever the oligarchy and extension service desires to hold office. This is prima facia evidence that whoever is selected by the oligarchy can be used, not for the benefit of all the people, but for the benefit of the grafters.

Some favored men get a rake off from the text book trust, and I miss my guess if some on this graft at the expense of the little ignorant children of the state. Why does this crowd of worthies oppose the state manufacutring text books? A million dollars can be saved annually by the state printing our text books. One of the normal school plants can be used as a bindery. We have university graduates in the penitentiary, as well as printers. Why not use the services of these men, rather than grow corn at $3.60 per bushel.

The oligarchy say "copright owned by the book trust will prevent use of their text books." My grandfather was a teacher. When he came out of the Revolutionary War he made his own text books, and if the man at the head of Alabama Education System cannot make text books, they are not the men we need to control our schools. A business man at the head of the school system would save the people millions of dollars.

It is not more money that is needed, but honest, efficient management with fewer fads, do-dads, supervisors and supernumeraries. At least seventy-five per cent of the crowd in the state superintendent's office can be eliminated without injurious effect on our schools. If the State Superintendent of Education spent more time in his office and less time in the lobby at the capitol, there would be no need to throw away $208,000.00 on the superintendent's office. This amount is two-thirds of the amount appropriated for education forty-five years ago. We had at this time more patriotism, more integrity among officials and more thorough education than at the present time with millions of dollars for education of children of the state.

Taxpayers of Alabama, vote for no man for the house or senate who refuse to pledge his vote and influence for the election by the people of the county superintendent. Exact also a pledge for printing our own text books and compel by law the superintendent to distribute the text books to the county superintendents and the county superintendents to the teachers, and by so doing save fifteen per cent now unnecessarily paid for the service.

Folks, if you want the children of Alabama to be educated, dynamite with your vote the present combination at Montgomery, which prevents economy in government as well as efficiency in our school system.—G. T. McElderry, Talladega, Ala.

Discussion After Battle

Just why did we go into the World War anyhow? The declaration itself, as passed by congress, indicated that we went into the fight against Germany because the imperial government was violating our rights on the high seas by attacking our shipping, and committing other unfriendly acts. The ideaists at the time told us we were fighting to preserve civilization, to make the world safe for democracy, and last but not least were waging a war to end all wars. The objective set out by Congress was accomplished—Germany no longer attacks our shipping, but the program of idealists was not realized.

But now comes Father Coughlin, the noted Detroit radio priest, with another theory of why we went into the great struggle. In one of his recent Sunday radio addresses, Father Coughlin blamed the financiers for getting us into the war. He declared that we entered the war to save the allied nations from financial collapse and to protect credits extended by American financiers to the allies.

He stated that at the time of our entering the war Great Britain had overdrawn her account with J. P. Morgan and Company in the sum of $400,000,000 and that this overdraft was later paid by the American government out of the proceeds of the first Liberty loan.

In support of his contention that we entered the war to avert a world-wide financial panic, Father Coughlin read a letter written by the American ambassador to England on March 5, 1917, about a month before we entered the war, to President Wilson, in which the ambassador told of the impending world-wide financial panic and stated that sufficient credit could not be extended to Great Britain and France without declaring war against Germany. In summing up the after effects of the war, Father Coughlin said: "First our factories closed as a result; second the financial structure of Europe was changed; third we reaped the profit of trade stagnation, and fourth we failed to avert a panic. But we did finance the allies—the same allies are now welching on their debts."

If the historians dispute the cause of our entry into the war, there can be no question of the after effects. They are well summed up in the above paragraph.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not

Clanton is honored today by the visitation of many Kiwanis leaders from other towns and cities of Alabama. They have come here to compare notes and ideas concerning the objectives of Kiwanis in the District for the coming year. Our central location at the crossroads of Alabama makes it easy for people to gather here. We are glad to have the directing minds of Kiwanis as our guests. Let us take particular pains to make them feel our spirit of welcome and cordiality. At noon Thursday the group will have luncheon with John Hollis at Mitchell Dam, and spend the afternoon there, engaged in both business and pleasure.

The subject of safety is scheduled for some pointed consideration here during the coming weeks. The Red Cross, together with C.W.A., is beginning a program of training for a select group of people in improved methods of safety and first aid. One or more doctors will have direction of the school of instruction. This program will have practical application as an advantage to C.W.A. workers, and to all people who may need first aid treatment.

Some folks can keep secrets, believe it or not. My old friend, Rev. P. G. Carter, has been in Central Alabama Hospital for a week, and I never found it out until Tuesday when he called for me to come to see him. He underwent an operation a week ago, and since that time has not been able to receive visitors. Now he is able to greet his friends, and I am sure he will have plenty of callers as soon as his presence in our midst becomes known. He said to me Tuesday with a chuckle, "When we were beginning to build the Central Alabama Hospital a dozen years ago I never thought of having any use for it myself, and already this is the second time I have had occasion to come here for medical or surgical treatment."

A few but representative group of people on last Friday had the rare privilege of hearing an address by Mr. Speer, director of federal re-employment work in Alabama, delivered at the Chilton County High School. I am glad I heard it, because it gave me a renewed faith in the ability and determination of the American people to set up a new social and economic order.

A squadron of Sons of the American Legion is to be organized under direction and supervision of Chilton County Post No. 6. Application for a charter will be sent to Montgomery the first of next month. Boys, if your dad was a soldier, push him into the Legion so you can join the Sons of the Legion. It is going to be heaps of fun and of much benefit to the youngsters.

Old friend, Dan Carlos, the man with the monkey show, breezed this way during the past week. He furnished a round of entertainment for the school children. Dan is a clean, honest, upright gentleman, I have no doubt. He thinks good thoughts, and helps uplift those with whom he comes into contact.

T. A. Maddox says he is not out of the race for Commissioner by a jug full. He knows he will be in it till the first of May, and he firmly believes he will be in it until the general election in November. Mr. Maddox served as commissioner once before. I will not say how long. I might miss it, as I did in the case of John Bean last week. Anyhow, they were both good officers. If the people want them to serve again, they can and will do it. If the people want somebody else, that will be all right too. So there you are, gentlemen. Walk right up to the lick log and take your choice.

Have you had your ride in the 1934 Plymouth? I did with Clay Marcus Tuesday. I don't want anybody to know it. No, I am not ashamed of it. I am glad of it. What I mean is I don't want Luther Foshee, Dick Hayes, Tom Littlejohn, and all these other automobile salesmen to think I am fixing to buy a new car. Not that I care for being interviewed by them and taken to ride, but I just don't want to fool them into thinking they have a prospect, when I know they haven't—not with me. No, Sir. But for all that, I am glad to say that I have had all three brands of the 1934 ride, and I like all of them. I can recommend them to anybody. But if you are a prospect, you will have to let the sales boys help you decide which you want. I can't tell you. In fact, I think I have already said too much on the subject. I will quit before I make it any worse.

Be careful with your dish water, ladies. First thing you know you will fling it out the back door and right smack in the face of some candidate it will land. And with all the prospective and hopeful public servants, I have heard of only one who aspires to sacrifice himself in the interest of our schools. Membership on our school board is, I think, the most important office to be filled. But it is not an attractive and profitable post, not if you count profits in terms of dollars and cents.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

CORN-HOG MEETINGS HELD IN ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala., Jan. 6.—Preliminary to actual signing of corn-hog reduction contracts by Alabama farmers, a number of meetings have been held over the state for the projecting of plans by county agents. Dr. R. S. Sugg and F. W. Burns, of the extension service, have explained details of the contracts with agents at these meetings.

It is expected that active signing of the contracts will start within the next few days. "Many farmers who raise corn and hogs commercially are expected to take advantage of the government's offer of premiums for reducing the number of hogs and for renting corn lands taken out of production," said Dr. Sugg.

"The Agricultural Adjustment Administration is attempting to reduce the production of corn and hogs with a view of raising the prices of these two commodities. Therefore, the AAA will pay rent for corn land according to fertility and will pay a premium on hogs if producers will reduce the number of pigs farrowed and sold," he said.

Under the plan, corn acreage must be reduced 20 per cent of the 1932-33 average. Producers may then receive 30 cents a bushel for corn which this rented land was capable of producing. The contract calls for a 25-per cent reduction in pigs farrowed and sold and provides for a liberal payment.

Since most Alabama farmers fail to produce sufficient corn and hogs for home needs, it is expected that the corn-hog reduction program will appeal mainly to commercial producers.

Detailed information on the plan may be obtained from county agent, J. W. Fant.

REDUCTION CAMPAIGN EXTENDED TO FEB. 15

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 6.—With notification last week from Washington extending the cotton reduction campaign through February 15, Dr. L. N. Duncan, extension service director, advised county agents to continue acceptance of contracts until that time.

The acreage already rented to the secretary of agriculture during the month of January has surpassd by several thousand the number taken out of production in 1933, and Dr. Duncan urged agents to complete the sign-up in all unfinished areas as soon as possible.

Latest tabulations at Auburn showed over 900,000 acres have been retired from cotton production in 1934-35. It is etsimated that the total acreage to be retired will approach the million mark within a few days.

From present indications, Alabama will be one of the first states to reach the quota of 40 per cent reduction in cotton acreage. This will mean that over 10 million dollars in benefit and rental payments will be paid to Alabama farmers for limiting the 1934 production to 2,000,000 acres.

County agents in practically every county of Alabama have reported splendid cooperation on the part of the farmers in reducing the supply of cotton in order to regulate its price. They feel that the success of the plow-up campaign last summer demonstrated beyond doubt the value of present plan. It is believed that cotton would have sold for five or six cents per pound in 1933 if the full crop had been harvested.

BRIEF RURAL TOPICS

Questionnaires have been sent to 50,000 southern farmers by the secretary of agriculture for the purpose of "sounding out" the reaction in the south toward some form of compulsory cotton control. The government itself is not proposing compulsion but wishes to ascertain the sentiment in the south.

Over 10 million dollars will be paid to Alabama farmers for participation in the 1934 cotton reduction campaign. Indications are that Alabama will "go over the top" with a sign-up of more than a million acres to be withheld from cotton this year.

Alabama poultrymen and hatcherymen are signing NRA codes. As a result they will receive a fair price for their products and the influx of cheap baby chicks into the state from other sections of the country will be obviated.

Center, Ala.—Until otherwise disproved the state champion cotton contract writer is T. A. Young of Cherokee County.

It is thought that his securing of 148 contracts in 12 days will stand as the state record. Mr. Young, after appointment as a local committeeman, obtained a contract from every grower in his beat in less than the allotted time.

His speedy work was accomplished by staying over-night and establishing temporary headquarters at a farmer's home in the center of an uncompleted area. The children of his host served as messengers to bring the surrounding farmers to "headquarters" for the sign-up.

SENATE COMMITTEE APPROVES THE $45,000,000 SEED LOAN BILL

Indications are that the United States Congress will immediately pass a seed loan bill making available $45,000,000 to small farmers who do not have sufficient security for obtaining crop production credit elsewhere, according to information reaching Alabama from Senator John H. Bankhead. The bill provides for a maximum of $250 for each borrower.

Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture today received a letter from Senator Bankhead stating that "the committee on agriculture has reported the Smith bill continuing the seed loans for this year" and that it was agreed to go forward with the bill.

Senator Bankhead stated that the total amount asked for in the bill was $45,000,000. Fifty-seven million dollars was the total amount of the loans in the United States last year, Bankhead said..

"I m sure the bill will be passed with little delay," he concluded.

FORESTRY IN THE PLANS FOR STATE DEVELOPMENT

Montgomery, Ala. — That forestry will occupy an important place in the plans to be made for the development of the state appeared likely from the discussions at the first meeting of the state planning board held at Montgomery February 1. Colonel Henry T. McIntosh, regional public works administrator, who met with the board, proposed the development and proper use of forests as one of the essentials to sound state planning.

Dr. L. N. Duncan, executive head of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, was elected chairman and Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester, was chosen vice chairman. The other members of the board comprise Frederick I. Thompson, Milton H. Fies, Dr. A. F. Harman and Dr. L. N. Duncan. Meeting with the board in an advisory capacity were Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer and Dr. Geo. Davis, engineer of the public works advisory board.

It is expected that a technical expert in planning and coordination will be assigned to the board by the federal government in the comparatively near future. The promotion of forestry, industry, agriculture and other basic systems of production will comprise important elements of the plans to be formulated and coordinated for a well balanced state.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala.—A band taken from a sea gull found with a broken wing at the head of Kowaliga Creek in Coosa County in December has been sent by the state game and fisheries department to the U. S. bureau of biological survey to ascertain where the gull was released and if it belongs to the family of laughing gulls.

Laughing gulls, sometimes called black-headed gulls, may be found at all seasons in the bays and harbors and about the islands and bars of the Alabama gulf coast. These birds which are migratory, feed on crustaceans and insects and many Alabama fishermen have been mocked by their high, clear "ha-ha-ha-ha's."

The band on the leg of the gull found in Coosa County, which is far inland for a sea gull, asked that the biological survey be notified, and bore the number: "A 539004."

Reports on game conditions read at recent New York meeting of the Southern Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners revealed that probably 60 per cent of all game hunted in the United States ranges below the Mason-Dixon line.

Game Commissioner I. T. Quinn of Alabama, who is president of the association, said this estimate was based upon the fact that 60 per cent of all shot gun shells sold in this country are sold in the south.

Baldwin County oyster tongers are jubilant over the success of the state planting program in Bon Secour waters.

A group of tongers from that county called at the department of game and fisheries recently and left a bushel basket of full grown oysters in the shell havested from the bottom restocked by the state about three years ago.

"These are the famous Baldwin County Crustaceans," said Commissioner I. T. Quinn, "and if more CWA funds are made available the state will expand its planting program to include this area."

Janet—Oh, Proffy, what do you think of me now that you've kissed me?

Proffy—You'll pass.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

We had the best attendance at Sunday school Sunday that we have had in some time. We are glad to see our school growing, but we have more room yet and hope to see some more of our members come out to Sunday school. We hope to have a large crowd next Sunday at 10 o'clock.

The young people are going to put on a temperance program next Sunday and we want lots of folks present to hear them and encourage them as much as we can. We feel that the fathers and mothers are falling short of this duty to the young people. Visitors are always welcome to visit us.—A Reader.

CODE APPROVAL LIFTS PAY ROLLS UP TO 120 PER CENT

Washington.—Approval of a code of fair competition of the bed manufacturing industry, which became effective January 29, raises minimum wages in the South to approximately double those of June 1, 1933. In the North average wage increases to employees receiving the minimum will be 50 per cent. Employers estimate that their total pay rolls will be increased by from 60 to 120 per cent, not only because of the increased minimum and reduced number of working hours, but also because of the provision in the code that no employees shall receive less pay for the 40-hour week than was formerly received for the longer work-hour week. All labor provisions of this code are subject to review by the Administrator of NRA after July 1, 1934. In his letter informing President Roosevelt of the code's approval, General Johnson said it is estimated the code will cause reemployment of all the industries' workers, based on 1929 employment figures and probably from 7 to 10 per cent more than were employed during the 1929 peak.

Reemployment will vary from 28 to 31 per cent over that of June 1, 1933. Employees in this industry, now cut to 40 hours a week, formerly worked from 60 to 72 hours a week.

DR. BAKER OFFERS ADVICE ON RABIES

Letter Received From Man Bitten By Mad Dog Cited By Health Officer

According to Dr. J. N. Baker, State health officer, a letter which he received recently brings out forcibly two of the most vital questions concerning the control of rabies. In it the owner of a dog states that his animal was bitten by a supposedly mad dog slightly over two months ago, and he immediately confined it. since the animal remained apparently normal, it was released about a week ago. A few days afterwards the dog, while playing bit the man severely on the hand. Now, the problem presented by this correspondent is relative to the advisability of treatment.

The primary question which arises is whether or not there is any possibility of the dog being infected with rabies. Information which has been carefully collected over a number of years indicates that the incubation period—that is the interval between the time of the bite or of the exposure and the first appearance of symptoms—varies from eight days to one year, with an average of two to eight weeks. This wide variation is due to the severity and site of the wound. Since the relatively long or relatively short incubation are rare, and this dag has been confined for over two months, the chances that it will later develop the disease are small, yet, as Dr. Baker said, "there is a chance and in rabies it does not pay to take chances. Therefore, in my opinion, this dog should not be entirely freed from suspicion. It will be noticed, also, that no mention is made concerning prophylactic injections with canine vaccine. I believe that such a precaution is most essential when it is desired to keep any dog which has been exposed. In this case, as in all others, treatment should have been administered immediately after the dog had been bitten."

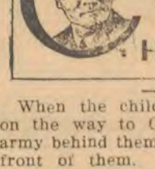
Secondly, since the owner has been bitten what chance has he of becoming infected if the animal really has rabies but has not as yet shown symptoms of it? The saliva of the mad animal constitutes the main menace and to become effective it must be inoculated directly into the tissue. For this reason it is important to know exactly how long before an animal exhibits symptoms that it is actually dangerous. Experiments have demonstrated that the saliva may contain the infectious material 12 days before the disease is recognized.

"In view of the known facts," remarked Dr. Baker, "I advised this individual to confine the suspected dog for two weeks or longer. If at the end of that period the animal has not acted peculiarly, in any way the owner is automatically freed from anxiety concerning the wound he received. On the other hand, if symptoms should appear at any time during this interval, treatment should be commenced at once. This advice applies merely to the present wound and not to any which he may subsequently receive from the same animal. Similar detention periods would be necessary after each bite occuring before the maximum incubation period—one year—in the dog."

Rev. S. J. Ezell left Sunday to carry his father back to Chesnee, S. C. Mrs. Ezell accompanied them, and will visit her mother, who is seriously ill. They expect to return home about Friday or Saturday of this week.

Vincent and Clyde Ward have been confined to their bed the last few days with flu.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.



When the children of Israel were on the way to Canaan they had an army behind them and the Red Sea in front of them. They were on the highway of God's purpose for them. The children of Israel had been redeemed by a miracle working person. We Christians have been redeemed by a miracle working person, our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. We are on the highway of God's purpose for us. We have Satanic powers following us and obstacles before us. Our hope of victory is in the power of a conquering Christ.

"Whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God." We read these words in the fourth verse of the fourth chapter of James. They are definite. They are clear. You can't be on both sides. You can't be neutral. The world is God's enemy. If you are a friend of God's enemy, you are an enemy of God. The word "world" means the great unregenrated mass of humanity and the organized system which these leaders have built. This system is organized against Jesus. It is the same system which nailed Him to a cross. It is the same system which would nail Him to a cross again. It is a system controlled by Satan, the enemy of our Lord. The churches have many members who line up with God's enemy and then say, "Our Father, who art in heaven." These are of their father, the devil.

Jesus tells us that the preaching of the gospel is like the sowing of seed. Some of the seed fall by the wayside and the birds eat the seed. Some fall in stony ground. Some of it falls among the briars and does not grow because it is chocked to death by the briars. Some of the seed fall into good ground and bring forth good harvest. A preacher of the gospel is not responsible for the soil. He is responsible for the sowing. His business is to be sure he has the right seed and to be a faithful sower.

The infant (one week old) son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie R. Mims, of Temple community, died Monday night and was buried Tuesday at the Temple. Rev. W. P. Mims officiating.

his leadership and the hearty cooperation and sacrifices of other teachers, and the patrons of the county, our schools were kept open. Last year he again was one of the leading men to take up the fight against all odds to keep our schools going as far as possible.

This year Mr. Bean has not been employed in school work. But prior to this year he was principal of the Thorsby Public school for eight years in succession. His life's work as a teacher has been done in only three different schools, a record that speaks loud and forceful for his ability to do good school work. Now he is a middle aged man, in the prime of life and usefulness, and his friends point out, just at the right age to make a good public school administrator.

In the election last June Mr. Bean was the Republican candidate for superintendent for the short term. He was defeated by only a small majority. Mr. Bean feels that since the depression prevented many hundreds of Republicans from paying their poll tax, thereby disqualifying themselves, he was defeated. Furthermore, he does not think that such circumstances should be allowed to exclude him from possible future consideration, and that the Republicans ought to give him another chance to redeem himself, which he firmly believes he can do this year, if given the Republican nomination in May.

He does not believe his late defeat was brought about by any other cause than the fact htat so many Republicans were over confident of his election, together with the great number of Republicans who had not paid up their poll tax.

Will Bean is a one hundred per cent loyal Republican. His motto is: Efficiency in school work, economy in school administration, and courteous service to all.

RECOVERY

ber with qualifications desired for that particular project. The Advisory Committee of the local Reemployment Office was selected and set up by a representative from the State Reemployment Office in Montgomery.

Federal Relief

The Relief Office in the county is a local unit of the Alabama Relief Administration and was designated by the local county governing body as the official public relief agency of the county. Each county has a qualified out-of-county person as Director of Relief. Under her are employed visitors, clerical staff, and commodity clerk. It is the responsibility of this office to accept applications for relief; to have the applicant visited by one of the visitors; and to reach a decision as to whether or not the applicant needs relief; and if so, to work out upon a budgetary basis what the need of the applicant is. It is then the responsibility of the office to see that the applicant gets the relief for which he or she is certified.

The local Child Welfare Board, which has been set up by law, acts as the Advisory Council for the relief office in 48 counties of the State, emergency relief commitees serving in the other counties.

Disbursing Office

The Disbursing Officer usually serves for both the relief office, the local C. W. A. and must be approved by the State office of both bodies.

Each of these three divisions of the National Recovery Program has a distinct and separate duty to perform. It is only upon the satisfactory functioning of all of them that the entire program can be a success.

At the meeting Friday short talks were made by the following: Mr. Pittman, retiring C.W.A. director, and his successor, Mr. McCrossin; Miss Austin, director of relief; Dr. H. F. Downs, representing the American Legion; Mr. Luther E. Little, president of Kiwanis Club and County Superintendent of Education; Judge L. H. Reynolds; J. W. Fant, County Farm Agent; W. A. Gulledge, merchant, of Verbena; Miss Ruth Pardue, County Home Agent; Dr. H. M. Nix, of Maplesville; C. D. Duke, County Commissioner; W. A. Reynolds; W. A. Calloway, merchant, of Cooper; Billy Smith, editor Chilton County News.

All of these people expressed varied opinions and observations about the recovery program as it has been applied in Chilton County. Summarizing their remarks, it is evident that the program has been of much benefit to our county, and the feeling of the people is most optimistic.

The main purpose of the meeting was revealed when Mr. Stokes introduced Mr. Speer for an address. The message of the speaker was one of the most inspirational addresses ever heard here. He painted a vivid picture of how the national recovery program has broken down the lethargy of our people and turned them on a new road to self sustenance.

A while ago, he said, the American people by the millions had no jobs, and were bragging about it. Instead of being popular, the spirit of the nation has changed until now unemployment is exceedingly unpopular. He showed that the national recovery program has inspired the unemployed to say "I will do something."

"Faith in our country and faith in each other," said Mr. Speer, "is destined to bring us into a realm of peace, happiness, and economic stability fuller and finer than we have ever known before."

Mr. Earl Gray, formerly employed by A & P has taken a job with Wade's Grocery. Earl invites his friends to visit him in his new location.

Neighbor — Mrs. Dingbot, do you know that your confounded dog barks all night?

Mrs. Dingbat—Yes, I know he does. But don't let that bother you; he sleeps all day.

Minister—You know, Sam, it's no disgrace to work for a living.

Sam—Yes, that's what I always tell my wife.

Training Course Will Be Started

Through cooperation of the local Red Cross chapter and the safety department of CWA, a program of training in approved methods of safety and first aid treatment will be started here Tuesday, February 13th, with a class of 35 students. These will be made up of 26 from the CWA list five extras and four designated by the Red Cross.

Instruction will be directed by one or more local physicians. The class will be held three hours a day for five days. When completed this program will set up a group of trained safety men and first aid people in all parts of the county, which will ultimately become of great value in rendering assistance in cases of emergency need in all cases of accidents.

First aid centers, with a trained director and proper emergency materials will be established at Clanton, Verbena, Jemison and Maplesville. These places will be maintained permanently under supervision of the Red Cross.

Safety for workers and for the public is one of the big objectives of C. W. A. Mr. Chas. Gulledge, Reese Mullins, and Miss Eleanor Rowell constitute the safety directing personnel of C.W.A. in Chilton County. They will have a part in the program of Red Cross safety training.

Samuel Martin is county chairman of the Red Cross safety committee. Mr. Martin is engaged in the organization of this program of safety and first aid training. He will give close attention to perpetuating and carrying out the future purposes of the plan.

STAMPS MELODY BOYS PRESENT INTERESTING CONCERT HERE

The Stamps Melody Boys, representing the Stamps-Baxter Music Company of Dallas, Texas and Chattanooga, Tenn., presented a concert at the courthouse in Clanton Monday night. There was a fair crowd out to hear them. These boys are real entertainers in the line which they represent. Any community should be glad to have them put on a concert for them. They sung in Vincent, Shelby County, Tuesday night, and at Calera Wednesday night. Any community wishing an engagement with the melody boys may take the matter up with Mr. P. B. Shaw, Brookside, Ala.

JOHN BEAN HAS HAD ONLY ONE TERM IN OFFICE

The Union-Banner made an error last week in our story about John P. Bean, who is a Republican candidate for Commissioner in the First District. It was stated that Mr. Bean formerly served two terms in this office. We find that this was an error. Mr. Bean was Commissioner only one term of four years. He was defeated in the primary when he ran for re-election.

We are glad to make this correction, and urge our readers to give proper consideration to the same.

MR. WAGONER AND MISS RUSH WERE MARRIED LAST SUNDAY

Miss Mary Rush, of Alexander City and Mr. Lester T. (Red) Wagoner of Clanton were quietly married early last Sunday morning. The ceremony was witnessed by only a few intimate friends. Rev. R. P. Cochran was the officiating minister.

After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Wagoner are at home, in Clanton.

The many friends of these popular young people join in extending hearty congratulations and best wishes.

A BUSINESS OF GREAT VALUE

Remarkable Growth of Southern Seed & Plant Co. in Past Three Years

From a sidewalk stand with a sack of apples, a bunch of bananas and a peck of onion sets, to one of the most important business establishments in Clanton, in a period of three years, is the story of the Southern Seed & Plant Company, under management of Mr. Evan Parrish.

The rapid and solid development of this business has been accomplished because it has been backed up with the purpose of extending and rendering a valuable and reliable service to the farmers of this vicinity. The farm patrons have found there a great many things they need, and they have been able to get prompt and reliable service at all times.

Aside from the mere business of selling seeds, plants, candy, and various other little items, the Southern Seed & Plant Company has two connections that are important to the farmers of the county.

It is the designated headquarters of the Chilton County Farm Bureau for seeds and feeds. Also it is the Southern Dairies station for buying and shipping cream.

As stated above, Mr. Evan Parrish is manager of the business. He has as his able assistants Mr. Julian Evans and Kernel (Cornelius) Hand. The whole force are enthusiastic on the subject of service to their customers. It makes no difference whether it is a bag of peanuts or a car load of seeds you want, the same spirit of friendly and satisfactory service is given you on every transaction that is made.

"We want our friends everywhere to know that we appreciate their business," said Mr. Parrish. "We realize that it is the patronage and confidence of those friends that has made the growth of this business possible, and we appreciate it fully. We look forward to a continued service to our customers in the future, with an increased and enlarged opportunity to be of help to any and all who call upon us."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS MEETS

The Home Makers Sunday School class of the Clanton Baptist church will hold their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Jean Wyatt on Friday afternoon of this week at 2:30.

ANNUAL RABBIT HUNT

The Union-Banner has been requested to announce that there will be an annual rabbit hunt, held on the 22nd of February. The meeting place is at Antioch church, 2½ miles north of Pletcher. Men and boys are requested to come and bring sticks and dogs, but no guns. You are assured of a jug of fun.

CHARLIE GAY'S HOME BURNED NEAR STANTON SUNDAY P. M.

The home of Charlie C. Gay, on Stanton Route 1, was completely destroyed by fire last Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The fire originated from a defect in the chimney. Only a part of the household furnishings were saved. The estimated loss was around $1,000 and no insurance was carried.

Old Maids Club Meets On Feb. 16

Program Sponsored By Ladies of Methodist and Baptist Churches Jointly

The date for the Old Maids Matrimonial Club has been set for Friday night, February 16th, at the Chilton County High School auditorium. This is a screaming program of fun which will be put on by a group of local entertainers, and sponsored by the ladies of the missionary society.

In addition to an array of interesting characters making up the cast, a number of special features will be presented. Loyd Howard, of Thorsby, will play the accordion. The Clanton Quartet will sing a group of numbers, and there will be chorus girls by the dozens.

Everybody is urged to put this date down in the book, and make plans to attend. It will be one of the most interesting events of the season. The price of admission will be very small.

Mrs. Bert Haggard of Calera was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday.

POLL TAX RECEIPTS 806 and 923

The persons who hold poll tax receipts No. 806 and No. 923 are requested to bring same to my office. No. 806 is held by a person in Beat 4, Box 3, and No. 923 is held by a person in Beat 9, Box 1.

MR. AND MRS. POUNCY WERE HURT IN WRECK

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pouncy, of Montgomery, were slightly injured in a wreck on the highway near Clanton last Saturday. Collision of their automobile with another machine was caused by the snow and ice on the pavement.

Several other people were in the cars that collided, but Mr. and Mrs. Pouncy were the only ones hurt. They received treatment at the Central Alabama Hospital. They were on their way from Montgomery to attend the Aimee Semple McPherson meeting in Birmingham when the accident happened.

MANY VISITORS AT KIWANIS MEET

Eighty-Seven Representatives From Twenty-Two Clubs of Alabama District

Eighty-seven Kiwanians, representing 22 out of the 26 Kiwanis Clubs of Alabama, were registered in attendance at the annual mid-winter conference of the Alabama Kiwanis District held at Clanton last Thursday.

The meeting was officially opened at 10 o'clock, with Immediate Past Governor, J. E. Lewis, of Selma, presiding in the absence of District Governor, John Sparkman, of Huntsville, who was unable to attend on account of illness. District Secretary, Dwight Wilhelm, of Huntsville, was present to record the proceedings of the meeting.

At noon, after a session crowded with important business matters, the body adjourned and went to Mitchell Dam, where entertainment at luncheon was afforded by Kiwanian John Hollis. A short concluding business session was held at Mitchell Dam after luncheon.

Sam F. Claughbaugh, lieutenant governor of the second division, presided at the luncheon. A most charming feature of the luncheon period was two lovely solos by Mrs. Herbert V. Carson, of Montgomery.

Following is the list of those registered in attendance by clubs:

International trustee, Harper Gatton, of Madisonville, Ky.

NOTICE TO FARM BUREAU MEMBERS

There will be a meeting of the members of the Chilton County Farm Bureau at the courthouse at Clanton, February 17th, at nine a.m. All members are invited to attend.—J. W. Fant, County Agent.

Ralph D. Grant Is A Candidate For County Superintendent of Education

Mr. Ralph D. Grant of Cooper has qualified with the State Department of Education and filed his papers with the probate judge, stating his intention to run in the Republican primary for county superintendent of Education. Mr. Gran't name appears this week in The Union-Banner's list of candidates.

It is needless to say that Mr. Grant is qualified for the place, because if he were not, the State Department would not and could not certify him for the place under the state statute.

Ralph D. Grant is a young man, and in this announcement is making his first venture into politics. He is a Republican and comes from a family that has been devoutly Republican since years and years ago. He is a son of Luther T. Grant and a grandson of Uncle Bob Grant. All the Grants have been intimately connected with music and singing in Chilton County for the past several years. Ralph Grant has followed his family in this respect, and has become one of the foremost singers and musicians of the present day.

Teaching school is his chosen profession, and he has been following this work for the past six years. In 1923 he finihsed high school at Marbury. The next eight years were spent in attending Howard College and teaching at intervals. He took his A. B. degree at Howard in 1931. Since that time he has spent one summer at Howard College and one summer at the University of Alabama, taking special work in school administration. While attending Howard College Mr. Grant was for two years director of music and education at the Norwood Baptist church, and for one year at the East Thomas Baptist church.

During his teaching career Mr. Grant has taught in Chilton County three years. He was at Isabella two years. He taught one school in Autauga County. He is now engaged in his second year as principal of the Arkadelphia High School, one of the largest and most progressive high schools in Cullman County.

His training and experience eminently qualify this young man for the position which he seeks. It is fortunate that the Republican party of Chilton County can place such a worthy and capable young man before the voters, and should the people nominate and elect him, we are sure they would not be placing their confidence in vain.

SOLDIERS MEET FEBRUARY 22

Walter J. Kanabe of Montgomery to Address Meeting of War Veterans

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 13.—American Legion posts in every county of Alabama have been called upon to participate with zest and enthusiasm in the special membership activities next week. Simultaneous meetings of the posts will be held on Feb. 22, the birthday of George Washington, and a visiting speaker will be present at each of these rallies to represent State Commander W. A. Abramson.

Officials of the posts are being urged to arrange programs of extraordinary features in order that large crowds may be assured. Veterans of the World War who are not affiliated with the Legion, and especially those veterans who were cut off by the Special Review Board, are also invited to take part in the festivities. Practically all the meetings will open at 7:30 p.m.

The special meeeting of Chilton County Post will be held at the court house in Clanton. Walter J. Knabe, of Montgomery, will be here to address the meeting.

Commander Abramson is desirous of making this Washington birthday party the most successful in the history of the Department of Alabama. For a number of years the Department has championed these simultaneous pep meetings as an incentive to bring in new and old members. The mandate of the commander to the post commanders and adjutants is this: "Get your membership teams to work and have your quota by February 22."

Gratifying results are being obtained in the state-wide "man hunt." A goodly number of the 10,000 former members of the Legion have been returned to the fold and indications are that many more of these "lost sheep" will be reclaimed in the near future.

With the Legion embarking upon its greatest year of service to the veterans, their widows and families, Commander Abramson makes a fervent appeal for a united front in Alabama in this great program. To get the most satisfactory results, it is necessary, he asserts, that the membership be larger and more active than in the past. Mr. Abramson is confident that Alabama will go over the top in the national membership campaign in a very few weeks. His objective is to achieve this distinction on the night of Feb. 22.

County Farm Debt Adjustment Board

Committee of Arbitration to Help Adjust Farm Debts Named

According to previous discussions and notices we now have officially designated in each county a committee to be known as the County Farm Debt Adjustment Committee. The members of the county committee and their addresses are:

Charles Foshee, Clanton, Alabama.

J. M. (Jim) Popwell, Clanton, Alabama.

J. H. Gulledge, Verbena, Alabama.

Irby Deramus, Verbena, Alabama.

The purpose of this committee is to help adjust farm debts; an official committee of arbitration. These men are ready to take up their work and in case your creditors are pressing you for settlement of your debt and you feel that this group can be of assistance to you, see one of them at once and he will furnish you a form to file your complaint and help you in any way possible.

PERCY M. PITTS FOR LEGISLATURE

Present Representative Seeks Third Term In Alabama Law Making Body

Percy M. Pitts, representative of Chilton County in the legislature of Alabama, asks the people to send him back to Montgomery again as their spokesman in the law-making body of our state. His announcement as a candidate in the Republican primary appears in this issue of the Union-Banner.

While he does not make a lengthy statement at this time, Mr. Pitts stated that he wants the people of the county to consider his candidacy for re-election upon the basis of his former service in this important office. He said:

"My fellow-citizens of Chilton County know of the service I have rendered as their representative. They know of the manner in which I have stood for the rights and interests of our people. They know of the stand I have taken on state issues that were of important concern to our county as well as all other counties. As your representative in the past and upon my record as such, I am willing for you to say whether or not you endorse my service and want me to continue to represent you."

The statement of Mr. Pitts contains another very interesting reference to the future question of legislation upon exemptions for home owners. "I shall heartily endorse and support the proposed movement in Alabama to enact legislation providing for exemption of home owners from taxation in a reasonable amount," he said. This question bids fair to become a live issue in the next legislature, and it will interest people to know they have an opportunity to get representation favorable to that issue.

Mr. Pitts will have a full and complete statement to make to the people of Chilton County concerning his candidacy in a few days.

ATTENTION, THOSE WHO WRITE FOR UNION-BANNER

Little do our many good correspondents think what a hardship it works on The Union-Banner force when a whole batch of copy comes into our office Wednesday morning. If everyone else sent theirs on Monday and only yours was left until Wednesday, it could be cared for without ill convenience, but when a dozen or so, together with a half dozen long political spells, come in during the eleventh hour, the force is going to catch Hail Columbia or else will miss No. 10 Wednesday afternoon. And when this is done it means that some of the rural routes will not be delivered until Friday, and then there is Hail Columbia again because the paper got delivered late.

Therefore, let us urge our correspondents to slip forward a day or even two days—if possible, and thus greatly assist us in getting the paper out on time. If it is possible to get in your letter on Saturday, that will be just a whole lot better, and you bet, we will appreciate it. Most all political letters could be gotton in on week ends just as well as Tuesday or Wednesday; and we may adopt a rule not to accept any such letters coming in later than Monday. So, let's all pull together to each other's advantage, and we will all come out better wash day.

TUG WILLIS WILL NOT RUN FOR OFFICE THIS TIME

For the benefit of his many friends who are interested, Mr. J. M. (Tug) Willis asks The Union-Banner to announce to the public that he will not be in the race for Sheriff of Chilton County this time.

Mr. Willis says that he thoroughly appreciates the many solicitations of friends that he announce, as well as the 589 votes which he received in the primary four years ago, but that he wants more time to prove his policies to the people of the county. "Probably this can be done in four more years," says Mr. Willis.

B. LAWRENCE IS WITH PROTECTIVE

Former School Official is the Agency Organizer for Insurance Company

Buford Lawrence has resigned his position as principal of the Isabella High School, to accept a permanent connection with Protective Life Insurance Company as agency organizer. He will have his headquarters at Clanton, from where he will cover an extensive territory in the interest of his company.

Since retiring from the office of County Superintendent of Education last July, Mr. Lawrence has been connected with Protective Life as an agent. He has attained phenomenal success as an insurance man, which fact has brought to him a well-deserved promotion in the new position he has accepted.

In the future Mr. Lawrence will give his full time to the insurance business. His wide acquaintance throughout this section of Alabama, together with the fact that he represents Alabama's own home insurance company, guarantees for him and for Protective Life a wonderful possibility of business development in this territory.

Mr. Lawrence likes the insurance business. He is well adapted to the work, able and capable. As a public man he has developed a fine ability in approaching and meeting people, all of which fits him most appropriately for the position he has accepted. His friends congratulate him and Protective Life, and wish for both of them all the success possible in the future.

Leake Is Director Of Chilton C.W.A.

Succeeded Mr. M'Crossin, Who Resigned His Position Last Week

Mr. Armistead Leake, of Birmingham, has succeeded Mr. E. J. McCrossin as director of CWA for Chilton County. Mr. Leake arrived here last Friday and took up his duties officially. Before coming here Mr. Leake was engineer for CWA in Hale County, at Greensboro, where he was made director a short while before he was transferred to Chilton County.

Mr. McCrossin resigned his position as director of CWA to go back to his former connection as engineer with the Alabama Fuel and Iron Company at Birmingham.

In an interview with Mr. Leake on Tuesday it was stated that the full quota of 1,050 are now at work on the various CWA projects, federal and state projects, in Chilton County.

Of this number, around 170 are employed on the Clanton Airport, and about 230 on the drainage ditches in the swamps near Clanton. The balance of the quota is distributed among other projects in the county, such as roads, school buildings, etc.

Mrs. Dora Callaway, widow of the late Lucien A. Callaway, has purchased the dwelling of Mr. Boyd, which is now occupied by the Venables, on Fifth Street.

BURGLARS ENTERED TWO STORES

Smashing a glass in the front door, burglars gained entrance to the Clanton Cash Store last Thursday night. A check-up by the store employees next morning failed to find any merchandise missing, but about ten dollars was missing from the cash register.

On the following night, Friday, the glass front of Peoples Cash Store was smashed. This time the burglars got away with about $35 worth of cigarettes and tobacco.

No clue or evidence has been obtained as to who committed the robberies.

Mr. Clarence Mullins of Birmingham visited relatives here Monday.

BACK TO FARMS RECOVERY PLAN

Interesting Statement Made By Mr. Stokes of National Re-employment Service

It is interesting to note that the National Re-employment Service in Chilton County recognizes the vital importance of getting people back to the farms, and helping them to ward conditions that will make them able again to sustain themselves and their families by their own labors. Out of sympathy and consideration for this important step, Mr. Cecil G. Stokes, director of the local National Re-employment office, has directed an interesting letter to Mr. J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent.

Sensing the renewed feeling of confidence which is general in the public mind at this time, Mr. Stokes in his letter says: "Already farmers are making preparations for their work. Soon the aroma of freshly plowed soil will serve as evidence of their labor. The birds will begin to sing, and flowers of spring will burst forth. To millions the birds will sing sweeter and the flowers will be more beautiful than during recent seasons. Why?"

The next paragraph of the letter gives this answer to the question: "Thousands are returning to their former jobs and others are going back to the happy occupation of farming. A more prosperous day is ahead for millions."

In order that we must see that there is not a "forgotten man," Mr. Stokes says, "At this time thousands of people who would normally be employed in industry or commerce or on the farms are now employed on CWA, PWA, or other administrative projects. As you know, this program will taper off, and it is expected that industry will absorb many workers. Naturally, agriculture must provide for a portion of the unemployed.

"In our program so far we have been chiefly concerned with the registeration, classification and selection of workers for the administrative projects; but now we must work from the other angle, i.e. placing men in industry, and assist in getting them back to the farm. . . . . I believe that in this county some program should be outlined whereby men will be encouraged to farm, and at least to raise food stuff."

Concluding his letter to Mr. Fant, Mr. Stokes expresses his hope and appreciation for anything that can be done to encourage men to return to the soil, and pledges his assistance to the County Agent in the development of such a program.

This appears to be one of the most vital points of the recovery movement as it relates to Chilton County. There is, obviously, no hope for our people to go away and get jobs in industry yet. They must stay at home. We have no industrial jobs that will give them permanent employment. We have unlimited farming opportunities. We have land enough for everybody to make their own living necessities. Why not work out a program that will enable them to do it?

Schools Plan For 7 And 9 Months

Teachers Are Called To Meet Here Friday For Spring Institute

According to verbal instructions received at the State Department of Education Monday, County Superintendent, Luther Little, is making tentative plans for carrying on the schools of Chilton County a full term this year. This program is based upon the possibility of the county receiving aid from the federal appropriation through C.W.A. for the payment of teachers' salaries for the extra time beyond the limit of other available funds.

Superintendent Little made it clear in his statement that no definite assurance was given him as to the amount of federal funds Chilton County will secure, but he is hopeful of the prospects in view of verbal instructions received to go ahead with plans.

According to the set-up that is in the making, Mr. Little is expecting the schools of the county to finish out a regular full term this year, which means that rural schools will run seven months and high schools nine months. Under the plans negro school will be operated for five months.

A meeting of the white teachers of the county has been called by Superintendent Little for Friday of this week, at the Chilton County High School. This will be a Spring Institute of the teachers, and the main business will be to discuss matters entering into the proposition of federal aid for the payment of teachers' salaries. The meeting will begin at 9:30 Friday morning. The session will perhaps occupy the teachers for most of the day Friday.

CHAS. COOPER REPLIES TO SMITH AND LITTLE ABOUT CWA

Editor Union-Banner:

I notice in last week's issue of your paper that Mr. T. A. Smith, of Jemison Route 2, joins Mr. H. O. Little in his condemnation of the CWA operations in Chilton County. Mr. Smith and Mr. Little seem to think they have not received a square deal along with the "new deal."

Gentlemen, just let me ask you a plain question. Did either of you ever receive a square deal in connection with the Democratic pary? I do not believe President Roosevelt wanted to mix politics into the operation of the CWA, but it does seem that others on down the line have injected quite a bit of politics into it. I believe Mr. Smith and Mr. Little can get on the CWA right away if they will promise to vote for a certain Democratic candidate here in the county. I believe they can be working within three days if they can make this particular candidate believe that they are going to vote for him. I could be wrong in my assumption of the situation, but if I was in the betting business I would bet ten to one that I am right.

Mr. Smith and Mr. Little seem to think it would be a good idea to get some of these fellows in hot water about the procedure, but personally myself I do not see where it would do any good to stir up things even though enough could be stirred up to cause some of the head knockers to get fired. The next bunch might not do as well as these we have now.

Some of the Democrats figure that the meaning of the NRA is that No Republicans Admitted, while the Republicans figure that the NRA means No Results Accomplished.

If we expect Chilton County to remain the banner county of the state, it behooves us to keep it in the Republican column. Regardless as to whom we may want for Probate Judge and other officials, let us make up our minds now that we are going to vote for the ones that the Republican primary nominates.

What has the Democratic party ever done that would warrant us in supporting that ticket? Yes, last year the Democrats had a lot of cotton plowed up, this year a fifty cent pair of overalls cost a dollar and fifty cents. Last fall the Democrats had six million little helpless pigs murdered; now we will have to pay double for meat.—With best wishes I am, yours very truly, Chas. Cooper.

IN MEMORY

On February 6th, God sent the death angel to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Payton and carried away their darling one, Johnnie Sue, to its heavenly home, where there is no more sorrow, sickness nor pain. It was budded on earth to bloom in heaven again. It was just four months old. We all loved it so much, but God loved it best. So let us all say God's will be done, and humble our hearts to that blessed promise. "In my father's house are many mansions, if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. I will come again and receive you unto myself. She leaves to mourn her death her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Payton, grandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gafford and Mr. Nathan Payton and a host of friends and relatives.

But we know she liveth in the heavenly courts above where there is only bliss and joy and love.—Written by one that loved her, Mrs. J. F. Spigener.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The apostle Paul in his letter to the Phillipians tells the people to do what they have heard him say and what they have seen in him. That is wonderful. Some people's lives do not tally with their words. Blessed is the man who does the things that he says with his tongue. I heard a great preacher one time preach on unselfishness and then I saw him at the dinner table take the best piece of chicken and the best of all the food which was passed. I was young at the time, but it occurred to me that he was not eating dinner like he preached that morning.

To show you how inconsistent we are, I dictated the above paragraph to my secretary and stopped and said, "That is pretty good." I have preached lots of times against pride, but when I say a good thing I can't help being proud of it, so I suppose I talk one way and preach another.

An old preacher in Louisiana said to me years ago. "Everybody is conceited. We are all proud of something." Then he told me the story of an old man who was known as the most humble man in the community. One day a man said to this humble old saint, "You are a good man." The saint made no response. "You have a good influence," said the speaker. No response from the older man. "You are so gentle and kind." Still no reply. "The thing about you that to all your neighbors is you are such an humble man." The face of the old saint lighted and he answered, "Thank you so much." This meant the old saint was proud of his humility.

It was Emerson who said, "What you are speaks so loud I can't hear what you say." The more I see of the world, the more I am convinced that after all there is no substitute for unadulterated goodness. God wants us to talk about our Christian expenience. The New Testament teaches that we are witnesses and a witness is supposed to speak. Nowhere does the Bible discount tongue testimony. But God wants us to have a Christian life and keep step with our tongue testimony.

CONWAY WRITES OF RECORD MADE AS COMMISSIONER

To the Voters of Chilton County:

After being a county commissioner from 1902 to 1910 and having been soliticted to become a candidate, I will give you some of my record when I was commissioner before.

The county's taxes when I went in office were about $13,000. At the expiration of eight years it had risen to $28,000. During that time we built about eighteen steel bridges which are still here in the county. We put up fills on all the roads around Clanton and about six hundred yards across Mulberry swamp at Maplesville and other swamps in the county. We built an extension to the courthouse and practically built a new jail. The county was in debt about $14,000 when I was elected. We paid that off. When I went out of office the county was out of debt and had about $10,000 in the treasury. This is the record that the other commissioners and I made during the eight years.

Now I believe in progress but I don't believe in progressing ahead of the people who have to pay taxes. I believe that in close management the county can be run with a great deal less expense, and that we could cut down the rate of expense which I think is fair to the taxpayers. When I went out of office the rate of taxes was only forty cents on a hundred and I believe it can be reduced to that again.

There are lots of farms being sold today for the taxes and I think the county ought to cut expenses until the people get in better condition financially and that is what I would recommend and use my influence to do if elected. I would try to get a dollar's worth every time I spent a dollar as I tried to do before. I believe in good roads but not at the expense of a downtrodden people.

Now if that kind of platform suits the people, I would appreciate your support at the primary.—Yours truly, W. H. Conway.

REMEMBER THE DATE—MARCH 19

It is becoming common knowledge that if business and banking had been as soundly managed and stood up as well as life insurance, all of us would be vastly better off.

Facts and figures, not theories and hopes, do the talking. During the past four years we have seen the greatest shrinkage in the market values of securities and other investment, in living memory. The national income declined by close to fifty per cent, while taxes skyrocketed to undreamed-of peaks. Thousands of persons who had had good positions, and many who had been actually wealthy, lost everything. Poverty and distress swept through the land. Terrific demands for policy loans were made. Millions of dollars worth of policies were turned in for cash value, before the termination of the contract.

But the life insurance industry is built on a foundation to withstand just that kind of an emergency and it met the crisis unflinchingly. Only a handful of companies found themselves in difficulties and in most cases plans have been worked out to protect the policyholder. Recent surveys show that the life insurance financial structure is as sound and as solid as it has ever been.

Remember the date, March 19, when Financial Independence Week starts. Listen to the addresses and read the articles and advertisements that are intended to give the public a better idea of the work of life insurance in solving our economic and social problems. The lessons of the week, if digested and taken to heart, mean greater happiness, greater security and prosperity, for us all.

IN MEMORY

On Wednesday evening, January 31, at 5 o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Williams and carried away their little twin daughter and on Tuesday morning, February 6, at 5:15 o'clock the death angel visiter their home again and took away their little twin son, but as it's our loss, it is heaven's eternal gain. They needed two more little angels in heaven, so God called them to fill that vacant place.

Weep not, dear father and mother, for we know they are little angels in heaven, but be ready to meet them when the final day will come, when they will meet us at the gates and greet us in. Although they lived only a few weeks, we had learned to love them dearly but the vacant place in our hearts can never be filled.

Little Willodean and Eugene were born January 15, but there were little hopes of Eugene living. He took sick a few days after and was very low, but soon got better. Willodean was doing fine until Tuesday evening when she took sick and died Wednesday evening. Eugene took sick Saturday evening and died Tuesday morning.

They leave to mourn their loss their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Williams, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cox and a host of uncles and aunts.

Funeral services were held in their home with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cox and were laid to rest in the Liberty Hill cemetery with Rev. G. G. Williams officiating.—Their aunt, Elsie Williams.

CONCORD P.-T. A.

The P.-T. A. will hold its regular meeting Tuesday evening, February 20, at six o'clock. This meeting has been set aside as "father's night." The program is being planned especially for fathers. Let the mothers come and bring the fathers. We are exceedingly anxious for every father of our school to be present. Won't you realize your duty and do your utmost to be present?

The play to be given by the school will be presented Saturday night, February 24. It promises to be the best play ever staged at Concord and we have had some excellent plays. The characters have been carefully chosen and there's real talent displayed by the characters.

Watch for full details regarding the play in next week's issue. In the meantime, be saving your dime for the children and fifteen cents for adults.

WHY BANKS ASK THEIR BORROWERS TO "CLEAN HOUSE" PERIODICALLY

One of the established rules of sound banking is that borrowers should periodically clean up their indebtedness to the bank.

Conservative business policy is wholly in accord with this view.

By periodically wiping its slate clean of bank indebtedness, a business enterprise clearly indicates its solvency. It indicates that the borrowed funds are not being used as capital, but only for seasonal requirements—which is the real function of commercial bank loans. It indicates that the business is strong enough to stand on its own feet, that it is adequately capitalized and competently managed. It is clearly improper to do this by borrowing from one bank to pay another.

This annual debt cleanup protects both the borrower and the bank. It provides the bank with the steady flow of incoming payments necessary to meet depositors' demands and create the basis for new loans. It keeps the borrower from coming to regard the borrowed money as his own capital, and over-extending himself.

This bank holds membership in the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and deposits with us are insured as provided in Federal Banking Act of 1933.

5. Do you practice sin in secrecy? 6. Would you be ashamed for your father, mother, wife or sister to know all your practices? 7. Do you hunger and thirst after righteousness? 8. What is your ideal of righteousness, (a) going to church? (b) paying the preacher? (c) being moral? or doing all that God commands you?

9. Do you read the Bible for yourself? 10 Have your ideals of the scriptures been biased because of something someone said? 11. Do you allow what you wish were true to work your judgment of what the Bible says? 12. Do you let what your enemies believe bend your best judgment? 13. Do you seek to see the truth stated by those who may oppose you? 14. Do you seek to fill your God-given relationship to your foes as well as to your friends? 15. Do you seek to let others (foes and friends) use their very best judgment in religion? 16. Do you seek to inform them on just the truth? 17. Do you let your religion prompt and bias you in describing the religion of others? 18 Do you in all things seek to do unto others as you would have them do unto you? 19. Do you seek to find the whloe truth for and against your religion? 20. Would heaven be all right made up of your religion?—Sincerely, R. L. Huffman.

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit composed of the counties of Autauga, Chilton and Elmore, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries in May and June, 1934.

Your vote and influence will be appreciated in the coming Democratic primaries.

Respectfully,
J. B. ATKINSON.

Here's Quickest, Simplest Way to Stop a Cold

1. Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets.
2. Drink full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.
3. If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half glass of water and gargle according to directions in box.

Almost Instant Relief in this Way

The simple method pictured above is the way doctors throughout the world now treat colds.

It is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way to treat a cold. For it will check an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablets dissolve so completely they leave no irritating particles. Get a box or 12 tablets or a bottle of 24 or 100 at any drug store.

NRA WE DO OUR PART

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

Make this lip test

LOOK at them ... and your cheeks, too, without make-up. Do they possess the natural glow of health, which comes from a sufficiency of rich, red blood? If they do, make-up is simple ... if they don't read on ... you may find one of the reasons why your skin is not clear and rosy.

You cannot have red lips, rosy cheeks, energy and cheerfulness if your blood is in a run-down condition. Lack of hemo-glo-bin, the red coloring of the blood, may also indicate a weakened condition of the body ... loss of strength ... poor appetite.

S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic but a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in restoring a low hemo-glo-bin content. If your condition suggests a blood tonic of this kind, try S.S.S. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite ... your color and skin should improve with increased strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes ... the larger is more economical.

For Hard-Coughs or Colds That Worry You

Creomulsion is made to give supreme help for coughs or colds. It combines seven helps in one—the best helps known to science. It is for quick relief, for safety.

But careful people, more and more, use it for every cough that starts. No one knows where a cough may lead. No one can tell which factor will do most. That depends on the type of cold.

Creomulsion costs a little more than lesser helps. But it means the utmost help. And it costs you nothing if it fails to bring the quick relief you seek. Your druggist guarantees it. Use it for safety's sake. (adv.)

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

To the Customers of
Alabama Power Company:

We believe that one of the best yardsticks by which a man or institution can be measured is: "Is that individual or enterprise a good citizen?"

By a good citizen we mean a man or institution who meets his obligations promptly and in full, who bears his rightful share of the tax load, who takes an active hand in state and community affairs, who spends wherever possible with friends and neighbors, and who is giving more than mere lip service to the upbuilding of his native state.

By each and all these standards we believe that Alabama Power Company can justly claim to be a "good citizen of Alabama."

Alabama Power Company, throughout its 21 years of service, has met its every obligation promptly and in full. It pays more taxes than any other enterprise within the borders of our state, and has increased its tax payments 1900% within the past 10 years. Its employees in 65 of Alabama's 67 counties, contribute time and service to community affairs. It has been the policy of the company to buy wherever possible from home enterprises and thus keep at home the revenues which it receives. It has worked tirelessly and with good effect to bring new enterprises into Alabama, maintaining for this purpose a New Industries Division. And it has had at all times the welfare of this state and of its people close to heart.

We present these facts for the thoughtful consideration of Alabama citizens.

Yours very truly,

President.

Letter No. 16

VERMONT SCHOOL

The Jr. III class organized last Wednesday. The following were elected to serve in their respective capacities: Mary Jo Chandler, president; Edna Simms, valedictorian; Mary Owens, historian; T. J. Ratliff, class prophet.

The Liberty Hill quartet was scheduled to present a program on last Friday night, but due to sudden disagreeable weather, three of their members failed to get here, thus we were forced to set the program back two weeks, which will be on Friday evening, February 23. Quite a large number braved the rainy weather on last Friday night. only to be disappointed, but we hope you will not feel too critical towards those who were sponsoring the program. The weather conditions just simply beset us in our plans. Those who paid admission were given credit slips and upon presentation of them on the night of the program they will be admitted without further charges. The members of the quartet send their regrets for this disappointing situation and their assurance that with hopes for a better weather condition they will be with us one week from tomorrow night, February 23. Don't miss hearing these young men sing. They are really good.

Our P.-T. A. met last Wednesday week, in its regular business meeting. Twenty-three were present, which was rather a small number, but the weather being very unfavorable, probably accounts for it. Mrs. Claude C. Klinner made a very appealing and interesting talk on "Conditions Leading to a Child's Failure in School Work." Some of the high points of her talk were: Irregular attendance. Parents' failure to encourage the child when a low grade is reported. Indifferent attitude of child towards his studies. Improper classification. Failure of parent to provide books and necessary supplies. Some physical defect which has not ben remedied. Lack of home study.

Our next regular meeting of the P.-T. A. will be on Wednesday night, February 28. All ladies who have been working on the quilt designs are requested to complete them and turn them in on that night.

School was dismissed at 2:30 last Friday in order for those who wished to, to attend the funeral service of Mrs. Minnie Goff, who was buried at Sardis cemetery.

We are glad to know that our good friend and loyal trustee, Mr. George W. Sansom, is improving. He has been confined indoors the past several days with an attack of cold and grip. We have been missing him around the school building, dropping in every room and assisting in various ways to make the school work move along more smoothly. We hope to see him back soon.

The pig which was presented to the school back in October by Mr. Frank Giles, has now grown to a nice marketable size. He is fat and in fine condition, and will be offered for sale next week at current price. Anyone desirous of buying watch the county papers for an adv. to that effect.

We wonder why the other Jr. High schools do not send in weekly news items to the county papers, reporting their progress in various school activities. We would like to know how other schools within the same scope of study as this one are progressing. Is it that the teachers are indifferent toward letting those outside know just what accomplishments their school is making? It would be a great incentive toward better work if everyone of the eleven Jr. High Schools would give brief weekly reports about things centering around school interests.

Both of our great county papers have a wide circulation outside of Chilton County, so why not let those in other counties know just what some of the attainments we are reaching for under our school system?

We are now a full-fledged member of the state and national P.-T. A.

from
COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

By Dan Smith

The Senior Class, with John Ezell as president, is taking steps toward the selection of a suitable memorial to leave to their Alma Mater. A number of suggestions have been offered by interested members of the class. Among these were an entrance gate, drinking fountains within the building, lights for the front and a floor for the gymnasium. Any one of these would make a valuable asset to the school. Probably the most practical, according to several authorities on the matter, would be an entrance gate for the southern end of the driveway. The senior class of 1932-33 left an entrance gate at the northern end of the driveway. This beautiful and noticeable structure has indeed added much to the appearance of the school grounds and has won the admiration of the citizens of the town as well as having proven itself a useful memorial. The Snior class of this year will therefore fulfill an honor duty to their predecessors and to the school by erecting a similar structure—a gate at the southern end of the driveway will complete a trio of attractive, appreciated and long living memorials—two brick entrances for the driveway and one for the walkway. A formal class meeting will be held in the near future for final decision on the matter.

Hats off to our basketball teams. The girls trimmed the strong girls team from Jemison High last Friday night to the tune of 18 to 6. This is the second time this season that Chilton County high has defeated the girls team from Jemison. Two feathers, two big feathers in our caps.

And do not forget our boys team, no, no. Even though they were barely beaten, they should have the day because they held the boys team from Jemison, one of the strongest if not the srtongest in our district, to the score of 20 to 19. Just by one point could the superb team from Jemison surpass our equally superb team. And did our boys look first rate in their new uniforms? They did and how? These new uniforms, blue and orange trimmed, makes one sit up and rub his eyes when Chilton's team once comes onto the court.

The boys basketball team went to Holtville Wednesday night of last week and played one of the best, one of the closest and most exciting games of the season. At the end of the game the score was 25 to 25. Another extra period was played and the score rose to 29 to 29. The second extra period was played and Holtville raised her score to 31 and Chilton came along with 31 points also. Both teams played at their height of spirit and close to exhaustion went through the third extra period and finally Holtville managed to nose Chilton out to the score of 37 to 31. What luck.

The Junior III's are the first ones to turn in their who's who this year. It is about time for this annual class feature to be voted on. Below is the who's who of the Jr. III class for the year 1933-34. Prettiest girl, Geraldine Deloach; most handsome boy, Julius Martin; best all round, Louise Arnold; best girl athlete, Thelma Arant; best boy athlete, Horace Vinson; wittiest boy, L. D. Easterling; wittiest girl, Mildred Easterling; most popular girl, Juanita Miller; most popular boy, Raymond Gilliland; friendliest girl, Mary Armstrong; friendliest boy, Horace Vinson; most original, Mary Ruth Goodman; neatest girl, Mary Joe Foshee; neatest boy, J. L. Littlejohn.

Who am I?—Yes, it was Gertiwyl Vinson last week. If you guess this one the writer is going to crawl off in a hole. You're good. Boy, this is a hard one—I am in the Senior high. Rate in the "A" class of students. Like to study. I have a very pleasant and friendly disposition. I am rather attractive. Some would say I was sorta plump. I drive a car. I have lots of school spirit. I have brown eyes. Now, who am I?

Leading her teammates in points last Friday night was Grace Plyler, first class forward, who dropped the ball through the basket for the grand number of eleven times. Congratulations, Grace.

A week from today millions of Americans will pay tribute to the greatest of all Americans, George Washington, the father of his country. Two hundred and two years ago Washington began his life, little aware of the important role he was to take in American history of the great country, the United States of America. If only every youth in this country would mould his habits after those of this never-to-be-forgotten man, what a country we would have. In the library one will find a number of articles and books on Washington. Read these, learn his famous rules of conduct. Read his famous speeches. His life should provide a real source of education and personal lesson and encouragement for any real American boy.

Monday of this week was the birthday of another great American, Abraham Lincoln. His rise from an awkward, hard working and earnest son of a poor but honest backwoodsman to the greatest honor and position in his country is a story of true determination, a story of one who was not satisfied with just getting by, a story of a boy who was honest, straightforward and loyal; and a story of one who forgot not his fellowman but had a place for everyone in his heart.

The two men are the kind that America is proud to call her own. They not only chose the straight and narrow path of life, but never varied from it even after they had climbed to the pinacle of fame.

The Jr. III English class, which is taught by Miss Sarah Colley, finished an interesting project this week. This project is a newspaper, with it's editorials, sport section, society section, ads., and other features of a real paper, hand printed by the students. Drawings made by a promising artist of the class are noticed throughout the paper. This paper, several pages in size, is on exhibit on the bulletin board and has attracted the eyes of all. It shows the training the pupils of the class are receiving in composition and writing of English.

Another famous American's birthday was observed last Sunday, February 11. This was the birthday of Thomas A. Edison, a man who has added comfort to the lives of people by his many inventions. A number of interesting articles on his life and his work can be found on the bulletin board in the Senior III home room.

I heard. By the Student Winchell. (These remarks are the personal remarks of the writer and in no way are related to the school; being written for the entertainment of the students.) Too bad! But she's doing wrong. * * Oh where, oh where, are the Unholy Three. * * They should come out of their hiding and reveal themselves so they could receive the credit for all of their cleverness. * * His heart is as hard as a rock toward her now. You can't blame him either. * * He says it's quits. We'll wait and see. * * She was in "pig" heaven last Saturday night. That's better than not being with him at all. It's her good luck. (?) * * Did some hearts flutter last Wednesday? They did, and how. Guess who received a heart of candy? A nice dignified, unsuspected Senior. * * Shame on you. Having two girls at one time. Give someone else a chance. Who wants "that" chance

Myrtle—I think the government is mean. They say they want people to manage the conservation camps that can best handle men.

Evelyn—Yes, that sounds O. K. to me.

Myrtle—Then why don't they let us women enlist?

Tom's mother-in-law came to pay the family a short visit and she liked it so well that she stayed a whole year. She talked without let-up from morning till night. At first Tom tried to get a word in edgewise, but finally he gave it up. After she had gone away, little Tommy said to his father: "Dad, what was it you started to say last spring?"

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

A milestone in the journey toward adequate national defense wsa reached in the House of Representatives the other day when the navy bill passed that body with a mighty chorus of "ayes" and a comparatively few scattered "noes" in opposition. The bill was sponsored by Chairman Vinson of the Naval Affairs Committee and is said to have the full approval of the national administration. That it will have the full approval of all red-blooded Americans goes without saying. It is good to know that it was not a party measure but an American measure. Republicans and Democrats lined up shoulder to shoulder for this great insurance bill and Representative Britten, Republican, of Illinois, formerly chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee, declared that there had been less criticism of the naval bill than any bill during the past twenty years.

Of course the bill must still pass the Senate but the prospect is an encouraging one, as this is being written. Senate Chairman Trammell of Florida said that he planned to have action on the bill as soon as possible, and within a few days at least. The Senate Naval Affairs Committee has already approved a bill similar in nature to the one passed so overwhelmingly by the House.

The bill, which will start the United States navy on the road to the parity which was agreed to in the London naval conference, authorizts the laying down of 102 war vessels and the building of a great air armada of 1,200 navy planes. The program provides for work which will be in addition to that provided for by President Roosevelt in the PWA program a few months ago.

The great naval construction program will be helpful in two ways. First it will provide a stimulus to American business. It means not only the employment of ship workers, but increased orders for the steel mills, and many other indusrties throughout the country. Second, it will give the United States the insurance against attack by a foreign foe which it needs so badly. As one of the leading countries of the world in wealth and social and cultural development, the United States is certainly entitled and ought to have a navy second to none. That is what we will have if the present naval program is carried out although the navy will not reach full effectiveness for a period of eight years.

It has now become evident to even the most ardent internationalist that the great World War failed of its objective insofar as it was a "war to end war for all time to come." Not in a long time have the war clouds hung lower in the sky than at present. There are danger spots all over the world, in Manchukuo, along the Rhine, in Austria and many other places. Certainly Uncle Sam wants to keep out of trouble, and above all to assure himself against attack in case of world-wide conflagration. The old argument of the pacifists that great armament causes war, and that the way to prevent war is to disarm, has been exploded so far as onesided disarmament is concerned. It appears that it is impossible to get a world-wide, equitable disarmament agreement. The only thing left for the United States to do therefore, is to look after its own defenses. Absence of fighting material does not prevent war. It only invites attack from another nation which is more heavily armed and feels therefore that it has something to gain by going to war. No nation deliberately attacks another nation unless it thinks it has a better than even chance to win. The only way for Uncle Sam to assure himself against any foreign nation's becoming a foe is to build a navy that will preclude such nation from having better than an even chance to defeat us. If our navy is as good as the best, we can depend on the good old American spirit and our geographical isolation to keep us out of trouble. Surely the naval program now in process of adoption at Washington has not come too soon. It should have been put under way many years ago. In fact, it would have been much better and more economical if we had not sunk our half-completed battleships more than a decade ago in the fond hope that such unselfish action would usher in an era of world peace.

Jackson and Roosevelt

A speaker eulogizing President Franklin D. Roosevelt recently compared the president with Andrew Jackson. How nearly was he right? Probably not many people realize what such eulogy means.

Andrew Jackson, the oldest retiring president the United States ever had, having left office eleven days before his seventieth birthday, induced Congress after seven years of tireless effort, to abolish the "United States Bank" during his second administration. He said that this bank had fallen into "dangerous" and incompetent political hands" who were using it to "extend credit or to withhold credit" at the expense of the public, and as a "political power". Today we hear loud talk about setting up such a bank, and a bill is now pending in congress to establish one.

Jackson enjoyed the distinction of pulling the United States government entirely out of debt, when during the period of 1834-35-36 the treasury reported that the United States for the first time (and incidentally the last) was entirely free from debt and carried a rather neat balance in the treasury. Today our government is spending at the rate of approximately $1,250,000,000 a month and will be about $32,000,000,000 in the red by June, 1935.

Jackson forced France to pay her $5,000,000 debt to the United States which had been owed since 1801, after administrations, one after another, had haggled with France over the debt for twenty-five years. In collecting the debt Jackson wore out five American ministers to France, finally taking the issue in hand personally and notifying that country that our army and navy would be the next bill collectors he would send—and of course France paid immediately. France and other nations are haggling over debts they owe the United States today, sixteen years having elapsed since they were incurred. Will another Andrew Jackson arise among us within the next nine years to collect these debts within the twenty-five year record set by Jackson?

Jackson was "some man" at seventy. His determination never went so far as to involve us in war, but Europe respected his word and knew he meant what he said. He shattered many precedents in that he feared no politician and no alien government, but served American interests to the nth degree.

President Roosevelt is a Harvard graduate. President Jackson got most of his education in the school of hard knocks. President Jackson was absolute master of the Democratic Party in his day. President Roosevelt holds the same title in 1934. President Roosevelt will not be able, as Jackson did, to leave office with the country out of debt, but he still has a chance to emulate Jackson in collecting the French debt. Here's hoping he will.

What, No Alphabets?

A study of the current monthly bulletin of economic statistics issued by the League of Nations at Geneva, brings the cheering news that the United States is not the only country making progress against the depression. Some of the other nations of the world are making rapid strides. The figures show, for example, that in November, 1933, business in the Dominion of Canada was 16 per cent higher than in 1932. In Sweden business was 15 per cent ahead of the same month the year before, in Germany it was 14 per cent and in Japan 13 per cent. In the United States the figure was 12 per cent. The rise in industrial production was felt in all the principal countries except Belgium.

The world figures are very encouraging. At that we would like to know just what alphabetical organizations Canada and Sweden are using to pull out of the depression.

Not until South Carolina goes Republican shall we expect to see Vermont do otherwise than it has been doing with great consitency ever since the birth of the Republican Party. According to a Paris dispatch to the New York Times, the French moving picture folks have released for showing in France a film called "from Wilson to Roosevelt." The picture touches on the high spots of history from 1912 down to the present and is said to be aimed to remind the French people of the various reasons they have for being friendly to the United States. Here is one foreign film of which every American will heartily approve. Most of us will hope that the picture will create so much friendly atmosphere for Uncle Sam in France that the French government will send us a small payment on the debt which they owe us.

LAUDABLE PURPOSE; POOR METHOD

The administration would like to help the small business man, and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is considering direct loans for expanded payrolls and business.

Laudable in purpose, the latest proposal is poor in method. Such lending should be through the banks and cannot efficiently be made through Washington.

Of more than 15,000 applications under a similar plan put into effect last September, only a few have yet resulted in the granting of a loan and little money has been made available.

Business men need restoration of normal dealings with their banks. By the very nature of the case, loans to fill new orders or meet seasonal requirements must be quickly obtained.

The endless red tape and delay inevitable should the small business man try to deal directly with Washington, make the plan impractical and likely to be of little real benefit.

Much of present credit stringency is due to depression fears that lead bankers into maintaining a more than normal liquidity. Some of it may be due to the need for meeting bank insurance requirements. A few of the big banks are extending aid to smaller and weaker institutions.

Whatever the reason, the federal government can help the small business man more effectively by restoring normal banking than by itself going into the direct loan business.

Mister Ground Hog

Once again Ground Hog Day has come and gone, as it has a strange but regular habit of doing nearly ever year. The day was a beauty. Old Sol smiled warmly all day long. And, since then, I have been very much amused at the comment I overheard on the subject. One fellow says he has watched it year in and year out, and when old Mister Ground Hog comes out and sees his shadow, it's just gonna be too bad for the next few weeks. Another says that's all rot. He, too, has kept his eye peeled, and so far as he has been able to discern, it has always proved to be just another day. Then, there are others who "just don't know." They're honest about it. But it's a funny thing. Whether they're "ground hog believers" or just "doubting Thomases," they still go on keeping an eye open just to see if there really is anything to this ground hog business. And so, as we do every year, we'll watch again and see if Mister Ground Hog knows his weather chart. It ought to be rough going during the next few weeks.

Speaking of Weather

And, speaking of weather, I must remind you that the open season for tornadoes is almost here. I don't know why I mentioned them unless it be because I stay scared stiff all through the latter part of February, and through March, April and part of May. If I had a storm pit, I think I'd move into it pretty soon and stay there until Spring opens. But, not having one, and being too lazy to dig one, and too near broke to hire one fixed, I suppose I'll just have to make it a point to be all set to go visiting about the time the clouds come piling in from the Southwest. Some guys tell me there's no use to go in a pit, because Old Nick will give me a ride any way if he has my ticket, but, just the same, he might overlook me if I should hide just a little. I'll risk it any way. But I've learned one lesson—I'll never wonder when the next one is coming along. Remember last year, when I asked several questions, and one of them was about when the next tornado might be expected. Well, I didn't have to wait long for my answer. The paper came out on Thursday, and on Friday morning a twister struck Helena and swept it clean. No, sir, no more curiosity for me, not about tornadoes. I'm content to "watch and pray" that we don't have one this year. The depression was bad enough, without a tornado thrown in for good measure.

A Blue Print of Heaven

Some time ago I gave out a few Bible problems, and, to some, they seemed very easy. Well, here's a new one. How big is Heaven, and how is it built? Yep, I know it's big enough to hold all that will go there, but still that doesn't tell the size of it. There is Bible record that one man saw Heaven, and wrote a description of it, as he saw it, giving the proper dimensions and all. Of course, he gave the measurements in terms of his own time and people, yet the student may easily find out from these the size of Heaven in our own measures. The length, breadth and heighth are all given; also, how many stories, what the walls are made of, what the streets of the city are made of, and all about the different colors, and everything. Even the windows are described, and their number is given. In short, the Bible contains a blue print of Heaven. The problem is to find that part of the Bible that gives all this, and then change all these measurements over into those of our own. How big is Heaven, and what is it made of, and how?

Alabama's Injustice

I think the rest of the whole world must have formed the idea that here in Alabama we take a notion every once in a while to have a Roman holiday, so we rig up a poor unfortunate victim and have him put to death. Evidence of this lies in the fact that no matter what our courts decide to do with criminals, there is at once a great howl set up: "Save him! Oh, save him, the poor fellow, from those bloodthirsty morons in Alabama!" It's got that bad we can't kill a vicious dog without some superior nosepoker taking a whack at us about it. About a week ago, a bunch of dogs attacked a six-year-old Alabama girl, and a judge sentenced them to death as vicious animals. (What should have been done is that they be shot on sight.) But lo, and behold, what should happen but that a woman writes and begs: "If you can't manage the poor brutes, please send them to me. Please don't kill them." There's one to gag at.

Jesus Christ Has Come

Yes, sir, it's a fact! Jesus Christ has come! And I'll bet you were so busy, you didn't know it. But he's here (in Wisconsin) just the same—not the Savior, but Jesus Christ, just the same. And, here's the solution to the puzzle. In Wisconsin lives a family named Christ. After due time and season, a son was born in the family, as children will do, and the father, realizing a chance very few people could have, decided to take advantage of the fact that his name was Christ, and so named his son Jesus. And so, (lucky stiff) Mr. Christ of Wisconsin has Jesus Christ with him every day. The story goes that the people of the town, not to be outdone by the baby's father, finished up the little play he had started. They got together, dressed like shepherds, tied a prosphorescent star to a kite, and followed the star to Mr. Christ's home, and there knelt before his new-born babe's crib, just as the Bible says was done in days of old.

War Clouds

"There shall be wars and rumors of wars." And a news article from Europe tells us that Europe, in reality, is a big armed camp, with daily parades, and flying flags, and the like. No less than six million men in uniform and bearing arms at present in a land not as big as our own. Remember when we had four million in uniform? Remember how it seemed that nearly everybody was in the army? Well, if the United States should put as great percentage of our men in uniform as Europe (outside of Russia) has done, we would have no less than eight million men in the army—just twice as many as we had before, during the World War. This news article, written by a reporter who is there, says that all borders are patrolled night and day—that sentries are to be seen everywhere, and that fear of war at any minute is rampant. Well, so long as they stay on their side of the pond with it, O. K., but let's hope that our officials decide to stay on our side of it, too, and then, God help the bunch of palukas that decide to try to bring the war over to us. I have heard too many men say: "I'll never cross water to get to fight again. However, if they come here looking for a scrap, I'll throw all the hot lead at them that Uncle Sam can scrape up for me." And these words came from men who had looked over the top of a trench, and over No Man's Land, too. Those fellows meant every word of that.—Man in the Moon.

Walked With Abe Lincoln

Out in Oklahoma lives William D. Ford, a distinguished citizen of that western state and one of the few living links that yet bind the country with Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Ford, as a young boy had the honor of walking hand in hand with Lincoln from the station at Clinton, Illinois, to his father's home when the great emanicipator came to the town back in 1856 to deliver a lecture at the Presbyterian church. The story of this incident is told in an interesting way by John Batrlett Meserve in the current issue of the National Republic. Mr. Meserve describes the incident in the following language:

"The train bearing Mr. Lincoln reached Clinton in the evening and the distinguished speaker was met at the depot by Colonel Ford and little Willie, the ten year old son of his family. Willie Ford, who is today the Hon. William D. Ford and a most highly respected and loved resident of Tulsa away out in Oklahoma, tells the story with the emphasis of the years which now rest upon the faithful service to his country and his fellowman. 'You see it was in the dusk of the evening when father and I sauntered over to the depot to greet Mr. Lincoln when his train arrived. I had never seen him although my father knew him well. I clung to my father's hand in my childish fright as the wheezing engine with its train of coaches drew alongside of the station. Never to my dying moment will I forget Mr. Lincoln as he stepped from the car and grasped father's hand and as he took my hand and said "How do you do, my son?" God forbid that I should ever forget. Then came the brief walk to the house with me walking between father and Mr. Lincoln, each of them holding one of my hands. "Just think of it," said the old gentleman with chocking voice, "Abraham Lincoln held this left hand of mine in his as we walked from the station to our house. A committee of the ladies headed by Mrs. Lawrence Weldon awaited to greet the distinguished visitor when we arrived. After supper, a half hour in conversation preceded the departure of the party for the lecture. Mr. Lncoln made many inquiries about the new church, asked about the minister and with a chuckle volunteered the observation to Mrs. Weldon that he hoped the preacher was not like a preacher down at Ramsay who swore outrageously when he was drunk. I am inclined to feel that this remark did not set well with the church sisters although everybody laughed.

"'I was the only child in the house that evening, and while the ladies were getting their toggings on to leave for the church, Mr. Lincoln drew me over to the side of his chair, ran his hand over my head and said, "Well son what are you going to be when you grow up?" What, if any response I gave him, I do not now recall. I was too young to attend the lecture and so was sent to bed before the party left the house. I never saw Abraham Lincoln again because he returned to Springfield on a night train after the lecture.

"'His personal appearance has been so often and faithfully described that I will not undertake to add to what has been said or written. The tall stove pipe hat that he wore was not unusual as my father wore such a hat on many occasions. It was a custom of the times. One distinguishing feature of his homely face remains with great vividness—his lower lip with its downward curve—it swaggered like a wet awning and to his apparent unconcern. Lincoln was entirely oblivious of his physical imperfections. The earthly tabernacle of his mighty soul was a glaring misfit.'

"Through shadow walls of time and space comes the story of this event with its dramatic interest. William D. Ford remains one of the very few links which unite us to the heroic past of the nation and to the country's greatest character. To him as it is to all of us, Abraham Lincoln is the fixed star in the firmament of America's glory. He gazed upon, he walked and talked with the great emancipator—what a memory to treasure!"

In a recent speech in Cleveland, Senator Dickinson of Iowa said:

"A year ago, if I had $100 in gold in my pocket, I was a law abiding citizen; if I perchance had a pint of whiskey I was a criminal. Today, if I have the whiskey, I am a law abiding citizen; but if I have the gold I am a criminal violating the law."

The statement is quaint enough to be worth repeating and it is undoubtedly as true as it is quaint. It only goes to show that we are living in a time of great and rapid changes. If you still don't believe this turn to the Democratic national platform of 1932 and read its pledges on sound money the tariff, and economy in government. Then read your morning paper. Yes, we sure are living in a time of great changes. Precedents are being broken; so are some political pledges.

What Militarism Is

Once again it has become necessary to insist that all military training is not militarism. Seven students of Ohio State University have been suspended for refusing to take military training. The Christian Monitor makes this the occasion for an article throughout which all military training is assumed to be militarism.

Militarism prevails in a country where the military arm of the government is supreme over the civil arm; where the purpose of military training and of the government is aggression on other nations. Military training in the United States has none of these characteristics. The military arm is subject to the civil arm. The Secretary of War is always a civilian. The number, arms, equipment and training of the forces are decided by Congress. The purpose of military training is national defense against aggressive nations. The training prefers young men to do their part in defense of their country.

Military training is necessary that the nation may be ready to defend itself when attacked. If the United States had to defend itself against attack by a great power, it would need a great army on the day war was declared. Only the fact that the allies were fighting Germany gave us fourteen months to prepare before our troops took the offensive in the World War. If we had been fighting alone, Germany could have driven our ships from the sea and could have landed a great army on our coast before we were ready to fight. Fourteen months is a long time for a modern war to last. Prussia defeated Austria in 1866 in six weeks. Germany brought France to her knees in 1870-71 in seven months.

By confounding military training for defense with militarism critics take the risk of exposing this country to the militarism of other nations. There is a clear distinction between the two. Switzerland is the most peaceful nation in the world, but it has universal military training. Because it had such training during the World War, it was not invaded, though surrounded by fighting nations.—Portland Oregonian.

Preparedness Campaigning

Rear Admiral Clark H. Woodward believes that many well meaning Americans are misled into support of the reduction of armaments as a result of anti-preparedness propaganda being spread in this country by "radical aliens, foreign-born and un-American Americans, internationalists and professional pacifists."

Brigadier-General Louis W. Stotesbury, advocating preparedness, declares: "There was never a war in which we have engaged that could not have been avoided by preparedness. Nothing so encourages aggression as the reputation of weakness."

Warnings like these will not appeal to some of the peace-seekers, but they should be heeded nevertheless. Individual Americans would not expect to visit Japan and advocate reduction of Japanese armaments and then receive cheers from the Japanese people. Similarly, Asiatic or European advocates of disarmament should not expect to carry on campaigns in this country without causing resentment among Americans. When any person becomes conspicuously zealous about reducing the armament of a country other than his own, his motives will naturally be suspected by the citizens of that country. So it is well to consider the source of arms-reduction propaganda, as well as the sources or arms-expansion propaganda.

In regard to the Stotesbury declaration, there can be no proof of the statement that we could have avoided all our wars by preparedness. No body knows or can determine what would have happened in the past if various things undone had been done. But there is truth in the assertion that a reputation of weakness encourages aggression. The arms-reduction workers themselves accept this view. For they themselves argue that an excessively prepared nation is likely to attack a weak and helpless nation. They themselves argue that superpreparedness increases the danger of war. But one nation's super-preparedness means the lack of preparedness of another nation. Preparedness is relative. This fact supports the foes of unpreparedness as well as the friends of armament - reduction through international agreements.—Worchester Telegram.

TIME TO CULL POULTRY

At this time of the year when the price of eggs is breaking and the price of hens is rising, it is a good time to cull your flocks and sell the culls. There is no profit in feeding cull hens.

If you are getting less than one egg for every two hens you have, you are feeding some culls. Hens that are beginning to moult should be taken out.

Following are some rules to guide one in culling:

1. Take out hens that are moulting.
2. Pullets that have not started producing should be culled.
3. When a hen is producing, her comb is bright red, warm and large. If the comb is small, hard, scaley and pale, the hen should be culled.
4. If the legs and beak are yellow, usually they are producing.
5. If the pelvic bones and breast are close together and the vent puckered, cull the hen.
6. Cull hens that are very small.

A good plan is to cull your hens close, take some of the money received for them and purchase a few good baby chicks during the month of March and raise some pullets for next fall and winter layers.—J. W. Fant, County Agent.

CHESTNUT GROVE

We are having some bad weather here at present.

Our Sunday school and preaching was rained out Sunday. Bro. R. E. Hyde will preach for us the fourth Sunday at 11 a.m.

We are glad to hear there is hope of a seven months school here this time.

We are glad to state that Brother Horace Nabors will preach for us the first Sunday in March at 11 o'clock. So let's all come and bring someone with us.

Miss Gladys Jones and Miss Nannie George Hall spent the night last week with Miss Margaret Nabors.

Master Herman Hyde was a guest at Mr. Jim Denson's Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Denson visited her daughter, Mrs. Bess Holcombe, Sunday.

Our Sunday school lesson last Sunday was a timely warning. It warned us against selfishness (keep the golden rule); warned against falsehood (listen to the truth); warned against unrighteousness (bring forth good fruit); warned against insincerity (build for eternity).

Mrs. W. W. Kendrick was unfortunate on the icy pavement last Sunday morning, when she fell and fractured her hip.

Mrs. J. H. Goddard spent the week end near Elmore as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Sarber and daughter, Hazel. Mrs. A. K. Horn of Montgomery was also a guest of the Sarbers.

The Christian Endeavor met at the Thorsby Institute dining hall Sunday night at 7 o'clock. Ruth Cosby led the meeting. Many interesting discussions were given on the topic, "Does God always Punish Wrong?"

Mrs. J. H. Goddard recently received communication from the Masonic Lodge in Ohio in which Mr. J. H. Goddard was made a Master Mason fifty-three years ago. They were very grateful for being informed of Brother Goddard's passing and pleased that he remained a member of the Craft throughout his life and glad that he had lived to a ripe old age. They stated that they had held memorial services in honor of Brother Goddard.

Mr. S. J. Davenport of Birmingham was at home for the week end.

Miss Bertha Littleton of Birmingham spent Monday night and Tuesday in Thorsby visiting relatives.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin with Mrs. Ben Franklin and Mrs. H. G. Franklin on returning from Campbellsville, Ky., on Saturday, where they had spent several days with Rev. and Mrs. Higdon, found a slippery time this side of Birmingham, which required skillful handling of the car by Mrs. R. R. Franklin, but they arrived at home safely late in the evening having driven about four hundred miles.

Mr. A. Z. Bean is able to be back in his store again after being confined to his home for several days.

Mrs. V. E. Wyatt and Mrs. O. W. Miller of Clanton spent last Wednesday in Birmingham.

Thorsby Institute News

The faculty and students enjoyed a valentine party in the dining hall last Saturday night. Games directed by different members of a committee appointed by Mr. Sutlive who had charge, were played. After two songs "The Old Spinning Wheel," and "The Spanish Cavalier," sung by the boys quartet, and a reading by Miss Boring, "Miss Cow Falls Victim to Br'er Rabbit," refreshments consisting of heart-shaped cookies and cocoa were served. The valentines pinned to a drapery on the wall made a lovely decoration. A large number was present in spite of the weather, and a pleasant evening was had by all.

Monday afternoon the senior class had a meeting and the following officers were elected: President, Phares Raybon; vice president, Hal Broadhead; secretary, Linnie Bell Reinhardt; treasurer, Edith Foss; historian, S. E. Maddox; poetess, Nelle Tracy; will, Mary Louise Bates; prophecy, Conway Thornburgh.

A recital given by the music department will be held in the auditorium Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. Everyone is invited. No admission will be charged.

February 24 at 7:30 p.m. the annual declamatory contest will be held. Everyone is invited. Admission will be ten cents.

Mr. John S. Waldrop, of Randolph, was in our office Monday of this week. Mr. Waldrop is a half brother of the late S. E. Waldrop, who was once county commissioner from the first district. We are always glad to see Mr. Waldrop because we like to talk to him, and too, he always tells us something about our good friend, his neighbor, Mr. Z. J. Jones. Another neighbor of Mr. Waldrop is Uncle Tom Hubbard, who, like Mr. Jones, is one of the old stand-pat Republicans of northwest Chilton.

A university student who reached an examination question, "What is the cause of a depression?" wrote, "God knows, I don't. Merry Christmas."

When the examination paper came back he found the professor's notation, "God gets 100. You get zero. Happy New Year."

A MAN OF ALL WORK WANTS A JOB

T. E. Harris, DISTRICT MANAGER

SOUTHERN BELL Telephone and Telegraph Co.

HE is the telephone. He's tapping at your door to ask for a job. He's the most willing of all workers. He's always at hand. He never sleeps, and is always ready to do your bidding, day or night, rain or shine.

He's the most dependable of all servants and a man of all work. He will guard your home in emergencies. If someone is suddenly sick in the night, he will get the doctor for you quickly. If a fire breaks out or a burglar breaks in, he will summon aid at once. Then, too, he will save you the trouble and embarrassment of having to borrow your neighbor's telephone.

When you are alone or lonesome, he will bring your friends to talk to you. He even makes it possible for you to sit comfortably at home and visit with relatives and friends living miles away from you.

A home is not complete without him. He will bring you comfort, protection and happiness and he will do all these things for you and your family for just a few pennies a day.

He is worth much more. In fact, it's hard to estimate his great value when you think of the many things he will do for you. It really doesn't pay to try to get along without him. Call the telephone business office and have this wonderful servant (a telephone) placed in your home today.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for February 18

JESUS' POWER TO HELP

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 8:1-9:34.

GOLDEN TEXT—But go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance. Matthew 9:13.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Forgives a Sinful Man.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Proves He Can Forgive Sin.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Meets Our Needs.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Meeting Human Needs.

In chapters 8 and 9 of Matthew are grouped a number of miracles which exhibit the power of Jesus Christ over the chief foes of men—sickness, sin, satanic power, death, and storms. It is fitting that they should be grouped here following the laws of the kingdom, for they show the king's power to administer the affairs of the kingdom and produce within his subjects the graces of character demanded by these laws. It would make the lesson too long to attempt to consider all these miracles. Therefore certain of the most outstanding should be selected.

I. Jesus Heals a Leper (8:1-4).

1. The dreadful disease (v. 2). Leprosy was the most loathsome and hopeless disease known. In the Jewish ritual it was regarded as a symbol of sin. Just as leprosy was incurable by man, so only the Divine Physician can cure sin.

2. The leper's faith (v. 2). His cry was most pitiable, but his faith was strong. He fully believed that Jesus was able, but was uncertain as to his willingness, to heal him.

3. Jesus' power (v. 3). He put forth his hand and touched the leper, bidding the disease to depart, and instantly the man was cleansed.

II. Jesus Heals the Centurion's Servant (8:5-13).

1. The disease (v. 6.). It was paralysis, In paralysis the victim is helpless.

2. The centurion's humility (v. 8). He first sent the Jewish elders and then his friends (Luke 7:3, 6) because he felt his own unworthiness. The condition of this servant was so grave that his master brushed aside timidity and personally appealed to Jesus.

3. The centurion's faith (vv. 8, 9). He believed that if Jesus would but speak the word his servant would be healed. His faith was so remarkable that Jesus marveled because it was not like anything he had discerned among the chosen people.

4. The wonderful power of Jesus (v. 13). He did not even need to see the helpless man and touch him, but needed only to speak the word and it was done.

III. Jesus Heals Peter's Mother-in-Law (8:14, 15).

This woman was sick of a fever. Jesus was invited into Peter's home to heal her, and upon his touching the hand of the patient the fever left her.

IV. Jesus Casts Out Demons (8:28-34).

After stilling the tempest, Jesus crossed to the other side of the sea into heathen territory.

1. Met by two men possessed by demons (v. 28). These men were in a desperate condition (Mark 5; 1-17, and Luke 8:27). So fierce were they that no one could safely pass that way. Many today are demon possessed and their number is increasing (I Tim. 4:1).

2. What they knew about Christ (v. 29). They knew that he was the Son of God and that he had come to destroy the devil and his work. Among demons there is no doubt as to the deity of Jesus Christ and the judgment to come.

3. Limitation of the devil's power (v. 31). Although the devil is mighty in power, he cannot even enter a hog without God's permission.

4. Christ's power to deliver from the devil (vv. 30-32).

The demons quailed before him, not daring to dispute his power, but begged permission to enter the swine.

V. Jesus Opening the Eyes of Two Blind Men (9:27-31).

1. The intelligence of faith (v. 27). They cried unto him as the Son of David which showed they recognized him as the promised Messiah. The prophet had foretold such to be the works of the Messiah (Isa. 29:18, 35:5, 41:7).

2. The persistence of faith (v. 28). These poor men had heard of the wonderful works of Jesus. This wrought in them a desire to be healed. They, therefore, followed him along the way crying out for help.

3. The challenge of faith (v. 28). In reply to his challenge they gave him a definite answer.

4. The triumph of faith (vv. 29, 30). Their faith brought them into touch with the Lord of life, who opened their eyes.

Our Giving Measure

God's great purpose in wanting men to give to him is that me may be enabled to give more abundantly to them. It is impossible for a man to give anything to God that does not come back to the man a thousandfold.

Tact

The observance of tact, the universally lauded, depends chiefly on the omission of certain actions, or even more often of words. To say the right thing at the right time to the right person is perfection.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

AUBURN RECOMMENDATIONS OF FERTILIZER FOR YOUR COTTON

There have been many inquiries at my office about Auburn recommendations of fertilizer for cotton.

The following mixture has given better results than any other experiment conducted at Auburn:

200 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate.

100 pounds nitrate of soda.

25 pounds murate of potash.

All the superphosphate, 25 pounds of nitrate of soda, and 25 pounds of murate of potash should be applied at or before planting time. Seventy-five pounds of nitrate of soda should be applied as soon as cotton is chopped and free of weeds and grass.

The above mixture is called the Auburn minimum recommendation per acre. Double this amount and you have the Auburn maximum.

Always mix in the proportion given above and apply at the rates of from 200 to 650 pounds per acre.

FARMERS "OVER THE TOP" IN REDUCTION CAMPAIGN

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 13.—The cotton reduction campaign has been declared a success in Alabama by Dr. L. N. Duncan, extension service director at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Last week 1,206,226 acres had been retired from cotton by 103,622 Alabama farmers. As a result producers in this state will receive more than 10 million dollars in rental and parity payments from the government for the 40 per cent cut in the 1928-32 average cotton acreage.

In addition, Alabama's "live-at-home" program is expected this year to exceed all records in the ample production of food and feed for the farm family and livestock. Much of the land retired from cotton will be devoted to soil building and erosion prevention crops with thousands of acres being put into improved pastures.

Young Housewife — The milk you have been serving me lately seems to be unusually watery.

Milkman—Yes, I was just going to tell you about it. You see, the cows got into the salt bin last week and it makes them awful thirsty.

CALF CLUB MEETING

The Chliton County Calf Club held a meeting at the courthouse in Clanton on Monday, Februry 12. The purpose of this meeting was to decide on definite terms for the upkeep of the club bull presented to us by Mr. C. E. Stapp, former county agent, upon his leaving for Dothan to accept the county agency of Houston County. This gift was highly appreciated by all the members of the club and to show our gratitude to Mr. Stapp we are going to make this bull a prize winner. It was decided that the bull will remain at the home of Ralph Mims, of the Isabella community, where the club will, in the near future, build a strong pin to keep him in.

This was the first meeting held by the club since Mr. Fant has come to this county to succeed Mr. Stapp as county agent. He made a fine appearance and we want him to know that we aim to cooperate and work with him to make this county an outstanding one of the state.

Osmond Glenn acted as secretary pro tem in the place of Clyde Popwell, deceased. As no further business presented itself we adjourned until the next meeting is called.—Quentin Kelley, Reporter.

LEADING COTTON VARIETIES

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 13.—Leading varieties of cotton for the different sections of Alabama have been announced by the Experiment Station at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute following 17 tests conducted over a period of three years, 1931-33 inclusive.

Stating that the Experiment Station does not recommend varieties that produce staple less than 7-8 (or 28-32) inch, H. B. Tisdale, plant breeder, named the varieties with the average yield of lint in pounds per acre and the length of staple in 1.32 inches for the three year period as follows:

North Alabama—Half and Half, 539, 25.6; D. P. L., 10, 538, 30.2; Stoneville 3, 525, 30.2; Stoneville 2, 494, 31.3; Cook 1010, 480, 27.4.

Central Alabama—Half and Half, 482, 25.8; D. P. L. 10, 460, 31.0; Cook 1010, 441, 28.3; Stoneville 3, 435, 31; Cook 307 (Rhyne), 427, 28.2.

Black Belt — Half and Half, 287, 26.4; Stoneville 3, 284, 30.8; Dixie Triumph (Watson), 279, 32; D. P. L. 10, 278, 30.1; Cleveland 884, 276, 32.3.

The tests were conducted at Auburn and in different sections of Alabama on the sub-stantions and experimental fields.

The Alabama Experiment Station has no cotton seed for sale.

More and larger plantings of kudzu are recommended in Alabama by the experiment station and extension service at Auburn. Kudzu makes excellent hay, it is valuable as a summer and fall grazing crop, it is splendid as a green feed for poultry, and is also an effeicient soil-builder.

There should be a good pasture on every Alabama farm. No other part of the farm will give greater returns than a pasture seeded with the best grasses and kept free from weeds and bushes, says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist at Auburn. Many cotton acres rented to Uncle Sam also an efficient soil-builder.

Editor—What compensation do you expect for your poem?

Poet—The regular thing.

Editor—All right. Thanks.

DE SOTO PARK GIVEN TO STATE

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 13.—The State of Alabama is indebted to a citizen of Georgia for one of its outstanding state parks. Mr. Thomas Berry of Rome, Ga., owner of substantial acreage in Alabama, conceived the idea that the most scenic portions of his holdings would contribute materially to public benefit if included in a state park to be added to Alabama's park system. Mr. Berry interested Mr. Fred Huron and Mr. W. M. McCurdy, adjoining landowners, in the project. While the acreage donated by Mr. Berry comprises the major portion of the area, the land contributed by Messrs. Huron and McCurdy includes substantial areas necessary to round out the reservation.

The new park is known as the De Soto State Park and is located on the scenic highway about six miles south of Mentone in DeKalb County. In many ways the area is of unique interest to the nature lover. Fronting on the deep gorge of the scenic and historic De Soto river, the land rises abruptly with many rock palisades until it reaches an elevation of nearly 1,800 feet, the highest point south of Mentone on Lookout Mountain. This section of Alabama is one of the few places where the Rhododendron is native. Canadian Hemlock is also native to this region. Many scenes here are suggestive of the northern woods.

There are several very swift streams in the park with small cascades and waterfalls. One of the most attractive features comprises approximately 180 acres of virgin forest. Due to the elevation, the temperature in the summer averages from eight to ten degrees cooler than in the nearby valley.

The park bureau of the State Commission of Forestry has prepared plans for the development of De Soto State Park which will be carried into effect, either through the C.C.C. camp now located at Ft. Payne or through a special state park camp to be allotted to Alabama by the Federal government for this purpose. In view of the Commission, the intrinsic character of the land and the public spirit of its honors justifies a high degree of development.

USE OF RENTED ACRES IS NOW FARM PROBLEM

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 13.—Throughout Alabama farmers are immediately confronted with the problem of deciding how to use the acres they have rented to the Secretary of Agriculture and agreed to leave out of cotton production.

The contract says that these acres my be used only for soil-improving or erosion-preventing crops or for food and feed crops for home use.

From a questionaire sent to county agents by J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, its seems that more of the rented acres will be planted to corn than to any other crop. If this is true Alabama will very likely harvest in 1934 a bigger corn crop than any on record.

County agents were asked what crops were most suited for their counties based on local needs. Out of 55 replies 42 said more land in corn; 40, soybeans; 17, peanuts; 18, lespedeza; 14, oats; 31, cowpeas, 14, velvet beans; 13, pastures; 10, wheat; and 11, crotalaria as a trial crop for soil building.

Agronomist Lowery commented that soil-building crops, such as lespedeza and cowpeas in summer, and hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas in winter, are needed in every Alabama county.

Lowery is elated over the prospect for a bigger production of food and feed needs in Alabama as a result of the cotton reduction program. But he says this prospect merely emphasizes the great need for soil building, because "almost the entire crop acreage of the state would have to be planted to food and feed crops if the state really carried out the "live at-home" idea.

FERTILIZER SALES INCREASE

Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, announced that fertilizer sales in Alabama to February 9 more than tripled sales to the same date last year.

Records of W. B. Griffin, chief clerk of the agricultural department, show that prior to Feb. 9, the department sold tags for 61,050 tons of fertilizer compared with 18,400 tons to the same date a year ago, and 17,950 tons for the same period of 1932.

CONGRESS PASSES SEED BILL

Both houses of congress have passed seed loan bills providing a maximum loan of $250 to each small farmer who does not have security for obtaining credit elsewhere, reports Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture.

"Senator Bankhead and Congressmen Hill and Jeffers inform me that Congress has passed seed loan bills providing $35,000,000 to $45,000,000 to be loaned to small farmers. Before either of the two bills become law it is necessary for the senate and house to hold a conference to iron out differences between the bills but our congressional delegates inform me that they feel certain that seed loans will be available within the very near future" Storrs said.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 13.—Marking another step in the program of the Alabama Game and Fisheries Department to keep the fresh water streams of the state well stocked with game fish, Commissioner I. T. Quinn is negotiating the purchase of the Calhoun county mountain spring that feeds the Eastaboga fish hatchery.

State ownership of this spring, which is to be purchased with five adjoining acres of land from S. M. Miller of Anniston, will guarantee perpetuation of the department's present restocking program and lay the foundation for expansion, Commissioner Quinn said. He said that the department had desired to purchase the spring for several years but failure to agree on the price to be paid caused delay.

Purchase of the spring was found necessary before the state could proceed with a $7,000 CWA expansion program at the hatchery on which 72 men are engaged. In addition to developing the source of the water supply, other ponds will be constructed and an additional foot of pressure will be placed on the main supply pipe leading to the hatchery. This will afford another foot of water for each of the ponds.

The waters from the spring are diverted through a pipe line, one foot in diameter, to a system of 11 triangular and rectangular ponds. The water level of these ponds is controlled by gateways which may be raised or lowered at will to keep a steady flow of fresh water through the channels.

The water is shallow at the heads of these ponds, gradually slanting downward to a point where a gate carries the flow into a drainage ditch. Moss and other undergrowth planted in the ponds afford a natural surrounding for the bass and bream which are domiciled according to grade and size.

The work at the hatchery is under the supervision of G. C. Black, superintendent of state hatcheries. These hatcheries produced something like 900,000 fingerling and fry for restocking purposes last year.

CARD OF THANKS

Will you please allow me space in your paper just to thank the people of this community for their kindness and help through the sickness which we have had for the last two months. I have been down and helpless for two months, but I am improving some and able to sit up in a chair, but am not able to walk.

We also thank Judge Reynolds and the commissioners for what they have done for us. And also thank Dr. Mastin for his kind attention. May God's richest blessings rest upon each and everyone.—Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Robinson and children.

MEDICAL ADVICE

If you want to
. . . relieve constipation safely
. . . regulate the dose to suit your exact need
. . . avoid danger of bowel strain
—use a liquid laxative

Can constipation be safely relieved? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" declare thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not apt to cure your constipation with salts, pills, and tablets, or any habit-forming cathartic. But you can relieve this condition just by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

Why Hospitals Use a liquid laxative

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Will not irritate kidneys. The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

In buying any laxative, read the label. If it contains a doubtful drug, don't take it. If you don't know what is in it, don't chance it. The contents of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is stated plainly on the label; fresh herbs, pure pepsin, active senna.

Its very taste tells you Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. Drug stores have it, ready for use, in big bottles.

Sumner Attended Woco Pep Meeting

Selling Plans Outlined at Gathering of Officials at Montgomery

Mr. R. J. Sumner, wholesale distributor for the Wofford Oil Company, in the Clanton territory, and all his dealers have recently returned from Montgomery where the Wofford Oil Company was host to agents and dealers through the Montgomery, Selma, Clanton, Union Springs, Troy, Goodwater and Opelika territories at a banquet and meeting at the Jefferson Davis Hotel.

At this meeting full details of the advertising campaign which the Wofford Oil Company is launching throughout its marketing area was explained, said Mr. Sumner. This company is dispenser of Woco Pep, the king of motor fuel, and tiolene oil.

H. H. Garner, manager for the Wofford Oil Company at Montgomery, presided at this meeting and D. L. Gilland, vice president of the company, delivered the key note message of the meeting and spoke on the sales program and policies of the company, and expressed his appreciation for the fine spirit of team work which prevails among the Woco Pep dealers. The campaign was enthusiastically received and every man pledged his best cooperation in the company's program. Open discussion was held and many of the dealers participated, about 111 attending.

According to Mr. Gilland the advertising campaign about to be launched has been especially worked out to meet the sales problems of Alabama. The Montgomtry meeting is one of several which are being held throughout Alabama for Woco Pep dealers and service station operators.

SECOND BILLION DOLLAR LOAN TO BE ASKED BY U.S.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Another billion dollars will be sought from American investors this week by the federal government to carry on its recovery program despite a rising torrent of new revenues into the treasury and the immense profit realized last week through revaluation of the dollar.

Government revenues are rising rapidly because of increased business activity and liquor taxes but expenditures are increasing at an even faster rate, necessitating the second borrowing step this week in the government's $10,000,000,000 borrowing program.

The first step was taken several weeks ago when a billion dollars worth of short term government securities was oversubscribed nearly five times in a few hours.

Details of this week's new government security offering are expected to be announced within a few days. Government bond workers are expecting a two-year issue, bearing an interest coupon of 2¼ to 3 per cent annually. The government's last big security offerings were half a billion of 13½ month 2½ per cent notes and a similar amount of 7½ month 1½ per cent certificates.

"Big Executive" At Wadesonian

Sponsored by Pilot Club at the Wadesonian Theatre on Next Wednesday and Thursday

Those who would like just about an hour and a half of good twnetieth century speed, will find their wish more than gratified at the Wadesonian Theatre, where the Paramount picture, "Big Executive," will be shown, Wednesday and Thursday, February 21 and 22.

The film is fast throughout with a rapidly-paced development of character and plot.

The characterization of Ricardo Cortez in the role of the high-tension, modern big executive, shows him to advantage in a part that differs radically from previous appearances.

A potential star is recognized in Elizabeth Young, a newcomer to the screen, who enacts the leading feminine role. She is not only a new type but gives splendid, refreshing performances that place her in a class by herself.

As a ninety-seven-year-old fogey, who is in the habit of ruling Wall Street with a mighty hand, Richard Bennett stretches head and shoulders above his past achievements.

The story, adapted to the screen by Laurence Stallings from Alice Duer Miller's popular novel, starts out in the executive offices of that great money lane, Wall Street. The action begins immediately, when a lot of worthless stock certificates come fluttering around the bewildered heads of several hundred dizzy financial barons, causing them to cancel their seats for the opera and dash to the nearest hamburger stand for a last supper.

Cortez and Bennett stand up when the others lie down, fighting it out for supremacy in The Street, with the younger man having the edge. Oddly, Cortez, the boy wizard of Wall Street, is helpless when love affairs enter his life through the potent persuasion of Miss Young, the great-granddaughter of Bennett.

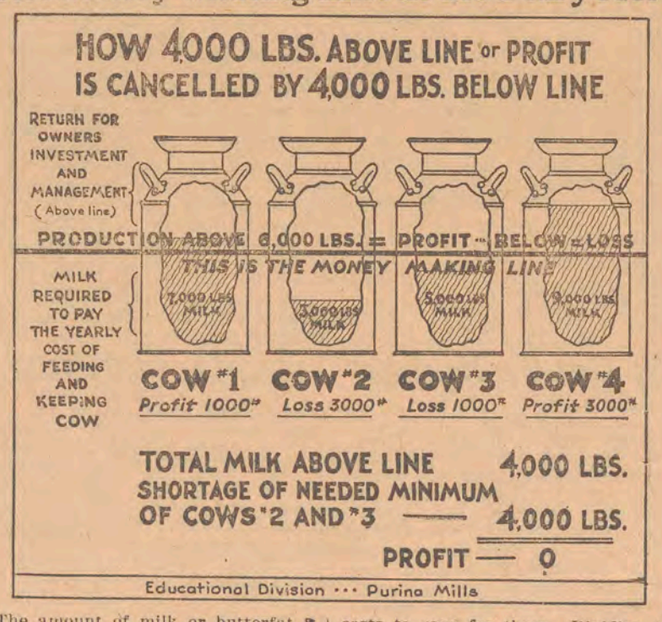
It is one grand breath-taking race from start to finish, with Erle Kenton, the director, retainging every fragment of spice and vigor contained in the popular story. As a love-starved, attractive secretary, Sharon Lynne comes through with one of the finest performances of her career. Dorothy Peterson, as an out-dated wife and Barton McLane, in the important role of the guide, portray worthy merit.

CARTER WILL REMAIN HERE ABOUT TWO WEEKS

Rev. P. G. Carter stated Tuesday that he will remain in Clanton about two weeks after he is dismissed from Central Alabama Hospital. Mrs. Carter and son, Percy, will come up from Montgomery, and join him this week. They will have rooms at the Hester home during their stay in Clanton.

For the past two weeks Rev. Carter has been in Central Alabama Hospital recoerving from a surgical operation. He hopes to be able to see many of his old friends while he is here.

The Money-Making Line in the Dairy Herd



The amount of milk or butterfat it takes to pay the cost of keeping a dairy cow for one year—that is the money making line in a dairyman's herd, E. B. Powell, manager of Purina Mills' Experimental Farm, points out. Whether a cow is helping to keep the dairyman or he is keeping the cow depends on whether or not her production is above that line.

The money making line varies for each herd and in any herd it is higher than it used to be, because prices for dairy products are lower. Most herds have a few poor cows which eat up part of the profits made by the better cows.

In determining the cost of keeping a cow for one year, the annual cost of pasture, hay, ensilage, grain feed, and hired labor must be added together. Pasture is usually figured at $1 per cow per month; likewise labor. If the value of the calf and manure are not enough to cover cow replacement cost, veterinary bills, and other general herd expense, then something must be added to the feed and labor costs to care for them. Dividing the total cost by the price of milk gives the money making line. Production above this line is the owner's return for supervision and management and interest on his investment, which must be figured for each individual cow.

To increase the profit from the herd, the dairyman should get rid of the cows whose production cannot be brought above the money making line and feed better and more liberal rations to those which are above it, so that they will produce all that is within their capacity. By this means, the herd can be made to pay no matter what the price of milk.

A simple set of tools to figure the cost of keeping a cow has been developed by the dairy department of Purina Mills. In most communities are Checkerboard feed dealers who will be glad to supply them to help the individual dairyman make an analysis of his herd to find out where his money making line is, and which of his cows are above and which are below the line.

Federal Process Taxes On Hogs

The office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has been advised of a change in the regulation relative to the progressing tax on hogs as it applies to producers.

Farmers who raise hogs and slaughter them, primarily for the consumption of their households or employees, but sell or exchange parts or cuts therefrom, are exempt from the tax, provided, such sales do not exceed 300 pounds for the marketing year. Should such producers sell or exchange an amount in excess of 300 pounds, but in excess of 1,000 pounds, such persons can claim the exemption of 300 pounds and pay tax on the balance. However, if the sales amount to more than 1,000 pounds in any marketing year, no claim for the exemption of 300 pounds can be made.

The tax was effective November 5, 1933, and the rate of tax to December 1st was 50c per 100 pounds, for the months of December and January, $1.00 per houndred pounds, for the month of February, $1.50 per hundred pounds, and on and after March 1st, $2.25 per hundred pounds, based on the live weight of the hog at the time of slaughter.

All processors of hogs, not coming within the above classification, are required to file monthly returns with this office, in duplicate, and pay the tax at the rates quoted above. Returns must be filed and the tax paid within the next calendar month following the month in which the processing is done, as a 25 per cent penalty attaches for dlinquent filing.

JOHN S. DENNIS DIED TUESDAY

Squire John S. Dennis, age 78 years, died Tuesday night about six o'clock a this home in the Cane Creek community, Beat 11. Funeral services were at Cane Creek church Wednesday at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. S. Cox. Interment was in Cane Creek cemetery.

Mr. Dennis was a widley known citizen who had exercised a prominent part in the affairs of his community for a long time.

Mrs. Cleve Headley, who has been ill from an infection caused by a splinter in the hand, is somewhat improved.

Roll Call Ends Next Saturday

The Red Cross Roll Call membership campaign continues through this week, and comes to a close Saturday.

All workers who have been enlisted to solicit memberships are urged to renew their efforts for the close of the week.

Several of the roll call solicitors have already done some work, in spite of the weather handicap of recent days.

The people of Chilton County are urged to renew their memberships in Red Cross this week, as this is the last opportunity you will have until the regular roll call again in November.

Several members of Clanton Kiwanis Club went to Selma Tuesday night to attend a reception given there for International President, Joshua L. Johns, of Appleton, Wisconsin.

Delegations were in attendance from all Kiwanis clubs of the third Division of the Alabama District.

COMEDY AND NEGRO MINSTREL AT REFUGE SATURDAY NIGHT

There will be a three-act comedy "Closed Lips," and also a negro minstrel, "Axin Her Fader," at Refuge school Saturday night, February 17. There will be a negro quartet to sing. Also Reuby Chasteen's band will be there to play. Plenty of laughs and good music. Everybody come and see the "Hottentot.". Proceeds will go to the benefit of the school. Admission 10c and 15c.

CLASS DISTINCTION

"An editor is said to be a man who knows a great deal about a very little, and who goes along knowing more and more about less and less until finally he knows practically everything about nothing; whereas a salesman, on the other hand, is a man who knows a very little about a great deal, and keeps knowing less and less about more and more until finally he knows practically nothing about everything."

He — Experience is our greatest teacher, isn't it?

She—Yes, and there's no holding back her salary either.

COBB CANDIDATE FOR CO. SHERIFF

Beat 2 Man Is Third Entrant For the Republican Primary Nomination

Mr. Vernon T. Cobb, of Beat 2, this week announces his entry into the race for Sheriff of Chilton County, as a candidate for nomination in the Republican primary of May the first. Mr. Cobb is a well-known citizen of the Center Hill community, near Jemison, where he has lived all of his life.

He is a new man in the political circles of Chilton County, never before having offered himself as a candidate for public office. Notwithstanding that fact, he has exercised a keen interest in political and public affairs, and is recognized as one of the most stalwart Republicans and a fine reputation and character among those who know him.

A tone of sincerity and forcefulness, as well as brevity marks the opening announcement of Mr. Cobb as a candidate. He says: "This is my first time to ask for any public office. I expect to make a fair and honest effort to secure the nomination of my party in its primary election. I ask the people of Chilton County to investigate my ability and qualifications for this office. After due consideration, if you find me worthy, your vote and influence will be heartily appreciated."

Mr. Cobb is the third contestant for the Republican nomination for Sheriff. Together with him the office of Sheriff is being sought by former Sheriff Dudley Collins, and Mr. Dewey Hughes, of Beat 10.

Safety Signs For The County Roads

Project Is Under C.W.A. Together With the County Engineer's Office

A project for public safety devices and signs on the roads of the county is being developed jointly under the CWA and county authorities. The project is in charge of Mr. S. J. White, who will have a crew of eighteen men when fully organized.

A work shop for this project has been established in the old shop building in front of the county jail. In this shop workmen are now employed in the building of safety devices and signs.

Guard posts will be erected at all blind or hidden bridges and culverts on the county roads. Curve and slow signs will mark all the danger points on the roads. Signs will be erected at all cross roads and intersections, narrow bridges, school zones, winding roads and all points of danger will be properly marked.

Signs will be erected at all cross roads and intersections showing direction and distance to towns and important points in the county.

Melody Boys Here

The Stamps Melody Boys, who put on a program at the courthouse in Clanton a few weeks ago, will be back here Monday night of next week, February 26th, and put on a program at the courthouse. It will begin at 7:45 o'clock, and the admission will be the same as they charged before—15c for children and 25c for adults.

The appearance is being sponsored by Circle No. 4 of the Clanton Baptist church, part of the proceeds from which will go to that local organization. If you heard these boys before, you will want to hear them again, because lots of their program will be different from what they presented before. If you did not hear them then, you will certainly want to hear them this time. Ask those who have heard them.

CORN AND HOG PROGRAM MEETING HERE FRIDAY

Mr. F. W. Burns, of Auburn, will be here Friday for a meeting with farmers who are concerned about the corn and hog reduction program. County Agent Fant has set the time of the meeting at 10 a.m., and all farmers who are interested are urged to attend.

Mrs. Wells Died

Mrs. Gatsy Wells, age 71 years, died last Saturday at her home, Clanton Route 2. Funeral services were conducted at Poplar Springs church Sunday afternoon by Rev. S. J. Ezell. Burial in the adjoining cemetery was in charge of Spigener.

The deceased was the widow of Ben H. Wells, who died in 1905. Surviving her are three daughters, Mrs. Nettie Kicker, of Columbus, Ga., Mrs. Lula Blalock, of Clanton; and Mrs. G. C. Kicker, of Marbury; two sons, Ben H. Wells, of Clanton; and J. Brockman Wells, of Selma; one sister, Mrs. Addie Scarbrough, of Clanton.

Sanders Is Candidate For State Legislature

Member of County School Board Aspires to Broaden His Field of Public Service For The County

W. L. Sanders, member of the Chilton County Board of Education for the past four years, announces this week his entry into the race for representative of Chilton County in the Legislature of Alabama, subject to the Republican primary of May 1st.

In a brief statement issued at the time of making his announcement Tuesday, Mr. Sanders said: "I feel that I can be of greater and larger service to the people of Chilton County as a member of the Legislature than as a member of the County Board of Education, therefore I am asking for this promotion in the public service."

Continuing his statement dealing with the principles he will advocate, if elected, Mr. Sanders says: "Since the State Legislature occupies the most fundamental and important position of the frame-work of State government, and is the mainspring of State activities; and since its action must generally be invoked in the revision of the State Constitution, and since the statutory law is altogeher in the hands of the Legislature, I feel that it is justice to the voters of Chilton County to state the principles I expect to advocate and support.

"My aim shall be, if elected to the Legislature, to give the greatest service to the greatest number of people at the least possible expense.

"The legislature should set an example of ecenomy by eliminating useless clerks, newsboys and doorkeepers from the taxpayers shoulders.

"There are also many useless and unjust laws the Legislature should remove from the statute books.

"I favor the enactment of laws that give service and mete out justice but oppose laws that permit graft and legalizing robbing.

"Health is one of the greatest assets of life and should be strictly guarded. We have scores of defective men, women, and children who need medical or surgical attention, but for the lack of finance, they must continue in their suffering. If elected to the Legislature, I expect to sponsor a bill providing for the establishment of a free hospital for Chilton County. The tax-payers of Chilton County took their wives and children into the fields and dug from them taxes that have built the public roads, that built a thirty thousand dollar jail, that built the courthouse, and pays a nice salary to the most of the officials therein. And after all this support to the county, should this tax-payer, and any of his family, need an operation, they have no assurance of the service. Health should be protected in an organized way, and none should suffer and die for the want of attention because they are poor.

"I have several planks in my platform to discuss before the election, and I hope you will carefully consider them. Education will be one of the questions I shall discuss next week."

W. L. SANDERS

Want To Know Position of Candidates On All Education Problems

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 20. — The Alabama Education Association made a definite move this week to ascertain the position of candidates on certain of the more pressing school problems now before the people of Alabama, when an Education Platform was mailed to those candidates elected by the state-at-large from the headquarters office here. The platform has been in process of preparation for the past several weeks and was recently approved by the executive committee.

Among the problems which the platform suggests is one which declares public education to be a basic function of the state equal in importance and in its claim for financial support to any other function of government. Other planks declare for a simplified system of school appropriations; revenue sufficient to provide a seven-months minimum school terms, with at least a living wage for teachers; general rather than local school laws based on established need; regular payment of basic salaries for teachers; and a complete reorganization of Alabama's tax system to the end "that the burden of taxation may be more equitably distributed and that adequate support for education be assured."

The platform recommends federal support for schools for the purpose of equalizing the burden of support among the several states "without federal control over state or local administration." It also recommends a joint commission of laymen and educators to advise with the incoming governor and legislature in formulating a recovery program for education.

The list of state-wide candidates to whom this platform was mailed included those who have qualified with the secretary of state to date: the three candidates for governor, the two for lieutenant-governor, the three for attorney general, the two for secretary of state, the one for treasurer, and the three for superintendent of education.

Plans To Buy Fertilizer Through Chilton County Exchange, Inc.

The members of the Board of Directors of the Chilton County Exchange, Inc., met Saturday, February 17th, and made plans for handling fertilizer for its farmer members this year.

Chilton County Exchange, Inc., is a farmer-owned and farmer-controlled cooperative organization which has as its purpose buying and selling for its members.

Under the fertilizer code all fertilizer must retail at the same price. No dealer has a right to sell for less than other dealers. There has been an executive order made by President Roosevelt to the effect that no code of fair competition can prevent the payment of patronage dividend by cooperative organizations. The Chilton County Exchange, Inc., rates as a dealer under the code and can buy at the same price of other dealers. It will sell at the same price, but will at the end of the year declare patronage dividends to its members in proportion to the amount of business done through the organization.

Through this plan the members have a chance to save some good money on fertilizer.

The Exchange, Inc., also agreed to buy through the Farmers Marketing & Exchange Association which rates under the fertilizer code as a wholesale distributor. This gives the farmer members a chance to save money on wholesale and retail prices in the form of a patronage dividend.

Any farmer who expects to pay cash for his fertilizer will profit by buying through his own organization.

Anyone interested in buying through this organization should see one of the following men at once and place his order for fertilizer:

Judson Strock, Verbena.
J. R. Robinson, Verbena.
E. R. Piper, Thorsby.
J. B. Hicks, Maplesville.
Evan Parrish, Clanton.
Jim Popwell, Clanton.
L. G. Posey, Jemison.
T. F. Patterson, Cooper.

W. L. Popwell is president of the Chilton County Exchange, Inc., and J. Dudley Collins is secretary.

ATTENTION, THOSE WHO WRITE FOR UNION-BANNER

Little do our many good correspondents think what a hardship it works on The Union-Banner force when a whole batch of copy comes into our office Wednesday morning. If everyone else sent theirs on Monday and only yours was left until Wednesday, it could be cared for without ill convenience, but when a dozen or so, together with a half dozen long political spiels, come in during the eleventh hour, the force is going to catch Hail Columbia or else miss No. 10 Wednesday afternoon. And when this is done it means that some of the rural routes will not be delivered until Friday, and then there is Hail Columbia again because the paper got delivered late.

Therefore, let us urge our correspondents to slip forward a day or even two days—if possible, and thus greatly assist us in getting the paper out on time. If it is possible to get in your letter on Saturday, that will be just a whole lot better, and you bet, we will appreciate it. Most all political letters could be gotten in on week ends just as well as Tuesday or Wednesday; and we may adopt a rule not to accept any such letters coming in later than Monday. So, let's all pull together to each other's advantage, and we will all come out better wash day.

Selma Highway Paving Project

$35,000 Allotted For Surfacing Three Miles West From Clanton

The proposed project for paving three miles of the Selma Road from Clanton toward Maplesville has hit an obstruction and seems temporarily halted. Preliminary arrangements for letting the contract are being withheld on account of a question as to where the paving will start.

Information given out by local officials says an allotment of $35,000 has been set aside from state and federal funds for paving the three miles under what is known as the secondary highway program of the federal aid system.

Consideration has so far been given to the project contemplating the beginning of the work at the junction of the Birmingham paved highway in Clanton, and extending three miles west from that point.

Now, it is said that the federal authorities have halted on the proceedings because a part of the proposed paving is within the city limits o Clanton. It is said that such appropriations for federal aid cannot be made where any part of the proposed project is within the corporate limits of a town or city.

The matter is being considered by the county and city officials here in the hope of getting the differences ironed out so that work may proceed unhindered as soon as the contract can be let. Public sentiment locally favors beginning the paving at the Birmingham Highway. But if it can not be done that way, the next best thing would be accepted, namely, begin the paving at the city limits and extend it three miles west from there.

The following resolution on the subject has been passed by the County Commissioners Court:

"Whereas there has been allotted to Chilton County a sum of $35,000 for approximately three miles of bituminous surface road from the present paved highway in the Town of Clanton westward along the said street and road leading to Maplesville, and

"Whereas the County authorities have been advised by the State of Alabama Highway Department that under a recent ruling this money cannot be spent nor this road constructed in the corporate limits of the town of Clanton, but said road will have to be constructed outside the corporate limits of said town.

"Therefore, be it resolved, by the court of County Commissioners of Chilton County, that it is the opinion of this body that it will be more advantageous to the traveling public for this road to be connected with the present highway rather than to be commenced outside the corporate limits of said town.

"Be it resolved further, that in the event the highway department cannot under its recent ruling connect said road with the paved highway then we urge the Highway Department to immediately commence the construction of said road outside the corporate limits as this will give much labor and employment to the many unemployed of our county, who are now unemployed on account of the curtailment of the work of the CWA."

Textile Industry Asking For Help

Petitions Sent to Congressmen By Mill Operators and Interested Citizens

Congressmen and Senators are being urged by operatives in the cotton textile industry and the public to give thought and plans toward legislation that will relieve a serious situation in which cotton manufacturers have found themselves with reference to the import and export business.

Mr. H. T. Mahaffey, assistant superintendent of Alabama Mills at Clanton, has circulated a petition of appeal to our Congressmen and Senators in which a large number of leading and representative citizens join to urge the attention of the lawmakers to the subject.

It is pointed out that there has been an increase of 40 per cent of textile imports into this country in 1933 over 1932. Many manufacturers say their export business has been almost destroyed. According to Mr. Mahaffey, in 1932 and the first part of 1933, the cotton mill here had a fair export trade to South America, amounting to about 15 per cent of the entire output of the mill. None of its products are being exported now.

Economic conditions, wage scales, and other domestic factors are pointed out as the cause for American textile mills losing the export trade. All of these conditions combined have so increased cost of production of manufactured goods as to handicap the sale of the goods in foreign markets.

WANT REYNOLDS FOR GOVERNOR

Solicitations Are Coming From Friends and Supporters In Several Counties

According to sentiments that have been expressed by various Republicans of Alabama, there is a considerable amount of favor toward the question of Judge L. H. Reynolds entering the race for Governor of Alabama this year as the candidate of the Republican party.

Letters and expressions have been received by Judge Reynolds from many members of his party in different sections of the state.

A prominent Republican of Montgomery says everybody wants to know why Reynolds is not the Republican candidate for Governor.

From Baldwin County comes the report that many voters there would welcome the opportunity to vote for Reynolds as against any candidate the Democrats might nominate.

One political admirer writes to Reynolds and says: "Your past record in Chilton County is the talk of lots of people over the state. While stumping the state in former years you made a good impression with the business people. You have heard it said that the bottom rail gets on top sooner or later, and I believe this is your chance."

Judge Reynolds has not, so far as is known, given any consideration to running for governor. He is a candidate for re-election as Probate Judge of Chilton County.

Doubtless, in the near future, there will be forthcoming from him a statement in response to the solicitations of his many friends and supporters over Alabama.

SOLDIERS TO MEET AT THE COURTHOUSE THURSDAY NIGHT

Notices have been sent out by Reuben L. Lowe, commander of Chilton County Post of the American Legion, urging the attendance of all ex-soldiers at a special meeting at the court house in Clanton tonight (Thursday.)

Walter J. Knabe, of Montgomery, will be here to deliver an address dealing with subjects of very much importance to ex-service men.

While the meeting is primarily sponsored by the local post of the American Legion, all ex-soldiers, whether members of the Legion or not, are invited and urged to attend.

Large Amount of Money Will Be Turned Loose On Payrolls During That Time

Plans are being formulated for the most gigantic "Prosperity Trade Week," beginning Saturday, March 3, and continuing through Saturday, March 10, ever known in Clanton, sponsored by the Clanton Kiwanis Club in cooperation with local offices of the National Re-employment Service, according to information from Luther E. Little, president of the Clanton Kiwanis.

Declaring that during the first week of March more money will be placed in the hands of the purchaser than during any similar period with in the past decade, Mr. Little said the local club will sponsor this "trade week" with the hope of creating a stimulus for spring buying, which will result in a general inclination to furnish more employment permanent, or part time, for Chilton County's unemployed.

Figures tabulated by him, show that more than $200,000 will be paid into the hands of Chilton Countians during the first ten days of March, which is perhaps manifold any payroll for such a brief period in the history of the county. From March 1 to March 10, CWA payrolls, county payrolls, teachers' payrolls, payment of the amounts still due farmers in the cotton acreage reduction program of 1933, and the first payment of the rentals for 1934, are expected to be paid. Also approximately forty thousand dollars worth of state warrants for teachers and other educational indebtedness will be received at that time, and it is understood that bids for these have been received.

Too, it is the season of the year, he explained, when farmers will be making arrangements for the year's advances, and will be purchasing much of the necessary equipment and supplies for the production of this year's crop. A committee will be appointed, it is understood, at the next regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club, Thursday night, to acquaint Clanton merchants and business men with the ideals back of this program and to solicit their cooperation in making it a success.

Realizing that merchants and business men have failed to increase their personnel in accordance with the increase in business during the past few months, Cecil G. Stokes, manager of the local National Re-employment Service, declared in commenting on this program that he hopes that many persons may be given permanent, or part time, employment as a result of this drive which will endeavor to acquaint Clanton business men with the detriment, lurking behind the ideas of not sharing with the unemployed the increased business which has been brought about by the various governmental programs, conceived to prime industry.

Mr. Stokes stated that since the depression was caused by the lack of purchasing power of the working man, business men should remember that they must divide with the working class, or else we will soon find the clutches of another depression.

During this Trade Week, business men are urged to increase their staffs in an effort to alleviate the unemployment sitation in the county; and they will also be solicited to list specials which will lend stimulus the success of the program.

"It's funny to what extent these movie actresses will go for publicity."

"Yes I see where one even died the other day."

Mrs. Moates Died

Mrs. Rebecca Ann Moates, age 75 years, died at her residence in the Walnut Creek community last Sunday night. Funeral services were at Walnut Creek church Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. T. C. Cassady of Montgomery, assisted by Rev. Nolen. Burial was in charge of Spigener.

The deceased was the widow of Tom Moates, who died several years ago. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Viola Headley, Mrs. Louela Bice, and Mrs. Tommie Lee Goodgame; five sons, Eli, Will, Caby, Cary and Rudolph, all of Clanton; three brothers, Josey Baker, of Clanton; Tom Baker of Birmingham; and W. E. Baker, of Verbena; four sisters, Mrs. Sarah Mims, of Clanton; Mrs. Rosa Jones, of Sylacauga; Mrs. Emily Baker, of Powderly; also thirty-one grandchildren.

Judge Reynolds Lays His Case Before The Voters

"With Charity For All and Malice Toward None," the Battle-Scarred Leader of the Republiican Party Faces Future.

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

Having announced as a candidate for Judge of Probate in the Republican primary of May the first, and having served my people for some years in this office, I feel it is my duty, and I regard it as a happy privilege, to give an account to the voters concerning some of my official acts in particular, and of my public stewardship in general.

I believe every voter has the right to know every candidate's views on public matters of the present day and the visible future. I believe every tax payer has the right to know how and for what purpose every dollar of tax money is spent.

Concerning any transactions that have come before me officially, I have no secrets. I am willing and anxious for all who are interested to know the position I have taken in every test that came to me. I can not, of course, go into details about all these many things. But I want to say that I am ready to answer any question that anyone may want to ask about my official transactions as your judge of probate.

During the forty years of my public life I have been for peace and harmony in the Republican party. I have seen many confusions arise but it has always been my policy to give due consideration to all. I have tried to give such public service as would convince all citizens that it was best for the Republican party to govern this county.

I prefer peace and harmony in my own party. I love to be friendly and on friendly terms with everybody. But I have always reserved and exercised the right to defend my name against false reports and false accusations, whether they come from Democrats or Republicans.

We have had some confusion in the Republican party in recent years. I think the Republican voters are fully familiar with how this confusion started, and the purposes that promoted the same. The voters are familiar with the controversy about some of the misunderstandings within the party, how certain correspondence relative thereto started and how it ended.

It has always been my policy to try to get along friendly with all whom I had to do business with. I have always made a special effort to get along with the Commissioners Court over which it was my duty to preside. With all my experience, last year was the first time I have not been able to work in harmony with the Court. I think the voters of the county are familiar with what happened during that time without my going into details here. If there is anything the voters do not know or understand about any transactions I have had, I will be glad to explain when called upon.

To show you the attitude I had with the Commissioners Court when they organized on January 16, 1933, I quote a letter I handed to each member of the Court at that time:

"Chilton County has a reputation of being one of the best managed counties in Alabama. It is my sincere wish that we will continue to progress under your management, and it will be my pleasure at all times to cooperate with you and assist you in any way I can in making your administration a success. At this time I am glad to report that there is in the county treasury $71,397.77. In addition to this amount there is in the sinking fund deposited in the Peoples Savings Bank $20,000, which makes a total of $91,397.77."

About two years ago our county was visited with the worst tornado in our history. I put forth every possible effort to help relieve our distressed and suffering people. This was my duty as an official, and I leave it with my people to say whether or not I discharged my obligations.

When I thought I saw the greatest panic in all history coming upon our people, I at once began to consider what could be done to help the needy and suffering of our county. At my own expense, and months before our county received any money from the federal government, I went over the county and registered the unemployed. I found several hundred families who had no means of support. I requested the Commissioners Court to furnish employment to these needy people out of county funds.

It was soon evident that the county did not have sufficient resources to take care of the needs of the sufferers. When I saw that the United States Navy had a lot of shoes and clothing to give to the poor, I advanced around $500 personally in order to secure a portion for our people, without waiting to see if the Commissioners Court would reimburse me. The Commissioners Court did refund this money to me.

In December, 1932, I brought before the Commissioners Court the question of getting $50,000 federal relief money for the needy people of our county. You know of the division of opinion that developed among our county officials and party leaders on that and subsequent relief measures.

Some of our officials believed our county did not need relief, and therefore, opposed the proposition. I believed our people did need it, and continued my efforts to get it for them. When finally the people themselves had an opportunity to pass on the question, a majority voted in favor of accepting the federal relief program. What would have happened to the people of Chilton County if we had not gotten this federal relief, I am not able to say.

I only want to say that I feel like I did my duty in the light of the truth as I saw it, to stand up and fight for those people who were in need of relief, and I am glad that later developments have proved that my stand on the question was justified. I did not do what I did for the sake of politics. I did it because I knew hundreds of our poor people would be benefitted, and I knew they needed it very greatly.

When the CWA wanted to start to work in this county, there was again opposition among some of the officials. After reconsidering the matter the Commissioners voted to support this work, and they are now working in harmony with CWA. There has been spent with the people of this county by the United States government over $200,000. In spite of all of this, we still have more people crying for relief than we can take care of.

It has been my policy to get all the relief possible for our needy people, while many of the leading Republicans opposed my efforts in this respect. Neither I nor any of my folks have handled a single penny of this money. On the other hand, it cost me about $1,200 last year in extra work and time to do what I did to support the relief measures that were carried out in our county.

I have no complaint to make about the extra time and expense that was required of me to help get this relief for our people. I feel that I have been well paid for my efforts when I think of the people in our county who have been provided with clothes, food and shelter this winter, all and only because of the money they secured for their work through the relief program. The Lord only knows what would have happened to them and to the rest of us if they had not received this assistance.

The economic value of all these work projects has been a wonderful stimulus to business and industry in general in the county, as the money paid to workers has been spent locally and the expressions from business people have been unanimous that this work has been a life saver to their business.

There has been some complaint about the distribution of goods to the needy people. Some have complained of not getting work with the CWA. The worst complaints I have heard comes from those who failed to get some of the work or some of the goods. In other words, the main complaint has been that we have not had enough work or enough goods to go around. I have had nothing to do with the selection of laborers to work with CWA. Neither has it been my duty to distribute goods. The United States government has furnished the money and the goods, and they have reserved the right to select the agency to get these goods to the peopl and to select the men to work.

It has been my duty to help get projects for the people to work on and to help get money appropriated for these projects. I have put the best thought and efforts of my life to these duties. I can say that no person in this county has lost a job on account of a work project not being approved.

I have stood for and advocated the county helping the schools and helping to build schoolhouses. I feel that when we invest in the education of our youth, we are making an investment that will be of untold value in future years.

I feel that the people of this county know what my policies would be if again elected as Judge of Probate. As you know, I have been against buying road machinery where the people of the county could furnish and work their teams, trucks, etc., to work our roads. I believe in spending our money at home when we can.

I believe in the reduction of taxes. For the past two years I have notified the people through the county paper and have kept blanks in my office and have furnished clerks to fill out these blanks so that the taxpayers, without any expense to themselves, could be enabled to put their cases before the tax board for reduction of their taxes.

I believe in a square deal to everybody. I do not believe the probate office should be governed by prejudice. If there is a single person who can show me wherein I have been prejudiced on account of politics, or any other reason in my official acts, I shall be glad to apologize to the offended person publicly. If any neglect in my office by myself or my clerks has cost any person anything, I am ready to pay the amount back to them with interest.

Now, my friends, Republicans, I received from you the commission I hold as Judge of Probate. I am asking you to renew this commission if, after you have studied all the facts and all the candidates, you think it would be to the best interests of your party and your county to have me continue to hold the office. I would be glad for you to renew this commission, and I believe, with the experience I have had, and the well-organized machinery we have in connection with relief, I can again render you good service. It seems to me there are two important questions for the Republicans to decide. First, the qualifications of the one you will nominate, and second, the candidate who is best fitted to lead our fight in November.

For over forty years I have helped fight the battles of the people of Chilton County. I have always been open and free to express my opinion on all public questions. I come to you with clean hands. I can say to you that your county is in good standing with state and Federal officials and agencies whom you have to deal with. If I am nominated and elected again, it will be my policy to try to keep harmony in our party; not to try to drive Republicans away from the party because they may not agree with me, but always to recognize and respect everyone, even the humblest voter and citizen in our county.

I promise you if you nominate and elect me Judge of Probate of this county again, I will endeavor to give you the very best service of my life. I promise to treat all people fairly and squarely. As to my past official record, I refer you to the reports of every public examiner who has ever investigated my office.

I have made no statement intending to reflect upon anyone. I am running for Judge of Probate upon my own record, and upon this record I am willing to stand or fall. I never struck a man in the dark nor below the belt. My political life has been an open book, and whatever campaign I make will be public. I do not believe in going about trying to mislead the voters. I shall not have time to devote to much canvassing. The duties of my office keep me busy. However, if my friends desire a public accounting or explanation of any proposition, I shall be glad to take time to make it any time and any place in the county.

With sincere thanks for the goodness and honor you have given me in the past, I am willing to leave my future in your hands. — Sincerely yours, L. H. REYNOLDS.

CROP PRODUCTION LOANS

The Montgomery Production Credit Association is perfected and is ready to make crop reduction loans. This organization is one of ten Farmer's Cooperative Banks set up recently by the Farm Credit Administration to help finance the farmers.

The Farm Credit Administration furnishes the capital stock for these banks at present, but it is hoped that there will be enough farmers to borrow from these banks, and at the same time purchase some stock in them, that within a few years the capital stock may be taken over by the farmers, thereby forming strictly farmer-owned and farmer-operated banks.

Chilton County as a part of the Montgomery District and farmers who care to borrow money from this source of credit should apply at the county agent's office and secure application blanks.

This is not an emergency loan and will require other security in the form of a lien on personal property, livestock or real estate, in addition to a crop mortgage.

Edgar Teel, of Birmingham, was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday of this week. Edgar is a son of Will F. Teel, a fine young business man who was reared in Clanton. He has been in Birmingham several years where he holds a responsible position in the office of one of the Magic City's big industrial concerns.

HARRIS WRITES CONCERNING HIS RACE FOR CIRCUIT CLERK

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

You have no doubt noticed my announcement as a candidate for the office of circuit clerk of Chilton County, subject to the Republican primary of May first. In making this announcement I do so fully realizing that I am asking for your trust and confidence. It has been my desire to see and talk with each voter personally, but since I am teaching school, and find that the schools will possibly not be out before April 2, it will be impossible for me to see many of you. Therefore, I take this means of talking to you. I have lived in this county a greater part of my life. I have served one term as sheriff of the county. I have taught school for more than twenty years. I organized and supervised the opportunity schools for 3 years, besides my church and Sunday school work, which has carried me into almost every community in the county. So I feel then I am no stranger and that practically everyone knows me or knows of me. As to my party loyalty, I have never voted other than for the Republican ticket.

I believe in a square deal for everyone in every way. While the office for which I am asking is in no way connected with schools or taxations, I believe in a new deal for our boys and girls, in that they may have longer schools and better educational advantages. I believe in a new deal for our farmers and laboring people in the way of readjustment of taxes and lightening their burdens of taxation.

I have no connection with and am not aligned with any faction or clique, if such exists, but am asking for your vote on my own merits and not the demerits of others. We have lots of good men in the field this time for the various offices, for all of whom I have the greatest respect and friendship, and I urge all to forget factions or divisions and work together for harmony, peace and the success of the Republican party. The crisis is on and we must work together. I have several good men as opponents, for whom I have the highest respect and no criticism. I am running on my own merits and expect to beat them if I can.

In conclusion I ask you to investigate my life and record and if you think I am worthy and competent, I solicit your vote and influence in my behalf. I ask the consideration of the good women voters of the county and will greatly appreciate their vote and influence, and in return for your vote and influence, I promise only this, that if I am nominated and elected, I will perform the duties of the office to the very best of my ability, giving honest and efficient service, and guarantee to each one with whom I shall deal courteous and fair treatment. Again soliciting the vote and influence of ever Republican voter and hoping that I may see each of you before election, I am, respectfully,—H. A. HARRIS.

VERMONT SCHOOL

Remember that next Friday night (tomorrow) February 23, the Liberty Hiill Quartet will render their musical program. We trust the weather will be favorable and a large number will be present to hear these talented singers. Their program, from advance reports, promises to be one of genuine fun and merriment.

The entire faculty attended the spring session of the County Teachers Institute at Clanton last Friday and then spent the week end at their respective homes. From present indications it now seems highly probable that our school term will be extended to a full term of seven months. Thanks to our federal government.

Inclement weather has again reduced our attendance.

Our P.-T. A. meets in its regular session on next Wednesday night, February 28th, at 7 o'clock. We are hoping to have the parents from Pletcher up for this meeting. Also to have Superintendent Little to make us a talk concerning school interests.

Look in the want-ad column and you will notice that our school pig is being offered for sale. The one offering the best current price will be the one to get a real bargain. Anyone interested in buying a 225 pound hog should see this one. Thus far it has not cost the school one penny to raise him. The proceeds will go into the P.-T. A. general fund for school equipment.

A final appeal is sent out to the ladies of our P.-T. A. to turn in at our next meeting all designs for the quilt.

On account of the program, by the Liberty Hill quartet being set back, we are compelled to postpone our plans and preparations for presenting our burlesque debate. Announcement concerning this program will be given out later.

The girls basketball club is busy this week practicing and drilling preparatory to several games, which we have indefinitely scheduled. The Jr. boys team is coming along nicely too. We hope to arrange two or three games for them before the present basketball season fades out.

Those present who have been unconcerned, regarding their duty, relative to the incidental and desk fund are especially urged to face the matter in a reasonable way and at least take charge of part of their obligation. One individual assumed full responsibility in the purchase of these desks and unless those who send to Vermont school awaken to their full sense of duty, this indebtedness will reflect a great burden upon this individual. What are you going to do about it, Vermont parents? Do you feel satisfied to sit in that calm and complacent position of indifference and see the morale of your school go down. Others have responded with a great sense of willingness, why not you?

A large section of linoleum has been placed under the water cooler. This will preserve the floor from rot.

At chapel exercise on March 2, a program will be presented about "Bird Life." This is in regard to our state game and fish commissioner, who has set this day apart as Bird Day.

Why the Sudden Change to Liquid Laxatives?

Doctors have always recognized the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be thus regulated to suit individual need.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna —a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is at all druggists. Member N. R. A.

How to Stop a Cold

Quick as You Caught It

Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets.

Drink full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half glass of water and gargle according to directions in box.

Almost Instant Relief in This Way

The simple method pictured above is the way doctors throughout the world now treat colds.

It is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way to treat a cold. For it will check an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablets dissolve so completely, they leave no irritating particles. Get a box of 12 tablets or bottle of 24 or 100 at any drug store.

Does Not Harm the Heart

Make this lip test

LOOK at them... and your cheeks, too, without make-up. Do they possess the natural glow of health, which comes from a sufficiency of rich, red blood? If they do, make-up is simple... if they don't read on... you may find one of the reasons why your skin is not clear and rosy.

You cannot have red lips, rosy cheeks, energy and cheerfulness if your blood is in a run-down condition. Lack of hemo-glo-bin, the red coloring of the blood, may also indicate a weakened condition of the body... loss of strength... poor appetite.

S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic but a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in restoring a low hemo-glo-bin content. If your condition suggests a blood tonic of this kind, try S.S.S. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite... your color and skin should improve with increased strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes... the larger is more economical.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Several years ago the famous Dr. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., spoke to the students of the Bob Jones College. It was a most interesting message. "I have seen many people die," said Dr. Mayo, "and I have heard more dying people quote the twenty-third Psalm than any other literature." I do not remember anything else that Dr. Mayo said and I am sure that most of the students and faculty have forgotten practically all he said. However, every student and every member of the faculty sat with open ears and listened to Dr. Mayo speak. He spoke with the voice of authority.

When Jesus Christ was on earth the young people heard him gladly because he spoke with authority. People always listen to the man who has an authoritative message. The trouble with the pulpit is this: The note of authority has largely gone out of the ministry. The world is too busy to listen to a man who doesn't know what he is talking about.

I heard a dozen preachers say recently, "One real fact is better than a dozen theories." It is a good idea to start with something we know. Some of us know that one time we met Jesus Christ. We don't know just how He did it, but He changed our lives. We began to love things that we used to hate and we began to hate things we used to love. We know that whereas we once were blind, we now see.

I am dictating in my office at the Bob Jones College in Cleveland, Tennessee. We have in our college a very bright boy who has been sick for several days. He receives every attention and there is nothing seriously the matter with the boy. I just note his mother coming across the campus walking hurriedly toward the college. When children are sick mothers have a feeling that they know just what to do and nobody can do anything as well as they can.

Nowhere in the Bible do I find a command for mothers to love their children. I think I know why. God, who made mothers and who understands a mother's heart, knows it is not necessary to tell a normal mother to love her child. I can find no command in the Bible for men to pray to be saved. I can find examples where men did pray and were saved. I can find commands to repent, to believe, to obey the gospel, etc., but no command to pray to be saved. I think I know the reason for this. God, who made the human heart, knew it was not necessary to tell penitent men to pray. When we have a troubled conscience, when we know that God loved us and Jesus died for us, it is as natural for men to pray as it is for birds to sing, and as it is for flowers to bloom. God just made us that way.

AN EDUCATIONAL PLATFORM

In order to promote the interest of all the children and of all the citizens of the State of Alabama, the 11,000 members of the Alabama Education Association consistently endeavor to support those objectives which contribute to this end. Particularly, they advocate the following:

1. A system of tax-supported public education extending from the primary grades through the institutions of higher learning.
2. A unified and integrated system of public education, including the higher institution of learning, with elimination of needless duplication.
3. Public recognition of education as a basic function of the state, equal in importance and in its claim for financial support to any other function of government.
4. Strict economy and efficiency in the administration of every public service, including public education.
5. A complete and scientific reorganization of Alabama's tax system to the end that the burden of taxation may be more equitably distributed and that adequate support for education be assured.
6. A simplified system of school appropriations that will aid in giving every child in Alabama, rural or urban, an equal chance.
7. Revenue for schools sufficient to provide a seven-months minimum term for all children, with at least a living wage for teachers.
8. Regular payment of basic minimum salaries for teachers in proportion to training, experience, and ability. Condemnation of the practice of stretching available money over a given term, regardless of the effect on salaries.
9. A curriculum adequate to train all the children of the state to participate worthily and happily in a changing civilization.
10. General rather than local school laws based on established need.
11. A joint commission of laymen and educators to study educational needs in Alabama and to advise with the governor and the legislature in formulating a unified program of education.
12. Federal support for schools without federal control over state or local administration for the purpose of equalizing the burden of support among the several states.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

Everybody around here seems to be enjoying life.

Our services were well attended Saturday and Sunday. Brother Bentley spoke to us Saturday from the 1st chapter of Acts. "The Duty of a Christian." At church Sunday we had a visiting preacher with us from Bibb County. He spoke to us about the seed sower. We should all try to be as the good seed.

Our Sunday school met with a good attendance Sunday. It was the best we have had yet. We have sixty on our roll now and have about that many more that we think should be in Sunday school. We will meet next Sunday at 10 o'clock, and we invite everybody that can to come and be with us. Visitors are always welcome.—A Reader.

INK DROPS
from
COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL
By Dan Smith

Preparation for graduation exercises are under way. At a class meeting last Tuesday, the senior class elected those members of the class who will take part in the program for class night. Class night is the night before commencement, which is turned over to the members of the senior class to have any kind of entertainment they desire. The final plans as to the type of program they will present class night have not been worked out yet. Class historian, one who will tell the history of the class during its years in high school will be Maralyn Hardy; the class prophecy will be given by Mary Charles Cox, who will gaze into the future and see the class members as they will be years from now; giftorian for the night will be Dan Smith, and Joe Moore will give the last will and testament of the class. The class song rests in the hands of a committee, with Roberta Cochran as chairman. The class also selected their motto and colors. The motto of the Senior III class of 1933-34 is: "The higher the rise, the broader the view.' The class colors are to be pink and white The class flower will not be selected until just before commencement.

A final vote on the memorial to be left by the present senior class resulted in a unanimous choice of an entrance gate for the southern end of the driveway. Work will begin immediately on the erection of this memorial. The class decided, after hearing a report made by the committee appointed for the matter, that with the money left they would also erect a sundial with benches on the campus. These two objects, the entrance gate and the sundial with benches, will add quite a touch of beauty to the school grounds and the senior class should be complimented on their decisions.

The students of Chilton County High School as well as the citizens of Clanton and Chilton County will receive indeed a rare and priceless opportunity when the famous Shakespearean tragedy, "Macbeth" will be presented at the high school auditorium Tuesday night, February 27. A professional group of players including John Forrest of the Chicago Shakespearean Society will present this masterpiece for one performance only. This is indeed a rare privilege for Clanton to have a group of experienced and professional actors to present such a drama. This is being sponsored by the Senior III class. The time will be 7:30 p.m. and the admission is 25 and 35 cents.

The chance of a lifetime, to see a play written by the immortal Shakespeare and presented by professional artists of note, is to be offered to Clanton next Tuesday night. You will regret missing this performance.

There was no school Friday as a county wide meeting of school teachers was held at the school building.

Who am I? Either my readers are too good at recognizing people or I'm too good at describing them. Well here's another one but I'm not going to bet on this one: I have black hair I drive a car. I make good grades. I am well liked, and considered a fine person. Not a victim of cupid, yet. Wear black and brown shoes. Like ginger ales. Like to swim. Like horseback riding . . . You win again, it was Dorothy Waites last week. The writer apoligizes for his apparent color blindness . . . her eyes are blue and not brown.

PLEASANT GROVE
JEMISON

Many hearts were saddened last Friday afternoon to learn of the death of Mrs. Laura Franklin. Mrs. Franklin had been in bad health for some time. She had been critically ill since last Wednesday evening. She was laid to rest here last Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. Spigener of Clanton was in charge. Rev. B. Lawrence preached the funeral.

Phillip Gletty was painfully burned last week while at school. A bucket of water fell from the top of the stove, burning both legs and one arm.

Mrs. Nettie Waldrop is suffering with abscesses on her hand.

Mrs. Roxie Price and family had as their guests this week end Mr. and Mrs. Grady Price of Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Clower of Birmingham spent the week end with Mr. Clower's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Clower.

Miss Rubye Wright spent last Wednesday night in Thorsby with her sister, Mrs. Clarence Marcus.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Clements and family had as their guests Sunday Miss Gwendolyn and Mr. Clyde Clements of Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marcus and little son of Thorsby spent the week end with Mrs. Marcus's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wright and family.

Mr. Lance Franklin of Bainbridge, Ga., came home last Friday for his grandmother's funeral. He remained with home folks until Wednseday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Spivey and family had as their guests Saturday night Mr. Charlie Spivey of Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Spivey and family carried Mrs. Spivey home Sunday, spending the day there.

Mr. Briggs Hodgens, who is teaching school at Jackson Chapel, spent the week end with home folks.

MRS. J. W. OAKS' BIRTHDAY

Mrs. J. W. Oaks of Clanton Route 4 celebrated her 67th birthday on Sunday, February 18.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. O. The grandchildren were Osburne, J. W., Myrtis and Audrey Johnson, Harold and Elaine Oaks, Eugene, Billy and Mary Frances Oaks, Lois Fay Johnson.

IN MEMORY OF GEORGE C. SMITH

The death angel visited the home of Mrs. Aaron Jones and carried away her father, who had been sick about two months with heart trouble. We wish to thank everyone for their kindness during the sickness and death of our father and husband. We also wish to thank Dr. Marcus for his kindness.

He leaves a vacant place in our home, but God saw a better place in heaven for him. He has gone to rest. He has gone to a place where there is no more pain or sorrow for him.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and eight children, two brothers and one sister as follows: Mr. Hallie Smith of Alexander, Ala., Mr. W. C. Smith of Gulfport, Miss., Mrs. Fannie Jones, Clanton, Mrs. Izora Controna, of Bessemer, Mrs. Ida Mae Collins, of Calera, Mr. Buster Smith of Clanton, Mr. Forrest Smith of Clanton, and Miss Mildred Smith of Clanton, and a host of friends.

May God bless each and everyone of them, and all prepare themselves to meet him in a better world some day.—A friend of his, Mrs. A. J. Jones.

NOTICE—JACKSON CHAPEL

There will be a special business meeting at Jackson Chapel Thursday night, February 22. All patrons and others who are interested in the school are requested to be present.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litachert

Washington dispatches tell us that the administration, although engrossed in home affairs, is quietly watching the disturbed situation abroad. It is to be hoped and believed that this is true, and it is to be hoped and believed further that this is being done with a view to keeping the United States free from all the potential troubles abroad. There is more than one danger spot just now. Perhaps the most acute one, so far as the United States is concerned, lies in the Orient. On every hand we hear discussions of a probable war between Japan and Russia. Many observers are freely predicting that it will break this year and some of them are saying that it will be difficult for the United States to keep out.

Certainly most Americans will agree that it is highly desirable that Uncle Sam keep free of any trouble which may arise in the Orient. From this angle it does not appear that there are any difficulties with Japan or any other nation which cannot be amicably adjusted without recourse to arms. The new Japanese ambassador to the United States is said to be coming with the full intention of clearing up any misunderstandings which may exist. Everyone who knows anything about the situation will hope that his mission is a successful one. Certainly the Pacific Ocean is big enough for both the United States and Japan, without fighting about it, and it is inconceivable that Uncle Sam would go to war with any nation, unless it could not be avoided and unless he were first attacked, and compelled to defend himself.

The situation in Europe now is just as acute as the one in the Orient. There are trouble spots everywhere. The Nazis in Austria seem to be about to attempt to seize power in that country. If they are allowed to do so, most observers predict that it will be only a matter of time until Austria is absorbed by Germany. This will be comparatively easy owing to the fact that most Austrians are of German descent and speak the language. But any such procedure is bound to bring trouble for Czechoslokia, which will then be nearly surrounded by hostile territory. Now France does not want this to happen, and neither does Italy. If these two nations get the support of Great Britain, some action may be taken to prevent it. But it has been difficult for the three nations to present a solid front. While Italy does not care to see Austria absorbed by Germany, it does not want to go too far in displeasing Hitler, and at any rate regards France as a serious rival in the Mediterranean. Great Britain hesitates to take action because it hopes to coax Hitler back into the League and the disarmament conference, and fears that summary action in Austria may prevent such a result. And France just now is having trouble at home with cabinet changes, rioting and a monetary system which threatens to go off the gold standard.

Here again, therefore, is a situation which lhis every promise of war. Most any little conflagration might bring it about. And it is a quarrtl in which the United States has and wants no part. If we had joined the League of Nations we would now be plunged into the Austrian situation up to our necks. Fortunately, however, wise counsel prevailed, and this did not come to pass. Uncle Sam mixed in one World War, and all he got out of it was the worst depression in the history of the civilized world, and a lot of broken promises to pay. Certainly he does not want to repeat the experience and we are all hoping and believing that he will not.

C.W.A. Appropriations

An additional appropriation for $950,000,000, part of which is to keep the CWA going from February 15 until the middle of May, has just been passed by the house of representatives. There is significance in the fact that the appropriation was passed with but one dissenting vote. When first proposed it was planned to keep the CWA functioning only until the middle of February. By that time it was believed that the recovery of private industry would absorb the jobless millions in the country. Some time ago it became evident that this would not be the case. Now considerable doubt is being expressed in congress whether private industry plus public works will be able to solve the problem by the middle of May. Already agitation has started for the continuance of the CWA on through the summer, and until 1935.

Representative Terrell, Democrat of Texas, the lone congressman who voted against the appropriation, declared that the CWA relief program was unconstitutional and that the sooner the government terminated the "proposition" the better for the country. Continuing he added:

"I think it is going to start civil war and revolution when we do stop it (the CWA) anyway. It means a perpetual bond issue, a never ending drain on the resources of the government to pay even the interest. The government is competing with private business on every side and it is an unsound policy." Mr. Terrell continued that he was exercising his constitutional right to vote as he pleased and he intimated that some of those supporting the appropriation amendment were being driven to do so by the "crack of the whip."

Be that as it may, it is an undeniable fact that all congressmen, excepting only Mr. Terrell, voted for the amendment. Yet it is intimated that the whip had to be cracked, not to put the appropriation through but to keep congress from providing an even larger appropriation than the one which went through. But the bill now goes to the senate where the rules make whip cracking more difficult. The senate may, if it so desires, make the appropriation even larger, and if it does so, there seems to be little reason to doubt that the house will acquiesce in the decision.

At any rate a great many people are now beginning to wonder whether the administration in its promotion of the CWA has not maneuvered itself into the position of the big game hunter who found that he had a bear by the tail. It is always easier to put a fellow on the payroll than to remove him. Of course, if jobs can be provided in private industry, by a general pick-up in business, the problem will solve itself. But suppose, when the middle of May rolls around, the jobs in private industry are not forthcoming. If the CWA is to be continued indefinitely, where is money to come from?

Even Uncle Sam cannot go on borrowing forever.

The answer might well be "inflation," not the mild kind but a drastic purgative dose. Perhaps we are now seeing a race between recovery and inflation. If recovery comes first and Uncle Sam is able to let go of the bear's tail, he may get out of it with nothing more than a headache and the greatest public debt in all history. But if there is still need for spending after money and credit are exhausted, the bear may be in "fighting mood" after the grip on his tail is loosened.

Around Cracker Barrels

There is grave danger that agriculture may be led into unwise ways through the militancy of certain of its highly paid leaders. These leaders assume that all farmers are radical in their attitude toward government and willing to take an unjust share of public money, which is far from the truth. The farmers are not fooled much when they are given a little government money for not planting wheat or cotton after they find out they have to pay this money back through processing taxes. Nor is the small farmer who needs to cultivate all his land, since he has no surplus, rendered happy by being told to let some of his sparse acres lie fallow.

The intelligent farmer is as well aware as his leaders of the discomforts and the privations he has had to undergo in the last several years of low prices for products raised upon the land that he paid two prices for. He does not have to be reminded of these things nor kept worked up about them by high-salaried agitators.

What congressmen, members of the legislature and representatives of the president need to do if they would get at the actual opinion of the farmers about government relief for them and kindred subjects is to sit around the hot stoves and cracker barrels in the cross roads groceries, these winter nights. If they were to do so they would get the surprise of their lives. They would find out pretty quickly a total lack of enthusiasm among the rank and file of farmers for the various kinds of relief to which they are being subjected. And the word "subjected" is used advisedly. These investigators would be astonished how often they would hear the remark. "I wish the government would just leave us alone."

Such investigators would discover a belief among many highly intelligent farmers that about all the national government can do for the industry is to provide a sufficiently high protective tariff to prevent the invasion of American markets by the products of foreign countries. They would hear complaints, here and there, because of the dumping into the American markets of hundreds of thousands of bushels of rye that American farmers are perfectly capable of raising. In some parts of the country the farmers might ask whether hemp is still being imported into this country in as great quantities as formerly. Things like that.

Of course the investigators would find, too, some radicals here and there among the farm group, just as among the labor group and even the capitalistic group, who are demanding that Uncle Sam act as wet nurse for the universe, but these would be outnumbered by others who still believe that the business of a government is to govern and the business of the individaul is to hew his own path which he is to tread to decent living conditions.

The farmer never has been a charity patient and more and more he is beginning to resent the paternalism of government. He always has been independent and proud of it. All he wants of the government is that it give him an even break by suppressing swindlers who manipulate the market for farm products to their own profit, and then preserve the American market for American farmers.

Given these things, the American farmer will get along, some way or other, and continue to go a good job of feeding the nation and other nations that require feeding. — Muncie (Ind) Evening Press.

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

Just Like David

In last week's Chilton County News, Mr. J. H. Jackson had a letter, the subject of which was prohibition. Mr. Jackson says he is like David—that David heard God's command to drink wine, and obeyed it. Now, I have heard lots of excuses for wanting to see the repeal of prohibition, but Mr. Jackson's unique reason is in a class by itself. It stands out from the others like a sore thumb. In fact I don't believe anyone else ever thought of it in that way. Don't misunderstand—I'm not kicking at Mr. Jackson's desire; I'm willing to see the majority rule on any question, and it seems that the majority wants repeal. But to pick a reason like that, is enough to tickle your ribs. Mr. Jackson's letter leaves this impression—that God said "Come and drink wine" and that he is afraid that if he don't, he might run a chance of missing out on "the last round-up" because he didn't obey the command. I know we are supposed to obey all commands, but, now, honest, folks, I can't believe it'll knock us out of Heaven if we fail to take a nip or two once in a while. And, to be fair, I can't see why drinking a little wine, or something like it should send us to torment, either. Now, I know Mr. Jackson very well—he's a jolly, likeable fellow. And he has a fine vineyard, too. Maybe "Uncle Joe" is putting over some sly advertising for his grapes, when they ripen a little later on. You'll notice he didn't mention anything but wine. I don't know, I may see Mr. Jackson about grape time—I might take a notion to have a little wine made, myself, and if I do I'll look him up and buy my grapes from him. "It pays to advertise," and I believe in advertising.

How To Get A Job

Ever since the National Re-employment office has been open and the CWA has been operating, one after another has been pointing out the manner of procedure of "how to 'get a job." Mr. H. B. Oliver says one good way is to be known as a Republican. Then Charley Cooper says it's a sure shot and cut-and-dried affair that to get a job, all you have to do is convince a certain Democratic candidate that you are on his side. Others, who seem just a little djssatisfied seem unable to put their fingers on the correct point of trouble in the matter, but come out plain and say that "there ain't no jestice in none uv it." After hearing one state his views on it, and then another come right in and back track, I've just about come to the conclusion that politics doesn't have anything to do with it. In fact, Ive felt that way all along. I've never taken the time and trouble to try to find out how the officials go about picking men from the thousands of applications, when they know none of the men personally; nor would I expect to find out all about this procedure, even if I tried. They might think (and rightfully so) that it was none of my business. If anything, I believe if one tried to "get on the blind side" and "get in" with the officials of the re-employment office it MIGHT do him more harm than good. Any way, I don't believe politics has any weight in the matter. Maybe you have to be lucky.

What A Scrap

If there is anything in this wide world that a Democrat likes better than a little scrap, it must be a big scrap. How they do like to growl at something or somebody. And in the present governors race the boys are certainly going to it hammer and tongs. A few days ago Judge McCord made a speech in which he spoke of the followers of Bibb Graves as "hoodlums." Right there he surely put his foot into his mouth. The American Legion is behind Graves, an ex-service man, almost to a man. And how those Legionnaires did resent that "hoodlum" statement, and if there's anything those soldiers DO know how to do it is FIGHT. Now they have formed the "Hoodlum Club," with a Chief Hoodlum, an Assistant Chief Hoodlum, a Recording Hoodlum, a Hoodlum-at-large, an All-American Hoodlum, a 3.2 Hoodlum, a Wild and Wooly Hoodlum, a Ram Rod Hoodlum, and a Last Round-Up Hoodlum, all ex-service men. And how those fellows are feeding the Judge hot stuff. They are pulling all the old war-time skeletons out of the closet, and seem to have an inexhaustible supply of "inside hope" to draw from. And while the Graves and McCord forces are chewing the rag with one another, Dixon's crew is off somewhere giving both of them the works. If you like a good hearty laugh, draw up a chair, grab a paper some morning and sit in on the fun. Gee, what a scrap—a regular free-for-all, with no holds barred. Everything goes from mud on up.

For Example

Public opinion is a fickle article, and must be handled with gloves on. Of course different people see things in different ways, but for the most part, public opinion generally flows in one way. For example, let me call your attention to the Governor's race in Alabama, again. The three candidates, Dixon, Graves and McCord are in one of the hottest three-cornered races ever seen in this state. When the campaign frist began, no one in this section had ever heard much of Dixon, but they knew plenty of Graves and McCord, and each of these last two had quite a following around here. The campaigns of McCord and Graves are very much alike—both of them going for each other's throats like bulldogs. In the meantime, Dixon goes his way, for the most part, conducting his campaign for Dixon, rather than against his two opponents, and he is gaining ground fast, if people are to be taken at their word. At first, folks were very much amused at the cross-fire of Graves and McCord, but after some time, as this fight became more and more personal, they have tired of it, and I hear much favorable comment for Dixon. I'll quote one Democrat: "I like to see a fellow fight, but I like to see him fight clean. I wasn't for Dixon at first, knowing nothing about him, but I'm just about fed up on this dirt the other two are feeding us. The fact that Dixon is keeping his skirts clear, and conducting a clean, upright fight makes me think very well of him. In fact, I think I'll vote for him. And I know lots of other folks who are seeing it like I do. I've always heard that "the still sow gets the slop while the others are fighting over it,' and this may be the case this time." I think our Republican candidates here in Chilton should take a lesson from this page in the Democratic book, and stay high and dry of any mud-slinging. In the long run ti gets one nowhere, and it leaves a bad taste in the mouth after the election. If every candidate will tell the people of his own merits, leaving out the demerits of his opponents, voters will think much more of them for it, and there will be no ill feeling after the smoke has settled. Think this over, both candidates and voters, and see if it doesn't sound logical. Mud-slinging has no place anywhere.

Wiley McKinley Bean—Postmaster

Wiley McKinley Bean, postmaster at Clanton, was born June 25, 1887. He attended school at Collins Chapel and Jemison, and later at Thorsby Institute and Jacksonville Teachers College. At the time Mr. Bean was attending the Collins Chapel and Jemison schools they were in charge of such teachers as R. A. Rasco, said to have been one of the best in the profession. At Thorsby Institute he came under the instruction of Profs. Lamkie and Groves, two other well known instructors of the day. He finished at Jacksonville Teachers College, and was assistant instructor of Physics at that institution for 2 years. He was a teacher in the schools of Chilton County for fourteen years, during which time he taught at Smith's School, Mineral Springs for several years, Union Grove, Collins Chapel, and Verbena. He was married to Miss Mattie Gore in 1909, and began his service as postmaster at Clanton in March, 1922. In talking over the high spots of his life with Mr. Bean, a twinkle came to his eye as he warmed to the subject. Said he: "I was born in Stumps Hills, right in the heart of it, and don't deny it. In fact I'm proud of it. You know, it has been said often that it was hard to get a man to admit living in Stumps Hills—he either lives 'just this side' or 'just beyond' Stumps Hills. Now I've written a few lines here for your guidance in fixing up your article, but I'd just as soon you wouldn't bear too hard on these dates and such like—people will get an idea I'm getting old, maybe." Mr. Bean loves a good joke any time, and he knows a flock of them and likes to tell them. And, for the life of me I couldn't get him to take this "life story" stuff seriously. He's too jolly for anything. He's like that. He has a jolly word for everyone, from the humblest negro boy to the mayor of the town, and he never fails to hail you as you go to his window for service. And speaking of service, that is his hobby, I suppose, if he has one. He knows everybody by his first name and if things aren't rushing, when he sees you enter, he meets you at the window with your mail in his hand. And don't think the people of Clanton overlook the kind of service Mr. Bean has been dealing out all these years. Very often I hear somebody say something like this: "I guess they'll be picking another postmaster some of these days, but if it was left up to me, I say let's keep the one we have. We'll never get one to beat him. He hasn't let politics get under his hat a bit, and he treats all alike—with as much courtesy as he knows how to extend." And, after all, that's the acid test of a person's worth—if he does his job well he has made good, and this can certainly be said of Mr. Bean, as postmaster. I think Mr. Bean has a weather eye out on the political wave of the county, but he's careful to keep the salt water out of it. He isn't getting nervous, nor anything of the kind—just looking things over to see if the right kind of spot comes along, and if so, he may take a swim some time. I say he MAY. And that's your postmaster, at least a few things about him. He is an interesting man to talk with, and a fine and pleasant man to know.

Politics In the Offing

We are now near enough to the 1934 campaign to envision the fact that there is going to be plenty of political excitement in two of the great states of the East, at least. The two in mind are New York and Pennsylvania. In the first of these are indications that the rift in the Democratic ranks occasioned by the mayoralty campaign of last November will be continued. In Pennsylvania it is the Republicans who now seem to be having a considerable portion of trouble.

The latest development that Thomas F. Conway, up-state New York lawyer, would be a Democratic candidate for senatorial nomination against Senator Rolay S. Copeland. Mr. Conway made his announcement after calling at the White House but officials there were quick to disclaim any political significance in Mr. Conway's visit. He went there, so they say, to tender his resignation to the President as New York's State Director of the National Recovery Council, a position which he felt that he could not retain in view of his political candidacy. It was stated further that the president would take no part in any inter-political battles during the coming campaign.

It was not to be expected that the president would interfere in the matter of the selection of Democratic senatorial or congressional nominees. At the same time, political observers in Washington are wondering whether the neutrality will extend down to such trusty lieutenants as Mr. Jim Farley, Postmaster General and titular head of the Democratic national organization. It is remembered that Mr. Farley seemed somewhat concerned in the New York mayoralty fight when the White House was keeping hands off that situation.

Mr. Conway has been an ardent Roosevelt supporter from the very first. While Senator Copeland has been a regular Democrat, he is said to have incurred the displeasure of some administration leaders when he supported the regular Tammany ticket in the New York City campaign. Again, he is an opponent of the St. Lawrence Waterways treaty to which the administration is committed.

Mr. Farley is quoted as saying of the selection of the Democratic senatorial candidate in New York. "That is a matter to be decided by the delegates to the state convention next October." What makes this convention especially interesting is that it will doubtless be controlled by the friends of the national administration.

In Pennsylvania the Republicans are faced with a hard fight for the senatorial nomination between Senator Reed and Governor Pinchot. Some of them are expressing the fear that a bitter factional battle there will endanger the Republican hold on the state in the coming election. Every effort is being made to effect a compromise, with little result, at this time.

Anyhow, New York and Pennsylvania promise to loom even larger than usual in the political spotlight during the coming campaign.

There is quite a little discussion as to whether or not the horse will come back. Let us hope that at least horse-sense will return some of these days.

It can be said in favor of the hen that she always does her cackling after having laid the egg. Some who are not hens do their cackling first — and then forget about the egg.

End of the strike of 3,000 pea pickers in the Imperial Valley of California is announced. One fourth of the million dollar crop was lost on account of the cessation of picking.

In the absence of positive figures it may be said that appearances indicate that the Red Cross Roll Call in Chilton County has again turned out to be a flash in the pan. How soon folks forget the good things that are done for them.

Mrs. B. M. Miller was the first wife of an Alabama governor to die while her husband was in office. She was buried in the family cemetery at Camden Sunday. Her death occurred at the Executive Mansion in Montgomery last Friday.

Hon. J. Osmond Middleton was at home with his folks in Clanton last Saturday and Sunday. During the day Saturday he greetd many of his friends from over the county as he met them on the streets. "No. I am not in politics any more," he said, "but I just like to look on as the other boys get warmed up to a good race."

Not to be outdone with the failure of his first trip of a week ago to see the air races (which didn't happen) in New Orleans, Dr. Gragg went to the Crescent City again the past week end. He had luck on the second effort. He saw the races. Incidentally, he made the trip from Montgomery to New Orleans and return by the air route.

The safety program which is being devised for our county roads is a worth while project. It is being carried out jointly by the county and C.W.A.

C. J. Cobern of Maplesville was in Clanton Tuesday. His farm is a well known place on Mulberry Creek. It is the center of the squirrel population of Chilton County.

Brock Wells and family, of Selma, were here last week end on account of the illness and death of his mother, Mrs. Gatsy Wells. Mr. and Mrs. Gilvey McKee and Mr. and Mrs. Lonz Parrish, also of Selma, came Sunday to attend the funeral at Poplar Springs.

Cleve Scarbrough of Birmingham was in Clanton Sunday, also to attend the funeral of Mrs. Wells, who was his aunt.

Uncle Henry Conway, of Jemison, was in town Tuesday. Mr. Conway is a candidate for Commissioner. He is one of our "old timers," but he has a keen way of getting next to folks. He may show some of the younger fellows a thing or two before this campaign is over.

Lorenza Sanders, member of the County School Board, aspires to serve in the Legislature of Alabama. A noble ambition, I admit—but how different the picture looks to one who has been through it, compared with how it looks when viewed from the place where Sanders now stands.

Vernon Cobb makes the third Republican aspirant for Sheriff. I had to serve a sentence in the legislature to find out I did not want the job. I am perfectly willing, though, for Cobb, Collins, or Hughes to have the Sheriff's job without my trying it.

Minutes of the meeting of the Town Council: Several preliminary and altogether extraneous matters discussed before called to order. Mayor Smith and Judge Reynolds got off a few and friendly jokes at each other about politics. Uncle John Robinson asked for reduction of water bill, but Mr. Shaw consoled him by bringing up the subject of bird hunting. Mr. Abrams got appropriation of $50 to help pay debts of Grammar School. Mr. Poole asked for allotment to have city truck fixed. The council voted the amount asked, but Mr. Poole kept on arguing his case for five minutes. He made a good speech. They talked about digging up a certain tree in Clanton. Appeared to be a rather ticklish subject. When it was announced that appropriiations were ended for the session, I told the Mayor and Council members I had a good time and departed.

Hubby—What's the big idea? These shirts are four sizes too big for me. You know I wear 13½.

Wifey—Well the big ones cost just the same as the little ones and I wasn't going to let that new clerk know what a little shrimp I married.

Newspaper story tells about an automobile mechanic who overhauls cars blindfolded, and we sort of somehow had a notion all along that that was the way it was done.

We shall have real prosperity when the men and women of the country are holding normal jobs, working for private business, and not receiving checks which must be paid eventually by excessive taxation.

We used to think the outpourings of a fifty year old man in love were about the silliest things imaginable but they can't hold a candle to the advertising copy which the announcer recites over the radio.

A census report says that eight women in the United States make their living by hunting and trapping. And one of our cynical married friends says that out of 60,000,000 women in the country, he had the luck to get acquainted with one of the eight.

AGED NEGRO PREACHER REMEMBERS OLDEN DAYS

The Rev. Peter DeJarnett of near Mt. Creek, was an interesting visitor to The Union-Banner office last Saturday. This old negro preacher is known and respected by a number of colored people and white people of Chilton County. He is a little over 76 years old and has been preaching 49 years. He says that he has baptized 3,549 people, buried 2,374, married 840 couples, and has preached in nearly every prison in Alabama and in lots of the jail houses.

DeJarnett says that he worked at the sawmill belonging to John Gullahorn, which constituted about all there was to Clanton 54 years ago. He helped unload the first carload of fertilizer that ever came to this section. It was shipped to John Gullahorn, and DeJarnett laughed as he related how he had to keep the buzzards knocked off the sacks while he was transferring them from the car. At that time Clanton's depot and about its only building here besides the sawmill was something resembling a box car.

He remembers when Verbena was first given the name it now bears. It was named by Major Norton around fifty-three years ago. DeJarnett has owned the place where he now lives for fifty-one years; he bought the place from Smith, Taft & Marbury Lumber Company, while that concern was operating at or near where Marbury station is now located.

CIRCLE NO. 1 TO MEET WITH PLEASANT VALLEY CHURCH

Circle No. 1 of Woman's Missionary Society of Clanton Baptist church will meet with Pleasant Valley church on Wednesday, February 28, at 2:00 p.m. to organize a woman's missionary society. Everybody is cordially invited to come.—Chairman, Mrs. Flen Jones.

NEW COFFEE MILL AT WADE'S

The Wade Grocery Store and Meat Market has installed a coffee grinding mill which furnishes their customers the finest quality of coffee and service while you wait.

The management of Wade's state that this mill is the very newest development for grinding coffee, containing at least one feature that is not found in other machines of a similar kind. It has a blower attachment that absolutely cleans the coffee grains of all chaff and bitter substances before grinding.

When the coffee is thus cleaned and ground, it comes to the customer as a perfect steel cut product, absolutely clean and free from all foreign substances.

Wade's urges their customers to try this fine home ground coffee, and enjoy the excellent qualities that are obtained at attractive low prices.

MRS. M. L. WILLIAMS VIEWS THE CWA WORK

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please print in your paper this note on the progress of the C. W. A. works.

I, a canvasser for CWA on the health and sanitation project in Beat 15, wish to mention the good we can readily see that is being accomplished through our work.

First is cooperation. Our people have given us their best cooperation and interest in this work, for which we are so very thankful. Without same very little good could have been accomplished.

Second. Our people have been very cordial toward us. Have welcomed us in their homes, even sometimes at the busiest hour of the day, and we believe, given us the exact information to the best of their knowledge on the health and sanitation of their family and premises.

Third. In discussing and checking health of the family some have been surprised, saying they had not heretofore stopped to think over the real condition of the health of their family and how same might be improved. Others have such a remarkable good record on health, but had not stopped to think how lucky they are and how they might help others until their attention was called by a health canvassor.

Fourth, one person said to me as I made a survey of his premises on sanitation that he thought his premises sanitary until same was called to his attention by the survey which caused him to see soon for great improvement on the sanitation of his place, although his place was in as good condition as the average. There is room for great improvement on sanitation throughout the county and we fully believe our people are going to make every effort possible to get their premises in perfect sanitary condition, although lack of funds will be some holdback. The people have learned through the survey many ways of improvement without cost; also that the health of the family depends largely on the sanitation of the premises.

In conclusion, I wish to speak for my entire territory of people in regard to a health clinic. I fell that the cooperation of our good people through these surveys should be gratified with a clinic. The surveys alone will show the great need for a clinic.

Again, I wish to express my highest appreciation to the people with whom I have worked, for their kindness and cooperation. A canvasser, Mrs. M. L. Williams, Maplesville, Ala., Rte. 2.

William Arthur Willis, student at the University of Alabama spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Willis.

IN MEMORY OF SARAH E. WILLIS

On January 31st, 1934, at 6:25 o'clock, the death angel came to the earth to gather flowers for God's throne. This time it was a full bloomed flower. God needs old flowers as well as buds. This time it was grandmother. She was 92 years of age. To know Grandmother Willis was to love her. She had given her life to Christ in her young girlhood days and had lived a sweet Christian life. She was a member of the Big Springs Baptist church at the time of her death.

She was ill almost three weeks. We feel that everything was done that loving hands could do to relieve her of her suffering, but God saw fit to take her from us. Now that is all over and she is at rest, for God said: "Lay not up your treasures where moth and rust doth corrupt, but lay up your treasures in heaven.

She leaves to mourn her death seven children, Marion Willis of Evergreen community; Mrs. T. L. Wright, of Vida; George Willis, Philadelphia, Miss.; Joe Willis, Haynes; Andrew Willis, Billingsley; M. E. Willis, Thorsby; and Claude Willis, Atlanta; forty grand children, fifty-six great grandchildren and seven great great grandchildren.

The pallbearers were her grandsons and one great grand son.

The funeral services were held at the Big Springs Baptist church. Rev. Williams of Clanton conduoted the funeral, assisted by Rev. Mitchell of Brent.

The remains were laid to rest in the Hinton cemetery, with Griffin of Prattville in charge.—Written by a granddaughter.

"TWO DAYS TO MARRY"

A play entitled "Two Days to Marry," will be presented at Shoults School Saturday night, February 24, for the benefit of the Maplesville High School. Also there will be a chicken supper at the same time and place. The play will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

MEMORY OF DONALD GILLESPIE

The death angel came and carried from us a little angel who had been with us only a few weeks. But we had grown so attached to him that it is a very empty feeling when we realize the little dear is gone. Oh, how we miss him. Our hearts ache and our arms seem so empty from our great loss.

Even the room where he was nursed and watched over so anxiously, seems empty since he is not there. Our loss is heaven's gain, and how the angels must rejoice when one so pure and untouched by worldly things go and join them.

Although the time was short that we kept him, nothing can take away the happiness he brought us, and the sweet memory of his little bright eyes and his sweet smiles.

Donald was the seven weeks old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Gillespie of Maplesville. The little body was laid to rest at Mt. Olive in Perry County.—One who loved him.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Feb. 20.—A series of intensive studies of formations are being made at Salt Mountain, six miles south of Jackson, Ala., by the geological survey of the University of Alabama. Dr. Walter B. Jones, state geologist, hopes to discover new species of coral and other fossils. The coral reefs at Salt Mountain are the earliest found in the tertiary times on the Gulf Coast plain.

The annual Junior Prom, one of the outstanding social events of the season, will be presented on March 1, by the Junior class. The prom will feature an afternoon tea dance and an evening formal. Noble Sissle, a ranking national orchestra will provide music for the occasion. Sissle has been heard over networks of the Columbia Broadcasting system. Mortimer Jordan, Birmingham, president of the junior class in the college of arts and sciences, is chairman of the prom committee.

Dr. J. V. Masters, professor of law, has been given leave of absence during the second semester in order that he may accept a chair in the law school of the University of Kansas. Dr. Masters earned his doctorate in judicial sciences from Harvard and his LL.B from Indiana University. He has been at the University of Alabama since 1922.

Dr. Benjamin A. Wooten, professor of physics and head of the department of physics at the Unievrsity, has received a grant from the National Research Council which will enable him to spend the summer quarter at Yerkes astronomical observatory at Williams Bay, Wisconsin, where he will make a study of the nebulous matter in the peiades, a group of stars in the constellation Taurus. Yerkes Observatory possesses the largest lens in the world.

The combined girls and boys glee clubs will present their annual comic opera some time in April. This year they will use Gilbert and Sullivan's "Le Gondoliers" as the vehicle. Mr. Tom Garner is directing the opera, and the scenery is in charge of Mrs. Bertha Miller and Carl Bruder. Elaborate costumes have been ordered.

The Alabama High School Debating league will hold its finals at the University April 10-14. Approximately 75 high schools will enter. The question to be debated this year is Resolved: That the United States Should Adopt the Essential Features of Radio Control. Free scholarships to the University, good for one year, will be given the winners of the state championships.

Alabama's basketball team will leave the University Thursday for Atlanta, to compete in the Southeastern Conference basketball tournament. The Crimson team is seeded No. 2 in the conference, and should be one of the leading contenders for Kentucky's title.

Zeke Kimbrough, with 150 points in 14 games, is second in the conference in high scoring. Alabama has three in the first five in high scorers.

Spring football practice at the University progressed into the fifth week. Work is being slowed up by injuries to the tackles, but otherwise advancement is being made. Several sophmores are showing up well.

ENDORSES GROVER BICE

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in your paper to say a few words in regard to Mr. Grover Bice, who has announced for Circuit Clerk of Chilton County. It is with pleasure that I car say I have known him for several years. I think I can say that his honesty and integrity is above reproach, and that he is fully qualified to fill the place he is asking for.

I think that his past record as a Christian citizen and ex-service man deserves close consideration, and I think it behooves us all who love advancement and upbuilding of our county to support such a promising man and servant as his past record gives all who know Mr. Grover Bice to be.—Rev. Lesson for February 25

THE TWELVE SENT FORTH

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 9:35-11:1.

GOLDEN TEXT—Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth laborers into his harvest.—Matt. 9:37, 38.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Twelve Workers for Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Twelve Workers for Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Win Others to Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Why Win Others to Christ?

I. Jesus' Compassion for the Multitude (9:35-38).

As he went on his rounds preaching the gospel of the kingdom, he saw the multitude as sheep having no shepherd, and his sympathy for them was aroused. This moved him

1. To declare that the harvest was plenteous but the laborers were few (v. 37). He saw the whole needy world as a ripened field of grain ready to be harvested, with but few who were willing to labor in the harvest field.

2. To ask them to pray the Lord of the harvest to send forth laborers into the harvest (v. 38). Those whom he would send forth as laborers into his harvest field he desired to be imbued with the spirit of sympathy which would move them to pray for the thrusting forth of laborers.

II. The Laborers Chosen (10:1-4).

These twelve humble men were chosen and commissioned to carry forth the work of the propagation of the kingdom.

III. The Sending Forth of the Twelve (10:5-42).

The sending forth of the twelve shows the methods adopted by Jesus Christ in the propagation of the kingdom. It should be clearly borne in mind that this chapter does not outline the policy of missionary endeavor in the present age. In order to show the dispensational aspects of the lesson, the following divisions of the chapter are suggested:

1. Instructions bearing immediately upon the apostles' work to the death of Christ (vv. 5-15). Observe

a. The sphere of their mission (vv. 5, 6). They were to go only to the Jews. They had no message for Gentiles or even Samaritans. No such restriction obtains with reference to ministers today.

b. Their message (v. 7). "The kingdom of heaven is at hand." By this is meant the promised kingdom of Israel was at hand—Jesus Christ, the promised king, was present and ready to set up his kingdom. The Jews rejected and crucified him. In this time of his rejection the church is being selected from all the nations.

c. The supernatural authentication of their mission (v. 8). They were clothed with power to work miracles.

d. Their maintenance (vv. 9, 10). They were to make no provision for their support, but to depend wholly upon the Lord who sent them. Since they had received the message and power gratuitously, they were to give it out in the same way.

e. The responsibilities of those to whom the message was delivered (vv. 11-15). If the people would not receive them or hear their message they were to turn away and pronounce judgment upon them.

2. Instructions concerning the testimony from the day of Pentecost onward (vv. 16-23). After Pentecost testimony for Christ would be fraught with great danger. Both Jews and Gentiles would assail the messengers with the most bitter persecutions. How appallingly this has been fulfilled! Christ's witnesses have been scourged in the synagogues before heathen magistrates. Instead of bringing peace to the homes, Christ's witnesses have brought divisions of the fiercest kind among many families. In their defense the missionaries were to rely upon the Holy Spirit to aid them. These conditions were literally experienced in the period from Pentecost to the destruction of Jerusalem. Since the fall of Jerusalem no one has been scourged in a synagogue. Verse 23 seems to carry the work forward to the time of the preaching of the kingdom in the tribulation time. The Lord's coming is so speedy that their testimony is cut short.

3. The teaching applicable in all ages (vv. 24-42). The disciple has the position of oneness with the Master. He is, therefore, courageously to declare the whole counsel of God, though most violently opposed. Though their testimony results in bitter opposition, the messenger should not be surprised or discouraged, for so completely is the Lord identified with his disciples that he accepts treatment of them as treatment of himself.

Jesus the Master

When we read the New Testament, in the actual words of our Master, are we never startled to discover how exacting a Master he is? Never has there been a religious teacher who has made so great a demand upon human character as Christ.

Love

Love is heaven, and heaven is love. Whoever or whatever leads a man into that unselfish life, leads him to step forward in religion.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hayes and children visited in Clayton over the week end.

FAVORS GIVING MR. COLLINS ANOTHER CHANCE AS SHERIFF

Editor Union-Banner:

I see by the adv. in your paper that Dudley Collins is wantin to be sheriff agin, and folks in these diggins say he never had a fair chance before to show the folks what he could do. Yer see, that ole jale won't much ercount then, but since then they tuck and fixt up the jale so fine that Roy Dickerson couldn't git ou effen they had him in thar. And they tuck and bilt a high strong fence around it and put the yard full uv fist dogs so effen anything went rong they would wake up everybody in town a barkin.

Dud never had sich a chance as that, and I don't blame the folks in these diggins to want him to have a nuther lick at the sheriff's office. Dud never makes meny promises, but he alus does whut he thinks is right. He's a right good sort uv feller in the church an at home an in his cummunty, and that's the kind uv feller it takes to make ur good sheriff. Effen a man loves God and the cause uv Christ, he ain't goin to do rong just cause he is sheriff; and I think the folks in these diggins air just rite in sayin Dud oughter have a nuther chance to show that he is a man for the sheriff of the county.

I don't know much about the tuther parts uv the county cause I don't run about mutch, but I have hurd plenty of voters say thay wuz gon to vote for Dud till I am not skairt to poke in my vote fur him. I have been around him some myself, an I know effen everybody would do lack he does we would not need no sheriff. I am jest a good friend ter all uv you. —A Friendly Republican.

Let's all come to Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. every Sunday and Sunday night when the weather permits.—A Reader.

A town girl, staying in the country, became friendly with a young farmer of the rustic type.

One evening as they were strolling across a meadow, they saw a cow and her calf rubbing noses in affectionate fashion.

"Ah," sighed the farmer, sheepishly, "that makes me want to do the same!"

"Well, go ahead," said the girl calmly, "it's your cow, isn't it?

UNITY ASSOCIATION MET AT PLEASANT VALLEY

The Chilton County Division of the Unity Association of Sunday Schools held its February meeting at Pleasant Valley, Sunday, February 18th. Due to unpleasant weather conditions and deaths and other hindering causes the crowd was not so large. Many helpful suggestions were made by the excellent speakers that were present. Following is the program rendered:

Opening song—"What a Friend," by J. Z. Mims.

Introduction—Supt. H. A. Harris.

Devotional—Rev. J. W. Jones.

"The Church and the Sunday School," Bro. Robinson.

Song—"We're Marching to Zion."

"Why Church Members should Attend Sunday School," Mr. J. Z. Mims.

"The Young People and the Sunday School," Rev. J. W. Jones.

Additional talks and explanation of standard of excellence—Mr. Harris.

The roll was called and the representation was as follows:

Clanton, 9; Samaria, 6; Concord, 0; Providence, 6; Mt. Zion, 0; Floyd, 0; Pleasant Valley, 15; visitors, 4.

Among the number present were 3 superintendents, 2 secretaries, and 8 teachers. We were very glad to have among the superintendents Bro. Robinson, 83, of Providence, who has been superintendent of that Sunday school for nearly 45 years. Our county needs more untiring men like Mr. Robinson in the field of service.

We want every church represented in the next meeting. Watch the papers for further announcements.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

EMERGENCY CROP LOANS

Farmers seeking loans from the $40,000,000 emergency crop loan will be directed in the near future where to apply in their respective communities, stated Wm. I Myers, governor of the Farm Credit Administration. Rules and regulations covering such loans will soon be announced. Application forms are now being prepared.

It is required by the law that borrowers, as a condition to receiving an emergency loan, must furnish proof of cooperation with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The nature of proof of cooperation will be similar to that recently announced as applicable to other borrowers who apply for loans under the Farm Credit Administration.

Each applicant must obtain clearance through or furnish a certificate of cooperation with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The production control associations will make available lists of those who have signed acreage control contracts. Farmers who are on this last, if otherwise eligible to borrow, will be able to obtain loans.

County councils of the production control associations will certify to representatives of the Farm Credit Administration the names of any farmers, who, while not signing acreage control contracts, are cooperating by not increasing their production contrary to the acreage control program.

Where county councils have not been set up Farm Credit Administration representatives will be instructed to make no loans to farmers who are planning to increase production.

For the time being, according to Governor Myers, the various regional emergency crop loans offices will handle the applications for loans from the $40,000,000 fund, and these offices will be under the immediate direction of the Emergency Crop Loan Division which is placed under the supervision of the Production Credit Commissioner, S. M. Garwood, and the governor.

You will note from the above release from Washington that the emergency crop loan is certain. Just when we will receive aplication blanks no one can tell, but it won't be many days. People who are interested in and can qualify for this loan should send their name and address to the county agent at once. Information will be given out just as soon as application blanks are received at the county agent's office.

IMPORTANCE OF TIMBER CROP

Dircting attention to the importance of our timber crop, County Agent, J. W. Fant, this week issues the following statement to the farmers of the county:

"There has been lots said and done recently about our cotton crop for this year. This has taken most of our time.

"There are other sources of income that the farmer should be thinking about. The timber crop in Chilton County could be made a good source of income on pratctically every farm if the wood lots were looked after properly.

"You may have problems in taking care of timber. The most important, probably, is fire protection at this time of the year. Another is thinning the trees.

"Next Friday, February 23rd, at 2 p.m., Mr. Lyle Brown, extension Forester, will discuss with us some of our forestry problems. He will give a thinning demonstration on Mr. Dewey Rockett's farm near Cooper.

"All farmers who are interested in timber production are invited to meet with us at Rambler's rest near the Rockett plot of woods at 2 p.m. Friday, and we will go from there to the Rockett farm."

DO YOU WANT TO HIRE A HAND?

The approach of the farming season will doubtless bring several landlords the problem of securing extra farm labor for making the crop.

As a suggestion to them in filling their needs for labor, it is advised that anyone who is interested in hiring a hand, get in touch with the National Re-employment office of Chilton County.

This office has compiled a complete registration and classification of the available workers of the county in all lines and trades. The office has a thumb index for the whole available list of workers, and suggestions will be gladly and freely made to anyone who is interested in securing a worker.

It makes no difference whether you want a single plow hand or a whole family to operate a farm, the re-employment office is in position to offer valuable suggestions.

This is one of the services intended to be available through the national recovery program, and all who are interested are invited to make use of this opportunity.

SERVICES AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 20.—One of the most tragic accidents of the hunting season claimed the life of Mrs. Ida L. Andress, 32, of Frisco City.

District Game Warden C. V. Vines of Monroeville reported that Mrs. Andress's gun was accidentally discharged while she was hunting squirrels in Monroe County with her husband and a friend, the charge striking her in the head.

Fourteen of the 28 hunting accidents that have occurred in the state since the opening of the hunting season last September have proved fatal. Half of this number were self inflicted and 10 of the 14 victims of fatal accidents were minors.

The U. S. Senate has passed the "Duck Stamp" bill to protect migratory waterfowl by establishing refugees and breeding grounds and the act is now before the house.

The bill, which was drawn by the special senate committee on conservation of wild life resources, will require the approximately 1,250,000 persons who hunt ducks in this country to purchase one dollar stamps which will provide revenue for the propagation program.

KUDZU SPLENDID FOR LAND

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 20. — Leaving land out of cotton production emphasizes the importance of kudzu in the Alabama cropping system. It is one of the most promising crops grown in Alabama for forage and soil improvement, according to J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Lowery said that kudzu furnishes excellent temporary grazing and is especially good as a soil builder, being useful in stopping landslides and washes and in utilizing waste lands. He said that it is also a splendid hay crop.

On the fields of the experiment station at Auburn kudzu produced annually more than two tons of hay per acre over a period of six years. Analysis show that it has a slightly higher feeding value than alfalfa. All kinds of livestock find it palatable.

As a soil builder it stands in the front ranks, Mr. Lowery said. Turning under a rank growth of kudzu on the experiment station farm resulted in an increased yield in sorghum of 2,536 pounds per acre, in corn of 19.3 bushels per acre, and in oats of 7.9 bushels per acre.

Kudzu is propagated from crowns which should be transplanted in early spring. Mr. Lowery said that the crowns should not be allowed to dry out between digging and planting, and that they should be planted 5 to 10 feet apart.

He added that kudzu is not a pest, as frequent mowing and close grazing will kill it. He emphasized its value for furnishing temporary grazing on badly washed land which it is desirable to reclaim.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Staple of Alabama cotton showed some improvement in 1933. The percentage of untenderable cotton produced in Alabama in 1933 was 8.6 per cent as compared with 15.4 per cent in 1932, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Several agricultural experiment stations have found that the so-called rare elements are needed by plants, and also animals, which include people. Elements now known as the rare group are manganese, copper, boron, zinc and others. Including them in fertilizers is being recommended for several crops where the soil is deficient in these elements.

Commercial fertilizers placed in inch bands not more than 3.5 inches away at one or both sides of the row of cotton seed gave the most rapid germination and best final stands of plants in a number of experiments reported by the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Revenue to the state government of Alabama for the period October, 1932, to September 30, 1933, totalled $25,656,083 and was divided as follows: business taxes, 24.1 per cent; property tax, 24 per cent; federal aid, 18.9 per cent; gas tax, 14.6 per cent; auto tags, 8.3 per cent; earnings convict department, 6.4 per cent; other revenues, 3.7 per cent.

"Principal sources and uses of state and county revenues in Alabama," is the title of a bulletin by James D. Pope, which has just been published by the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

STATE PARK ON GULF

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 20. — The donation of Mr. George C. Meyer and the Gulf Land Company of which Mr. J. F. McGowan is principal stockholder, of a considerable acreage fronting on the Gulf of Mexico in Baldwin County has enabled the park bureau of the state commission of forestry to balance its state park system quite effectively. An ocean front park has long been needed, and the public spirit of these citizens has solved a difficult problem.

The land donated to the state adjoins other state land, making a total area of approximately 717 acres available for state park development. The park is located at the only place between Florida and Texas where surf bathing can be reached by automobile. The Gulf shore line is within easy walking distance of a large fresh water lake.

While sand dunes are plentiful with their strange growth of palms and yuccas, there is a large wooded area of slash pine forest which is high and dry, providing splendid camp ground facilities. Attractive marsh plants abound in many places, and there are many handsome groups of live oak, yaupon, cherry laurel, red cedar and magnolia.

Little Tommy was running errands for his sister. Among the requirements were some from the chemist.

"I would like a box of powder for my sister," said the boy.

"Certainly," replied the chemist, and, thinking to have a joke, he added, "some that goes off with a bang?"

But Tommy was equal to the occasion.

"No," he answered brightly, "the kind that goes on with a puff."

RARE ELEMENTS ARE NEED BY THE PLANTS

Auburn, Ala. Feb. 20.—Scientific research plus farm experience have revealed another new fact which is of major importance to farmers, and to the public. It is that certain so-called rare elements which previously were considered non-essential are essential and important factors in plant production. They are also essential in the nutrition of people and other animals.

In a review of agricultural research, Dr. Oswald Schreiner, chief of the division of soil fertility, Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, United States Department of Agriculture, at Washington, found many experimental facts which emphasize the value of these rare elements.

Dr. Schreiner found that agricultural chemists and investigators gave first attention to those elements which are present in plants and animals in larger amounts, including nitrogen, prosphorus, potassium, calcium, magnesium, sulphur, carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and iron. These are considered sufficient for plants to grow and mature.

In the newer research these ten elements are not being neglected but attention is being turned to the less common elements such as magnesium, copper, horon, iodine and zinc for these are known to be needed.

"These elements," said Dr. Scheiner, "have been found to be most important factors in plant and animal nutrition and health."

Dr. Schreiner's report covered experimental evidence from several of the state experiment stations and from two in foreign countries. While all crops and all soil types were not included, the work already done was sufficient for him to issue a warning to farmers against continued use of fertilizers which do not contain limited amounts of these rare elements.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 20.—I. T. Quinn, state commissioner of game and fisheries, has designated March 2 for the annual observance of Bird Day in Alabama.

The custom of observing an annual Bird Day originated in this state in 1909, and has been widely adopted by other states. Schools and organizations commemorate the date with appropriate exercises and have been the inspiration for movements to establish bird sanctuaries in more than 30 cities and towns.

"Each year in this state a day is set aside and known as Alabama Bird Day when the schools, clubs and civic organizations prepare and conduct a program on birds — their economic, aesthetic and recreational value." said Commissioner Quinn.

"This year, March 2, has been named and I suggest that all schools and all organizatoins in the state observe this day with a suitable program.

"Bird Day has been a big factor in educating the public as to the value of wild life, and it is a source of pleasure and pride to know that this custom originated in our state. The economic value of birds to agriculture cannot be overestimated. Birds are nature's most potent check upon the undue increase of insect pests which cause an annual loss to agriculture of more than one million dollars.

Commissioner Quinn outlined the following program which he believes will be useful in the preparation of appropriate exercises on Bird Day:

1. Address by competent person on one of these three subjects: (a) The economic value of birds; (b) The Aesthetic value of birds; (c) The Recreational value of birds.
2. Discussion of bird protection and conservation in Alabama.
3. Talk on how to attract birds around the home.
4. Name several species of (a) migratory (b) non-migratory birds found in the state at this season of the year.
5. List 10 birds as (a) insectivorous, (b) weed seed eating.
6. Give list of game birds and tell where they are to be found whether in the fields, woods or on the waters of the state.
7. Sources of revenue collected and spent by the Alabama Game and Fisheries department in wild life protection, propagation and conservation.

COTTON PATCH FOR CHURCH

County Agent, J. W. Fant, has written a letter to Mr. C. A. Cobb, of the cotton section of Agricultural Administration, making inquiry about the application of the cotton acreage reduction program to instances where church organizations plant cotton patches for financial support of church movements. We quote Mr. Fant's inquiry, as follows:

"There are several churches in this county that receive their finances by asking the members to set aside a certain patch of cotton for church financing. Several church members have made inquiry if this church acreage can be planted and exempt from the cotton acreage reduction contract. They want to tell their members that a certain amount of cotton can be planted for church financing above the amount designated in their contracts."

Replying to the inquiry of Mr. Fant, the following letter has been received from the Cotton Production Section:

"We are not at liberty to authorize any change in the 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction contract or administrative rulings relating thereto. The purpose of the exemption of certain acres in support of the church is most worthy, but exceptions of this sort, as you may readily see, might involve us in great difficulty."

IN MEMORY OF MRS. WELLS

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Wells on Februray 17, 1934, and carried away their beloved mother, Mrs. Ben H. Wells. She had been sick for several weeks when God saw fit to take her beloved soul from our midst. He saw fit to take her out of this old world of trouble, sickness and sorrow, which we have all got to leave sooner or later in that day to come.

So weep not dear loved ones for God is the taker and giver. He knows best. His will must be done, not ours. All was done for Mrs. Wells that loving hands could do for her on earth to save her, but God knew best and carried her away to a brighter and happier world. So be reconciled one and all for our loss here on earth is heaven's gain.

Mrs. Wells died at her home near Maple Springs community. She lived to be 71 years of age and left to mourn her loss two sons, Mr. B. H. Wells, of near Clanton, Mr. Brock Wells, of Selma; three daughters, Mrs. Lula Blalock of Clanton, Mrs. Nettie Kicker of Georgia and Mrs. Nicie Kicker of Marbury, a host of friends and relatives.

She was laid to rest at Poplar Springs last Sunday, with Brother Ezell officiating and Spigener in charge.—A friend, Nora Stroud.

Miss Rose Stanley of Maxwell Field visited Mrs. Willie P. Jones recently.

FIRE AT KILGORE HOME SUNDAY

The home of Mrs. M. A. Kilgore at the gap of the mountain, on Lay Dam Road was damaged by fire last Sunday. The blaze was on the roof, and was extinguished before it spread to the interior of the building.

PEOPLES CASH STORE WIEL MOVE SOON

Mr. W. J. Billingsley, manager of the Peoples Cash Store, announces that this business will be moved next week into a new location in the Popwell Building two doors east of the present place. Workmen are engaged this week in arranging the Popwell Building to suit the needs of the grocery store.

"We expect to move about Tuesday or Wednesday of next week," said Mr. Billingsley. "Our new place will be arranged and equipped with the very best furnishings that will enable us to serve our customers more satisfactorily than ever before.

"We want all our friends and customers to know of the change we are planning, and invite them to come to see us. We appreciate the fine patronage that our business has received in the past. We plan better things for our customers in the future."

NEW HARMONY CHURCH

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Preaching Saturday morning at 11 and singing at 9 o'clock Sunday morning, in the Sacred Harp song books, with preaching following.

Mr. T. C. Jackson of Sylacauga was re-elected as the chairman of our singing society at this place last fourth Sunday. Everybody who loves the old music, come and be with us every fourth Sunday.

Come and hear our pastor preach. Elder L. G. Warren of near Birmingham is our pastor. We invite everybody to come and be with us on our meeting times at New Harmony. Visitors are always welcome. Singers around this place, come out and keep our singing going. Singing is the life of a church. Come.

EASTERLING HOME BURNED

The home of General Easterling, in the Refuge community, was destroyed by fire Sunday. The blaze was discovered just as it started around the stove flue. Valiant efforts were made to stop it, but a shortage of water and a high wind caused the flames to get beyond control.

All contents of the house were saved. The barn caught fire several times, but was not destroyed.

LIBERTY HILL QUARTET TO BE AT VERMONT JR. HIGH SCHOOL

The weather permitting, a delightful musical program will be given at Vermont Jr. High school tomorrow night at 7:30 (Friday.) Those who like good male quartet singing and comic negro sermons, etc., should be out and see the above group perform. Cornlius Hand is a riot with his comic negro caper. Admission is 5 and 15 cents. A price all can afford to pay.

RALPH GRANT HERE

Prof. Ralph D. Grant of Cooper, who is principal of the high school at Arkadelphia in Cullman County, spent the week end at home. He was circulating among friends telling them about his desire to be the Republican nominee for County Superintendent of Education. Mr. Grant is a promising young man with a bright future before him.

THE STAMPS MELODY BOYS QUARTET TO BE AT CALERA

A concert program delightfully different will be given by the Stamps Quartet on Friday night, February 23, at Calera school auditorium, comedy and singing being the main feature of the evening. It is really better than before. Come, bring your gang and enjoy a treat.

Admission 10 cents and 20 cents. Beginning promptly at 7:45 o'clock.

MRS. LAURA FRANKLIN DIED

Mrs. Laura N. Franklin, age 79 years, passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. G. W. Spivey, Jemison, Route 1, last Friday afternoon. Funeral services were held at Pleasant Grove church last Saturday afternoon, Rev. R. W. Lawrence officiating. Burial was in charge of Spigener.

Mrs. Franklin is survived by two daughters, Mrs. G. W. Spivey and Mrs. Rose Wright; one son, J. B. Franklin; fourteen grandchildren and one great grandchild.

MRS. ANNA NIX DIED

Mrs. Anna Nix, age 78 years, died at her home near Jemison Monday afternoon. Funeral services were at Macedonia church Tuesday afternoon. Burial by Spigener in the adjoining cemetery.

Mrs. Nix is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. C. Veazey and Mrs. J. R. Merchant; three sons, T. I. Ward, of Homburg, Ala., J. A. Ward of Jemison Route 3; M. L. Nix, of Birmingham; two sisters, Mrs. Sallie Malone, of Selma; Mrs. Emma Cox, of Cox Station; and eighteen grand children.

PLENTY OF CABBAGE AT HILL'S

J. W. McEathern, manager of the Hill Grocery Store in Clanton, assures his friends and customers that he will have plenty of cabbage on hand for next Saturday.

"Last Saturday," said Mac, "we did not have enough to meet the great demand. We were sold out before we got good started, disposing of a thousand pounds before eleven o'clock. We will have a double portion on hand for next Saturday, and we guarantee everybody plenty of cabbage, more cabbage and better cabbage, at a price so low you will think somebody gave you a whole cabbage patch."

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE QUARTET COMING AGAIN ON FEBRUARY 22

The Tuskegee Quartet will appear at Union Baptist Church, Clanton, on Thursday night, February 22, in the interest of the building program of the Chilton County Training School.

Special reservations will be made for our white friends.

Admission 15 cents and 25 cents.

FOUR IN RACE FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Smith, Yates, Robinson and Martin Candidates in Republican Primary

The number of candidates out for the county school board this week comes up to four, twice the number of vacancies to be filled. Mr. S. M. Yates, Jr., of Cooper, desires to be re-elected to the position which he has held for the past six years. The other place to be filled is that now held by Mr. C. C. Conway, of Jemison, whose time also expires as soon as his successor is elected and qualified.

As stated above Mr. Yates is just finishing up his first term of six years as member of the county school board. His home is three quarters of a mile east of Cooper and he gets his mail on Verbena Route 2. He was elected to this office in November, 1928, and took up his duties shortly thereafter.

Mr. Yates asks for re-election on the record he has made since going into office before. In speaking of the work he said: "Since I have been a member of the county board I do not claim to have accomplished anything sensational or worthy of special mention; I have merely tried to do my duty as I saw it and have tried to work in harmony with the other members of the board toward the general betterment of the schools of the county. I have tried not to do anything that was detrimental to the schools. So, if the voters of the county want me to continue in the office, I will appreciate it and will try in my humble way to do what in my honest opinion is best for our schools and the education of our children in general."

D. S. (Sebe) Robinson

Mr. D. S. (Sebe) Robinson, of cooper, Beat 10, announces this week as a candidate for member of the Chilton County Board of Education in the Republican primary of May 1st.

A few years ago Mr. Robinson was a candidate for membership on the school board, and was defeated in the primary by a small majority. His friends still believe he is a logical man for this important position, and have insisted that he again offer himself and his services to the people of the county.

A prominent and leading citizen of Beat 10 for many years, Mr. Robinson has gained a well-deserved position of his esteem among his neighbors. By his former campaign he became well known throughout the entire county.

Pink Martin

Pink M. Martin, prominent farmer, and progressive citizen of the Union Grove community, Beat 12, announces this week as a candidate for member of the Chilton County Board of Education in the Republican primary of May 1st.

Mr. Martin has lived all his life in the same community where he now resides. He has been an active and ardent supporter of the schools, both in his own community and throughout the county. He was trustee of the Union Grove school for six years.

He is a strong Republican in politics, being at the present time a member of the Chilton County Republican Executive Committee.

Peoples Cash Store Moved This Week

New Location In the Popwell Building Two Doors East of Present Place

By the end of this week The Peoples Cash Store will be doing business in its new location in the Popwell Building, two doors east of its former place. Announcing this change Mr. W. J. Billingsley, manager of the store, said Tuesday:

"We take pleasure in announcing to our friends and customers that we are moving our store into the Popwell Building, two doors east of our present location, where we will be ready to serve you by Saturday of this week.

"In our new location we will have a much nicer place, better arranged and better equipped in every way. We will have plenty of room to load trucks for our farmer friends.

"We invite you to see us for prices on all staple and fancy groceries, all kinds of horse and mule feed, dairy feed, cottonseed meal and hulls, chicken feeds and mash, any quantity you want, at wholesale and retail prices.

"We appreciate the large volume of business you have given us in the past. This is a home-owned business, operated by home folks entirely.

"In the future as in the past we stand ready to help our home county, our churches, our schools, and every worthy civic cause.

"Remember, we are one of you, the home folks of Chilton County. We shall continue to serve you with the very best possible prices on standard merchandise of high quality."

ELMORE'S STORE HERE EMPLOYS TOTAL OF 28 PEOPLE

In reference to the article published in the papers last week relative to the failure of Clanton business men to increase their number of employes to a satisfactory figure, Mr. Virgil J. Elmore, proprietor of Elmore's 5c, 10c and $1.00 Store, wishes to state that a closer check-up on this phase of Clanton's business would, in his case, show up differently than that conveyed by the report. Mr. Elmore asks The Union-Banner to state publicly that in the year 1933 his store in Clanton employed a total of 18 people. This year, 1934, this store here employs a total of 28 people. Of course these are not given full time, but this number of employees are actually on the weekly payroll.

Hill's Birthday Sale Announced

Twenty - Third Anniversary Event From March 2nd Through March 10

Mr. J. W. McEathern, manager of Hill Grocery Store in Clanton, sends a special message to Hill customers and friends in Chilton County this week, announcing the greatest food selling event in the history of the Hill organization.

The occasion of this great bargain event is the twenty-third anniversary of Hill Grocery Company. This concern began on a small scale almost a quarter of a century ago. Guided by sound business principles, and inspired by the opportunity to serve an appreciative trade, Hill's has grown until the business is deeply rooted in almost every town in the State of Alabama.

Commenting on this birthday sale, Mr. McEathern said: "It is no secret. We want everybody to know about it, and we will see that they do know about it. A large rotogravure circular telling all the good news will be sent to every boxholder in Alabama this week. Yours will be there for you on time. We invite the people of Chilton County to avail yourselves of this great buying opportunity."

Incidentally Mr. McEathern said he will have more cabbage this week, two tons of it, to be sold at two cents a pound. This, he hopes, will be enough to let everybody have all they want.

FORD PICTURE ON THE SCREEN

"These Thirty Years" Showing By Courtesy of Clanton Motors, Here

"These Thirty Years," a new talking picture produced by the Ford Motor Company, is to be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre Friday and Saturday, March 2 and 3. Complimentary tickets are being distributed by Clanton Motors, under whose auspices the local showings are being made.

A cut-away chassis of the 1934 Ford V-8 will be on display in Clanton Motors show rooms on the above dates. This device is electrically driven and shows all of the important moving parts of the new V-8 motor and differential.

The story of "These Thirty Years" begins 30 years ago in the town of Brookfield. Davie Haines and his aged mother see their farm and everything they own put on the auction block to satisfy a greedy mortgage holder. During the auction, however, Dave becomes inspired by a "horselses carriage seen tearing down a rutted country road at the neck-breakin' speed of 20 miles per hour." He sees a great future in automobiles and wants Jed Travers, local livery stable owner, to go into business with him. Jed withholds his decision until Dave proves what his "carriage" can do in a cross country race with a horse.

Success favors Dave. He wins the race—also the hand of May Larcombe. They have a son, Bob, who becomes a problem in later life for he favors playing to working, and spends his dad's money gambling on the stock market. The "crash" of 1929 catches Bob. He loses everything—including his girl, Ann Bailey, who has been disgusted with him for some time. Jed, the partner of Dave, sticks by Bob, saves his life on one occasion, and finally inspires him to become the man his dad and Ann would like him to be.

The players featured in "These Thirty Years," include David Morris, who played in "Come Easy," "Young Sinners," "Cradle Snatcher," and "In the Best of Families," K. Elmo Lowe, who played the lead in "There's Always Juliet," and other well known plays; Donald McDonald, who played the leads in "Left Bank" and "Here Today," and took part in "Forsaking All Others" featuring Tallulah Bankhead. Frederick Forrester, who played the father in Animal Kingdom." Alice John, who plays the part of "Mom" Haines in "These Thirty Years" has played for the Theater Guild, Arthur Hopkins and Charles Frohman.

PROSPERITY TRADE WEEK MARCH 17-24

Present Plans for Participation By Business Houses of Entire County

After more mature consideration of the proposal for a Prosperity Trade Week, the committee of the Kiwanis Club has determined to suggest the time for the event as the week of March 17 to 24.

This conclusion was arrived at because it was thought the most satisfactory procedure to make the occasion a county-wide affair, and invite merchants and business men in all towns of the county to participate.

In accordance with this idea, a committee of the club has been designated to call upon every business concern in every town in the county, and extend an invitation to all to enlist in the movement. This committee is at work calling upon the merchants this week.

A meeting was scheduled for Wednesday night at Clanton, in which two representative business men from each of the towns of Clanton, Thorsby, Jemison, Maplesville, Cooper, and Verbena, were invited to come and take part in the outline of the program for the week of the sales campaign.

It is the purpose of the Kiwanis Club committee only to back up the merchants and support them in whatever plans they wish to adopt. In suggesting and initiating the proposal the club felt that it could be made a profitable business proposition both for the merchants and for the people of the county who will be interested in buying merchandise for spring season at this time.

When the business men have made their plans in the final detail, the newspapers of Clanton plan to inaugurate a program of publicity that will bring the whole outline to the personal attention of every citizen in every part of the county. The Kiwanis Club will continue to support in any way possible to help make Prosperity Trade Week a great and successful event for everybody concerned.

MIMS-WAITES

Mr. Bill Waites, 23, and Miss Beatrice Mims, 17, were married at the courthouse in Clanton Saturday afternoon by Rev. Hightower. They will make their home near Clanton.

Beatrice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mims of Clanton Route 5. Bill Waites is from Coosa County.

DON'T READ THIS

The words in this little box will not interest you, unless you see it before Sunday night, March 4th. If you see it before then, however, it is meant for you, because it concerns something more important than a job or pay day or a meal ticket or even shelter from the cold rain and wind. It concerns your soul's welfare. Meet Rev. J. W. Jones at Chestnut Creek Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night. He will attend to the rest.

ASK FANT ABOUT CROP LOAN PLAN

Application Blanks May Be Obtained At the County Agent's Office

The new Farm Credit Administration through the Production Credit Corporation of New Orleans has established the Montgomery Production Credit Association to serve farmers of Chilton County.

All farmers are eligible for loans who are cooperating with our government in the acreage reduction work and who can furnish adequate 1934 crop collateral supplemented by the ordinary farm and livestock collateral.

This credit plan will doubtless be very popular with farmers in this county this year inasmuch as it will make it possible for them to take advantage of cash prices for supplies bought to make their 1934 crops.

Farmers who are interested in this type of loan can get full information and assistance in making applications at the county agent's office in the Potts Building at Clanton.

Farmers planning to make application for these loans should have available the following information:

1. Acreage owned and rented in 1934.
2. Acreage to be cultivated in 1934.
3. Acreage and crop yield for the years 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932, and 1933.
4. Number and description of all livestock and farm equipment.
5. Landlords should be able to furnish information as to number of tenant families, total number work hands, lands to be cultivated and amounts to be furnished each tenant.
6. List of all notes, accounts, taxes, etc., owed by you for your financial statement.
7. Applications for this loan (Montgomery Production Credit Association) will be taken at the county agent's office on Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week until further notice. Application blanks for the seed loan have not come in yet.
8. The following is a schedule of charges for making this loan:

$50.00 to $100, 50c; $101.00 to $199.00 is 75c; $200.00 to $499.00, is $1.00, and $500 and up is $1.50. This fee must be paid when application is made.

Chas. Cooper Throws His Hat Into the Ring

Mr. Chas. Cooper, prominent business man of Beat 5, has thrown his hat into the political ring by announcing himself a candidate for Representative in the Legislature of Alabama in the Republican primary of May 1st. Mr. Cooper is a native of Chilton County, is 51 years old. He has been in the general contracting and building business for the greater part of his active business life.

In addition to his building operations, Mr. Cooper has devoted quite a bit of time to general farming and fruit growing. A few years ago he won a prize in the national cotton show sponsored by Sears, Roebuck & Co.; also had the best cotton at the State Fair in Montgomery the same year.

Mr. Cooper knows the value of a dollar when earned by hard work; hence his deep personal interest for the man who works. With his many years in the contracting business he has been thrown into intimate association with business men throughout this and other states.

His friends feel that he is amply capacitated to discharge the important duties of representative. Since he has a keen personal desire to render public service to the people of Chilton County, he will doubtless receive strong support among the voters.

In making his annoncement, Mr. Cooper issued the following statement of greetings to the Republican voters of Chilton County:

"Being prompted with a desire to render some worth-while service to the people of Alabama in general, and to the people of Chilton County in particular, I am making my formal anouncement as a candidate for Representative in the Legislature, subject to the action of the Republican primary of May 1st. Below I outline a few of the things I expect to do if elected:

"First, if elected, I will introduce a bill to have all homesteads up to the value of $2,000 exempted from all state and county taxes.

"Second, if elected, I will introduce a bill to make a flat rate of $3 each for all automobile tags, and a flat rate of $5 for all truck tags up to two-ton capacity, with $5 extra for trailer tags. All large busses and transfer trucks to remain as per present schedule. I will also endeavor to have property taxes removed from all motor vehicles.

"Third, being conscious of the fact that in order to bring about the above results some real economy will have to be made in the cost of government; therefore, I will favor reducing the salaries of all over-paid public officials.

"Fourth, if elected, I will endeavor to introduce a bill, the nature of which will be to bring about a general change in the convict system. It is reported that it now costs the taxpayers $706 per year each to keep the convicts. Any sane person knows there is something wrong with such a system.

"Fifth, I will favor any legislation that will bring about improvement in our school system. I will also favor letting the convicts make the school books, which will save the school patrons thousands of dollars a year. This would cut out the present big drag of Bill Feagin and the wholesale book dealers in Birmingham.

"I also favor paying school bus drivers and teachers a living wage. I do not favor paying public officials fabulous salaries.

"If the above meets with your approval, I will appreciate your vote and influence in my behalf."

15 Killed By Tornado In South Last Sunday

Extensive Damage To Farm Property Over A Wide Area of This County, Three Miles South of Clanton

Storm Briefs

Almost every building in Bowdon, Ga., with a population of 1,047, was damaged by the storm Sunday, most of them being unroofed. The Red Cross is caring for 200 homeless persons in Carroll County.

Damage in Alabama was heaviest in Clay County. Over 90 homes were wrecked. Two people were killed. People protected themselves by resorting to storm pits.

Alabama National Guard sent 30 army tents and loads of cots and blankets to the Clay County homeless.

Relief and rehabilitation measures are being extended through the Red Cross and American Legion. Freezing weather following the storm handicapped relief and increased suffering of people.

Judge Garrison of Clay said the storm cut a path 27 miles long and seven miles wide through Clay County, leaving two dead, 40 injured, 93 homes demolished, and 400 persons homeless.

George Lynch, prominent farmer of Millersville community, in Clay County, was ill in bed at the time of the storm. He was killed.

Rev. John McCullough, who was conducting a meeting near Clairmont Springs, in Clay County, was killed while conducting services when the tornado struck the church.

The Shady Grove area, five miles west of Millerville, suffered the greatest loss of property of any place in the state. Millerville is a few miles to the northeast of Goodwater.

SELMA HIGHWAY PAVING TO START

Preliminary Survey and Estimate Will Begin In the Next Few Days

Judge Reynolds received advice from the State Highway Department Wednesday morning that approval has been given to the project for hard surfacing the Selma Highway, to begin at the junction of the Birmingham Highway and extend west approximately three miles.

Appropriation of $35,000 is set aside for this job. The Highway Department says it is planned to begin the survey and estimate next week. A black top hard surface 20 feet wide is proposed.

This is regarded as settlement of the question of whether the paving shall begin at the Birmingham Highway or the city limits of Clanton.

16,875 POUNDS OF CHICKEN

The poultry car which came through Chilton County on the L. & N. Railroad last week loaded a total of 16,875 pounds of poultry, which brought $1,350 in cash to the farmers who sold the chickens.

Featuring the goofy love-birds, Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts, in "Love, Honor and Oh, Baby," is the picture to be put on at the Wadesonian Theatre here Monday and Tuesday, March 5th and 6th. The Eastern Star are sponsors of the picture. All who have ever seen Summerville and Pitts know what they can do no the screen. The ladies of this order ask you to help them out by attending one of these shows.

Dr. A. M. Gowan, Mildred and William Gowan have returned to their home in Brewton after a brief visit here.

DeMABEL BACK HOME

A card from Mrs. Mabel Howard Sims, mailed at Thorsby, says that she is back home after a month's rest, and will be in Clanton to open up her beauty shoppe again Friday morning, March 2nd, at 9 o'clock. Mrs. Sims will be glad for her friends to come around to see her.

One Woman Killed At Calera When Home Was Wrecked By Twister

The Falakto community, three miles south of Clanton, suffered severe damage from a tornado which struck over a wide section late last Sunday evening, damaging many homes and destroying barns and other farm buildings by the wholesale. No lives were lost in this immediate section.

The path of the storm was about a half a mile wide, and extended from the Pleasant Grove community in a northeasterly direction to the Poplar Springs community. Damage of varied extent has been reported from almost every farm settlement in the area.

Reports gathered Monday give the following details of damage at a number of places struck by the storm:

J. Foshee, in the Pleasant Grove community six miles southwest of Clanton. Serious damage to home and household goods. Barn and other buildings destroyed.

B. W. Tyus, on the Energy Road, 3 miles southwest of Clanton. Severe damage to roof of residence.

Natty Jones, at Stonecipher place on highway south of Clanton. House damaged by large tree blowing down in it.

Thomas Junior High School. Severe damage to roof. School adjourned for ten days to make repairs.

Bill Mims, near Falakto. Barn destroyed and one mule killed. Some damage to other buildings.

Hosea Downs, on highway south of Clanton. Severe damage to poultry houses and other buildings about the place.

Jean Scarbrough, on the highway near Cordrey's old mill. Porch blown from residence.

Steve Blalock, near Cordrey's old mill. Two dwelling houses seriously damaged. Barn almost completely demolished. Hay and feed scattered everywhere.

William Gilliland, damage to house and outbildings.

Ben Jones, in Poplar Springs settlement. Damage to home, barn and other buildings.

Tom Miller, in Poplar Springs community. Damage to home and other buildings.

Lindsey Nicholson, at the Willie Miner place. Porch blown away from residence.

Bud Bates in Poplar Springs community. Damage to barn.

John L. Smith, in Poplar Springs community. Damage to barn.

Joe Holley, near Mt. Psigah. Severe damage to residence. Barn and chicken house damaged. Garage blown away.

H. B. Glenn, near Section Houses south of Clanton. One room blown away from residence, and all outbuildings destroyed.

Horace Aldridge, near Mt. Pisgah. Barns damaged.

Jess Aldridge, near Mt. Pisgah. One tenant house blown down and damage to other buildings.

Sunday's storm damage and destruction was visited heavily upon parts of the states of Mississippi and eorgia, as well as Alabama. Ten people were killed in Mississippi, three in Alabama and two in Georgia.

The dead in Alabama were Mrs. Nannie Kiazziah, Calera; Rev. J. W. McCrellurs, near Ashland; George Lynch, Millersville.

The homes of L. D. Horton and Mrs. Kaizziah were destroyed at Calera. Mrs. Horton was injured, and Mrs. Kaizziah was killed instantly when struck by flying timber. Other Shelby county points report considerable damage.

Clay County, in the vicinity of Ashland, sustained the heaviest damage reported in Alabama. More than ninety farm homes were wiped off the map. More than fifty people were injured, several of whom will probably die. Organizations of the Red Cross and the American Legion made a hasty survey of the Clay County distress, and began promptly to carry out emergency relief measures.

Far down in southeast Alabama, in Houston County, more than a dozen farm homes reported damage, but no fatalities.

From Alabama the storm swept into Georgia with continued fury and widespread destruction. The wind spent itself in South Carolina, where a few people were injured and several buildings were demolished.

UNCLE JIM MIMS SICK

The many friends of Commissioner J. M. Mims, will regret to learn that he is seriously ill again. He has not been able to get out of the house for several weeks. He suffered a severe attack Sunday and Monday, but was better Tuesday.

PLEASANT GROVE
JEMISON

Thorsby Institute News

The Annual Declamatory Contest of Thorsby Institute was held Saturday night in the Institute auditorium. Conway Thornburgh won the prize of five dollars awarded to the boy who did the best, and Mary Louise Reinhardt won the girl's prize of five dollars. Mary Nelle Pate was only one point below Mary Louise Reinhardt, so the contest between them was very close.

A girls trio consisting of Edith Foss, Mary Sue Porter and Mary Boring sang two numbers between the boys and girls speeches.

Next Friday night at seven o'clock the parents, or guardians, of the pupils of Thorsby Institute are invited to the auditorium for a program. It is hoped that many will come.

School will be in session Saturday, March 3 and Saturday, March 10, beginning at 8:15, instead of 8:30.

On the afternoon of February 22, the Pushmataha and Philomathic clubs gave an interestnig program in the auditorium, celebrating Washington's birthday.

Miscellaneous Shower Given for Bride of Recent Date

Mrs. L. A. Callaway, formerly Miss Myradine Martin, was honored with a miscellaneous shower on Friday night, February 23, 1934, at the beautiful home of Mrs. Luncy Martin. The home was beautifully decorated in pot flowers. Mrs. Erchel Martin looked very attractive in an outfit of beige as she received the guests as they arrived. Little Peggy Mims Franklin was lovely dressed in pink and Mrs. R. R. Franklin was very stunning in a beige flat crepe frock as she displayed the gifts. Miss Lucille Callaway, sister of the groom, was very beautiful in an outfit of powder blue flat crepe, as she presided over the bride's book.

The bride was very charming in a gown of blue flat crepe, with accessories to match. During the hours from seven until 9 Miss Marie Jackson rendered some piano music and Miss Edna Lee Wilder sang.

Refreshments were served by Miss Lola Martin, Edna Childress and Everee Smith to the many guests, who numbered around sixty. Everyone left wishing the bride many years of happiness.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. MINNIE GOFF

On February 8, 1934 the death angel of spirit visited the home of Mr. D. F. Goff and carried away his loving wife, Mrs. Minnie Broadhead Goff. To know her was to love her. She always wore a smile. She suffered 31 months, but always tried to smile through her suffering.

Oh, we miss you, Minnie dear, but hope you are resting in a joyful place up there above. We know she is in heaven because she was an active church member and always tried to serve her Lord as he wanted her to do. Oh, weep not, dear ones, for we know she is resting in a joyful peace in heaven. Of course we can't help worrying and weeping for her, but she is better off than we are.

She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, Mr. D. F. Goff, a son, Jack Goff; a father, Mr. L. B. Broadhead; a step mother, Mrs. Belle Broadhead; five sisters, Miss Cleo Broadhead, Clanton; Miss Myrtle Broadhead, Birmingham; Mrs. Inez Adams. Birmingham; Mrs. Jannie Malone, Selma and Mrs. Berniece Pennington, Birmingham; four half sisters, Wildo Sayne Broadhead, Olco, Faye and Laverta Broadhead, all of Maplesville.

Oh, Minnie, your vacant place can never be filled, but our loss is heaven's gain. Minnie, oh dear, you are gone to a better place, but you are not forgotten. Oh, Lord, why could not she have stayed a little longer with us? She was so dear, we can hardly bear to think of her being gone. We said farewell to Minne, but didn't say goodbye. So let's don't weep dear ones, for she is singing joyfully with those angels above.—One who loved her, a half sister, Laverta Leo Broadhead.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. FANNIE SIMS

On Sunday, February 11, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Henry Sims of Bessemer and carried away their beloved mother and grandmother. She had been in bad health for several years. But all was done for her that loving hands and tender hearts could do. But God loved her most and called her home. She leaves to mourn her loss, seven sons and five daughters, Cleve Sims, of Billingsley; Jessie, Clift and Henry, all of Bessemer; Oce, Darb and Von of Maplesville; Mrs. Ella Chandler of Maplesville, Mrs. Ellen Chandler of Pletcher, Mrs. Flossie Chandler of Plantersville; Mrs. Lillian Keener of Bessemer and Mrs. Nettie Lenoir of Maplesville, and a host of friends and relatives.

The remains were laid to rest at Pilgrim Rest cemetery Tuesday with Rev. A. S. Bentley officiating.—Written by a friend.

Bill Simpson and Elwyn Gore spent Sunday in Birmingham.

EXAMINATION FOR POSTMASTER

To fill the vacancy in the position of postmaster in Clanton, the United States Civil Service Commission has announced, at the request of the Postmaster General and in accordance with an order of the president, an open competitive examination.

To be eligible for the examination, an applicant must be a citizen of the United States, must reside within the delivery of this post office, must have so resided for at least one year next preceding the date for close of receipt of applications, must be in good physical condition, and within the prescribed age limits. Both men and women are admitted.

Under the terms of the Executive order, the Civil Service Commission will certify to the Postmaster General the names of the highest three qualified eligibles, if as many as three are qualified, from which the Postmaster General may select one for nomination by the president. Confirmation by the Senate is the final action.

Applicants will not be required to assemble in an examination room for scholastic tests, but will be rated on their education and business experience and fitness. The Civil Service Commission will make inquiry among representative local business and professional men and women concerning the experience, ability, and character of each applicant, and the evidence thus secured will be considered in determining the ratings to be assigned to the applicants.

The Commission states that presidential postmasters are not in the classified civil service and that its duties in connection with appointments to such positions are to hold examinations and to certify the results to the Postmaster General. The Commission is not interested in the political, religious, or fraternal affiliations of any applicant.

Full information and application blanks may be obtained from the secretary of the local board of civil service examiners as the post office in this city, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Receipt of applications for the following postoffices in Alabama will close March 13, 1934:

Second class — Clanton, salary of $2,400; Marion, salary of $2,400.

Mrs. Earl Gore has returned from a brief visit to Birmingham.

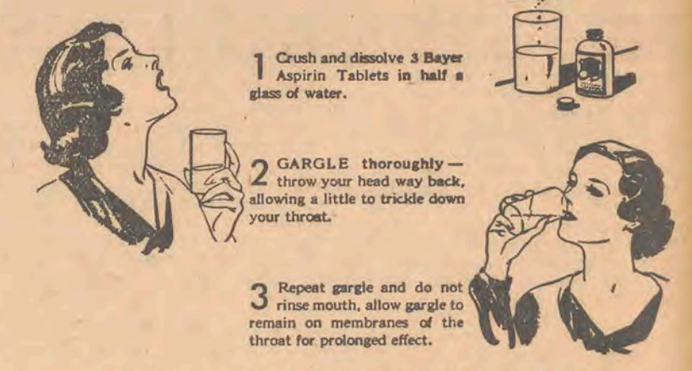
Now! Ease Sore Throat Instantly!



1 Crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in half a glass of water.

2 GARGLE thoroughly — throw your head way back, allowing a little to trickle down your throat.

3 Repeat gargle and do not rinse mouth, allow gargle to remain on membranes of the throat for prolonged effect.

Remember: Only Medicine Helps Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes!

It requires medicine—like BAYER ASPIRIN- to do these things! That is why throat specialists throughout America are prescribing this BAYER gargle in place of old-time ways.

Be careful, however, that you get real BAYER Aspirin for this purpose. For they dissolve completely enough to gargle without leaving irritating particles.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

COTTON CAMPAIGN CLOSES WITH FULL QUOTA PLEDGED

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 27.—Final reports of county agents to Dr. L. N. Duncan, extension service director, indicated that Alabama's cotton acreage this year will be reduced 1,347,967 acres by 118,173 producers. The campaign closed on February 15.

The reduction represents a slash of approximately 40 per cent in the 3,416,000 acres planted to cotton annually in Alabama from 1928 to 1932. For this reduction the government has agreed to pay Alabama producers over 10 million in rental and parity payments.

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington is now preparing to receive contracts from the various states and make arrangements for the disbursement to farmers of the initial rental payments.

Alabama county agents are now completing final tabulations which will be forwarded to Auburn for approval by the state board of review. This board, composed of F. W. Gist, state statistician, James D. Pope, agricultural economist, and T. A. Sims, extension official who has assisted in administering the reduction program, will inspect the tabulations to see that acreages and yields are in line with the figures compiled from past records in Alabama. Upon approval of the board, county agents will be instructed to forward the contracts to Washington.

C. A. Cobb, cotton section chief of the A.A.A., has announced that the rapidity with which checks will be distributed depends upon the promptness with which contracts are completed and tabulated in the counties and states and forwarded to his office.

"It is our hope," said Mr. Cobb, "that the distribution of the first 50 million dollars to the 1934 cotton program will enable a large number of producers to utilize these funds in making their crop. The advantage of departing from the ordinary credit system is obvious to every cotton farmer." The other installments will be made to farmers in July and December.

ACRE REDUCTION TO HELP GET JUMP ON THE BOLL WEEVIL

Auburn, Ala., Feb. 27.—This year's reduction in cotton acreage will help planters get the jump on the boll weevil, according to entomologists of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Producing cotton in the presence of boll weevils has become a race between the setting of the bolls and the multiplication of the insect with growers doing everything in their power to help the plant win. The removal of many acres from production gives growers a chance to select for use the field that are least susceptible to infestation in preference to those where weevils are mare than likely to get an early start, as long as the "average fertility" requirements of the contract are met by the retired acres.

Other things being equal, the entomologists say, cotton should be planted in open fields, away from woods, weeds, and rubbish that harbor weevils over winter. These insects migrate from old cotton plants in the fall and return in the spring to attack the new cotton plants. As cold weather arives they fly in great numbers in every direction to the woods, hedges, haystacks, Spanish moss, and farm buildings. They pass the winter in the adult or weevil stage. When the weevils return in spring they immediately strike the cotton around the edge of the field. Their first damage is nearly always close to the woods, weed patches, or other places that protected them through the winter.

As soon as the weevils find food and the squares in which they breed they begin to multiply. Some time, often weeks, however, is necessary for them to increase to numbers large enough to cause heavy damage in the center of big fields. While the weevils are multiplying and spreading the cotton plants are setting bolls and thus passing the point where they can be seriously hurt by the insects.

Soil fertility and other management factors, of course, enter into the selection of cotton fields. If land near woods must be used, close watch early in the season is necessary, so that poison control may be started before the insects spread to other parts of the field.

It is estimated that the government in 1934 will pay 130 million dollars to southern producers for reducing cotton acreages 40 per cent. Alabama producers will receive over 1 million dollars for the 1,347,967 acres which will be removed from cotton this year.

The nine Production Credit Associations formed in Alabama are located at Auburn, Ozark, Talladega, Huntsville, Russellville, Tuscaloosa, Demopolis, Bay Minnette, and Montgomery. Farmers desiring loans for agricultural production through this agency should apply to their county agents.

GROVER A. BICE

Republican Candidate for

Clerk of the Circuit Court

Chilton County

Thorsby, Alabama, Feb. 24, 1934.

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

When I announced as a candidate for Circuit Clerk of Chilton County, I stated that I would make a public statement later, hence this statement.

I believe that every home should have a good road to or past it, Rural Free Delivery Service to or by your door and a school bus to or by your door.

I am a strong believer in old age pensions. Do we honor our aged parents when we have a system which, when they get old and helpless, no means to care for themselves, that sends them to a poor house to spend their remaining days just waiting to pass from this world? My belief is that we can and should have a better system. Therefore, I believe in old age pensions instead of poor house systems.

What inducement have we under our present system of taxation to own our homes. I believe we should at least have $1,000.00 exemption on homesteads.

I am a strong believer in widow and orphan pension. Mother or father, whichever the case might be, would you be willing for your little ones to be carried away from your home, separated possibly for the rest of their days in this world. "Do unto others as you would like to be done by." Therefore, I believe in a widow and orphan pension. This system would permit the mothers and children to stay at home together.

While postmaster at Thorsby, I worked for changes and extensions in Rural Free Delivery Service which is now giving service to their door more than 50 families who were going one-fourth to one mile after their mail. I tried at all times to give service. I am now willing for the patrons (voters) of Thorsby Post office to pass on my services as a public official.

A public office is a public trust. If you place this public trust in me by nominating and electing me, I shall endeavor at all times to further your confidence by giving service the voters have a right to expect.

If I should fail to see you personally I will appreciate you giving me due consideration when you go to the polls to cast your ballot on May 1st.

Yours very truly,

GROVER A. BICE.

ALABAMA HAS MORE MULES, MILCH COWS AND HEIFERS

Alabama had more mules, milk cows and heifer calves, but less horses, hogs and sheep on January 1 this year than they did one year ago, according to a livestock report by F. W. Gist, state and federal statistician.

The total value of all livestock on Alabama farms the first of this year was $48,050,000 compared with $37,745,000 the first of 1933.

Mr. Gist found 53,000 horses, 325,000 mules, 901,000 head of cattle, 430,000 milk cows, 47,000 sheep, 948,000 hogs, 101,000 milk heifers and 134,000 heifer calves on Alabama farms the first of this year.

SEED LOAN BILL BECOMES LAW

President Roosevelt has signed the $40,000,000 seed loan bill making a maximum of $250 available to farmers who do not have security for obtaining loans elsewhere. County Agents will be furnished detailed information within the next few days.

BRIEF RURAL FACTS

Lespedeza as a hay and legume crop has six distinct advantages. It is a splendid soil-builder, makes excellent hay, is easy to grow, does not require inoculation, is good for pastures, and farmers may produce their home-supply of seed. Auburn agronomists recommend the common varieties, Tennessee 76, and Kobe for Alabama soils.

Many farmers will make larger plantings of kudzu this year, says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist at Auburn. Kudzu, he says, furnishes excellent temporary grazing and is fine as a soil builder, being useful in stopping erosion and in utilizing wast land.

Mr. F. M. Durbin, wife and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Best and daughter visited Selma on Saturday of last week.

FOREST FIRE REPORT

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 27. — Alabama citizens numbering 30,819 turned out to fight forest fires without pay from the state or federal government during the calendar year of 1933 according to compilations just completed by the state commission of forestry. Fire holds about the same rank among the enemies of timber production that the boll weevil maintains in cotton growing. The official compilations, based upon intensive observations and research over the entire state, show that eight per cent of the 22,500,000 acres of forest land in Alabama burned over during the year. While considerable damage occurred during the spring months, by far the greater portion was incurred during the summer and late fall, when dryness prevailed throughout most of the state.

Forest fire conditions are regarded as a fair index of the interest taken in the profitable management of the woodlands by their owners. Prior to the establishment of a joint state and federal agency to stimulate, coordinate and supplement the efforts of the landowners in the proper management of their woodland holdings, from thirty to forty per cent of the entire forest area of the state burned each year. With the widespread interest that developed in forestry after state and federal action was taken, this proportion was reduced to an average of but five and one-quarter per cent for the four year period ending in 1929, but became somewhat greater, about seven and three-quarters per cent, for the years 1930, 1931, 1932 and 1933 when the economic depression resulted in reduced funds and lessened the extent of the work that could be done.

During the past year the proportion burned on the 9,809,170 acres of net forest land comprised within the organized district amounted to approximately five and eight-tenths per cent. However, on the 12,690,830 acres included in the unorganized territory in which the commission of forestry, for financial reasons, is not able to maintain agents, the percentage burned over was approximately nine and seven-tenths per cent, and would have been a very great deal higher had not the C.C.C. camps located in the various sections of the state rendered prompt and whole-hearted assistance in the suppression of fires in the camp areas.

The total number of fires occurring was 13,343. Of these lightning caused 17 fires, railroads 943, lumbering operations 252, brush burning and land clearing 2,898, camp fires 1,066, smokers 2,694, incendiaries 3,232, and miscellaenous causes were responsible for 2,241.

Miscellaneous Shower Given for Bride of Recent Date

On Friday afternoon, February 9, 1934, Misses Lucille Callaway and Murrell Deloach gave a miscellaneous shower, honoring Mrs. L. A. Callaway, formerly Miss Myradine Martin, at the home of Mrs. W. A. Callaway. The room was nicely arranged for this occasion and the color scheme was beautifully carried out in yellow and green.

Miss Lucille Callaway was very lovely in a gown of Nassau blue flat crepe, as she received the guests at the door and presided over the bride's book. The bride looked very charming in a gown of royal blue flat crepe with accessories to match.

Cake, hot chocolate and mints were enjoyed throughout the afternoon. Those enjoying this affair were: Mrs. Janie E. Moore, Mrs. Ophelia Taylor, Mrs. R. J. Eiland, Mrs. J. R. Taylor, Mrs. Walker Allen, Mrs. A. L. Taylor, Mrs. Henry Thornton, Mrs. L. C. Vance, Miss Inez Vance, Mrs. J. B. Yount, Mrs. J. B. Rockett, Mrs. Lillian Allen, Mrs. W. T. Wise, Mrs. John Griffin, Miss Anna Miner, Mrs. H. N. Smith, Mrs. P. S. Miner, Mrs. M. A. Pinson, Miss Anna Gardner and the hostesses, Misses Lucille Callaway and Murrell Deloach, Mrs. W. A. Callaway and the bride Mrs. L. A. Callaway.

BANKHEAD TELLS COTTON PLAN

Washington, Feb. 27. — The Bankhead cotton bill, in addition to administrative provisions, includes the following: Nine million bales of cotton are exempt from the tax of this crop year. If average production for a previous period is adopted as the basis for this year's allotments, 5 per cent of the amount of each county's allotment is to be added, to be used in making additional allotments to small cotton farmers and/or of new lands brought into cotton production.

Each state and county is given an allotment on the basis of the preceding five years' experience. Two plans for making farm allotments are authorized:

1. A percentage of the farm's average annual production for a fair representative period.

2. Ascertain what each farm would have produced during a fair representative period if all the cultivated land had been planted to cotton, and then reducing each farm the same percentage.

Provisions Outlined

The secretary is also authorized to adopt any other plan that he deems fair and just, and that will apply to all alike on the basis or classification adopted.

After this year the plan is to be put into effect only when the secretary of agriculture finds that there should be a limitation of the number of bales to be put in the market and that a majority of those having the right to cultivate a farm favor putting the plan into effect. The president must also approve it before the balеage control plan can be put into effect for any subsequent year.

Certificates of exemption will be issued to cover all allotments. A tax of 75 per cent of the average price for spot cotton at the 10 leading spot markets, to be ascertained and declared by the Secretary of Agriculture from time to time, must be paid on all excess cotton before it can be sold.

The certifictes of exemption for each bale must be delivered to the ginner. A metallic tag is then attached to the bale and shows that no tax is due on that bale.

A farmer who has produced more than his allotment can have the excess ginned by filing an affidavit that he will not sell the cotton until the tax is paid. Adequate provisions are made to prevent the transportation of cotton on which the tax has not been paid.

Transfer is Provided

Allotment certificates may be transferred. Where a certificate is not used during the crop year for which it is issued, by reason of a short crop, the certificates may be used during the succeeding year in addition to the allotment for that year.

I have frequently asserted that I am particularly anxious to see that no injustice is done to the small and the average cotton producer and those who have heretofore voluntarily reduced cotton production to help avoid over-production.

It has been asserted by supporters of the bill throughout the hearings before the senate and house committees that if a crop of 12,000,000 to 13,000,000,000 bales is produced this year that the price will probably not exceed eight cents, and that with a 9,000,000 bale crop the price will probably be 14 or 15 cents.

IN MEMORY OF GRANDFATHER

On last Tuesday evening, February 13, about six o'clock, the death angel visited our home and carried away the spirit of our husband and father and grandfather, Mr. John S. Dennis. He was 78 years of age. He was sick only nine days with pneumonia. He bore his suffering with patience. To know grandfather was to love him. He met everybody with a smile. He was kind to everybody.

Grandfather joined the missionary Baptist church early in life, where he remained a faithful member until death. He loved the church. He always went to church. He leaves a vacant place that never can be filled. We miss him, oh, how we miss him. It breaks our hearts to give him up, but our loss is heaven's gain. The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. Blessed be the name of the Lord. Grandfather is gone but not forgotten. His work on earth is done. He is only sleeping in the arms of Jesus.

All was done for him that loving hands could do, but the Lord said come home. Grandfather was so good and kind to his family. He was always ready to lend a helping hand at any time. While he was sick he said he wanted to go home and he asked us to meet him over yonder and we can live a life to meet him over yonder. It leaves us with a sad and aching heart. He had lots of friends and they were so kind to us.

Grandfather leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Mrs. Mary Ann Dennis; three children, Mrs. W. M. Heath, Mrs. Henry Mims and Mr. Sherman Dennis; thirteen grand children and three great grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. J. W. Heflin and Mrs. Susie Dennis.

Grandfather was laid to rest in Cane Creek cemetery Wednesday afternoon. The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. S. Cox and A. L. Foshee and F. A. Ellison. We wish to thank each and everyone that lent a helping hand. May the Lord bless each and everyone, is our prayer.—Written by two who loved him.—Mrs. Mary Ann Dennis and Miss Sallie Bell Dennis.

V. F. W. GAINS ONE POINT IN PROGRAM

Commanders of all Posts of Veterans of Foreign Wars, received advice Sunday from national headquarters of the V. F. W., that one objective of the organization's program has been accomplished, namely, reinstatement on the rolls of the Veterans Administration, of the names of veterans who had been dropped on presumptive claims; the presumptive cases disallowed to be returned to the rolls pending decision on appeal.

Thirty thousand veterans, it is said will benefit by this action. This relief came, it was announced, through the efforts of the Veterans Council, which consists of the V. F. W., Disabled American Veterans, Spanish-American War Veterans, and the G. A. R., organization.

FRIENDSHIP NEWS

Regular preaching service was held here Saturday night, the pastor, Rev. Wm. E. Robinson, occupying the pulpit.

Sunday morning, following Sunday school, Rev. Henry Rogers of Montgomery had charge of the regular service. There was no service Sunday night on account of the inclement weather.

The B. Y. P. U. at Friendship brought back the attendance banner from Pleasant Grove Sunday afternoon.

There were three additions to the church at these services.

All singers are urged to remember that our singing class meets for practice every Thursday night, and that they are invited.

SINGING AT JACKSON CHAPEL

There will be a singing here Sunday, March 4th, at 2 p.m., if the weather will permit. Everybody is invited to come and bring your books.

EXPRESSION OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks toward Mr. Luther E. Little, the County Superintendent of Education, and others who worked faithfully for the extension of our school term. The kind deed can never be forgotten. We shall do our best in helping develop the lives of our boys and girls so that they will be of service to humanity. — A. A. Atchison. (colored).

APPLICATION FOR PAROLE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Tom Lucas, who was convicted in the Circuit Court of Chilton County on February 23, 1933, charged with violating the prohibition law, and fined $75 and cost, and sentenced to three months additional punishment, will make application for parole.—Tom Lucas. 3-1-2tpd.

WALDROP GETS WATER

Editor Union-Banner:

With your permission, I will write a few words about locating water. Underground streams that cannot be seen by the natural eye may be located by close examination. There is an electric eye in man's body that enables him to locate water veins and show the natural eye where the vein is.

It looks reasonable that if nature provides water, it would provide a way to find the water. Guess work is good when it hits right, but no good if it misses.

So, if you have been unable to get a well that will furnish plenty of water, let me locate a vein near you. I guarantee my work.—S. N. Waldrop, Jemison, Ala. (Adv.)

Endorses Grover A. Bice For Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in your paper to say a few words in regard to Mr. Grover Bice, who has announced for Circuit Clerk of Chilton County. It is with pleasure that I can say I have known him for several years. I think I can say that his honesty and integrity is above reproach, and that he is fully qualified to fill the place he is asking for.

I think that his past record as a Christian citizen and ex-service man deserves close consideration, and I think it behooves us all who love advancement and upbuilding of our county to support such a promising man and servant as his past record gives all who know Mr. Grover Bice to be.—Rev. She—Would you mind writing that down? You see, he's my husband and I would like to use it on him some time.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

The grim visage of war looms again in Middle Europe, and so serious has the situation become, as this is being written, that such national matters as the cancellation of air mail contracts and investigations in the War Department have been crowded out with the big headlines. A few weeks ago the principal war scare was in the Orient. Now the spotlight has turned to Austria. One move is following another so rapidly in that unhappy little country that it is not safe to predict more than one day in advance, what is apt to transpire. In fact almost anything could happen. Little Austria, a fragment left from the dismemberment of the Austrian Empire at Versailles, has been the catspaw of European politics ever since, and things have gone from bad to worse. Before the World War, Austria, though made up of many races, was an economic unit, well balanced in agriculture, manufacturing and finance. But the cutting up of the empire changed all this, and now Austria seems to be slowly dying, politically and economically. Only stern measures can save her, and things are so muddled in the world now that the right sort of measures are difficult to apply.

Three European powers, Germany, Italy and France, have a political interest in little Austria, much to the detriment of the unfortunate nation. Before the war the Austrian Empire was an ally of the German Empire. When the Central Powers were defeated and the Austrian Empire dismembered, only that part of the former empire which was preponderately German in race and language retained the name of Austria. Since that it has been the desire of each German government to annex Austria to the Reich. Since Italy and France both fear that this would make the new Germany too powerful, they bitterly oppose such a step. Since the war, France has been able to control Europe through a system of alliances with the little new nations which arose through the Versailles treaty. Among these nations is Czechoslovakia, which was formerly the Bohemian part of the Austrian Empire, and which contains a big minority of Germans. Now, if Austria, as at present constituted, is attached to Germany, the Bohemians will be almost surrounded by potential enemies. Germany will have a pair of geographical pincers almost around her, and on the other side will be Hungary, who is none too friendly and is still brooding over the territory she lost through the treaty of Versailles. France, therefore, has a double interest in keeping Austria out of the German Reich, first on her own account and secondly on the account of her Czech ally. Mussolini, too, does not look on the merging of Austria into Germany with any great pleasure. It would bring the new Germany down almost to the Italian border, which might mean danger some time in the future. It is not always easy for Italy and France to work together, however, for various reasons. They are rivals in the Mediterranean, and Italy is a potential enemy of Jugo-Slavia, who is another of France's little allies.

The complications have been so great that up to this time Austria has been able to maintain her independence. But the Hitler party seemed to be steadily growing stronger in Austria. Chancellor Dolfus was about to fall. He made a political alliance with the Italian Fascist group in Austria but was only able to do this by promising to put the Socialists out of business. This he is now trying to do. People are beginning to wonder if the Fascist party will not finally dispose of Dolfus and perhaps make a deal with the Nazis in Austria. If this come about there is no telling what will happen. Perhaps France and Italy will then intervene in Austria and a general war will follow. Hitler seems to be keeping out of the Austrian mess at present, and biding his time. England though committed to an independent Austria, hesitates to get mixed up in the mess and is seeking a compromise. How fortunate it is that Uncle Sam is handicapped by no political commitments in Europe! Now would certainly be a poor time for him to enter any League of Nations or League Court. The arguments of the so called isolationists made ten years ago have been validated by subsequent events.

Too Much Government

Thomas Jefferson predicted that should the people of the United States become indifferent to the welfare of their government, as a result of being too absorbed in mere money-making, government would become increasingly corrupt.

But Jefferson also said another thing which applies to present day conditions and is as much an explanation of the corruption in government as the indifference of the people. The republic in Jefferson's time was not doing local police duty, nor was it engaged in vast business enterprises. It was not exercising a general guardianship over the individual throughout the length and breadth of a continental domain. It was spending only a few millions of dollars a year. It was employing an insignificant number of public servants as compared to the present. Therefore, the opportunities for corruption in government were less in his day; the strain on human nature was not nearly so great.

Jefferson said, in effect, that the government which governs least, governs best. It is this statement that explains what is called the growing corruption of governments. We have so much more government and the government has its hand into so many more things where favors or privileges may be, by administrative officials, be conferred or withheld. The wonder is not that there is so much, but that there is so little corruption in comparison.

The government is "biting off more than it can chew." Notoriously no job can be so well done by an authority far removed as by one near at hand. We have surrendered too many of the legitimate functions of local and state governments to the nation. Uncle Sam is trying to cover too much territory. And yet there is a great and growing demand for the further extension of this federal control, ownership and interference by paternalists, socialists, communists and plain demagogues.

It is perhaps a result of public indifference to public responsibility that has led to this surrender of local to national authority. In that sense we get back to Jefferson's prediction that public indifference would result in public corruption. When people become too lazy to keep their own doorsteps clean, the community must do it in self protection.

It is much easier to centralize than to decentralize. We fought a great war in the sixties to overthrow one extreme conception of states' rights. We may have to fight another, though bloodless war, to get the pendulum back to the middle point, since it has now swung to the other extreme.

What Are "Greenbacks?"

In these days when there is talk of inflation, deflation and stabilization, the term "greenback" is one which is frequently used in financial conversation. Just what are the "greenbacks" anyhow? Robert L. Archer answers this question and gives a great deal of interesting history concerning this paper money in an article in the current issue of the National Republic. In part, Mr. Archer says:

"Probably every man and woman, and even every child of more than grade school age, has heard of the 'greenbacks;' and most people have a hazy idea that they are in some way connected with the money in circulation. But knowledge as to when and why they were issued; what has become of them; why they are called 'greenbacks;' their present place in our financial system, and what the so-called Greenback Party stood for, is confined to a comparative few.

"Briefly the 'greenbacks' are demand notes of the United States Treasury Department, a non-interest bearing debt, issued in denominations as low as one dollar and to the extent now authorized form a part of our circulating medium.

"If you have money in your pocket it is entirely possible that one of the bills is one of these demand notes of the United States Treasury Department. In any event it may be interesting and instructive to examine your bills and see just how many different kinds of money you are carrying around. The name came from the color of ink used in imprinting the back or reverse side of the bills. The name is now somewhat of a misnomer, as all of our currency is imprinted with green ink on the reverse side.

"The 'greenbacks' came into existence during the trying times of the Civil War. Treasury Notes for use as currency had not therefore been issued since Revolutional days, and the memory of that disastrous experience had lingered through many generations. However, desperate situations require desperate remedies, and the task of supplying the government's financial needs in carrying on the war led Secretary of the Treasury Salmon P. Chase to recommend, and Congress in July, 1861, to outhorize the issue of sixty million dollars in demand notes without interest in denominations as low as five dollars. The first issue of demand notes was not by law made a legal tender for public and private debts.

"In 1862, still further harrassed by the difficulty of meeting the financial demands of the government, Secretary Chase recommended a further issue of demand Treasury notes. As the previous issue was not a legal tender and was not being paid in coin on demand, the government found difficulty in forcing them into circulation. The Secretary therefore, under the plea of necessity, reluctantly urged Congress to make the new issue a legal tender for the payment of all debts, public and private, except customs duties and interest on the public debt. Congress, therefore, in February, 1862, passed the Legal Tender Act providing for the issuance of $150,000,000 of United States Notes, out of which it was provided that the sixty millions issued under the Act of 1861 should be redeemed. This act further provided that when the Legal Tenders were received by the Treasury Department they might be re-issued.

"By later acts the whole amount of Legal Tender Notes authorized was increased to $450,000,000. At that time the proposition was regarded as a temporary expedient of doubtful constitutionality, and no one expected the Legal Tenders, or 'greenbacks 'as they began to be called, would become a permanent part of our circulating medium. The legislation was the subject of spirited debate in Congress."

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

Let's Name The Airport

Some of these days, in the not too distant future, Clanton is to have an airport, a real full-fledged flying field. And if all hopes are fulfilled for it, this field will be one of the nicest in the state, with athletic fields, tennis courts, swimming pools, etc., all over the place. In short, it will be a real community center, where any and all may go for an outing. And when this field is finished, then will come the business of picking a name for it. Now, in picking this name, I believe the sponsors of the project — those who have worked so tirelessly to make the field possible—should come in for some consideration. Too, in the first place, it should be remembered that, above all, the field is first and foremost a flying field. Strange to say, aviation has not taken as well with Clanton and Chilton County people as it has with people in other sections of the state. In fact, I can think of but one man around Clanton who has taken a real interest in aviation. That man is Dr. V. J. Gragg. He looks into the future and sees aviation as the leading mode of travel in years to come. He has become interested in the subject in an active way, too—he is learning to fly. And all the time he has been studying flying and learning to fly, he has been putting forth every effort to get a flying field for Clanton. And now, in view of Dr. Gragg's untiring efforts in getting a field for Clanton, and recognizing the fact that he is Clanton's pioneer flyer, why not name Clanton's new airport for him? Why not name it Gragg Field?

This Curious World

This is a curious world, and it takes curious people to make it up. When Hoover was president, some of his strongest critics were Republicans, the very people who had helped put him in. And, after Roosevelt was elected, some of the very first to criticize him and his methods were Democrats—big ones, too. In fact, about all the criticism that has appeared has been from Democrats—senators and big fellows like that. Of course you haven't been able to see much of it in the daily papers that we get around here. The Birmingham News and Age-Herald, and the Montgomery Advertiser wouldn't let such news as that out, if they could help it, and if they EVER DID publish a line or two about such, it would be stuck back about the ninth page under a grocery advertisement or something of the kind. But just let a Republican voice some little objection, and these papers will have it on the front page in type so big it'll look like war has been declared, or something. They're like that, and can't help it. But, getting back to the subject, right now down at Montgomery, the big shots are grumbling and growling. Mayor Gunter, of Montgomery, has sent President Roosevelt a message, stating that "Montgomery and Alabama would have been better off if they had never heard of the CWA." How does that sound, coming, as it does, from the Mayor of the capital city of dear old rock-ribbed Democratic Alabama? I have heard, too, that letters have been written to the President, himself, asking that he see if he couldn't get somebody a job, or look into party favoritism, or something of the kind. Maybe those people didn't know that their letters never got any further than the President's end-of-the-line secretary, but that is about what happened. Yes, sir, it's funny. Good old loyal Alabama; and yet she is turning out a bumper crop of kickers. After all, though, I reckon Alabama has sent about as many hot-air artists to Washington as the next state, unless it be Louisiana, when it sent Huey Long, who has been tagged: "Bull, beef and britches."

Pardon Me—My Error

Last week, in my article about the American Legion and the "Hoodlum Club" I made an error, and I'm always glad to apologize for my errors when they are brought to my attention. I stated that "the American Legion is behind Graves, almost to a man." The way this should have read was: "The men of the Legion believe in Graves, almost to a man." That was the way I intended for it to appear. This, in view of the fact that Graves is an ex-service man, I believe, is a fact. I knew that the Legion, as a body, is a non-political organization, and it was not my desire to infer that it was violating its governing rules and regulations. I had not noticed just how the article read, until my attention was called to it by a Legionnaire, and I am glad to make the correction, and sincerely hope that the matter has caused no misunderstanding nor undue criticism of the Legion nor its members.

Luther Palmer Bean

Luther Palmer Bean, first assistant to the postmaster at Clanton, was born near Mineral Springs, in Chilton County, on December 24, 1904, the son of John P. Bean. His early school days were spent at Mineral Springs, under W. M. Bean, the present postmaster, who was then a teacher, J. L. Wilson and Orville M. Martin. Later he attended school at Verbena, again under W. M. Bean. On January 31, 1926, he was married to Miss Lucille Glasscock, of Jemison. He worked on his father's farm until September 15, 1922, when he was appointed postoffice clerk at the Clanton postoffice, which position he still holds. Luther Bean, or "Jack," as he is known by some, and "Luke," by others, has had much to do with keeping the local postoffice service and accommodation up to the high standard that it has attained and held. The soul of prompt service and courtesy, he meets all patrons of the office with a pleasant word, that makes for pleasant relations with the public. He realizes that he is a public servant, and goes about his work in a manner that makes everyone his friend, and he is regarded by all as a competent and capable man for the position he holds. And though you may think you know "Jack" pretty well, here's one thing most people don't know about him—he is a "fiddlist" second to none. Not a violinist—just a plain, old fashioned "fiddlist." And his knowledge of fiddles doesn't stop with just knowing how to play one. He actually makes the things, from the "curly maple," all the way to "puttin' on the bridge," if you know what that means—I don't—but if you know anything about fiddles you may know how good he is with them. When he makes a new fiddle for himself, if it doesn't sound to suit him, he just takes it apart and makes it over to suit himself better. And that's Luther Bean—a few things about him. A jolly, likeable chap—that's him all over. And any day in the year you see him, he's just hte same old corn-fed boy, raised in the hills like the most of us, and yet honest enough to admit it and feel proud of it.—Man in the Moon.

We Are Off

We're off the constitution; dictatorship is here.
We're off from prohibition swimming 'round in beer.
We're off the gold standard and money will be cheap.
Prices will skyrocket and working folks will weep.
We're off from honest business; robbed by money sharks.
Gouged by thieving profiteers who call us easy marks.
We're off from truth and justice; lied to day and night;
No one seems to comprehend darkness from the light.
We're off from sex morality; marriage is a joke.
Off from work, off from pay; millions now are broke.
We're off from God and Bible and Satan rules the land.
Hunger, crime and poverty are seen on every hand.
If we don't get back to God and work and pray and fight,
Our country will be ruined and sink in starless night.
The Bible says all nations that tread this earthly sod
Will surely land in Sheol if they fail to worship God.

Liquor Propaganda

From an address at All-Day Conference and mass meeting held at First Methodist church, Birmingham, Ala., Monday evening, February 19; delivered by Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, vice-president-at-large, and New York State President of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

As the women of the Woman's Crusade, sixty years ago pledged persistent and united effort to suppress the liquor traffic and stood ready for united effort at any removal of the traffic, so today the Christian women of this nation pledge persistent, determined, and united effort to continue the work which they began until ultimate victory is achieved.

We will not quit until the liquor traffic quits. There is no solution of the liquor traffic problems yet proposed short of national prohibition supported by an administration committed to it as a matter of principle.

Repeal has not changed the poisoning effect of the narcotic drug alcohol and the only proper attitude of government toward the traffic in beverage alcohol should be that of opposition or prohibition.

Repeal has increased intoxication. Drunkards stagger upon our streets. Arrests for intoxication are mounting to new heights. Corruption and bribery are so rampant that a New York wet congressman said he preferred prohibition to the effect so far of repeal. "More corruption during the first few months of repeal than during the fourteen years of prohibition."

Repeal was put across by only 23.7 per cent of the voters and we shall appeal to the great mass of citizens to prohibit forever the whole liquor business. The wets themselves are fearful of the return of prohibition when it will come back to stay.

We will remind the politicians that although prohibition has been repealed, the liquor issue in politics has not been repealed and cannot be until once again the traffic is outlawed, and in addition wet politicians relegated and the law honestly enforced.

If young people are to be saved from acquiring alcohol we shall have to develop in them a sales resistance against the relentless drive of the liquor power to build up its trade which was interrupted by national prohibition.

The incentive to raise revenue was the chief factor in the final drive for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. With the government thereby becoming a partner in the business, having a financial stake in its success, it becomes more difficult to counteract the false impression of respectability and harmlessness of alcohol.

With repeal of laws against advertising we face an unprecedented drive by the liquor interests to develop liquor drinkers and enhance liquor sales. Each day brings more blatant, offensive and insidious liquor advertisement through the daily press, magazines and even over the radio.

Against this sales propaganda as to the "beauty and culture" of drinking liquor the temperance forces must intensify their educational program as to the inherent nature of alcohol.

Alcohol is a dangerous, narcotic, habit-forming poison which has to be used in diluted form in order that it may be used at all. It is a brain poison dulling, numbing and putting to sleep the nervous system so that perception, response to stimuli and the higher brain faculties of self control, judgment and will are weakened.

Japan pretends to be seeking a ground for an amicable understanding with the United States in a desire to allay the provocative elements in the relations of the two nations. The United States puts as much trust as possible in these good intentions, the object sought being so desirable. It is not unlikely that if nature be allowed to take her course, if both Japan and the United States feel free to adopt such defense measures as they see fit, the tendency will be toward amicable rather than hostile arrangements. The idea that the United States seeks by diplomacy to reduce Japan to a state of insecurity is one which can prevail only to the great injury of the two nations.

If the Japanese believe that they will be forced out of a naval conference by American and British insistence upon limitations prejudicial to them, it would be better to abandon the idea of the conference.—Chicago Tribune.

and Some He Saw Not

Last call for candidates. If the bee is buzzing around your hat, you better get busy or you will have to shoo him away for another two, four or six years.

I notice four aspirants for representative. Three Republicans, Percy Pitts, Lorenzo Sanders and Chas. Cooper. One Democrat, Charley Cox. The latter announced his withdrawal from the race last week. He must have stopped for a day to spit on his hands and grab a new hold.

Charley said he got a rush order for a storm pit late Sunday evening, and couldn't fill it in the time specified. Sounds like a saw mill man or a representative in the legislature.

I got out of bed at five this morning to do a "Good Samaritan" deed for a friend in need. Nothing unusual about it, except the hour. Ordinarily I use the time from four to seven in the mornig for my very own.

The errand done, I built a roaring fire with some of your subscriptions, and sat down to write a bit for this column. Looking into the fire as the embers brightened I thought of you whose hands cut the wood and brought it to me.

When I was called about seven to come and get my coffee, I realized I had done a heap more thinking than writing. Col. Milford Howard once said we Southern Hill Billies like to set and think, mostly set. There is no better inducement for thinking than to "set" in front of a big roaring, crackling fire before day of a cold, cold morning in the dead of winter.

A Home Remedy

The trouble with this country is, economic mal-adjustment, due to enforced under-consumption. But some of the underconsumption is not enforced. It can be alleviated. There is, to a considerable extent, a simple home remedy.

Take the matter of dairy products. There is in this country a surplus of 100 million pounds of storage butter. Butter is milk, processed for the ultimate consumer. Kansas produces annually about 80 million pounds of butter, almost the surplus of the nation.

One of our troubles is that Americans do not use enough milk in its various forms—milk, whey cream, cheese and butter. It has been estimated that if each farm family would increase its use of a half pound each week the present surplus would disappear in three months, and butterfat prices would rise. A lot of farm families use oleo. If every dairy farmer could get only three families, including his own, to use an extra half glass of milk a day, the surplus would disappear in two months and a half. And the continued use of this extra half glass of milk would prevent the surplus from becoming a butter surplus.

One of the troubles of this butter business is lazy women, who won't cook. They get stuff out of cans. Home cooking, if it is good, requires the use of much milk, cream, cheese and butter. But if you buy your pies and cakes and cookies at the foundry, and pour your vegetables out of a can, and get your desserts from the store, or if women of the family are still lazier and gather father and the kids at mealtimes around the kitchen sink and open a sack of hamburgers or weiners, precious little milk do they consume. And they pay for it by lacking the vitamins which protect good health. The money lazy women give to doctors if given to the dairy farmers would make us all healthy and wealthy and wise.

Much of this under-consumption of American people is inevitable. The clogged wheels of industry have caused it. But some of it—enough of it to make it worthwhile—comes from purely domestic causes. Let us say bad home habits. For instance, women who rush home at half past five and put their hands to their brows and say, "My Lord, what am I going to have for supper?" and end it up by dropped eggs, store ginger snaps and a can of peaches.

These old slackers are the cause of some of our grief.—Emporia Gazette.

The News and Courier holds that were 500 men to come into South Carolina and in the course of ten years prove a capacity to earn $100,000 or $50,000 a year each by earning it, the result would be the improvement of the condition of the whole population by 100 per cent, but the general assembly of South Carolina is probably of contrary opinion and would by its taxing policies make South Carolina undesirable for people of uncommon talent who could make money, establish industries and give employment. The perpetuation of poverty, if not the aim, will be the end of South Carolina's taxing methods.—Charleston News and Courier.

Roll Call Is Not Yet Completed

Fine Response of the Alabama Mills Employees Is Commended

While complete reports are not yet available, it appears that the recent special Red Cross Roll Call in Chilton County will show a favorable number of memberships enlisted.

Roll Call Chairman, Rev. S. J. Ezell, states that a number of the workers have made fine reports of their efforts. He mentions in particular the results shown by Mr. Homer Roberts with the employees of Alabama Mills in Clanton. Also reports of Mrs. W. M. Wyatt and Mrs. Chas. Howard. Mrs. Wyatt secured more than fifty members in Clanton and Mrs. Howard almost that many in Thorsby.

Mrs. A. C. Wells, who was directing the Roll Call at Jemison, was delayed in carrying out her program of solicitation on account of illness. She requested an extension of time, and hopes to turn in a good list of members from Jemison this week.

Rev. Ezell made special mention of the great number of Red Cross markers in evidence at the homes of Alabama Mills emplyees in the village. This indicates, he said, that the mill employees have responded to the appeal in a very generous spirit.

Severe damage inflicted by another storm in Chilton County and other places last Sunday serves as a reminder that we should continue our support of the Red Cross. A number of appeals have been received since the storm Sunday from people who want the Red Cross to help them.

We should remember that the Red Cross stands ready to help in emergencies where distress and suffering are sufficient to demand relief measures. Only through memberships is that organziation enabled to carry on its functions. Those who can do so should join in order to help carry on the work of relief where disaster is visited upon the people.

POWER COMPANY PREFERRED STOCK DIVIDEND IS VOTED

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 23. — The Board of Directors of Alabama Power Company has declared the regular quarterly dividends on its preferred stock payable April 2, 1934, on the $7 and $6 stock to stockholders of record March 15, and payable May 1, 1934, on the $5 stock to stockholders of record April 16.

These dividends will aggregate approximately $585,000 and dividend checks will be mailed on March 31st for the $7 and $6 stock and on April 30th for the $5.

Layton—Poor Dick; he lost all his money in a wildcat mining venture.

Phoebe—Mercy! I didn't know you had to mine for wildcats.

Pedestrian — Say, you just missed me.

Motorist—Well stand still and I'll try again.

At the end of school prizes were awarded. When one of the pupils returned home his mother chanced to be entertaining some callers.

"Well, Arthur," said Mrs. Jones, "did you get a prize "

"I didn't exactly get a prize," answered Arthur, "but I got a horrible mention."

"Rastus, I see your mule has 'U.S.' branded on his hindquarters. Was he in the army?"

"No, boss, dat 'U. S.' don't stand for Uncle Sam, it means Unsafe."

Politician—The people won't elect me because of my youth.

Supporter—But you are fifty years old and your youth is spent.

Politician—That's the trouble. They found out how I spent it.

B. C. Forbes says advertising cuts the cost of doing business, and of course, it does. To sell anything, you must let the people know you have it for sale. Advertising does that.

The Lord Himself, having promised not to drown the world again, still advertises the fact with His rainbow. It is a truly big advertisement, that stretches full width across the sky, a sort of celestial "double truck," and done in colors, to attract more attention.

The old tightwad was suffering on the operator's table, both from pain and fear at the sum the doctor would extract from him. Finally he could not restrain himself any longer, and blurted out from semi-consciousness:

"Doctor, how much will this operation cost me?"

"One hundred dollars," the physician answered.

"But, doctor, I want just plain sewing, no hemstitching."

REFUGE NEWS

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. We heard two masterful sermons by our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart. We also had a goodly number at each service. We did not have service Sunday night on account of the bad weather, but if the weather permits, let's come to Sunday school next Sunday and also Sunday night to the B. Y. P. U. with well studied lessons for both services. As we have elected Bro. Durbin for our superintendent, we should cooperate with him and make this a real year's work for the Lord. We also elected two more deacons which we felt this church was in need of. The ordination sermon will probably be preached the fourth Sunday in March.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Mims and little daughter, Vera Nenn, of Sylacauga, were back here to attend the services Saturday and Sunday. We are always glad to see them. They had dinner Sunday with Rev. Durbin and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Connell and two children were visiting relatives here last week end.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Feb. 27.—"The future of the South lies in the continued development of industrial enterprises which must be interpreted with a planned regional agriculture," Prof. C. E. Cason head of the department of Journalism at the University of Alabama, said in an address at the annual dinner of the Montgomery Chamber of Commerce, Monday evening, February 19.

"Just now it is important for the South to maintain its reasonable and just wage differentials in industry. It must by some means reestablish its export trade in cotton. Undoubtedly, the development of the new commercial uses for cotton and pine trees will add to the wealth of this section," the speaker explained.

Prof. Cason declared that Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal cannot mean a social revolution in the South for the reason that the revolution has already taken place in this region. In the South, he said, there is no great class of "forgotten men" in overwhelming numbers. Here there is no definite class of capitalists against which the masses could rise in righteous indignation.

The 1934 commencement exercises will be held in Denny Stadium in May, it was announced following a meeting of the faculty committee this past week. This change was made in order that the great numbers of parents and friend attending the graduation exercises may be accommodated.

Miss Lucy Randolph Macon, Virginia, executive secretary of the Nation Consumer's League of America, spoke before an assembly of students from the school of commerce, Thursday, February 27. Miss Macon was brought to the University by Sigma Delta Phi, honorary commerce fraternity.

The girl's swimming team of the University has entered the national telegraphic meet being sponsored by the University of Illinois. All competing teams are to stage the events in their own pools. This is the first time that Alabama has competed in this meet.

Mrs. Dorothy Scott Moschette, head of the department of foods, was elected chairman of the professional education section of the Tri-States Dietetics Association, at a meeting of that body in Atlanta last week. Miss Ina Barbee, University dietician, was elected to the nominating committee. The Tri-States Dietetics Association is made up of dieticians and teachers of Home Economics in colleges and high schools throughout Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama.

A pre-convention meeting of the Alabama State Medical Society will be held at the University on April 10th. The University Medical School will be general headquarters for the convention. This meeting will precede the state convention to be held at Birmingham.

"An Introduction to English Literature," by Elizabeth Coleman and L. B. Shakleford, assistant professors of English at the University, will be off the press shortly. This book is a practical text with exercises designed to introduce its readers to matters of prosody and verse form. The book was written to fill a long felt need of students begining their study of English Literature with no high school foundation.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

I believe in old time othodoxy. I believe whatever the Bible says is so. I know it says that Jesus Christ died for my sins. I know it says that salvation is by grace through faith. I know it says that without the shedding of blood there is no remission. I know that this means that I cannot save myself, but that my hope of salvation is in Jesus Christ. I know that the Christian religion differs from all the religions of the world. The religions of the world say "do and live." The religion of the Bible says, "live and do." I know enough about human nature and about the processes of the human mind to know that the plan of salvation set forth in the Bible did not originate with men. It began in the wisdom of God. I am sure of this.

I am known as an old time orthodox preacher, but I have no patience with hair splitting orthodoxy unless that orthodoxy is fervent. I believe in orthodoxy that drives men out to "rescue the perished and care for the dying." I believe in trusting God like we couldn't do a thing and working like we had it all to do. I do not believe that men are saved by works, but I believe that saved men work. I do not like to hear people sing, "Oh, how I love Jesus," and then sit down and watch men go to hell and not try to save them. I believe that if we love God we will to the limit of our ability, backed by the grace of God, try to live the sort of life God wants us to live.

MIDWAY-MT. CREEK CLUB

The Midway-Mt. Creek club met on February 14th, at two p.m., with Mrs. Charles Cooper. Miss Ruth Pardue, our demonstration agent, gave a very interesting talk on gardening, the preparation of the land, the kind of fertilizer, selecting good seed, the dates for planting. We also discussed the planting of Irish potatoes and insect control.

Next she gave a talk on poultry, the time to cull your chickens, kinds of feeds and the kinds of baby chicks to buy.

Our next meeting will be on March 14th at the home of Mrs. Ed Jordan.—Reporter.

Jasper N. Dennis, chairman of the Chilton County Republican Executive Committee, went to Birmingham Saturday to attend the meeting of the Alabama Republican Executive Committee.

HENLEY ENDORSES REYNOLDS

Thomasville, Ala., Feb. 24, 1934.
Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a little space in your good paper. I do not wish to speak here of party or politics, nor knock any other candidate, but I want to hand some flowers to Judge Reynolds.

I am not taking any part in his campaign, or putting out propaganda in his favor, but I feel like Judge Reynolds is due a lot of credit for what he has done for Chilton County, and the people there. I say this from the depts of my heart. I think when a man does good deeds to help people they ought to appreciate it enough to give him credit for it.

Judge Reynolds has not only discharged his duty efficiently and above reproach as an official, but he has gone still further to help people and promote the best interest of the county at his own expense. I do not believe that he has done this merely to make a record for himself, but simply because he has the interest of the county and the people at heart.

If our entire government was composed of officials like Judge Reynolds I believe times would be different to what we have experienced for the past few years. I have reason to believe that, because facts and figures show that Chilton County is in the best condition in every respect that it has ever been. So, now, let's everybody give the credit and honor to whom it is largely due—Judge Reynolds. I would not dare say that there are not other men that could handle the affairs of the county as well as Judge Reynolds, but I do say there is a great risk to run in selecting the man that can and will do so.

There are at least three characteristics that go to make Judge Reynolds a great leader and official. First, he has the grit and determination to stand on his own platform and back up his own judgment. Second, what he does he does it openly. In other words, he doesn't get behind closed doors. He lets the people know what he is doing and what he intends to do before he does it. Third, he is not partial in his dealings with anyone regardless of politics or anything else. And I might add, too, that he knows a good thing when he sees it. I believe that these facts, together with the consideration of his experience, ought to be thought very carefully upon by the voters of Chilton County before casting their ballots.—Respectfully, M. C. Henley.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our most sincere appreciation to our many friends for their kindness and help in the illness of our daughter and wife and death of infant baby. Especially do we thank Dr. Marcus, his nurse and Dr. Gragg. May God bless each and everyone of you, is our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cox, Shellie Williams.

AZALEA PILGRIMAGES

The garden clubs of Talladega are sponsoring two pilgrimages, one to Mobile and New Orleans, leaving on March 22nd, and the other to Charleston and Magnolia Garden, leaving on March 30th.

Each of these pilgrimages will be three days. Some of the ladies will go in their private cars and some will go in busses. These motorcades composed of ladies from Talladega, Anniston, Gadsden, Roanoke, Sylacauga, etc., will meet in Talladega and leave for Mobile and Charleston respectively on dates shown above. Those who wish can join the motorcade at nearest point enroute.

While in Mobile they will travel the Azalea Trail and visit the famous gardens of A. P. Bush, Harry Smith and W. Bellingrath, and then see the gardens enroute to Spring Hill section. The party will travel the old Spanish Trail on the Gulf Coast via Biloxi and Pass Christian to New Orleans, the Paris of America. While in New Orleans the party will visit the parks, beautiful courts, etc., and then return via Laurel, Hattiesburg and Meredian.

The goal of our pilgrimage to Charleston will be "Magnolia Gardens" which are nearly two hundred and fifty years old, and said by world travelers to be the most beautiful gardens in existence.

These pilgrimages will be very enjoyable to the club women as well as beneficial, because each one will bring home new ideas for beautifying their home towns.

Those who wish to take either, or both, of these pilgrimages should get in touch with Mrs. L. T. Hubbard, 13 Jemison Ave., Talladega, Ala. She will be glad to give full information to anyone interested. The trips can be made at very small costs.

Lesson for March 4

JESUS' TESTIMONY CONCERNING HIMSELF

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 11:2-12:50.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.—Matt. 11:28.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Shows He Is God's Son.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Shows He Is God's Son.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Who Jesus Was.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Tells Who He Is

I. How the Kingdom Was Received (ch. 11).

In showing the attitude of the people toward the king and his kingdom four classes of hearers are described.

1. The perplexed hearers, like John the Baptist (vv. 2-11).

John believed that Jesus was the Christ (v. 2) but was somewhat perplexed as to the manner of the establishment of the kingdom. In the Old Testament predictions two lines in the Messianic prophecies are presented. The one sets him forth as the suffering one (Isa. 53); the other as the invincible conqueror (Isa. 56:3). Indeed, in Isaiah 60:1, 2 we have the two advents in one view (Luke 4:17-21). The Baptist had in his preaching mainly emphasized the prophecies which made the king to be a mighty conqueror (Matt. 3:10-12). He said the axe is laid unto the root of the tree; that the chaff was to be separated from the wheat and the chaff burned. John saw Christ as the one who would remove the sins of his people by the shedding of his blood (John 1:27), but he failed to see the interval between the time of his suffering and the time of his triumph. John's faith was not failing him, neither did he send this deputation to Jesus for the sake of his disciples. He was a true prophet and a faithful man but was perplexed.

2. The violent hearers (vv. 12-19). These were willing to receive the kingdom according to their own way but were not willing to conform to its laws. They were ready to seize it with violent hands. Christ had told them before the coming of John the Baptist, the prophets and the law were the source of ascertaining the divine will and that if they would receive John, he would be the Elijah to lead them into the kingdom age. Their ears were closed to everything but their own selfish desires. They would not repent when called upon to do so by John, nor rejoice when called upon to do so by Christ (vv. 17-19).

3. The stout-hearted unbelievers (vv. 20-24). In Chorazin, Bethsaida, and Capernaum Christ had done most of his mighty works but the people deliberately set their hearts against him and his message. It was not for lack of knowledge and opportunity that they were unsaved, but because of their purposeful rejection of Christ. Tyre and Sidon, Sodom and Gomorrha were filled with immoral profligates and idolators, but they will be more tolerably dealt with in the day of judgment than those who willfully reject Jesus Christ.

4. Hearers who are babes in spirit (vv. 25-30). There were some among the people who heard Jesus with child-like faith. Christ invites these to come to him and receive rest.

II. The Antagonism to the King and the Kingdom (ch. 12).

The immediate occasion for their wicked determination was what Christ did on the Sabbath day.

1. Jesus' relation to the Sabbath (v. 21). The hungry disciples were plucking corn on the Sabbath. With this the Pharisees found fault. To their cavils Jesus replied and showed that God's purpose in instituting the Sabbath was to serve man's highest interests.

2. The Pharisees hold a council to destroy him (v. 14).

3. Blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, the unpardonable sin (vv. 22-32). The occasion of their blasphemy was the casting out of the demon. The effect of this work was twofold.

a. Upon the multitude (vv. 22, 23). They were amazed and cried out: "Is not this the son of David?" implying that his mighty works indicated him to be the Messiah.

b. Upon the Pharisees (vv. 24-32). When they heard what the people were saying their anger and satanic malice were aroused. They did not deny the miracle but sought to account for it without acknowledging him as the Messiah. Therefore they affirmed that he was in league with the devil. Christ exposes their folly and charges them with awful guilt. They attributed the work of the Holy Spirit to the devil. This Christ calls blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, for which there is no pardon.

The Highest Power

Everyone likes to be powerful. Religion wields the greatest power in the universe, the power of God. We are not praying at all unless we expect things to happen because of our prayers that would not happen otherwise.

Do Your Part

You deceive none but yourself if you think to shirk the part assigned to you in the business of the universe. You can not be what you are not. Therefore, know your limitations.

Dr. T. J. Marcus and Marvin W. Marcus were visitors in Montgomery Monday.

JACKSON REPLIES TO MOON MAN

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please permit me to have a friendly chat through your valuable paper with the Man in the Moon, as he has misinterpreted my letter which appeared in the Chilton County News of last week's issue, although he did well for an eclipse to be on.

Now, Mr. Moon, you spoke as I was doing some sly advertising. Now I want you and others to know that I have no selfish purpose to accomplish through the repeal of the prohibition law. Neither am I trying to do any sly advertising. That is not my way of doing things. I said nothing of David hearing God's command to drink wine. David said this: "I delight in the law of the Lord." And again he says, "He is my salvation and Him only will I trust." In that sense I am like David, and I'm proud of it, and I'm not ashamed of it either. And again I'm like Paul; if I know anything in a spiritual sense, I did not learn it of man, neither was I taught it by man, but by the revelation of Jesus Christ.

I also said I use the word of God for my battle axe. Now, you know in the days of old that wine was their main intoxicant beverage, and the scripture that I referred to was the 35th chapter of Jeremiah, where God, through the prophet Jeremiah, required the Rechabites to drink wine as a drink offering, but they refused, saying, "We will drink no wine for Jonadab has charged us to drink no wine all our days—we, our wives, our sons nor our daughters." So these Rechabites preferred to obey Jonadab in preference to God. So you see that Jonadab was the first prohibition man. But I don't see where Jonadab put a penalty on them if they took a little nip.

Now, Mr. Moon, what does your prohibition law do for those if they catch them with a little nip? Fine them and take the last dollar they have and all they can borrow, and sometimes penitentiary them with their little homes broken up and their wife and children left on the mercy of their neighbors and Red Cross. That is the penalty for violating this unjust law. That is, as you say, why I stand out like a sore thumb to itself.

Excuse me for being like soloman. He says, "Surely oppression makes a wise man mad." And I take this prohibition law to be the spirit of oppression, and you know that the spirit of oppression is the spirit of satan.

Now, you spoke of coming to me for grapes to make you a little nip. Did you know that if you did you would be a criminal according to your prohibition law? Why not repeal the infernal thing so you can do it legal?

Now, big boy, you should know symbolically speaking in prophecy, that the earth represents the political or law face of the picture, and heaven represents the religious face of the picture and the moon represents the light of the law or political face of the picture. It governs the people of the night, and the sun is the light of the church and represents the people of the day, and the stars are the angels of the church. That is why Isaiah says, "Then the moon shall be confounded and the sun ashamed." That will be the case when you prohibition fellows see what you have brought about by these oppressive laws.

Well, perhaps this is the unknown tongue to you. So, come along, son, let's go jollying along down the road. We will find the end some day. Hoping you a long life and that you may live a thousand years, and that I may conduct your funeral service.—J. H. Jackson.

PATES CHAPEL

We want to thank Rev. Maurice Hodgens for his wonderful sermon that he rendered at our church Sunday morning. We need not say that we all enjoyed it for he knows we did. His text was taken from St. John 14-18 chapters and the 21st chapter of numbers. We want to say that we much enjoyed it and beg him to come again, and may God bless and guide him as on he goes.

We did not have B. Y. P. U. Sunday night on account of unsettled weather, but everyone come back if the weather is suitable next Sunday night, March 4th. That is our regular preaching day, and our pastor will stay with us for B. Y. P. U., if everything goes along smooth, and God is willing. You should know our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart, from Refuge community, five miles from Clanton.

Rev. Maurice Hodgens had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hayes Sunday.

Mr. Alex Maddox had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rainwater Sunday.

Mr. Mose L. Maddox, of Tallassee, and children, Hazel, Doris, Virginia and Warne, and Mrs. Maggie Maddox and daughter were visitors in this community Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rainwater and son, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion and children from Cedar Grove and Mrs. Nora Cook and son, Clifford, and Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hayes were Sunday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes and family.

Miss Zemma Hayes spent Sunday in Birmingham with Miss Jewel Wilson, and reported seeing houses that were blown down on her way back.

Mr. Jenkins of Birmingham spent the week end with Mr. A. S. Pitchford.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Sewell of Birmingham spent the week end in this community with relatives and friends.

D. S. Robinson of Cooper was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

MOVING

We take pleasure in announcing to our friends and customers that we are moving our store into the Popwell Building, two doors east of our present location, where we will be ready to serve you by Saturday of this week.

In our new location we will have a much nicer place, better arranged and better equipped in every way. We will have plenty of room to load trucks and wagons for our farmer friends.

We invite you to see us for prices on all staple and fancy groceries, all kinds of horse and mule feed, dairy feed, cottonseed meal and hulls, chicken feeds and mash. Any quantity You want. Wholesale and retail prices.

We appreciate the large volume of business you have given us in the past. This is a home-owned business, operated by home folks entirely. In the future as in the past we stand ready to help our home county, our churches, our schools and every worthy civic cause.

Remember, we are one of you. We live with you and work for you, the home folks of Chilton County. We shall continue to serve you with the very best possible prices on standard merchandise of high quality.

Just a word about the SERVICE at the MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

Bronchial Irritations Need Creosote

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.

Creomulsion with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creomulsion is powerful in the treatment of colds and coughs, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.

Your own druggist guarantees Creomulsion by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creomulsion as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creomulsion on hand for instant use. (adv.)

Football Player — I had, but the coach won't renew my contract.

SOME OF THE PLANKS OF THE SANDERS PLATFORM

Education is the foundation upon which our American civilization has been built. The breakdown of an adequate school system will mean an injustice to the child and retard the progress of civilization.

If elected to the legislature I shall advocate and support all laws and parts of laws and appropriations that will guarantee a minimum term of seven months free school.

I believe the scope of vocational education should be widened in order to prepare our boys and girls for their life work.

Another phase of education greatly neglected in our school system is that of character education, such as truthfulness, honesty and moral conduct. These fundamentals should be emphasized in our textbooks.

The price of textbooks is too high and for this reason many children are unable to secure sufficient books to enable them to do efficient work.

The State of Alabama should provide free textbooks for its children, especially for the elementary grades.

This can be done at a great saving to the taxpayers of the state by using convict labor to manufacture the books under the direction and supervision of the state department of education.

In order to secure the best cooperation and clear up one of the sorest spots in our educational system, the incidental fee should be eliminated and other monies appropriated to take its place.

I believe the state should support a sufficient number of the institutions of higher learning to take care of the state's needs, but, the appropriations to these institutions on a per capita basis are too high compared with that of elementary and secondary education.

The state of Alabama should encourage and support adult schools throughout the state in order to help those wishing to continue their education.

For the advancement of civilization, education should ever be encouraged, and if elected to the legislature, my influence and support shall be to maintain an economical and adequate school system.

There are other questions I shall discuss later. Your consideration will be greatly apprepciated.—W. L. Sanders.

"You can't get something for nothing."

"I don't know about that."

"Heh?"

"There's a lot of stuff in my garden that I didn't plant."

Gitchell—What are you doing?

Tutweiler—Sharpening a pencil.

Gitchell—Don't let anyobdy see you. You ought to know that that's a carpenter's job under the NRA and you can be punished severely.

She (as they motored to the big city church): "Aren't these chimes melodiously beautiful? Such harmony! So inspiring? They thrill me."

He—You'll have to speak louder. Those confounded bells are making such a racket I can't hear a word you say.

Professor—How would you define ignorance?

Student—Ignorance is when you do not know something and someone finds it out.

History lecturer—Can any of you tell me what makes the Tower of Pisa lean?

Corpulent Lady—I don't know, or I would take some myself.

Why the Sudden Change to Liquid Laxatives?

Doctors have always recognized the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be thus regulated to suit individual need.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is at all druggists. Member N. R. A.

W. T. BEAN IS QUALIFIED FOR SCHOOL SUPT.

Statement Explaining Rumor Circulated During the Past Week

To the Voters of Chilton County:

Since there is a rumor throughout the county that there is none of the candidates for the office of Superintendent of Education qualified under the law to hold this office, I wish to say as to myself, I am positive and have been all the while that I meet every legal requirement to hold this office.

There is a section of law that says that for anyone to qualify to hold this office he must furnish proof of having had three years' teaching experience next preceding his nomination or election. This section would bar me from being eligible, since I have not taught during the present term. But this law was repealed by the same session of the legislature that passed it, and the qualifications as to the length of time that one must have taught prior to his election now reads as follows:

Before anyone can qualify for party nomination or election or appointment to this office he must furnish proof of three years' successful teaching experience out of the five years next preceding his nomination or election. The law is plain on this. Any one interested in this matter can find the law governing it on page 332 of the Alabama School Code of 1927.

I shall write another article to the voters within the next few days relative to my policies of conducting the school affairs of the county.—Very sincerely, W. T. Bean.

S.S.S. GOOD ADVERTISERS

One of the oldest users of newspaper advertising, S.S.S. Tonic, continued to advertise in newspapers throughout the recent depression, and their advertising manager reports that their faith was fully justified, in that with the turn in conditions their 1934 sales to date show an immediate jump of 34 per cent and are still climbing. Consequently, the company has increased its 1934 newspaper appropriation by 100 per cent.

The S.S.S. formula has been in use for more than 100 years, and has been nationally advertised almost exclusively in newspapers for the past 68 years. This is an outstanding tribute to the value of continuous newspaper advertising.

Uncle Billy Mullins continues seriously sick at his home in Clanton. He has not been out in several months.

Mr. and Mrs. George Trotter of Martin Dam were visitors in Clanton last Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. Sam Johnson of Pensacola spent Sunday here with relatives.

SURVEY OF STORM AREA IS BEING MADE HERE

A survey is being made of the damage done by the storm in the area south of Clanton last Sunday, in order that concise report of the needs of the people may be submitted to the Red Cross.

Various appeals have been made to local relief and Red Cross officials for help by people who sustained losses in the storm. Investigations being made by Miss Austin will be used as a report to the Red Cross as soon as the same can be completed—perhaps by Thursday.

Bonus Action Stuns Leaders

May Call on Roosevelt For A Strong Message Against "Greenback" Bill

Washington, Feb. 21.—House administration leaders, alarmed by the solders' bonus drive, are prepared to ask President Roosevelt to send a message to congress rebuking the legislation, is was learned today.

They felt, it was understood, that only by such action could the Democratic majority be held in line, and the administration saved from an outright defeat in the house when the $2,400,000 bonus inflation bill comes up March 12.

Not a single Alabama representative added his signature to the petition forcing a vote in the house on the bonus bill. Of the 145 signatures, 96 were Democrats and 49 Republicans.

One prominent leader of the bonus group admitted today that a message "if it is frank enough" would carry enough weight to bring about defeat of the bill.

President Roosevelt's threat to veto bonus legislation at this time, relayed to the house by Speaker Henry T. Rainey yesterday came too late to stop the bonus petition from being completed.

House leaders said that some members who had signed the petition before the president's stand was made known, had asked if there was "any way in which we can get our names off."

Democrats who have publicly favored the bonus and at the same time pledged full cooperation with the president were in a quandary. It was this large group that leaders hoped to swing by prevailing on the president to discuss the bill in a message.

THOMAS JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL WAS DAMAGED BY THE STORM

The Thomas Junior High School will be adjourned for about ten days, according to Superintendent Little, who says it will take about that time to repair damages to the building caused by the storm Sunday evening.

The damage was confined principally to the roof of the building, and will amount to about $600, it was estimated by Mr. Little Monday.

RURAL RELIEF FAMILY SURVEY

Program Already Under Way By Workers In Chilton County

The Rural Relief Family Survey in Alabama is an extension of the Federal Relief Census which is being carried on throughout the United States. The value of such a study for Alabama is of an extremely practical nature. In its broadest aspects the chief purpose is to provide the information necessary for the formulation of a program adequate to care for those in economic distress, particularly those on the farms. The problems of the relief agencies have been multiplied many times over during the past months by the continued extension of the agricultural depression.

Relief rolls have grown by leaps and bounds until in some counties of the state approximately one half of the population is on relief of one kind or another. The tremendous expense involved is evident. The volume of money passing through relief channels of the state is now so swollen as to compare favorably with that of the major state industries.

The problems incident to handling this situation are obviously staggering. Federal, State and County agencies are joining in an attempt to work out a program of relief that will adequately minister to, and care for the needy, but will at the same time be conducted in such a manner as to be the most economical possible for the taxpayer. To this end all classes of farm people, both relief and non-relief, are being asked to cooperate in this project.

A survey of Alabama as above outlined, is being conducted in every conty, under direction of Dr. Harold Hoffsomner, of Auburn, in connection with the Alabama Relief Administration.

Mr. J. E. Green and Mrs. Cecile Smith have been placed in charge of the survey in Chilton County.

Miss Ellis Named Welfare Director

Appointment by County Child Welfare Board Made Tuesday

Miss Mary Ellis was appointed Tuesday as Child Welfare Superintendent for Chilton County by an official meeting of the County Child Welfare Board. She will continue her work on the Relief staff under Miss Austin, and will, in addition, perform the duties of Child Welfare Superintendent.

Mrs. A. M. Tunstall, State Child Welfare Superintendent, and Miss Lula Dunn, of the Alabama Relief Administration attended the meeting of the local Child Welfare Board Tuesday, and explained the new set-up under which the appointment of Miss Ellis was made.

Heretofore the county's appropriation to the Child Welfare has been going to pay a part of Miss Austin's salary. Under the new agreement all of Miss Austin's salary will come out of federal appropriations and the county appropriation will be used to pay the salary of Miss Ellis.

The Chilton County Child Welfare Board is composed of Judge Reynolds, Superintendent Little, Commissioner Duke, C. Fenn Jones, Mrs. A. C. Wells, Mrs. Sophie Jones and C. C. Conway.

A GOOD FRIEND IS GONE

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me space in your paper to tell the many friends about the absence of our dear friend, Mrs. Cara Mae Dahl?

She left us Sunday and has gone to finish her couse of nurse training at Little Rock, Arkansas, and don't guess she will return until she finishes her course. Her friends will miss her very much. It is sad to part with a girl who is loved as Mrs. Dahl was, but, oh, how glad we will be when she returns.

Mrs. Dahl's whole desire was nursing. She only lacks one year and six months and wont we be glad to see her make her return here. Her many friends hope for her a success. She leaves her mother, brother and little son, Vernon Denson, to take care of her home.

Mrs. Dahl has many friends who will be very much surprised to know that she is gone, but let's wish for her all good things and hope she will enjoy finishing her course. We will be looking for a letter in the paper from her to all her friends.—One of her classmates, Mrs. L. M. Williams of Clanton.

Mr. Newrich—Well, m'dear, we're invited to the country club for dinner tomorrow night.

Mrs. Newrich—How nice! I've always wanted to eat there—I've heard so much of their unique golf course.

CANDIDATES IN MAY PRIMARY

List of Entries When The Curtain Fell On the First of March

Thursday, March 1st, was the dead line for filing of announcements of candidates for offices in the primaries of May and June. In order that our readers may have a correct list of those who have their names in the pot, we have checked the list of declarations filed at the Probate Office, and the result is as follows:

For Circuit Judge: Democrats, J. B. Atkinson, of Clanton, and Arthur Glover, of Wetumpka.

For Circuit Solicitor: Democrat, Winston Huddleston, of Wetumpka.

For Probate Judge: Republicans, J. N. Dennis, L. H. Reynolds, J. Z. Mims; Democrats, P. T. Hinkle and J. Lee Smith.

For Tax Collector: Republicans, W. G. Culp, J. E. Easterling; Democrats, Geo. C. Polk, Newton A. Popwell, Reuben Jackson, T. L. McKee.

For Tax Assessor: Republicans, S. M. Pate, Akins I. Collins; Democrats, J. K. T. Daniel, Arthur Martin.

For Circuit Clerk: Republicans, H. A. Harris, M. D. Foshee, Grover A. Bice, Marion W. Mims; Democrats, J. S. McNeill, J. C. Pattillo.

For Sheriff: Republicans, J. Dudley Collins, Dewey Hughes, V. T. Cobb; Democrat, J. R. Hardy.

For County Superintendent of Education: Republicans, J. E. Daniel, Ralph D. Grant, W. T. Bean; Democrat, Luther E. Little.

For members County Board of Education: Republicans, S. M. Yates, Jr., Pink M. Martin, J. L. Smith, D. S. (Sebe) Robinson; Democrats, J. P. Payne, A. C. Nelson.

For Commissioner First District: Republicans, W. G. Shaw, J. P. Bean, J. E. Cobb, A. Perry Robinson; Democrat, Will R. Clements.

For Commissioner Second District: Republicans, T. Perry Gore, Andrew J. Davis, T. A. Maddox; Democrats: H. R. Oden, H. E. Robinson.

For Representative in the Legislature: Republicans, Chas. Cooper, Percy M. Pitts, W. L. Sanders; Democrats, C. B. Cox.

For State Senator: Democrats, V. J Gragg, Raymond C. Smith, Earle Thomas.

A few days ago it was rumored that none of the candidates for County Superintendent of Education could properly qualify for entering the campaign. Proper ivestigation proved that this rumor was an error. All of the candidates are qualified. The only problem that remains is for one of the four to get a majority of the votes next November.

Daniel And Grant Are Qualified Men

Statements Made By Two Candidates for Office of Superintendent

RALPH D. GRANT

To the Voters of Chilton County:

Because of the rumor that has been circulated over the county that none of the Republican candidates for Superintendent of Education are qualified to hold this office, I wish to say that I qualified with the State Department of Education and with the Probate Judge of this county before I made public announcement of my candidacy for this office. Upon hearing of the rumor I went immediately to the State Department of Education to make sure that no mistake had been made and that no details had been overlooked.

My education and professional qualifications meet every legal and technical requirement of the laws governing the qualification of candidates for election or appointment to the office of Superintendent of Education of Chilton County.

At an early date I expect to write another article expressing my ideas on the Superintendent's duties and on certain school policies that I endorse.—Yours very truly, Ralph D. Grant.

J. ELLY DANIEL

It becomes necessary for me to make a public statement as to my being qualified for the office of County Superintendent of Education. There is not a question as to my being qualified for the place. I meet all requirements of the law of the State of Alabama as to experience in teaching and, as to University and College training, I have complied with the law in every particular. All necessary legal steps to qualify have been taken.

I am drafting my platform in which I am setting forth the policies and principles for which I stand, and which shall guide my official actions should I be elected to the office. I shall be ready to submit my platform to you in the very near future.

Sincerely
J. ELLY DANIEL.

PLEASE DO NOT DAMAGE THE COUNTY SIGN BOARDS

At this time the county, through CWA aid, is engaged in marking our county roads with many valuable and serviceable signs showing directions, distances and locations of important points.

It is hoped that the public will properly appreciate the usefulness of these signs, and help to preserve them.

To some people a sign board is a target for shot guns, sling shots, rocks, sticks and other missiles, the unrestrained use of which mars and destroys the signs.

The civic pride of our people should be directed toward curbing such misuse of valuable things like public road markers.

WM. I. MULLINS DIED SATURDAY

Was One of Chilton County's Leading Business Men For Half Century

William I. Mullins, age 77 years, died at his home in Clanton about 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, March 3, after an illness of several months. His death had been expected for many days. Members of his family were at his side when the end came bringing peace to his soul.

Funeral services at the home Sunday afternoon at three o'clock were conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell. Burial was in Clanton cemetery, with Martin in charge of arrangements. Honorary pallbearers were W. L. Popwell, Walter Popwell, C. Fenn Jones, H. T. Pipes, G. C. Harris, J. Q. Wade, W. H. Sartor, L. F. Gerald, Judge L. H. Reynolds, J. Hance Alred, Dr. E. E. Upchurch, H. S. Shaw, R. D. Woodyard, W. H. Foshee, W. D. Spigener, Active pallbearers were Mayor J. Lee Smith, Dr. J. E. Gowan, Dewey Rockett, Grover C. Walker, Frank Callen, and W. M. Wyatt.

Surviving Mr. Mullins are his wife, Mrs. Sarah Alice Mullins; three sons, J. Renfroe Mullins, of Clanton; William K. and Frank Mullins, of Mobile; three daughters, Mrs. J. Watts Moore, of Clanton, Mrs. Amzi Gowan, of Brewton, and Mrs. John Deramus, of Clanton.

For more than forty years W. I. Mullins has been one of the leading business men of Chilton County. A native son of the county, he was reared on a farm, coming here and entering the mercantile business in early manhood. He carved a succesful business career which gave him a well-deserved place of power and influence in the commercial activities of his county and state.

Some years ago he retired from active connection with the mercantile business, which was taken over by Mullins & Moore. His business activity in later years, up to his illness a year ago, was devoted to his interests in the Planters Gin & Warehouse, with W. L. and Walter Popwell.

Mr. Mullins was widely known for his activity in the Baptist denominational work. His father was Rev. James A. Mullins, founder and organizer of the Clanton Baptist church. Since its organization W. I. Mullins has been one of the most loyal and faithful members of the church.

He took a leading and active part in the Unity Baptist Association. At the time of his death he was Treasurer of the Association, which office he had held almost continuously since the year 1894. He rarely missed a meeting of the Unity Association during that period of time.

Burglars Visited 3 Clanton Stores

Second Time at Clanton Cash Store and Sinclair Service Station

Three business places in Clanton were visited by burglars in the past week. Only a small amount of loss has been detected.

Last Friday night a second break-in was made at the Clanton Cash Store. Nothing was taken except a small amount of change from the cash register and a few cigarettes.

The same night someone broke into the Sinclair Service Station. Manager "Preacher" Bishop was unable to check up anything missing. About two weeks ago the same place was visited by burglars, who took all the change out of the cash register. Since that time "Preacher" has carried this change in his pocket and the burglar made a "water haul" on the second trip.

Sunday night the intruders chose the Good Gulf Service Station as the object of the quest. The back door was smashed to gain entrance to the office. No loss has been discovered.

It is believed that the burglaries of the Clanton Cash Store and Sinclair Service Station this week was done by the same parties who entered those places a few weeks ago.

PROSPERITY TRADE WEEK MARCH 17-24

Every Business House In Chilton County Is Requested To Co-operate

Final plans for putting on Prosperity Trade Week throughout Chilton County have been agreed upon by a committee representing the business men and the Kiwanis Club. As announced previously, the dates for the occasion have been set for the week commencing on Saturday, March 17, and extending through Saturday, March 24.

Participation of every business concern in Chilton County will be sought, in order that the two main purposes of the occasion may be served as generall and fully as possible (1) to stimulate trade by giving the buyers an unusual opportunity to obtain bargains in spring merchandise and (2) to increase employment by the addition of extra sales people for that week.

Every business concern participating will advertise the fact as extensively as the proportions and requirements of the business demands. Beginning on the first day of the sale every store taking part will give tickets for each dollar purchase, which will entitle the buyers of merchandise to share in the distribution of many valuable prizes to be awarded after the sale week is concluded.

A fifty dollar cash grand prize will head the list, and in addition there will be a valuable prize contributed by each and every business house taking part in the promotion of the event. Proper designation of the stores taking part in the sale will be made by display of a suitable sign at a prominent place in the store.

Advertising and publicity for the Prosperity Sale Week will be done jointly by the Chilton County News and The Union-Banner, both of which newspapers will carry a special edition devoted to this purpose next week. Mr. Marvin W. Marcus, an advertising specialist of wide experience, has been employed by the two newspapers to present the matter to the attention of the merchants and business men. Mr. Marcus will contact every business house in the county, and extend to everyone an opportunity to take part. The two newspapers will carry the message of Prosperity Trade week into every home in the county.

It is planned to secure a suitable building in Clanton where all prizes and special displays by business concerns will be arranged by Mr. Marcus. The place will be open at all business hours during the sale week, where everybody will be invited to visit and see the displays. Similar centers will be proposed for other towns in the county also.

The fact that it is proposed to make the event a county wide affair is stressed from the very beginning. It is not desired to make it a strictly one-town proposition. The committee felt that every town should participate in the proposition, and push its own trade interests. According to the arrangements, people who trade in any of the towns where merchants are participating will have an equal opportunity to share in all the advantages that are offered through the promotion of sales week.

Every reader of the newspapers is urged to keep a keen eye for the special editions of next week. They will bring you the full and complete message of Prosperity Trade Week, and you can be assured it will be a message that will appeal to your pocketbook as you come to consider the matter of buying merchandise for spring. Everything will be included, and you will be interested, whether you consider buying automobiles, groceries, hardware, drugs, farm implements, clothing, shoes, or what-not.

Remember this is not just a scheme to get your dollars. It is a patriotic, whole-hearted, sincere and honest effort of the business people of Chilton County to extend an opportunity for money-saving to the buyers of the county that will be worth-while, and should be appreciated from the standpoint of the buyer who is going to buy and use any sort of merchandise in the next few months.

Appeal For Storm Relief

This appeal is made to the people of Chilton County jointly by the Red Cross, the American Legion, and the Legion Auxiliary, for gifts, donations, and contributions for the relief of about half a dozen families in the area south of Clanton, which was visited by the storm on Sunday, February 25.

Preliminary survey of the storm area has been made under direction of Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, and a check-up has revealed actual and pressing needs in some of the families requiring the attention of relief agencies in order that they may be re-established in comfortable living circumstances.

Appeal is hereby made for donations of childrens clothing for boys 3 to 8 years old, and girls 1, 5, 8, and 13 years old; clothing for adults; mattresses, dishes, chairs, quilts, sheets and pillow cases, knives and forks, fruit jars, plow stocks, harrows.

Contributions of money perhaps to the amount of $500 is urgently needed in order to assist about four farmers to repair their damages and replace their farming implements, in order that they may be able to carry on and make a crop this year.

The American Legion and Auxiliary ask for donations of clothing and supplies as suggested above. These donations are to be assembled at Lowe's Store in South Clanton, from where they will be distributed to those in need.

The Red Cross Chapter of Chilton County requests donations of cash, which will go into the relief fund. The donations should be brought or sent to J. Mell Martin, secretary and treasurer of the Chilton County Chapter.

You are requested to give this appeal your consideration and respond in the measure you are able to do. It should be remembered that this request is made for the relief of a number of our citizens, our neighbors, their wives and children, who have no means of securing the bare necessities of life, unless the same are given to them by those of us who are able to spare something.

Damage in the storm was over a rather wide area, and is of greater proportions here in our county, perhaps, than many of us realize. It is estimated that more than fifty thousand dollars worth of farm property was destroyed within a very few miles of Clanton. We do not hope to replace this loss. But we do hope our people will respond with gifts of money and other things, in order that we may properly care for those who are in distressing circumstances as a result of the storm.

Give us your response now, please. Don't wait to be solicited. Imagine yourself suddenly made helpless and destitute, with all your personal belongings destroyed. You would appreciate prompt and ready response, and so will those in behalf of whom this appeal is made.

W. M. WYATT, Chairman Red Cross
R. W. LOWE, Commander American Legion.

REGULATION POSTS BEING MADE FOR RFD MAIL BOXES

The county CWA shop has outlined a project for building uniform regulation mail box posts for use at farm homes on rural routes. The posts are built in the county work shop, painted and lettered with the name of the boxholder and the rural route.

Anyone interested in securing one of these posts may get it built, painted, lettered, and erected complete by the payment of only 50 cents to cover cost of material.

Applications for same should be left at the CWA shop in front of the jail, together with payment of 50 cents. A specimen of these posts will be erected at the courthouse to show the public.

TOWN COUNCIL TO AID SCHOOL

Gave $425 To Pay Half of One Extra Month's Operating Cost

In response to the appeal of the Board of Trustees and a number of other citizens, the Town Council of Clanton Tuesday night voted an appropriation of $425 to help carry on the Clanton Grammar School another month beyond the expiration of the seven-month term.

This appropriation for the extra month by the town was made upon the condition that the patrons of the school raise a like amount of $425 for the same purpose. A total of $850 is required to carry on the school one month.

In approaching the question of aiding the school the Council considered various propositions, including a raise in the city water rates and a one-cent tax on gasoline. Vigorous opposition to the gas tax was voiced by gasoline dealers who were called in upon the consideration.

Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer led the assault upon the gasoline tax proposal, and was successful in smothering that proposition before it gained headway. With the gas tax matter disposed of, Dief then took up the appeal to the Council for an outright donation for keeping the school open. When he had finished, the Council voted the appropriation without a dissenting voice.

SONS OF THE LEGION WILL BE ORGANIZED HERE MARCH 16TH

Under direction of a committee of Chilton County Post No. 6 of the American Legion a squadron of The Sons of the American Legion will be organized Friday night, March 16. The organization meeting will be held at the courthouse immediately preceding the fiddlers convention.

Sons or step-sons of members of American Legion are eligible for membership in the squadron. Annual dues will be $1.00 per member.

All members of Chilton County Post are urged to bring their boys on that night so they may be entered as charter members of the squad.

Finished First Aid Training Course

Certificates Will Be Awarded Through American National Red Cross

Twenty-seven people in Chilton County will be awarded certificates by the Red Cross attesting successful completion of the first aid and safety training course which was recently given them by the local chapter, in cooperation with local doctors and safety men of the Alabama Power Company organization.

Following are the names of those who will receive certificates: D. B. Adams, L. O. Barefield, R. P. Bryan, Mrs. Lida Cobern, John Childress, Alex Callen, L. W. Davis, I. A. Dennis, S. M. Freeman, C. E. Gulledge, Steve Hughes, I. P. Kennedy, Allen Lake, John Lassiter, A. D. Maddox, Reese Mullins, G. D. McKinney, Mrs. Thos. M. Parrish, M. A. Pinson, L. C. Pinson, Miss Eleanor Rowell, Hugh T. Shaw, F. G. Taylor, Oscar F. Wells, W. H. Wise, J. B. Yount, and Lee Oden (colored).

The course of instruction was directed by Dr. C. O. Lawrence, assisted by Dr. H. G. Franklin. R. D. Woodson and Tommie Thomason, of Lay Dam, and J. G. Newton, of Mitchell Dam, members of the Alabama Power Company Safety Team, demonstrated and explained the various problems of administering first aid treatment.

Following the completion of this training course the local Red Cross Chapter will carry out the plan of establishing emergency first aid stations at different points in the county, with a trained team available at all stations. One station has already been located at Bryan's New Deal Inn at Jemison. Others will be established at additional places as soon as necessary arrangements can be completed.

OLDEST CITIZEN DIED WEDNESDAY

Rev. J. T. Nelson, Age 101 Years, Passed away At New Salem Home

Rev. James Thomas Nelson, perhaps the oldest man in Chilton County, died Wednesday, February 28, at his home in the New Salem community. He was 101 years old on the fourth day of January this year, at which time he was a guest in the home of his friend, Rev. E. W. Butler, at Thorsby, and heard the public recognition of his anniversary announced in the Cheerio Hour of National Broadcasting Company, from Radio City in New York.

Rev. Nelson had maintained an unusual degree of good health for his advanced years, even up to a short time before his death. His passing was unexpected and is universally mourned by a wide circle of intimate friends and acquaintances througout Central Alabama.

Funeral services were held at New Salem church Thursday, conducted by Rev. J. D. Hughes. Rev. J. W. Jones and Rev. W. P. Lowery assisted. Burial was in charge of Martin.

The deceased was a member of the Masonic Fraternity, under auspices of which last rites for him were conducted at the grave.

The following interesting summary of the life history of Rev. Nelson was furnished us by his close friend, the late Rev. D. S. Martin, on the occasion of Rev. Nelson's 100th birthday. We repeat it here because it is the most complete data available in summarizing the long and useful life of the man:

J. T. Nelson was born in Butts County, Georgia, near Indian Springs, January 4, 1833. He moved with his father to Tallapoosa County, Alabama in 1842, when nine years old. He grew up to manhood in Tallapoosa County and married in 1855.

In 1860 he removed to Coosa County and settled near Bazemore's Cross Roads (Weogufka.) Here he engaged in farming. After making two crops he enlisted in the Confederate Army in 1862, and served to the close of the war.

Mr. Nelson, as a Confederate Soldier, was present when General Lee surrendered at Appomattox. His story of the dramtic incidents of the surrender of General Lee and the Confederate Army is most touching.

While in Tallapoosa County Mr. Nelson had joined the Baptist church in 1853. On his return from the war he was ordained a deacon in 1865 at old Weogufka church. In 1875 he was ordained to the full work of the gospel ministry. During his active career as a minister he pastored the following churches, in Coosa, Talladega, and Shelby Counties: Sardis, Pine Grove, Salem, Union, Hatchett Creek, Mt. Moriah, Weogufka, Holly Springs, Mountain Springs, Shelving Rock, Bethlehem and Coosa River.

Rev. Nelson served as moderator of the Weogufka Baptist Association for thirteen years. He was a member of the Commissioners Court of Coosa County for seven years: Justice of the Peace in his precinct for 43 years; township school trustee for 24 years; County Registrar of Coosa County for 20 years. He was made a Mason in 1867, and filled every station in old Weogufka Lodge.

Mr. Nelson was the father of six children by his first marriage. His first wife died in 1889. He was married the second time in 1890. There were four children by his second marriage.

The number of his direct descendants, including the fifth generation, is 187, of which 125, together with a large number of friends and acquaintances, gathered at his home for the celebration of his 100th birthday.

Want New Public Road In Beat 16

Petition Presented To Commissioners Court By Delegation of Citizens

A delegation of citizens of Beat 16 and Beat 10 headed by Robert Peters and D. S. Robinson, appeared before the Commissioners Court Monday, requesting a public county road from Providence church, by the John Bates place, the old Jim Robinson place, where Mr. Peters now lives, crossing Cargyle Creek and connecting with the Verbena Road at the Lee Robinson place.

The application before the court was filed, and the interested parties were instructed to get a petition signed by all adjacent property owners asking for the road.

It was pointed out that a private road already exists where the public road was requested. But it is desired that the road be made public and adopted by the county for upkeep and maintenance.

Also, it is hoped that a bridge may be constructed across Cargyle Creek. Mr. Peters stated that there is a possibility of getting the rural mail route from Verbena to come along the road if it is adopted by the county, which he says, will give mail service to about twenty families who now have to go from one to two miles to their mail boxes.

County Farm Agent's Notes

GUERNSEY CATTLE HAVE PROVED VALUE IN STATE

Auburn, Ala., Mar. 6.—From a small beginning several years ago, Guernsey cattle have developed into an important and popular dairy breed in Alabama. F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, says that "Guernseys are now found in all sections of Alabama and they are proving themselves to be well adapted to Alabama conditions and needs."

This information is based upon records of tests officially conducted. In a one-year test a Guernsey cow owned at Mt. Meadow Farm, Gadsden, produced 11,132 pounds of milk and 633.8 pounds of butterfat. Another owned by this farm produced 12,164 pounds of milk and 562.2 pounds of butterfat.

Individual annual records for five Guernseys owned by Kilby prison farm at Montgomery were: 12,272 pounds of milk and 511.3 pounds of butterfat; 10,010 pounds of milk and 545.8 pounds of butterfat; 8,579 pounds of milk and 517.5 pounds of butterfat; 11,482 pounds of milk and 511.6 pounds of butterfat; 9,554 pounds of milk and 496.5 pounds of butterfat.

"These records," said Mr. Burns, "for the class leaders in Alabama are more outstanding when we consider that the average dairy cow in Alabama produces less than 130 pounds of butterfat per year."

EBERLY INSPECTS FORESTS

Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 6.—Federal Forest Inspector H. J. Eberly, stationed at New Orleans, is inspecting the work of the various forestry camps in Alabama. The camps devoted to carrying out president Roosevelt's reforestation program are allotted to the state by the U. S. Forest Service and administered by the state commission of forestry. The Federal Government, however, inspects the work from time to time to make certain that it conforms to the standards established for each kind of project.

Mr. Eberly has a number of assistants who also engage in inspection work, but he aims to visit in person as many camps in each state as it is possible to cover in the coure of each itinerary. Alabama's forestry camps are distributed widely over the state and all of the forest regions are represented in their location.

CANNING CLUB GIRLS MAKE NEW RECORD IN NATIONAL CONTEST

Chicago, March 6.—4-H Club Girls made new marks in their canning work last year, according to a summary of thousands of records secured in a national contest conducted by the national commitee on boys and girls club work of this city. Over 150,000 canning members in 37 states took part in the contest.

The largest amount of home canning reported was 6,582 pints by Miss Katheryn Casto Lorentz, W. Va., which she did in 8 years. Pauline Martin, Bedford, Va., using the commercial facilities of her family, showed 10,862 pints in eight years. Kenneth Benson, Winchester, Mass., put up 6,791 pints, most of which he produced the last few years in a small commercial plant he operates. Elena Shoup, Ramona, Okla., canned 6,112 pints in 9 years, winning national championship for her complete records and the fact that she produced much of the raw material in fruit growing, garden, and poultry projects.

The average of the state chapions was 2,460 pints. This included meats, vegetables and fruits. State champions had won an average of $106 in prizes, and their gross income averaged $942. This was realized in the six years they averaged in canning projects. Their ages averaged 17½ years.

The contest is renewed for 1934 and offers prizes for county, state and national winners provided by the Kerr Glass Mfg. Corp., of Oklahoma. The state winners receive educational trips to the National Club Congress to be held in Chicago in December. A $400 college scholarship will be awarded the national winner. State and county club leaders are cooperating with the national 4-H Committee in the contest.

NEWS IN BRIEF

W. H. King, master farmer of Dallas County, has never regretted the $15 he paid in 1917 for two bushels of pure Whatley's Prolific seed corn.

Though he has tried many other strains of the same variety, he has never found a better corn than that grown from his original two bushels, the seed of which he has carefully selected and required all of his tenants to use.

A specially designed farm record book which furnishes an easy way for growers to assemble and keep information on their crop operations is now being printed and will soon be distributed to some two million farmers who have signed production adjustment contracts, according to an announcement by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Protein is second only to water as the most prominent element in the body of fowls. Eggs have a high protein content, and laying hens need far more protein in their ration than the amount necessary to supply their body requirements. Young growing birds also need large amounts of protein.

If properly managed, the farm garden in Alabama will contribute between 35 and 40 per cent of the family food supply. It is possible to have a year-round garden and maintain a supply of certain fresh vegetables throughout the winter and during the hottest period in summer. This combined with canning and better storage methods will insure the farm family an abundant supply of vegetables at all times.

TO SELL TIMBER ON MACEDONIA PROPERTY

All members at Macedonia Baptist church below Lay Dam, in Beat 11, are asked to file with me, not later than Saturday, March 10th, 1934, any objections they may have to selling the timber on the church property for the purpose of raising funds to repair the church.—Virgil G. Smith, Clanton Route 5.

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit, composed of the counties of Autauga, Chilton, and Elmore, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries in May and June, 1934.

Your vote and influence will be appreciated in the coming Democratic primaries.

Respectfully,
J. B. ATKINSON.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

The Blackfriar Players, University dramatic organization, will take their first tour in many years this spring when the college company will present "Skidding" by Annania Rouverel. The troupe will play in Bessemer, Anniston, Montevallo, in Alabama, and in Columbus and Starkville, in Mississippi. Efforts will be made to book several other cities for the presentation of the play.

"Skidding" is a comedy, and will be used as the second Blackfriar presentation of the year on the campus. The date has not been selected, but it will be some time early in April.

The University of Alabama Symphony Orchestra, directed by Dr. William M. Bland, will give its spring concert at 8:00 p.m., Monday, March 5, in Morgan Hall auditorium. No admission charge will be made.

Practically every professor in the school of medicine and several members of the department of zoology and botany will present papers during the annual meeting of the Alabama Academy of Science to be held at Spring Hill College, Mobile, March 9 and 10. Dr. Stuart Graves, dean of the medical school, will speak on "Medeival Education in Alabama."

Alabama won her second conference basketball championship by defeating Florida, 41 to 25, in the finals in Atlanta. The Crimsons have captured both football and basketball championships this year in the Southeastern Conference. Two members of the team were selected on the All-Southeastern quintet. Jim Walker was picked at forward, and Jim Whatley, a sophmore, made the team as center.

Football this spring has been delayed by injuries, but Coach Frank Thomas hopes to spend two more weeks of intensive work and make some progress. Sophomores have shown up well in the backfeild. Among the newcomers doing well are Joe Riley, of Dothan; Lamar Moye, of Decatur; and Roy White, of Hanceville.

FARM WOMEN TO ADOPT PANTRY DEMONSTRATIONS FOR BUDGETING CANNING

Auburn, Ala., Mar. 6.—Preservation of food on a strictly budget basis to insure a properly balanced diet throughout the year for every farm family is the goal adopted for 1934 by Alabama farm women.

This is to be accomplished through hundreds of "pantry demonstrations" over the state directed by Miss Margaret Garrett, extension specialist in food preservation. Headed in the various counties by home demonstration agents, farm women will prepare their food preservation budgets based upon proper diet and the number and ages of members in their families.

The budget will include the exact amounts and varieties of food to be canned, dried, drained or stored in order to meet the nutritional needs of the family. The women will see that sufficient amounts of food is grown on the farm to meet requirements of the budget.

At the "pantry demonstrations" they will study the most practical and economic methods of food preservation, together with the best practices in labeling and arranging products in the pantry.

"The outlook for 1934 shows that while farm families will have an increased income it will be necessary to spend the major portion to pay taxes, debts, and make repairs. This will make it necessary to continue our program of home production of the food supply."

In 1933, Alabama farm women conserved 6,346,190 quarts of food, valued at $1,504,034.89. In 1934 an effort will be made not only to surpass this record, which was three times more than was conserved in 1932, but the proper budgeting of food preserved by every family will be emphasized.

TOURNAMENT FOR HIGH SCHOOL CAGESTERS HELD AT UNIVERSITY

University, Ala., Mar. 6.—Alabama's annual high school basketball tournament will be held at the University on Mar. 9 and 10, it has been announced by athletic authroities. Sixteen teams from the eight districts in the state are to compete.

Competition in the district tournaments has been extremely keen this year, according to reports, and all of the teams eligible are to participate in the tourney.

Drawings for the meet are to be held Thursday night before the tourney, which gets under way on the morning of March 9., it was announced by Sellers Stough, secretary of the state high school athletic association, who is to be in charge of the annual event.

Officials are to be provided by the University athletic association, and are to be selected by Coach Hank Crisp, director of athletics at Alabama.

The Tuscaloosa Junior Chamber of Commerce is to present trophies to the winner and runner-up in the meet. The Junior Chamber is actively interested in the tournament, and has arranged for sightseeing rides and other entertainment for the visiting athletes.

Jasons, honorary society at the University, also will cooperate with the university in providing living quarters for the teams during their stay in Tuscaloosa.

Geraldine, two times state champion, is to send another strong club to the state meet to defend the title. Competition is expected from the Birmingham high schools, Five Points, Hackleburg, Mobile High and other teams.

PREACHING AT MT. PLEASANT

There will be preaching at Mt. Pleasant schoolhouse next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, by Rev. Wm. E. Robinson. The people of the community are urged to take notice and attend. Following preaching, work of reorganizing the Sunday school will be taken up.—E. L. Powell, J. E. Miner.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Mullins and family and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mullins, of Mobile, attended the funeral of their father, Mr. W. I. Mullins, in Clanton Sunday.

COMMENCEMENT ANNOUNCED SOON AT THE UNIVERSITY

University, Ala., Mar. 6.—Commencement at the University of Alabama will be held May 6, 7, and 8 instead of May 20, 21, and 22, University authorities announced Saturday. This step is being taken in order that the entire student body of the University may be present for commencement. This plan was tried successfully during the Centennial commencement exercises in 1931, and the Alumni Association recommended that it be followed every spring.

All exercises will be held in Denny Stadium which has a seating capacity of more than 12,000. The use of the stadium will permit everyone to be seated comfortably. The size of the graduating classes has grown so during recent years that the graduates have filled up the entire center row in Morgan Hall, leaving comparatively few seats for visiting parents and alumni.

The heated hours of the day have been avoided by setting the time for all out-of-doors functions in the stadium for late afternoon.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered at 5:30 p.m., Sunday, May 6. The Cotillion Club will give one of its series of final dances Saturday, May 5, from 9 to 12 p.m. The baccalaureate sermon will be preceded by a concert by the Alabama band to be presented in the stadium.

The Board of Trustees will hold its Alumni Day meeting at 10 a.m., May 7. The Alumni Association will convene at the same hour, and at 12 o'clock the Corps of Cadets will parade. A baseball game has been scheduled between Alabama and a southeastern opponent for 2:30 p.m. The annual Alumni banquent will be held at 6:30 p.m., probably in Barnwell Hall, gymnasium for women. The final ball will be given from 9 to 1. The president's reception in honor of graduates and their parents will be given from 3 to 5, Tuesday, May 8. Final exercises will take place in the stadium at 5:30 p.m.

It was announced that examinations for candidates for degrees will begin April 29 and extend through May 5. Exams will be given in the afternoons. Exams for undergraduates have been scheduled for May 11 and 12. Undergraduates will continue class work while seniors and graduate students are being examined.

HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB LEADERS HELD LEADERSHIP SCHOOL HERE FEB. 28TH

Thirty-five enthusiastic home demonstration club leaders came to Clanton Wednesday, February 28th, to attend a leadership school conducted by their Home Demonstration Agent and Miss Dorothy Dean, Clothing Specialist, from Auburn.

In this meeting a demonstration was given on "Planning and Making an Inexpensive Wardrobe." In the afternoon Miss Ruth Dobyne, District Agent of Auburn, gave a very interesting talk on the organization of a county council and plans for a county rally. After her talk Miss Dean gave a demonstration on home dry cleaning. One wool dress, one silk dress, one woman's felt hat, one man's felt hat, one man's coat, and one fur were cleaned.

At noon the ladies enjoyed a nice luncheon plate served by Mrs. Clara Mullins and Mrs. Evans.

The following reports were given at the leadership school:

Thirteen clubs were organized in September of last year, with an attendance of 148 members. Now—14 clubs with an attendance of 328 members. Increase in five months in attendance—180 members.

Clothing reported—Work done in November and December: Attendance at club meetings in November and December, 352; hats worked over, 75; garments worked over, 144; saving, $314.54.

SERVICES AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

The services at Church of Christ last Lord's Day was encouraging and we believe each one there was helped spiritually and gained greater strength in hope of accomplishing lasting service for the Savior of our souls. But we are taking this as one way to express our interest in the members who live some distance from Clanton. To those who are providentially hindered from attending even on Lord's Day, we say that we miss your presence, association, and your stimulating influence in our worship. We ask an interest in your prayers and a memory in your thoughts and good wishes.

We remember that all real faithful Christians are fellow-laborers, fellow-citizens, heir, joint heirs and have fellowship with one another in the Kingdom of heaven which is the blood bought institution of Christ our Lord.

To whom it may concern, we wish to say that our creed is the New Testament, and we appreciate the cooperation and concerted action of all the Lord's people in the light of its teaching, believing that the scriptures furnish the man of God thoroughly unto every good work. (II Tim. 3:15 17.)

Services every Lord's Day 10 to 12 a.m. 7 to 8 p.m., and Fridays, 7 to 8 p.m. Come.—Sincerely, R. L. Huffman.

V. T. COBB FOR SHERIFF

To the Voters of Chilton County:

In regard to reports that are being circulated, I wish everyone to know the facts. I have no married children, have only three, and they are all at home. I have not promised anyone a job, should I be elected. I am only asking for one for myself.

However, if I am the man of your choice, I will assure you that I will have only straghtforward, honest men to work for me. I am running on my own merits and not on the demerits of someone else. Again assuring you that your vote and influence will be highly appreciated, I am, respectfully, V. T. Cobb.

J. M. TERRY DIED IN TEXAS

Tyler, Texas, Feb. 28.

Editor Union-Banner:

I have been requested to send the following letter to your paper for the benefit of my fatheer's friends and those relatives whom we could not locate at the time the death angel visited our family.

Mr. J. M. Terry is dead, as the result of a house fire on January 17, 1934. He was the son of the late J. N. Terry, of Perry County, Alabama, who later moved near Randolph in Bibb County, Alabama.

On December 19, 1899, John Milford Terry took his wife, Miss Decy Anne Mize of Lawley, Alabama. To this union was born five boys and four girls, all of whom have reached the age of maturity.

Mr. Terry was making his home with his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Seales, of Midland, Texas. Early on the morning of January 17, Mr. Seales lit the gasoline cook stove. He was unaware of the fact that the tank was leaking. The stove exploded and the house was burned to the ground in a very short time.

Though sleeping, all occupants of the house escaped except Mr. Terry, who was trapped in by the pressure of the gas and the blinding effect of the flames and smoke. Mr. Seales went through the room three times in search of his wife's father. Finally they heard him fall near a window. They broke the window and drug him through it. External injuries were slight, but he had swallowed the fumes. However, he regained conscious and the ability to walk. Friends rushed him to the hospital, where he lived until 10 o'clock on the night of January 18th.

Our father knew his time had come to leave this world, and the clearest tones he was heard to say after his injury were in assurance that he was ready to go and prepared to meet God.

Services were conducted by the Rev. Winston F. Borum at the Barrow Funeral Home in Midland, Texas, on January 20, 1934.

He is survived by his five sons, Millard, Richard and Jim Terry of Whitehouse, Texas, Raymond Terry, of Midland, Texas; Stanton Terry, of Port Arthur, Texas; and four daughters, Mrs. P. W. Crawley and Mrs. W. H. Seales of Midland, Texas; Mrs. A. L. Caffey, Stanton, Texas; and Miss Minnie Terry of Tyler, Texas; one brother, W. F. Terry, Ackerly, Texas, and one brother, J. D. Terry, and four sisters, Mrs. Anne Posey, Mrs. Alice Brantley and Mrs. Jane Posey, all of Alabama, and Mrs. Dovie Broadhead, of Tushka, Oklahoma.—Contributed by a daughter, Miss Minnie Terry.

BAKER SCHOOL

Our P.-T. A. met last Friday afternoon on a special call meeting. Several patrons of the school were present and some special business was attended to. We were especially gald to have with us Rev. G. G. Williams and we invite him to came back and be with us again. Our P.-T. A. will meet again next Friday afternoon, March 9th. Everyone come and bring someone with you.

Our boys played the Concord boys last Friday afternoon on Concord s court. The scores were 32 and 16 in favor of Concord.

The Jr. III class obtained this information about our school:

This school was built in 1906 and the first school was taught that winter in a one-room building. The place was chosen because it was the center of the community. It was selected by the people as the most convenient and best location.

This school was called Baker School because Mr. T. J. Baker, a resident of the community, deeded one acre for the school to be built on.

Mr. R. L. Duffey was the first teacher at the school. He taught from the first to the eighth grade, with 120 pupils on roll.

The little two-room school was consolidated into a Junior High school in 1927, and the teachers for the first year were Mr. W. E. Martin, principal. He was assisted by Misses Gladys Kemp, Mamie Sue Stewart, Gindie Baker, Lelia Belle Smith and Mrs. Julius Burnette. The little school has prospered until it is numbered with the best Junior High schools of the county.

MT. CARMEL NEWS

Our Sunday school met with a good attendance. Several were reported sick. We hope for them a speedy recovery so they can come back and be with us next Sunday at 10 o'clock.

Our group of churches are to have a Sunday school conventoin at Stanton Baptist church. We hope everyone that can will go for we are sure there will be some good speaders.

We are always glad to have visitors with us.—A Reader.

PREACHING AT MINERAL SPRINGS

There will be preaching at Mineral Springs schoolhouse on March 11th at 3 p.m. Come.—R. L. Huffman.

REFUGE NEWS

We had Sunday school at this place Sunday with a very good attendance, although there is plenty room for improvement. We should not be too hasty to render excuses but should feel it our duty to go to Sunday school on Sunday; so let's come next Sunday and be there on time at ten a.m.

Bro. Wm. R. Baker will preach at this place Sunday at eleven o'clock.

Rev. Lockhart filled his appointment at Pates Chapel Sunday.

We haven't had B. Y. U. U. for several Sunday nights on account of bad weather, but if the weather permits let's come next Sunday night with a well studied lesson.

CONCORD 4-H CLUB

Our club met on February 28 with Miss Pardue in charge. We have our first garments ready to make. We now have 28 on roll and 27 were present at our meeting, and we sure did have an interesting one.

Our officers are as follows: President, Louise Johnson; vice president, Pauline Baker; secretary, Flora Mae Mims; cheer leader, Ruby Easterling; local leader, Daisy Lee Jones.—Liller Mae Miller, Reporter.

SINGING AT PLEASANT VALLEY ON NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be an afternoon singing at Pleasant Valley next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. The new books will be used. All singers are invited to attend.

Prof. Harden, who is teaching a singing school at that place, is arranging to have a good quartet for the singing. "Tell all the folks to be there," said Prof. Harden.

CONCORD JR. HIGH HONOR ROLL

First honor roll—Wilbert Edwards, Curtis Johnson, Bill Mims, Nell Johnson, Annie Brown, Leotris Moore, Houston Robinson, Catherine Baker, M. J. Johnson, Louise Headley, Myrtis Mitchell, Bernice Thompson, Dorothy Blalock, Delene McDowell.

Second honor roll—Howard Baker, Junior Kennedy, Tiny Mims, Gordon Powell, Terra Mims, Mary Dean Bice, Willie Jean Bice, Gerthene Easterling, Hazel Robinson, Chrystal Kennedy, Margie Nell Mitchell.

INCREASED SCALE OF TIRE PRICES IS VERY PROBABLE

The complexities of the international monetary situation and the reduction of the gold content in the American dollar, may not be quite clear to most motorists, but all of them appreciate the increase of the mileage content in their tires, according to Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, local Goodyear dealer.

"The new 1934 Goodyear passenger car and truck tires," says Mr. Diefenderfer, "contain more miles, more safety and more endurance; and the prices are still low, despite increases in factory payrolls and advancing prices of raw materials.

"There is no cause to worry about the decrease of gold in the dollar so long as the dollars will still buy tires with a higher mileage content.

"All the indications point to an increased scale of tire prices. Purchase of new tires today represent a very definite and concrete economy, as it is almost certain that the coming spring or summer will see retail tire prices at much higher levels.

"Rubber and cotton are being quoted at the highest prices for several years and as these are the principal raw materials of which tires are made there is bound to be a reflection in tire prices—upward," said Mr. Diefenderfer.

WILLIE SHAW IS A HUSTLING CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER

Willie G. Shaw, of Beat 13, is a hustling candidate. He is carrying his appeal for the Republican nomination as Commissioner of the First District to every Republican voter in the County.

While in Clanton Monday Mr. Shaw said: "I Expect to see every Republican voter in the county between now and the first of May, if it is possible for me to find them. I want to be nominated and elected by the Republicans of Chilton County as Commissioner of the First District, and I want every Republican to know my desire. Therefore, I shall make it my business to see them and tell them about it. However, if I should miss any as I go around, I want them to know it is not intentional."

Mr. Shaw has impressed people by his hustling disposition, and it is no secret among political observers that he is going to make it hot for the fellow who beats him out in this race.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES TO BE LAID OFF

Washington, March 4.—Postmaster General Farley tonight reported that all postal employes throughout the country would be required to take one day of payless furlough each month for the next four months.

"Budgetary requirements," he said, "make it essential that I save $9,000,000 during the present fiscal year. However, if mail revenues increase beyond our anticipated figure these furloughs will be cut down.

"At the same time orders were sent out that all vacations between now and July 1 be postponed until after that date if the taking of the vacation would mean the hiring of extra help to carry on the job.

"In offices where the work could be carried on without additional help if one or two men were absent, the vacations can be taken as originally planned."

Will Boyd of Montgomery was in Clanton Monday of this week renewing acquaintance of his old friends. It was interesting to see Bill and George Killgore going over old times together. These two were prominent young fellows in Clanton twenty years ago. Seeing them together brings back to our memory such old-timers as Luther and Albert Pyron, Brownie Marcus, Horton Mullins, Marvin Wilson, and others.

Jack Wade, of Russellville, was a visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Wade, in Clanton Tuesday.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Sunday school Sunday was very well attended, but no B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. Are we going to quit B. Y. P. U., Sunday school and preaching at Maple Springs? We once had almost an A-1 B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school at this place, but for some reason it has gone down until it's one of the smallest now. Are we going to sit down and do nothing? We'd better get going or we will be standing at the same old place this time next year. We seem to be taking more interest in other churches. Can anyone tell us what is the trouble. Come on back now, folks, and let's get our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school going again and work harder than ever.

There will be a B. Y. P. U. study course to begin here next Monday night, March 12th. We invite everyone who will and can to come and take this course. Maple Springs needs this course, so come on over next Monday night. This course will be taught by our pastor, Rev. Wm. E. Robinson. We are going to look for you Monday night. Don't forget the date.

Mr. R. J. Downs and family had as their Sunday night guests Mrs. Claud Downs and daughter, Annie Pearl.

Mr. Wiley Jones visited in Cooper Sunday.

Messrs Curtis Jones and Alton Deloach spent a while Friday with Messrs. Ottis and Oliver Glenn.

Mrs. Arthur Mims had as her guest Sunday afternoon Miss Willie Popwell of Clanton.

Mr. Oliver Glenn spent a while Sunday afternoon with Mr. Erskine Parrish of Friendship community.

Mr. Jim Mitchell spent Friday morning with Mr. Lawton Wilson.

Mr. Leonard Maddox and wife and baby were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawton Wilson and family.

Mr. Ottis Glenn spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. Tom Patterson of Rambler's Rest.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wise and Mr. Lester Downs spent a while Sunday night with Mr. W. F. Glenn and family.

Miss Lera Glenn had as her Sunday all day guest Miss Annie Ree Jones.

Messrs. Arthur and Evan Mitchell spent last Wednesday with their sister, Mrs. Alton Harris.

Messrs. Jim Driver, Kern and Charlie Sandlin, Bill Wise and Lester Downs made a business trip to Montgomery last Friday.

Miss Delene Glenn had as her guest a while Sunday night, Miss Annie Pearl Downs.

Mr. Wiley Jones and family had as their guests last Thursday night Mr. Jasper Glenn and wife and children of Cooper.

Sam Pate, of Thorsby, was doing a little politicking in Clanton Monday. In case you do not already know it, we might add that Sam is a candidate for Tax Assessor, in opposition to Mr. Akins I. Collins, present holder of the office.

VERMONT SCHOOL

The P.-T. A. held its regular meeting last Thursday night. After devotional exercises by Mr. Johnson, preliminary announcements were made by the president. Following this Miss Manning explained in detail plans and progress concerning the quilt project. Saturday, March 17, was fixed as the date to hold the quilting party. All these ladies who have pledged to assist in this project and others who might be interested are requested to meet at the school building at 10 a.m. After the above anouncements the program committee took charge. Mrs. C. J. Chandler gave a very interesting discussion about rewards and their subsequent effect on one's success. Mrs. M. L. Williams presented a ten-minute talk on "The Effect of School Marks on Personality." Both of these talks were very inspirational and it supports the fact that any goal to be attained must offer some inducement to happiness or success. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday night, March 20. Superintendent Little was unable to be with us last Thursday night, due to a previous engagement. He will, however, be with us next time. One hundred and three persons were present at our last meeting, including 43 parents.

A large number of young men in this community met last Thursday night to draft plans for organizing a baseball team for the coming season. They set Tuesday night, March 6, as the night to complete final arrangements. At this writing the outcome of the meeting has not been given.

Miss Dorothy Manning, primary instructor, reports a lovely trip to Auburn, Ala., on last week end to see her brother, who is a student of the agricultural college.

Mr. Johnson, Miss Grant and Miss Cagle motored to Selma on Saturday, February 24, to witness the third district High School BasketBall Tournament.

Folks, you should drop by sometimes and let the Junior Rhythm Band show you how to make music from toy drums, chop sticks, horse shoes and a bunch of other funny-looking devices. They'll entertain you de luxe style.

The Liberty Hill quartet was finally favored with a beautiful night on February 23, and they presented their clever little musical program to a large audience. Cornelius Hand, member of their troupe, gave the crowd a nice bunch of laughs with his comical foolishness. The writer endorses them without reservations for their clean wholesome entertainment. We hope they can be with us again some time.

We were glad to have Mr. B. Lawrence ex-superintendent of education, to drop by for a few minutes visit last week.

All parents of Vermont school are especially urged to look over their child's report cards. They are given out at the end of each month. Please see that your child submits his or her report for customary inspection.

The 260 pound pig will be given away at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, March 17. This will be just before the ladies quilting party. The quilting party was set back one week in order not to conflict with services at Sardis church.

The faculty spent the past week end at their respective homes.

The bird program was rendered on last Friday. Stories, poems, songs, reports recitations, all combined, built up a clever program depicting the aesthetic and economic value of our native birds. A number of the school boys brought in numerous nests of the different kinds of our common birds and an interesting report was given about them. Other students reported on the habits, characteristics plumage, etc., relative to our varied native birds. We are trying to build up sentiment towards the protection of our birds rather than let indifference and thoughtlessness lead to their ultimate destruction.

Several play books were ordered last week. Work will begin soon on our Jr. High School student entertainment.

Freddie Dennis, of Mt. Creek, was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Plans now are being discussed, and have been for several months past, for a drive to restore prosperity to some of our industries, especially agriculture, by increasing our foreign trade. It is hoped by the sponsors of the plan that the committee headed by Mr. George M. Peek may develop "effective foreign purchasing power" for our products, and this to be done by reciprocal tariff agreements, and by barter and bargaining with other nations to take our products. All of which goes to show how far we have traveled from our old theories of tariff making. In the past, the United States has had little to do with special tariffs. All nations were treated alike. It was the protective tariff theory that our tariff on competing products coming in from abroad should equal the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad. Commodities which were not in competition with our home industries, such as rubber, tea and coffee were to come in free. It was the theory of the free traders that our protection was wrong in principle and that our tariffs should be arranged with a view to raising revenue to run the government. but the tariff rates, when adopted, under both theories, were applied to all nations alike.

It is difficult to see how bargaining with another nation to let in products in exchange for some of ours will help any, if commodities are permitted to enter which will destroy an American industry and thus reduce consumption of domestic goods in the home market. And this will happen all the more quickly and easily if our domestic cost of production has been increased as to shorter working weeks and higher wages. Of course, we may stimulate our foreign markets by financing our foreign trade—in other words, lending to the foreign customer the money with which to buy our products. But we have had so much bitter experience with our foreign loans of recent years that it is doubtful whether our people will greet any such plan with a great show of enthusiasm.

Take Soviet Russia for example. Since we recognized the Soviet government we have heard a great deal about stimulating our trade with the communist country. But it becomes evident, on studying the subject, that we must either lend Russia the money to buy from us, or take in exchange for our goods, commodities of which we already have a surplus in the United States.

Of course the foreign trade by barter system is not entirely hopeless. Many people do not seem to realize the fact that at least half of our imports now come in free of duty because they do not compete with American products. Coffee, tea, rubber, silk and spices are some examples which come readily to mind. We use more of these imported raw materials than any country on earth. For example, we are Brazil's best coffee customer. Now it is barely possible that we might arrange with some of these countries, as their best customer, agreements whereby they would take greater supplies of the things we have to export in exchange for our business. Such arrangement could be made without upsetting domestic production. But outside of possibilities of this kind, it is difficult to see how the tariff and barter idea is going to turn out to be a big bonanza for Uncle Sam. Suppose we got an agreement with a European nation to take more of our farm products in exchange for a manufactured article which is produced in the United States? The farmer might gain a market in Europe but he would lose an even more valuable custmer at home, when the American factories began to close and thousands of skilled, and highly paid American workmen were thrown out of jobs.

Yesterday, being Sunday, was most restful and enjoyable. We have all come to appreciate Sunday as we never did before. Because usually on Sunday nobody down in Washington pokes the poor old dollar around and makes it sut up on its hind legs and snap sugar otf its nose and jump through a hoop. The poor old thing is just left to crawl over to a corner ot its cage and get a good sleep.—Chicago Tribune.

Mary Pickford fled from a man and woman who had been trailing her for two days, but the chances are they were only two determined autograph hunters.

A gentleman out in Missouri professes to be amazed that a people smart enough to discard ox carts, spinning wheels, tallow candles, hand scythes and hand presses will still retain state legislatures. It's a nice question at that.

A certain young girl cried pitiously after her young man had proposed.

"Why are you crying, dear?" asked the young man, solicitously. "Have I offended you?"

"No, dear," answered the girl, "that's not it. I am crying for pure joy. Mother always said I was such an idiot that not even a donkey would propose to me, and now one has."

Seem To Need No NRA

Previous depressions have cursed this and other countries, and experience teaches us that recovery follows when the depressions have "reached bottom" and business could decline no more. The "business cycle" goes its way with small regard for what we do about it.

The Bank of Montreal has been making a survey of world conditions, gauging them by the state of industrial production. It finds that, measured in this way, the gain in Canada in the last year is 25 per cent, in the United Kingdom 8 per cent, in France 17 per cent, in Germany 19 per cent, and in the United States 15 per cent.

If NRA is to be credited with the gain in this country, to what shall we attribute the greater gains in countries where she has no jurisdiction?

Called State Socialism

Government in business!

Any surprise aroused by the proposal that the federal government should spend a hundred million dollars to go into business of erecting and operating tenement houses has been put in the shade by the serious proposal that the government should set aside 300 million dollars to take over any or all of the country.

Stimulated by ex-Senator Brookhart, a senator close to the administration has prepared a bill which was considered with solemn appraisal.

Nearly a third of a billion dollars, so the bill said, is to be furnished by Uncle Sam to a federal corporation run by three men appointed by the president.

This corporation is to operate warehouses, buy and sell both agricultural and industrial products from or to domestic and foreign traders.

It is to eliminate, so it says, profits and commissions heretofore going to the various agencies of international export and import.

It may borrow by issuing government guaranteed bonds, five times its government provided capital, so that there will be available for turnover a billion and a half dollars.

Its points are to be used to pay back the capital advanced and thereafter go into the treasury.

The corporation, to distinguish it from any possible competitor, goes tax free.

It can use any unchartered vessels belonging to the United States.

It can buy deferred payment notes of purchasers.

In a word or two, it provides that Uncle Sam may take over hide and hair all of the foreign business of the United States.

Before arguing whether this is desirable, it is well to recognize beforehand that there is socialism—state socialism in the most extravagant form, and seriously considered before rejection.

The, fact that the government may not do all the foreign export and import business is unimportant since it could in fact, if it so desired. Nor is it necessary for the government to take on all the foreign business in order to control that business by prices and tax-free, subsidized, competitive power.

Those who are against the government going into business may take note that in these days serious consideration is being given to the government going into business, but to the proposal that governmnet is business.

So do we step onward in thought toward the corporate state of Mussolini.—Richard Washburn Child in the Washington, D. C., Herald.

Managed Currency

It is generally assumed in our own country that the United States should and will lead the rest of the way to recovery out of the world-wide depression which has engulfed us for the past four and a half years. Professor Malcom M. McNair, however, expresses the opinion that England has taken the right of way on the road to recovery. His views as expressed in the current issue of the Harvard Business Review are decidedly interesting, and worthy of considerable thought, although at variance with those of a great many authorities especially those who are exponents of the so-called "new deal."

Many financial experts, Professor McNair says, expect great things from our present policy of managed currency because Great Britain has had an apparently favorable experience with managed currency. Since there has been no inflation in England, those favoring managed currency claim that their need be no inflation in the United States, Professor McNair adds, and these experts seem to think that we can reap the benefits of managed currency without the danger of uncontrolled inflation, because Great Britain has done so.

But Professor McNair says there are three important differences in the situation in the United States and Great Britain. In the first place, he says, there are evidences now that the world-wide deflation of prices has halted, so that the effects of money tinkering will result in opening a wide gap between prices and wages. This was not true in 1931 when England went off the gold standard, because world gold prices were still falling, and the disparity between money value and gold prices could be controlled. The important thing to watch now, he says, is the difference between our paper dollar prices and world gold prices. "The disparity between these in the future will be the measure of our inflation," he adds. Continuing his discussion of the three outstanding differences in conditions here and in Great Britain, Professor McNair adds:

In the second place, there is the most important difference that unlike England we have an unbalanced budget. No such device as separating the regular and special budgets can conceal the fact that as a nation we are spending far beyond our income. The public debt is being piled higher daily. This is in sharp contrast to the way in which Great Britain tightened her belt in 1931 and resolutely maintaintd a balanced budget. It is in this unbalanced budget in the United States and this rapidly mounting public debt that the real danger lies. When a nation goes off gold, that does not necessarily mean inflation. Great Britain went off gold in 1931, but has no inflation. It is the combination of departure from the gold standard with a seriously unbalanced budget that produces the kind of inflation which devastated Germany in 1923. In this country, with our highly developed banking and credit mechanism, we do not need to start the printing presses in order to have inflation. We have inflation now.

"In the third place, quite unlike Great Britain, where the socialistic experiments of the last Labor government were repudiated by the electorate in 1931, we have in this country today our first real labor government, a government which is embarking on a huge program of social expenditure and business control—a program which goes far beyond anything attempted by the labor government during its tenure in Great Britain.

"The differences are vital. England has taken the right way out of the depression; we have taken the wrong way."

Few Americans who study finances will be disposed to deny the importance of a balanced budget as set our by Professor McNair. The balancing is going to be one of the vital and painful duties of our government if we are to avoid dangerous inflation.

A United States Senator denouncing the professional grain dealers is quoted as saying that he was confident "these barnacles on the grain market ship will be unhorsed." This is the first time we ever knew that barnacles rode horseback.

An old negro was charged with stealing chickens, but the evidence against him was not sufficiently clear.

"You are acquitted," said the judge.

"Acquitted," replied the bewildered darky. "Does dat mean I hab to gib de chickens back?"

MAN IN THE MOON

Looks Over All—Overlooks None

William I. Mullins

Again the death angel has blown his chilling breath in our midst, and one of our most loved citizens has been taken from us. William I. Mullins, "Uncle Bill" to the most of Clanton's people, has gone on, but memories of his kind voice, and loving disposition remain with us for all time to cheer us. "Uncle Bill" will truly be missed. The friend of the poor in time of need, always ready and willing to lend assistance to those who called upon him, he had come to be some kind of sustaining rock in the minds of hundreds of people in this county. Nor were people afraid to ask Mr. Mullins for help—they knew they would get it if it was in his power, and he could usually find a way to help. He was one of Clanton's pioneers—one of those who had to fight and play the game straight and square to win. But this we can say to his credit—he won. He won in more than one way. He was a good business man—he made money; and he was a shrewd manager—he knew how to save his money, and to make it count for its full worth. Too, he was one of the common people, so to say. He was not proud—he knew people intimately, called them by their first names, listened to their stories, and helped them. In this way he made friends—hundreds of them, and they will cherish his memory for all time. I knew "Uncle Bill" as a man to whom I could go for advice, and fell assured that would not set me on the wrong path. I knew that he would take an interest in my affairs the same as he would those of his own son and advise me with as much sincerity. My eperience with him has taught me to trust his judgment implicitly—he was generally right in his decisions. Truly this good man was a friend of the friendless and needy, and our Lord and Savior has said: "Inasmuch as ye have helped the least of these little ones, ye have helped me." I join with hundreds of other people of Chilton County in mourning for the passing of "Uncle Bill" Mullins, and yet join with the family and his many friends in rejoicing in the beauty of the memories of him.

Our Constitution—Out of Date?

There is a fast growing belief that the Constitution of the United States is out of date. Many people tell us that it has outlived its usefulness. They tell us that it is an "ox-cart" document in a speed plane age. It is hard to believe, however, that our Constitution, once heralded as one of the greatest governmental documents ever conceived, can have suddenly lost its fundamental soundness. It was written by some of the best minds this nation has ever afforded—the founders of the country—it has weathered the storms of our international relations for over 150 years, during which time this country has grown from an infant to one of the greatest world powers. Statesmen all over the world have marveled at the progress of this country since its foundation, and at the same time have recognized that one of the main underlying causes for this rapid progress is our form of government, the mainspring of which is this same Constitution of the United States that some of our latter day "statesmen" (if we may call them that) would now set aside as obsolete and too old fashioned to be of further use. That our Constitution has been "scrapped" in part during the last year is common knowledge, and in place of this famous document, there has been substituted a series of "experiments," conceded to be such by those who put them forward. Now, just how long may we expect this nation to run by experimental methods? Suppose these experiments work for a time—well, and good—but suppose just one of them fail; governmental collapse would be inevitable. I do not believe that our Constitution is obsolete and out-of-date. I believe that it is just as sound today as it was the day that our nation's fathers placed their signatures upon it. And, contrary to the statement that our country has run down from following along Constitutional lines, I believe that it has gone down in direct ratio with our disregard of the Constitution and our departure from its sound governmental doctrine. We have not fallen because of our national law, but because of our disregard for it.

The Homestead Plan

One of the wisest moves the national government has made in its recovery plans is the Homestead Plan. It will be at enormous expense to the nation, but it will also be a great help, if it is carried out. By this plan, the government expects to give thousands of people who are at present unemployed a chance to move out on a small acreage and farm on a small scale. In short, it is intended that these people who have been depending on public works for a living may have a chance to raise this living from the soil. Of course, there will be some who will feel avrese to going out and wielding a hoe at rag weeds and the like, but then there are htousands of others who have had a little of the starch taken out of their necks by the strenuous experiences of the past few years, and these will welcome the chance to begin all over again. Another thing, the officials believe this will raise the value of farm lands. A sort of "back to the farm" move is this, with care being taken that it does not cause another surplus of raw products. All in all, it looks like a pretty good plan to follow.

Try, Try Again

Without anyone getting the impression that I am criticizing our president or his methods, I just want to give you the inside dope on a little happening that took place at the White House not so long ago. Now, in the first place, though, every once in a while, I hear some fellow break out with something like this about matters: "Well, I can't see how all these plans and big experiments can work. It just don't seem possible that they can. However, President Roosevelt seems to think they will, and he always knows what he is doing." I believe too many people have come to take this attitude of things in general. We have come to the conclusion that, no matter what happens, it will all work out for the best in the long run. We never try to use our own brains for anything anymore, but rather depend on someone else to do our thinking for us. Now, here comes the little story, vouched for as truth, that goes to show what President Roosevelt thinks of some of his policies, and plainly shows his attitude toward them. A few weeks ago, when our new monetary policy became effective, when the bill was turned over to Mr. Roosevelt to sign, he looked it over carefully, signed it, and then turned to Mr. Morgenthau, Secretary of the Treasury, with these words: "Henry, do you think this thing will work?" "I can't say, Mr. Roosevelt. "We can try it." answered Mr. Morgenthau. Then said Mr. Roosevelt: "Well, I'm not so sure about it, because I can't seem to grasp the thing, but the professors seem to think it's a great idea, so I guess we'll give it a try and see." And that gives you an inside look at how some of these big experiments get on foot. So, the next time you hear somebody say he thinks matters will turn out all right because Mr. Roosevelt is behind it, just make a guess at the question yourself. And don't be too sure that the president is behind it. He might be backing "the professors" again. Your "guess" is as good as theirs.

Russell R. Sutley
